STREET DOING SOME GUESSING

Market Opinion is a Good Deal Mixed at the Present Time.

Opinion is decidedly mixed over the stock market situation, there being a considerable party who look for a June campaign preliminary to the July disbursements, basing their hopes on the elimination of unfavorable factors, particularly legislation at Washington. On the other hand, the conservative element in Wall Street, while admitting that the adjournment of congress may act as a sedative on public agitation, point to the very unsavory disclosures resulting from the Inter-State Commerce Commission investigation of the Pennsylvania Railroad and the Standard Oil, which do not tend to enhance the faith of the outside public in securities. Moreover, with the prevailing high level of prices, which have discounted the future in no small degree, it is argued that a manipulated rise would only intensify the reaction which crop scares, money stringency and election excitement seem certain to bring about. For the time being the crop situation, upon which a continuance of our industrial prosperity is based, is not unfavorable, heavy rains in the west having done much to alleviate the prevailing drouth.

PRICES ARE STILL HIGH

(New York Journal of Commerce)

That the whole stock market fabric is upheld by sheer manipulation is the one point upon which everyone agrees. Even the bulls admit that recent demonstrations of strength in particular stocks were engineered by influential pools. Trading is nine-tenths professional. Outsiders are doing little or nothing. Values are high; the big people are overburdened with scrip which they are anxious to transform into eagles; hard cash—not credit—is now too plentiful; borrowing, past, present and prospective, is abnormally heavy, and the public are not being encouraged by responsible brokers to invest in securities at this juncture. Manipulative machinery has been brought to an amazing state of efficiency in these latter days, and the levers may be so pulled as to keep values artificially high for some time, but a reaction seems inevitable.

MONEY MARKET

There is no getting over the fact that the world's money markets are still under a peculiar strain, nowhere more so than in America. While this is so, call loans on bonds and stocks are call loans indeed—they are liable to be called unexpectedly, at inconvenient seasons. People who go into speculation are taking more than the usual risk, as the chances of their being peremptorily ordered to relinquish their credits are greater than usual.

SEAT AT $23,500

The Montreal Stock Exchange seat which belonged to the late Ernest Howard changed hands yesterday at $23,500. The buyers were McCuaig Bros. & Co.

The price paid is an advance of $1,000 over the last sale but is a decline of $1,000 from the figure at which the seat has recently been held.

It was said today that there is another Montreal Stock Exchange seat for sale, the price asked being $24,000.

THE old-time miller did not concern himself much about the quality or purity of his flour.

He simply ground the wheat.

You would refuse to use his product to-day. The results would not satisfy you. You have advanced.

Yet it is possible that your advance has not kept pace with the advance in milling methods.

You may demand a better flour than your mother did and yet be satisfied with something inferior to what it is possible for you to get.

If you are not using

Royal Household Flour

you are not getting the best that improved milling has to offer.

Ogilvie's Royal Household is as much superior to ordinary flours as they are superior to the crude, coarse product of olden times.

Royal Household is made entirely from hard, spring wheat, ground by the latest and most improved method, and purified and vitalized by electricity—a process that is conceded by all millers to be the only method of producing absolute purity, and one that is used by no other mill in Canada.

Your grocer has it in stock.

Ogilvie Flour Mills Co., Limited

F. A. Dykeman & Co. will hold one of their phenomenal shirt waist sales on Saturday morning. At one of the previous sales of these goods over four hundred waists were sold in one day. The firm want to repeat this on Saturday if possible, and if prices will induce the women folks to buy them, they certainly will accomplish their aim.

MARINE NOTES
