FIRE DEPARTMENT METHODS

A recent appointment by Chief Kerr, of the fire department, has brought to light the fact that the new chairman of the safety board, Ald. John W. Vanwart, has views looking to the reorganization of the methods of government of the department, and also that there is a considerable difference of opinion between the chairman and chief as to how much authority is vested in the latter.

The man appointed is James Millican, who goes to No. 2 engine house as an extra, or spare driver.

Ald. John W. Vanwart, the newly appointed chairman of the safety board, when asked by a Telegraph reporter if the appointment of the extra men at No. 2 had been made through the board, replied that it had not. Chairman Vanwart spoke with considerable vim with reference to the matter. "The man was put there by Chief Kerr," said he, "without any authority whatever. The chief had asked for two extra men, and as I remember it the safety board had recommended in favor of the appointment, but the council did not concur in the recommendations. Of course if the matter has come to the point where the chief is going to run the whole fire department irrespective of the safety board, then we will have to stand aside and let him go right ahead; but if not, we are going to have something to say. To my mind there is no necessity for an extra man or two, and I intend to call a meeting of the board in a day or two to deal with this matter."

Ald. Vanwart said he believes the chief should devote his entire time to the duties of his position and not be permitted to carry on any other business or profession. "There is no city of the size of St. John, either in the United States or Canada," he continued, "where the same conditions exist. They have to give their whole time to it. Why look at the carts and sleds of the department standing around in the yards. They should be looked after by the chief, that is his business.

"Then, again, the chief of the fire department should live in or near the station where his wagon is located, as the present plan of driving all over town for him is a great loss of time as nearly all the apparatus reaches a fire before him."

Asked if he favored paying a larger salary under his alternate plan, Ald. Vanwart replied that he did not. "There are plenty of experienced men," he said, "who would be glad to take the position and give their entire time to it at the present salary. I would not say necessarily that Chief Kerr should go; let him, if he wants to, take hold, devoting his whole time to it. But if not, then get some one else who will. In any case there must be a change. I do not think that the city of St. John has ever had proper satisfaction out of the fire department; that is, as far as its government goes, and I believe further that the time has arrived to make a change. I have had this idea long before I became an alderman. Mind you, personally I have no feeling against Chief Kerr, I speak of the method. I am well aware of the fact that the chief did all he could to defeat me in the civic campaign just closed. He and others made overtures to others before they succeeded in getting S. S. deForest in the field against me; but I won out, if only by a small majority, which was just as effective as 1,000. In spite of that fact I would lay not even a straw or a hair in Chief Kerr's way.

"For my late opponent, Mr. deForest, I have nothing but good words; he is a neighbor and a man I have always found a gentleman in every way. In fact I said during the fight that should he beat me Dukes ward would be represented by a good man. But I just tell you how it is," said Chairman Vanwart as the reporter was leaving, "the change in the method of running the fire department would have been made long ago only that everybody was afraid of Chief Kerr."

Ald. Vanwart was asked if by authority vested in the heads of the departments the chief would not have the right to make the appointment. "No he would not," replied the alderman, "the power given the heads is merely for the filling of vacancies; but for making new appointments it would never do, there must be a check some where."

Chief John Kerr was asked by a Telegraph reporter last night with reference to the appointment. The chief was somewhat reticent about discussing the matter. "There is nothing to be said," was his answer to the query, "other than that a man by the name of James Millican was appointed in No. 2, and I made the appointment with the authority of the council."

He added that he also appointed a man to assist Edward Leonard, superintendent of the fire alarm system. The chief then quoted the following as his authority for his action: "In the Common Council, 5th of February, 1906. On report of public safety, ordered—that the appointment, suspension and dismissal of all employes of the fire department, be vested in the chief of the fire department; and that the power of suspending the chief of the fire department be vested in the chairman of the board of public safety." Signed H. E. Wardroper, common clerk.

The chief said that he had appointed Millican as an extra driver, so that when a driver was at lunch this man would be able to take his place. Millican, in the chief's opinion, is a first class man.

'FRISCO MAY MAKE SECOND AID APPEAL

Washington, May 3—In a telegram to the war department today, General Greely reports a general improvement in conditions in San Francisco and vicinity. He calls attention to the fact, however, that scarcely ten days relief rations are in sight and that a further appeal to the generosity of the American people is possible.

Reporting over night, Edward T. Devine, representing the Red Cross, says that 300,000 were fed on May 1. Relief plans, he says, must be continued for several weeks. He reports little need of relief at Santa Rosa at present and says the greatest need will be in San Francisco, Oakland and immediate suburbs.

San Francisco, May 3.—No plan was decided upon today for the securing of funds to restore San Francisco. Although various schemes, some of them apparently feasible, have been submitted to the general committee, none of them has yet been given official endorsement and financiers continue to worry over the problem. It is probable that several centers of the financial world will be consulted before any definite scheme is formulated.

Other than an early morning fire that threatened the safety of several hundred patients in the Presidio hospital, today passed without special incident. The task of cleaning the ruined region was today attacked on a large scale. Curtailment of the relief list, together with the decision of the police to arrest as vagrants all able men without visible means of support who refuse to work, added to the number of men engaged in cleaning away the debris. The railways have made good progress in running spur tracks into the burned area. Next week these tracks will be utilized to remove all useless material to low places for filling and grading.

Although the water supply in the ruined part of the city is increasing daily, there is not yet an adequate flow for use in case of fire. Cooking is still carried on in the streets.

All of the banks resumed business today in temporary quarters and reported that at each place the deposits exceeded the withdrawals.

The number of permits issued for the resumption of retail business grows larger each day. The committee reports that 500 retailers are now operating in new quarters.

City Engineer Woodward today submitted a comprehensive plan for the rebuilding of the city. It includes the broadening and the extension of many streets, the purpose being to insure better protection against the spread of fire, as well as to beautify the city.

Mayor Schmitz has advised against extravagant ideas for the beautification of the new city. He estimated that the replacement of ruined municipal buildings, including school and fire houses, will cost $100,000,000.

General Greely advised the finance committee this afternoon that he had only eleven days' rations on hand, that the army could not furnish an ounce of food beyond that which has been already purchased, or is in sight, and that the feeding of the people is a problem which demands immediate attention.

At today's meeting of the citizens' committee, Chairman Phelan, of the finance committee, reported that outside contributions on Wednesday amounted to $77,000 and local contributions to $25,000 a grand total since April 18, of $3,790,000.

The action of certain retailers in advancing the price of commodities beyond reason was considered today by the general committee. Some firms are now asking for lime $2.50 a barrel, which they sold before the fire for 70 cents.

Mayor Schmitz said that the only way to get at these people was to make a record of them, and he directed every member of the committee to report these persons. As to owners of buildings and lands who are asking impossible rentals, he said he proposed to ask the assessors to assess these people for taxation on the valuation they now placed on their property.

According to P. P. McCarthy, president of the Building Trades Council, there is no dearth of mechanics in San Francisco. He advised against mechanics coming to San Francisco. He said that no advantage of the people would be taken who contemplated reconstruction of buildings.

C. E. Loss, who was awarded the contract to reconstruct the Geary street cable railroad as a municipal electric conduit system today, says that it will be impracticable to build a conduit system in San Francisco. The experience of the United Railways in the earthquake showed that while the big corporation was able to operate overhead trolley lines within a few days after the earthquake it will be months before any of the cable lines will be started. The slots of the underground conduits were closed or twisted by the earthquake.

General Greely and Dr. Devine of the Red Cross wish to emphasize the inadvisability of doctors, nurses or other relief agents coming to San Francisco. Their presence will be worse than useless, they say, as their care imposes additional burdens on the authorities. Shelter, transportation and food from the Red Cross or army cannot be furnished them.

A mass of gold and silver valued at $3,500 melted by the fire in the store of Lai Sing, a Chinese merchant at Washington and Dupont streets, today was recovered by the police at Broadway and Stockton streets, where it was found hidden.

The committee appointed by Mayor Schmitz to discuss plans for the reconstruction of San Francisco met today. E. H. Harriman, who was chosen vice-chairman, said:

"I believe that we ought to get to work. We should talk less and do more. I don't care if mistakes are made. It is better to be doing something than to remain idle. If you want me to work, I will pay a man to do it if I can get him; but if I cannot, I will go into the streets and pitch bricks myself."

Mr. Harriman said that it would be futile to attempt to raise money unless it was definitely known to what use the money would be put. He declared it would be impossible to go to the money market with a hazy idea of what the money was to be used for.

The annual meeting of the ladies' committee of the Protestant Orphan Asylum was held yesterday afternoon. After the reception of reports the following officers were elected: Mrs. George McLeod, president; Mrs. D. McLellan, Mrs. Elkin, vice-presidents; Mrs. J. McLaren, secretary; Mrs. McLellan and Mrs. Prescott, standing committee.

J. R. Cowan, of Springhill, returned home yesterday.
