WORKS WILL BE REBUILT
WAS HON. MR. EMMERSON'S STATEMENT IN MONCTON

They Will Be on a Larger Scale Than Before and Fireproof ---Men at Work Today Clearing the Debris---Only One Victim in Saturday's Fire---Temporary Shops to Be Built at Once.

MONCTON, Feb. 26 (Special.)—Hon. H. R. Emmerson, minister of railways accompanied by Deputy Minister Butler and Mr. Payne, private secretary, arrived here this morning in a private car attached to the Maritime express.

The minister was met at the depot by a large delegation of representative citizens. The minister and the deputy, accompanied by I. C. R. officials, and a delegation of citizens, including Mayor Steeves, J. T. Hawke, president of the board of trade, Ald. Masters, Welch, McLean, Mr. Pottinger, Mr. Joughins, Dr. Murray and others, paid a visit to the ruins immediately after their arrival.

After he had investigated the burnt area, Mr. Emmerson, who is going to St. John this evening, spoke to a reporter as follows:—

I can hardly say anything else beyond what was contained in my telegram to Mr. Hawke. Preparations are already under way for the restoration of the works and plans are now being prepared for the erection of permanent structures. They will be better than those which were destroyed and precautions will be taken respecting safety from fire.

The paint and car repairing shops must necessarily be isolated so that the safety of the other buildings will not be menaced. I am not yet in a position to speak concerning the site. Temporary shops will be built at once. A meeting of the railway officers will be held today.

The minister gave every assurance that the destroyed portion of the works would be re-built at once. As speedily as possible, fire-proof shops on a larger scale than the old ones will be erected. The construction of the new buildings involves a rearrangement. The site occupied by the burned buildings will not be built upon, but new shops will be erected in another part of the yard, just where has not yet been decided.

In the meantime, while the plans are maturing for rebuilding the permanent shops, temporary wooden buildings are to be erected on the site of the old ones. The Engineer of Maintenance is now negotiating for the purchase of lumber and work on the temporary buildings will be commenced at once.

A meeting of the board of trade, city council and citizens is called in the board of trade rooms at 4.30 o'clock this afternoon to meet the minister and discuss the situation.

Hundreds of the regular I. C. R. employes were engaged in loading debris on flat cars and in other ways starting to clear away wreckage when the minister visited the ruins. Many of them the minister recognized and to all whom he knew he gave a hearty handshake. The minister leaves for St. John tonight. He left Ottawa at eight o'clock yesterday morning just as soon as he could possibly leave after the receipt of the telegram.

Notwithstanding the large portion of the works in ruins there is considerable work going on about the shops today. The work of clearing away the debris and raising the machinery, etc., is going on, many mechanics and employes of the burned shops taking their places as laborers.

The blacksmith and locomotive shops and some of the other smaller departments are at work today and when power is installed by the use of temporary boilers more mechanics will be given employment.

Superintendent of Motive Power Joughins estimates that there are only about three hundred men not working today. This leaves six or seven hundred at work. Within a day or two probably nearly the whole of the employes will be given a chance to work.

Rumors have been in circulation that more than one life was lost in the fire, but they are unfounded. Abraham Jones was the only victim of the conflagration. The firemen believe Jones was shut in the building. After he entered the building the firemen closed the doors to shut off the draught not knowing he was there and it is believed he was unable to get out of the trap on this account.

Wm. Steevens, another employe of the paint-shop had a thrilling experience. He was in the building when the doors were closed and only escaped suffocation by crawling on the floor under the smoke. He finally reached the windows, which he broke and escaped.

JOURNALISM UP-TO-DATE

The Times Noon Edition, Illustrated, on the Moncton Fire.

The Times today issued a noon edition with illustrations of the Moncton fire. That edition was sold on the streets of Moncton early this afternoon.

W. J. Raymond, of the Daily Telegraph staff, whose fine story of the fire is reproduced in the Times, sent down photographs, which were received early this morning. The F. C. Wesley Co. made a hurry job of the cuts, and when the noon express pulled out for Moncton a Times man with a special edition of the paper was on board, to give the people all along the line, and in Moncton itself, the first illustrated story of the great fire.

To do this required very lively work in the mechanical department of the Times, but, as usual, the staff were equal to the demands upon them.

THE TIMES NEW REPORTER

AN OUTRAGE.

There were dark and disquieting rumors around City Hall on Saturday to the effect that the garbage question was to be raised again with the approach of warm weather. Ald. Bullock said he could smell it. Ald. Lewis had a premonition that there was a boiler somewhere. Ald. Holder was troubled by visions of the Boyd Field sewer. The market committee scented trouble. There was a general feeling that somebody was about to do something that would raise again the question of tainted meats and decayed fruits and vegetables and other such matter, which the city fathers had faithfully labored to persuade the people did not exist. They have closed the Orange street dump, and then leased it for a factory site. This surely disposed of the garbage question, but on Saturday it was persistently rumored that the mess was to be stirred up again.

This morning the city fathers rose to read in the Telegraph that a Montreal firm had been "butting in" and proposed the erection of an incinerator.

It goes without saying that this scheme will be rejected by the council. The people of St. John are not to be deprived in the joycus Springtime of a single odor or a single microbe, at the behest of any Montreal man.

Mr. Peter Binks has decided to have his summer cottage in his backyard this year. He is quite willing that the I. C. R. should have a surplus, but the suburban rates hang too high for a short man to reach. Peter is short.

It is stated that the legislature will sit until about March 21st. It is estimated that by that time enough talk will have been scattered over the country to keep the voters quiet for another year; also that by that time each member will have convinced his constituents that he ought to go home at once.

BAXTER CASE HEARD TODAY

Alleged Bar-room Fight Between McLeod and Littlejohn Aired in the Police Court.

A large number of prisoners faced the magistrate this morning.

Eight drunks were disposed of in the usual way.

The case against W. B. Baxter for allowing a fight to take place in his bar was continued, three witnesses being sworn.

Thomas Barrett said that he knew both McLeod and Littlejohn. He saw them in Baxter's saloon a week ago last Saturday. He had a couple of drinks in Baxter's with McLeod. The latter and Littlejohn were the best of friends then, as they were talking about stevedore work. Barrett left Littlejohn and McLeod to go to the other end of the bar to get a match. While there, he said McLeod made a rush at Littlejohn and the two engaged in a hugging match. Barrett claimed that no blows were struck, but that both men were bleeding about the face. When the fight commenced, the crowd in the saloon became excited, and Mr. Baxter told them to keep quiet. He told Littlejohn and McLeod to stop fighting, or he would get them into trouble. Baxter stepped up to the two, and separated them. Then McLeod and Littlejohn started drinking again. Littlejohn left shortly after the fight, but McLeod stayed at the saloon until after Barrett left.

Barrett said that when the men were in the tussle he noticed a stick up against the door, which he thought was put there to keep anyone from entering. He did not know who put the stick there, but he was quite sure that it was not Mr. Baxter or his wine clerk.

Irvine Earle, of the West End, was then called. He said that he was not in Baxter's saloon on the day when the fight is supposed to have taken place. When told that other witnesses had stated that they saw him in the saloon that day, Earle said that they were mistaken. The witness was dismissed.

A Star reporter stated that he wrote an account of the fight for that paper, and that he gained his information from Mr. Baxter.

The case was adjourned until tomorrow afternoon at 3.30.

BAD MAN IN THE TOILS

Hans Meyck Will go to Grand Jury on a Theft Charge.

Another foreigner is in trouble in this city. This time it is a Dane, and by the reputation given him by the Danish interpreter in court this morning, he is just as well behind the bars.

Hans Mayck was arrested last evening by Officers White and Crawford, on a charge of stealing a trunk and a box of chickens from the Union Depot. Mayck can not speak English, so when he was brought up for trial this morning, Mr. Pederson, the florist, was sent for to act as interpreter. Mayck has been in this country for five months, and has for the greater part of that time been working near Norton, at a machinist's trade. He was in the city yesterday, and wanted to get up the line, but having no money, he found this impossible. He hung around the Union Depot for some time. At nine o'clock Hugh Morris saw him crossing Pond street with a box on his back, and having suspicions, followed the Dane, who, when he found he was being shadowed, dropped the box and started to run up Mill street, towards Dock. Officer Crawford was told of the case, and went in pursuit of his man. He found him dodging in and out of the crowd, and arrested him. At first the Dane put up a stout resistance, but was handcuffed and went to jail.

This morning, after the charge was read over to him, he said he had nothing to say.

Magistrate Ritchie informed him that he would be sent up before the grand jury tomorrow.

Mr. Pederson informed the Magistrate that in Denmark Mayck is known as a bad man, being one of the biggest thieves in that country.

Officer Crawford said this morning that when placed under arrest last night the Dane understood English well, as he called him many odious names.

EMPLOYED A SPOTTER

Rev. J. J. Colter had nine Liquor Cases in Fredericton Court Today.

FREDERICTON, Feb. 26—(Special)—Nine Scott Act cases, information in which was laid by Rev. J. J. Colter, Scott Act Inspector, were taken up in the police court this morning. A. J. Gregory, K. C. appeared for the defendants in six cases and had them postponed until Thursday. All nine cases are being contested. The prosecution is depending entirely on the evidence of two liquor spotters named Crandelmire and Pineau who hail from Wilmot, Carleton county.

One case against an uptown resident was tried this morning. Pineau swore that he had purchased a drink of liquor at the defendant's on February sixteenth He had been hired to do detective work by Mr. Colter and the amount of remuneration had not been fixed. The defendant swore that he had sold out his business to his son, five years ago, and now had no connection with it.

A case against a city druggist will be tried this afternoon.

The methods employed by Mr. Colter to enforce the Scott Act do not seem to meet with public approval.

Emperor William and Chancellor Von Buelow, it is understood, would rather make an effort to reconcile the French aims and Germany's interests than allaw the serious situation to drift.

The regular reports of circuits were presented and the temperance situation discussed. It was decided to hold a temperance meeting in Exmouth street church next Friday evening, when the speakers will be Rev. Mr. Pritchard and Rev. H. D. Marr.

Educational matters were talked over, but no definite action was taken. The meeting adjourned with the benediction by Rev. G. M. Campbell.

CITY LABORERS UNION

Owing to the non-appearance of the majority of its members at the meetings of the City Laborers' Union during the past six months, the executive have decided to call a general meeting of the members this evening, at their rooms, Berryman's Hall, to decide whether the organization be maintained or dissolved.

E. M. BURKE, F. S.

Friends of Mr. and Mrs. James T. Logan will sympathize with them in the death of their infant son, James A. A. Logan, which occurred today at their residence, 3 Courtenay street. The funeral takes place tomorrow afternoon, when interment will be made in Cedar Hill cemetery.

Cecil D. Holder, formerly of M. R. & A's, will leave tonight for Fredericton, where he will enter the employ of Messrs. Tennant & Clarke. On Saturday the clerks of the clothing department of M. R. & A's presented a suit case to Mr. Holder, with their best wishes for his future. Mr. Holder is well known as a banjoist, and his removal will be a distinct loss to local musical circles.

Ald. A. W. Macrae returned from Montreal at noon.

The funeral of William Henry took place this afternoon from his late residence, 57 Exmouth street, at 2.30 o'clock. Rev. C. W. Hamilton officiated and interment was made in Fernhill.
