MINING SPECULATION AND ITS FEATURES

Renewed Stimulus Following Discoveries at Cobalt, Ont.---General Prosperity the Chief Cause of Present Boom --- Spectacular Movements in Nipissing --- Almost $1,000,000,000 in New Companies During Past Year.

(N. Y. Journal of Commerce).

The discovery of new gold, silver and copper fields simultaneously with a growth in the demand for metals sufficient to send prices to hitherto unknown figures, has, perhaps inevitably in the present temper and circumstances of the people, plunged the country into a sea of unreasoning speculation in mining stocks. Speculation is inevitable in the development of the mining industry, owing to its uncertain character, and trading in the securities of honest mining enterprises may be no more reprehensible than buying Consols or United States government bonds; but the current boom, which will probably become still more frenzied, is in certain cases being fostered along illegitimate and dishonest channels for the purpose of robbing the unwary and enriching the unscrupulous.

On one day last week the speculation in mining shares on the local curb approximated the total transactions on the New York Stock Exchange; the sales in one stock, Nipissing Mines, exceeded the sales in any listed issue by over 10,000 shares and were equal to 25 per cent. of the aggregate business done on the floor. What facts and factors have combined to lead up to such an extraordinary—unique—situation?

WORLD-WIDE PROSPERITY LAID FOUNDATION FOR THIS BOOM.

Fundamentally, world-wide prosperity has laid the foundation for a boom in mining and mining securities. To this has been superadded the phenomenal expansion, amounting almost to a revolution in the uses of electricity, involving primarily the absorption of enormous quantities of copper and leading to the utilization of an increased quantity of other metals. Today the metal trade, broadly speaking, is as a corollary, prosperous to a degree beyound precedent. The improvement in the metal market naturally inspired greater activity in the production of metals, and in the case of copper, gold, and (more recently) silver special developments occurred to stimulate enthusiasm in mining.

Coincident with an advance in the price of copper from 12c. to over 20c. per pound the highest point touched in a quarter of a century, discoveries of mineralized beds were made in Montana, Nevada, Utah, Michigan, Arizona, Mexico and elsewhere, while incidentally, the famous "seven years' war" between the Amalgamated Copper Company, headed by the intrepid H. H. Rogers, and the United Copper Company, headed by the equally intrepid F. Augustus Heinze, was brought to an amicable settlement, thus releasing much disputed territory. Highly colored, and sometimes wildly imaginative stories were published regarding "rich strikes," enormous earnings, impending developments of staggering importance, fabulous dividends (in prospect), etc. Thus was the incipient boom, for which there was, of course, substantial justification, fanned by interested parties, new ventures galore were hatched, impressive certificates were prepared, in some instances grotesquely alluring prospectuses and advertisements were printed, and plans made to introduce the stuff to the various curb markets as well as, occasionally, out-of-town exchanges. Among the wheat was a superabundance of chaff to ensnare the unsophisticated.

The success which followed the flotation of copper companies gave a fillip to the gold mining industry, and here also the inflation of a boom was incalculably facilitated by the discovery of new fields, promising, according to those on the spot, great riches. Goldfields, Tonopah and Bullfrog have attracted to Nevada thousands of prospectors, miners and capitalists, the excitement at times has been wild, claims have changed hands at many times their original value, and innumerable companies have been formed, many by men of slight means. Other states, Mexico and Alaska, have likewise contributed to a boom in gold mining and the concommitant speculation in stocks, though thus far not many of the securities have found refuge on the New York curb.

On top of this came the flotation of Nipissing Mines, the silver property located at Cobalt, followed shortly after by the discovery of dozens of unsuspected veins of evidently dazzling richness on the company's extensive holdings. The meteoric flight of Nipissing shares from $5 to $34, has, perhaps, done more than any other single event to inflame the speculative element which exists in some degree in every human being. Many fortunes have been made and none lost—thus far—during the rise in market value of the property from $250,000, the original purchase price, to $40,000,000. A horde of ventures have sprung up, like a phantom army, around Nipissing and in the Cobalt district, and there is every probability that speculation in these silver stocks will assume proportions contrasted with which the copper boom will look Lilliputian. The statement that already 150 companies have been formed at Cobalt will excite incredulity, but in a subsequent article a detailed list, along with the capitalization, amounting to about $1,000,000,000, will be given. Curiously enough, the Cobalt discoveries have come at a time when silver is selling at the highest price touched since 1893, and there is likely to be a ready market for all that Canada can produce for some time to come.

PUBLIC IN POSITION TO SPECULATE—NOTHING LACKING FOR BOOM.

The ground was thus exceedingly well tilled for the reception of seeds of speculation. Moreover, fertilizer, in the form of capital, was plentiful. The unparalleled prosperity with which all branches of agriculture, trade, commerce, industry and transportation have enjoyed for several years has enriched all classes of the community, from the cotton-picking natives and alien laborers to the heads of corporations and individual owners of business and farms.

Thrifty laborers and artisans, farmers, cotton growers, merchants, manufacturers, land owners, bankers, railroad owners, have all participated in these fat years with the result that the per capita wealth of the country is greater today than ever before. Thousands have been able to pay off mortgages and other incumbrances, men and women—women are playing a part in the brewing frenzy of gambling unsuspected by the layman—who have hitherto been unable to raise their heads above the water, now find themselves with substantial sums in their possession, the money in not a few instances having been easily acquired through, perhaps, appreciation in land values, real estate, or the growth in local population and the resultant increase in business.

"What shall we do with our money?" was necessarily the question asked by these people. As was explained at length in a previous series of articles on the real estate situation, a great many poor people bought land, others suburban homes. It is now coming to be realized, however, that the real estate boom in certain quarters has been overdone, and attention is now being turned to the subtle attractions of mining securities, for unquestionably the get-rich-quick disease has overtaken high and low. These attractions have been blazoned from Alaska to Maine, from Canada to Mexico. More than justice has been done to the importance of recent discoveries of precious metals; tales true and tales prepcsterously false, yet calculated to hypnotize the ignorant, have been scattered broadcast from end to end of the hemisphere; and, lastly, certain brokers are not exercising the influence they admit would be proper to discourage this pernicious species of gambling. As for the New York Stock Exchange, it is in a way aggravating the unsavory aspect of the boom by stolidly refusing to do anything itself to regulate it, yet absolutely prohibting the respectable element on the curb (which is by no means inconsiderable), from organizing to elevate the tone of the market and to endeavor to put a ban upon fraudulent stocks.

TO PREVENT BRONCHITIS or CONSUMPTION

Do not neglect a cold or cough no matter how slight as the irritation spreading throughout the delicate lining of the sensitive air passages sooner or later will lead to fatal results.

If on the first appearance of a cough or cold you would take a few doses of you would save yourself a great deal of unnecessary suffering.

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup contains all the lung healing virtues of the pine tree combined with Wild Cherry Bark and other pectoral remedies.

It stimulates the weakened bronchial organs, allays irritation and subdues inflammation, soothes and heals the irritated parts, loosens the phlegm and mucous, and aids nature to easily dislodge the morbid accumulations.

Miss Belle Campbell, Long River, P.E.I., writes: "For some time I was troubled with bronchitis. A friend advised me to try Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. So I procured three bottles but it only took two to cure me."

Be careful when purchasing to see that you get the genuine Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup.

It is put up in a yellow wrapper, three pine trees the trade mark and the price 25 cents at all dealers.

WOMEN'S COUNCIL

A meeting of the executive of the local Council of Women was held in the rooms of the King's Daughters' Guild Saturday afternoon, at 2.30. This was followed by the quarterly meeting of the council. The object was to make preparations for the annual meeting which will take place in January. Nomination papers will be sent to the various societies in affiliation with the council. These will be filled out and returned to the executive and on the result will depend who will be officers for the ensuing year.

The Sewing Work Guild of the council presented their annual report. This showed with what thoroughness that important branch of the work is being conducted. More than 300 garments have been made and distributed. Nearly 150 of these have gone to the Labrador mission.
