WALL STREET

NEW YORK, April 24—London prices for American stocks today represented wide recoveries from the closing level here. There were gains at the opening of the market in New York in sympathy, but they were not up to the London parity of prices and were mixed with losses. Anaconda was two points higher than last night. American Ice a point and Canadian Pacific and Brooklyn Transit large fractions. Denver & Rio Grande, Northern Pacific and N. Y. C. were large fractions below last night. The market was active and broad.

J. S. BACHE & CO'S. LETTER

NEW YORK, April 20—It is still somewhat premature to attempt accurately to gauge the full significance of the San Francisco disaster. An important city has practically been wiped off the map, involving a heavy property loss, variously estimated at from one to three hundreds of millions of dollars. Such a catastrophe will result in time in the upbuilding of a newer and a better San Francisco, but meantime the reconstruction has to be financed, business is at a standstill, and the earning power of mercantile and industrial concerns is seriously curtailed. The business of the railroads entering the city will be disarranged, but not lost, as a different character of traffic will flow in the empty channels. The loss will, of course, fall to a large extent on the insurance companies, both domestic and foreign. It is still too early to form even an approximate estimate of the magnitude of the losses entailed, but the amounts will certainly be large enough to force liquidation of some insurance company assets, in the form of securities held for just such emergencies. In so far as the losses fall on foreign companies, they will probably be met by gold imports in the present condition of the foreign exchange market.

The banking situation in San Francisco has always been exceptionally strong, some of the largest banks in the country, both business banks and savings institutions being located there. The canvass made by ourselves of the bond holdings of banks throughout the country, the results of which were published in December in our pamphlet entitled "Bonds as a Safety Reserve for Banks," becomes at the moment of renewed interest. Our returns from San Francisco show that the business banks held in bond 17 per cent of their total deposits of $112,000,000, or about $19,000,000 in round numbers. Of this amount 72 per cent was in high-class railroad bonds, 17 per cent and a fraction in municipal, and about 10 per cent in miscellaneous. The wisdom of carrying a second reserve in bonds will probably again be demonstrated in this instance. Such securities on which, in times of disaster, cash may be obtained quickly, should go far to ameliorate conditions, whereas if these surpluses had been invested in commercial paper, they might have been largely unavailable, due to the crippled condition of the local industries in San Francisco and throughout the state.

Security prices have been dominated by the San Francisco disaster throughout the week. Lesser influences were unfavorable, chief of which was the proposed investigation of the coal roads. Both anthracite and bituminous carriers' shares were under selling pressure, and yielded readily, with minor exceptions. The whole list was pressed steadily downward. Rallies were feeble, though frequent, only to be followed by a fresh selling movement. This selling was, however, fairly well completed, and today the closing was on a strong rally.

There was little or no change worthy of comment in the business world. Copper still continues in strong demand, with leading producers sold up well into the summer, and practically no spot copper offering for early delivery. Amalgamated declined with the general list, although the drop was retarded to a considerable extent by the declaration of 1-4 per cent. extra dividend in addition to the regular quarterly 1 1-2 per cent. Other copper shares were inclined to show weakness, although there was fairly good support on the declines.

In an unforseen calamity of this kind the worst fears seem to meet with instant recognition in the markets. As a general proposition matters do not usually turn out quite so badly as expected, though in this case matters do not seem to be improved. It looks as though the San Francisco disaster would remain a dominative influence on prices for some little time to come, and to that extent postpone, if not prevent, the anticipated spring boom. Yours truly.

J. S. BACHE & CO.

THE COAL STRIKE

New York, April 23—Representatives of the anthracite coal operators today announced that they have received the following letter from President Mitchell, of the United Mine Workers of America, in reply to the operators declination to submit all the differences between the operators and the miners to arbitration:—

"Indianapolis, Ind., April 21, 1906.

"Mr. George F. Baer, Chairman.

"Dear Sir,—Your favor dated April 17 is received. Replying, will say that I have called a meeting of the committee representing the anthracite miners, to be held at Wilkesbarre, Wednesday morning, April 25, at which the communication signed by you and your associates will be submitted for the consideration of the committee. At the adjournment of the meeting I shall communicate with you further.

"I am yours truly,
(Signed) "JOHN MITCHELL."

The following, entitled "statement on behalf of the anthracite operators," but not signed, was also given out:—

"When Mr. Mitchell presented his plan of arbitration on April 12 the operators informed him then and there that it could not be accepted. They also notified him that a detailed reply would be ready on April 17. The affairs of a rival industry, however, demanded Mr. Mitchell's attention in Indianapolis on April 16, and it was not until April 21 that he could even acknowledge the operators' letter of the 17th.

"It should be very definitely understood that the delay in these negotiations is not caused by the operators. They handed their formal reply to the miners' original demands to Mr. Mitchell's committee on March 9. But in order to take up the controversy with the bituminous operators, Mr. Mitchell had to leave New York on March 10, and he was absorbed with questions relating entirely to the soft coal fields until March 31. On March 29, without any warning or further discussion, a strike, to begin April 1 in the entire anthracite industry, was ordered from Indianapolis, the soft coal miners' headquarters. Not until April 3 was Mr. Mitchell again able to meet the anthracite operators.

"Now, once more, from April 22 to April 25, the affairs of the anthracite region must be neglected while the bituminous dispute is taken up. Each industry alternately waits while efforts are being made to fix terms with its rivals. Meanwhile the anthracite mines are idle and some 150,000 men are led to sacrifice their wages. The strike has been in progress now for more than three weeks, and exactly thirty-six days have been lost in these negotiations since March 9, by reason of the demands upon the miners' leader by the competing bituminous industry."

REV. MR. ADAMS SPEAKS

Rev. H. F. Adams, of Wolfville (N. S.), discussing last evening printed comment concerning the services he conducted in Germain street Baptist church, intimated that the Star must have been in a desperate plight for want of news. Had another earthquake happened, contended Mr. Adams, the headlines over the article could not have been more extravagant.

"I congratulated the congregation," said Mr. Adams, "upon what their church had done for the Twentieth Century Fund and in drawing attention to the fact that there were several subscriptions not yet paid up, mentioned the name of Roy Connor. Then Mr. Sipprell arose and explained that Mr. Connor had succumbed to fever in the west. In speaking after this, I did make the remark that there was a deadhead in the church. But I don't see why a comparatively trifling matter such as I have explained should justify such tremendous head lines. To my mind it is ridiculous."

Mr. Adams then went on to say that he felt he was quite within his rights to protest against petty annoyances during service. He referred to the report that two little girls in the gallery persisted in talking during the evening service. "But they were not little girls," he said, "they were four young women."

Mr. Adams, after expressing the opinion that there must be someone in the city who is not any too kindly disposed toward himself, next took up that portion of the printed article dealing with what he had said in Main street Baptist church a few years ago.

"The report," said he, "is incorrect. I did not say that no one but a Roman Catholic could obtain a position on the I. C. R. What I said was that for every three Protestants who were given employment on the I. C. R., employment was given to nine Catholics. I remember the evening I spoke. My subject was Canada. When I had finished, Mr. Purdy came to me and advised that I discontinue speaking in the way I had been doing. He said that the political platform was the place for such discourses.

"I then asked him if he would deliver such views from the political platform, and he said he wouldn't care to. I then asked him if he knew of onyone who would, and he said he did not know of any. It was then that I told him that the pulpit was the place from which to oppose all injustice, if nothing could be expected from the politicians."

Regarding the statement to the effect that he rebuked a Halifax congregation, Mr. Adams says that he is not the clergyman in question.

SPORTING

SULLIVAN BEATS DENVER RUBE SMITH.

Mike (Twin) Sullivan of Boston last Thursday night knocked out Rube Smith of Denver in the 18th round of what was to have been a 20-round contest at Denver.

The fighting from the start until the end was furious and Smith took a tremendous amount of punishment. The blow that won the fight was a right hook to the jaw, a blow that Sullivan tried for during the entire fight.

Sullivan took the lead in the second round and although Smith fought back cleverly, held the advantage to the end. Smith was in superb condition and his recuperative powers were astonishing, but he was outfought at every stage of the game.

A purse of $15,000 was offered the winner of the fight for a match with Joe Gans before the Tuxedo club of Philadelphia.

Jeffries Will Box.

Los Angeles, April 20—James J. Jeffries, champion of the world, will re-enter the ring and donate the proceeds of his sparring exhibition to the earthquake sufferers in San Francisco.

All the other fighters in training around the city are anxious to render all the assistance they can to the sufferers in San Francisco. To this end they will hold a boxing tournament, and donate the proceeds to the work of relief.

Battling Nelson, Herrera, Herman, Abe Attell, Tommy Burns and others will take part.
