

My Friend the Chauffeur.

By C. N. & A. M.
WILLIAMSON,
Authors of
... THE ...
Lightning Conductor
... THE ...
Princess Passes,
ETC.

(Continued.)

All this time the light was in our faces, and the hateful customs people could see every feature, down to the shortest eyelash. When they did turn the horrid white stream in another direction, I felt as weak as if the search-light had been a stream of cold water. I tried not to be hysterical, but I couldn't help crying and laughing alternately, especially when the Prince would have taken my hands and begun all over again.

"Ware the light!" I gasped, as nervous as a cat that hears a mouse in the wall. And though I really did want the Prince to propose to me, and was anxious to say that I would be his princess, in the circumstances I was as thankful as I was astonished to hear Beechey's voice calling to me across the water.

In five minutes more a row-boat containing all the members of our party came alongside, and the lights in our bow and theirs shined on our faces, though the moon was still hiding her face in her hands with a pair of black gloves on.

"We thought you'd gone down to the lake," said Beechey, "so I persuaded the others to come, too; but we never dreamed you were in a motor-boat, or whereabouts you were, till we saw you."

I felt myself get as red as fire; though, when one comes to think of it, I am my own mistress, and Beechey can't keep me from doing anything that I've made up my mind to do.

"This boat belongs to a friend of the Prince's," I explained. "We were trying it when it broke down, and he has been examining the motor."

"So I noticed," remarked Beechey. "I guess you're a little near-sighted, aren't you, Prince?"

He did not answer her, but explained to Mr. Barrymore the cause of the accident, and asked to be towed into harbor.

Of course, my evening was spoiled. I tried to laugh it off and say how providential it was that we had come to our rescue; but though I kept telling myself every minute that there was no need for me to mind Beechey, I dreaded meeting him alone. However, the evil moment wouldn't be put off forever, and she came along the balcony from her window to mine when I had shut myself up in my bedroom.

I expected her to fly out at me, but her manner was the same as usual.

"Want me to undo your frock behind, Mamma?" she asked.

Then, when she had got me half unhooked: "Tell me what the Prince said when he proposed."

"He didn't propose," said I.

"If he didn't I shall ask Sir Ralph to call him out. He'd no business kissing your hands unless he'd proposed."

I was surprised at her attitude. But it made me feel confident. "He hadn't had a chance," I volunteered. "He was just going to, when the search-light—"

"Searched. Lucky for you the interruption came at the right moment."

"Why? I thought—"

"Because it saved you the pain of retuning him."

"But, Beechey darling, I don't think I was going to refuse him."

"Don't you? Well, I do. I'm sure of it."

"Dearest, if you wouldn't look at me in that square-chinned way! It's so like your poor Papa."

"I'm Papa's daughter. But I don't intend to be Prince Dalmar-Kalm's step-daughter."

"Began to cry a little. 'Why do you always try to thwart me when I want to be happy?'" I asked.

"That isn't fair to say. Look at my short dress and my hair in pig-tails. There's poor enough of what I'm ready to do to make you happy. I let you be a Countess, and you may be a Princess; it you can buy the title, but no Prince on this ranch!"

My blood was up, and I determined to fight. "Beechey," I exclaimed, "I guess I've a right to do as I like, and I will. It's for your good as well as mine, for me to marry a title, and I'm going to."

shall say 'yes' when the Prince proposes."

"He won't propose," said she, suddenly as cool as if she had been in a refrigerator.

"He will, the minute I give him the opportunity, and I shall tomorrow; I don't care what you do."

"I bet he won't. I'll bet you a good deal. Anything you like, except the long dress I've got in my trunk, and the pack of hairpins in my grip."

"What makes you think he won't?" I asked, worried by her manner, which was odd.

"I know he won't."

"You know the Prince will never propose to me?"

I flew at her, and took her by the shoulders, as if she'd been seven instead of her present age.

"You cruel girl!" I exclaimed. "You're going to tell him how old I am, and—and a lot of hateful things."

"No, I'm not, and for a good reason. It wouldn't change his mind. So long as your banking account's all right, he won't care if you were Methusalem. I shan't tell him anything about you. I shan't mention your name. But he won't propose."

"What are you going to do?" I stammered.

"That's my secret."

"Oh, you have got something in your head?"

She nodded again. "And up my sleeve: 'You will poison his mind.'"

"No, I won't. I shall only—play dolls."

And she went on unfastening my waist.

PART IV.

TOLD BY MAIDA DESTREY.

XVII.

A Chapter of Motor Mania.

What becomes of the beautiful army of days marching away from us into the past? The wonderful days, each one differing from all the others: some shining in our memory, in glory of purple and gold; and yet we have only a faint picture with the setting of the sun, some smiling back at us, in their pale spring dress of green and rose; some weeping in grey; but all moving at the same pace along the same road? The strange days that have given us everything they had to give, and yet have taken from us little pieces of our souls. Where do the days go? There must be some splendid world where, when they have passed down to the end of the long road, they all live together like queens, waited upon by those black slaves, the nights that have followed them like their shadows, holding up their robes.

I've had this thought in my mind often since I have been flashing across Europe in an automobile, grudging each day that slipped from me and would not stay a moment longer because I loved it. I wish I knew the way to the land where the days that have passed live; for when those who are to come seem cold to me, I would like to go and pay the old ones a visit. How well I would know their faces, and how glad I would be to see them again in their own world!

Well, perhaps, even though I can never find the way there, I can see the days' portraits painted in rows in the picture gallery of a house I own. It isn't a very big house yet, but at least one new room is being built onto it every year, and lately it has grown faster than ever before, though the architect has improved, though the architect has improved, though the architect has improved.

Fancy my being a householder! But I am and so is everybody. We all have the House of our Past, of which we alone have a key, and whenever we wish, we can steal softly, secretly in, by dim passages, to enter rooms sealed to the whole world except ourselves.

I have been making the picture gallery in mine, since I left America; but the pictures I care for most have been put up since I began motoring.

I suppose some very rich natures can be rich without travel, for they are born with caskets already full of jewels; but ordinary folk have empty caskets; if they keep them shut up always in one safe, and I begin to see that mine were but poor things. I keep them wide open now, and every day, every hour, a beautiful new pearl or diamond drops in.

It seems strange to remember how reluctant I was to come away. I thought there could be nothing more beautiful, more satisfying to eyes and heart, than my home. The white, colonial house set back from the broad Hudson River among locust trees and tall, rustling maples; the sloping lawn, with beds of geranium and verbena; the garden with its dead, old-fashioned flowers—holly-hocks, sweet-williams, bleeding-hearts, grass pinks, and yellow roses; the grey-green hills across the water; that picture stood to me for all that was ideal on earth. And then, the Sisters, with their soft ways and soft voices, their white robes and pale blue, floating veils; how their gracious glances blended with and accentuated the peaceful charm of the scene, shut away from the storms of this world throughout their lives!

I was partly right, for of the kind there could be nothing more beautiful than that picture, but my mistake was in the narrow-minded wish to let one suffice. I rejoice now in every new one I have hung up, and shall rejoice all the more when I can tack again myself—just one of those white figures that fit across the old canvas.

(To be continued.)

It's Major B. R. Armstrong, Now

Ottawa, Feb. 23.—Capt. B. R. Armstrong is gazetted major of the 3rd Artillery, vacating the appointment of adjutant on promotion. F. C. Magee is appointed provisional lieutenant.

THE VALUE OF CHARCOAL

Few People Know How Useful it is in Preserving Health and Beauty.

Nearly everybody knows that charcoal is the safest and most efficient disinfectant and purifier in nature, but few realize its value when taken into the human system for the same cleansing purpose.

Charcoal is a remedy that the more you take of it the better; it is not a drug at all, but simply absorbs the gases and impurities always present in the stomach and intestines and carries them out of the system.

Charcoal sweetens the breath after eating onions and other odorous vegetables.

Charcoal effectively cleans and improves the complexion, it whitens the teeth and further acts as a natural and eminently safe cathartic.

It absorbs the injurious gases which collect in the stomach and bowels; it disinfects the mouth and throat from the poison of catarrh.

All druggists sell charcoal in one form or another, but probably the best charcoal and the most for the money is in Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges; they are composed of the finest powdered willow charcoal, and other harmless anti-septics in tablet form, or rather in the form of large, pleasant tasting lozenges, the charcoal being mixed with honey.

The daily use of these lozenges will soon tell in a much improved condition of the general health, better complexion, sweeter breath, and purer blood, and the beauty of it is, that no possible harm can result from their continued use, but on the contrary, great benefit.

A Buffalo physician, in speaking of the benefits of charcoal, says: "I advise Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges to all patients suffering from gas in the stomach and bowels, and to clear the complexion and purify the breath, mouth and throat; I also believe the liver is greatly benefited by the daily use of them; they cost but twenty-five cents a box at drug stores, and although in some cases a patient preparation, yet I believe I get more and better charcoal in Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges than in any of the ordinary charcoal tablets."

The daily use of these lozenges will soon tell in a much improved condition of the general health, better complexion, sweeter breath, and purer blood, and the beauty of it is, that no possible harm can result from their continued use, but on the contrary, great benefit.

A Buffalo physician, in speaking of the benefits of charcoal, says: "I advise Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges to all patients suffering from gas in the stomach and bowels, and to clear the complexion and purify the breath, mouth and throat; I also believe the liver is greatly benefited by the daily use of them; they cost but twenty-five cents a box at drug stores, and although in some cases a patient preparation, yet I believe I get more and better charcoal in Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges than in any of the ordinary charcoal tablets."

The daily use of these lozenges will soon tell in a much improved condition of the general health, better complexion, sweeter breath, and purer blood, and the beauty of it is, that no possible harm can result from their continued use, but on the contrary, great benefit.

A Buffalo physician, in speaking of the benefits of charcoal, says: "I advise Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges to all patients suffering from gas in the stomach and bowels, and to clear the complexion and purify the breath, mouth and throat; I also believe the liver is greatly benefited by the daily use of them; they cost but twenty-five cents a box at drug stores, and although in some cases a patient preparation, yet I believe I get more and better charcoal in Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges than in any of the ordinary charcoal tablets."

The daily use of these lozenges will soon tell in a much improved condition of the general health, better complexion, sweeter breath, and purer blood, and the beauty of it is, that no possible harm can result from their continued use, but on the contrary, great benefit.

A Buffalo physician, in speaking of the benefits of charcoal, says: "I advise Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges to all patients suffering from gas in the stomach and bowels, and to clear the complexion and purify the breath, mouth and throat; I also believe the liver is greatly benefited by the daily use of them; they cost but twenty-five cents a box at drug stores, and although in some cases a patient preparation, yet I believe I get more and better charcoal in Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges than in any of the ordinary charcoal tablets."

The daily use of these lozenges will soon tell in a much improved condition of the general health, better complexion, sweeter breath, and purer blood, and the beauty of it is, that no possible harm can result from their continued use, but on the contrary, great benefit.

A Buffalo physician, in speaking of the benefits of charcoal, says: "I advise Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges to all patients suffering from gas in the stomach and bowels, and to clear the complexion and purify the breath, mouth and throat; I also believe the liver is greatly benefited by the daily use of them; they cost but twenty-five cents a box at drug stores, and although in some cases a patient preparation, yet I believe I get more and better charcoal in Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges than in any of the ordinary charcoal tablets."

The daily use of these lozenges will soon tell in a much improved condition of the general health, better complexion, sweeter breath, and purer blood, and the beauty of it is, that no possible harm can result from their continued use, but on the contrary, great benefit.

A Buffalo physician, in speaking of the benefits of charcoal, says: "I advise Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges to all patients suffering from gas in the stomach and bowels, and to clear the complexion and purify the breath, mouth and throat; I also believe the liver is greatly benefited by the daily use of them; they cost but twenty-five cents a box at drug stores, and although in some cases a patient preparation, yet I believe I get more and better charcoal in Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges than in any of the ordinary charcoal tablets."

The daily use of these lozenges will soon tell in a much improved condition of the general health, better complexion, sweeter breath, and purer blood, and the beauty of it is, that no possible harm can result from their continued use, but on the contrary, great benefit.

A Buffalo physician, in speaking of the benefits of charcoal, says: "I advise Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges to all patients suffering from gas in the stomach and bowels, and to clear the complexion and purify the breath, mouth and throat; I also believe the liver is greatly benefited by the daily use of them; they cost but twenty-five cents a box at drug stores, and although in some cases a patient preparation, yet I believe I get more and better charcoal in Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges than in any of the ordinary charcoal tablets."

The daily use of these lozenges will soon tell in a much improved condition of the general health, better complexion, sweeter breath, and purer blood, and the beauty of it is, that no possible harm can result from their continued use, but on the contrary, great benefit.

A Buffalo physician, in speaking of the benefits of charcoal, says: "I advise Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges to all patients suffering from gas in the stomach and bowels, and to clear the complexion and purify the breath, mouth and throat; I also believe the liver is greatly benefited by the daily use of them; they cost but twenty-five cents a box at drug stores, and although in some cases a patient preparation, yet I believe I get more and better charcoal in Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges than in any of the ordinary charcoal tablets."

The daily use of these lozenges will soon tell in a much improved condition of the general health, better complexion, sweeter breath, and purer blood, and the beauty of it is, that no possible harm can result from their continued use, but on the contrary, great benefit.

A Buffalo physician, in speaking of the benefits of charcoal, says: "I advise Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges to all patients suffering from gas in the stomach and bowels, and to clear the complexion and purify the breath, mouth and throat; I also believe the liver is greatly benefited by the daily use of them; they cost but twenty-five cents a box at drug stores, and although in some cases a patient preparation, yet I believe I get more and better charcoal in Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges than in any of the ordinary charcoal tablets."

The daily use of these lozenges will soon tell in a much improved condition of the general health, better complexion, sweeter breath, and purer blood, and the beauty of it is, that no possible harm can result from their continued use, but on the contrary, great benefit.

A Buffalo physician, in speaking of the benefits of charcoal, says: "I advise Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges to all patients suffering from gas in the stomach and bowels, and to clear the complexion and purify the breath, mouth and throat; I also believe the liver is greatly benefited by the daily use of them; they cost but twenty-five cents a box at drug stores, and although in some cases a patient preparation, yet I believe I get more and better charcoal in Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges than in any of the ordinary charcoal tablets."

The daily use of these lozenges will soon tell in a much improved condition of the general health, better complexion, sweeter breath, and purer blood, and the beauty of it is, that no possible harm can result from their continued use, but on the contrary, great benefit.

A Buffalo physician, in speaking of the benefits of charcoal, says: "I advise Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges to all patients suffering from gas in the stomach and bowels, and to clear the complexion and purify the breath, mouth and throat; I also believe the liver is greatly benefited by the daily use of them; they cost but twenty-five cents a box at drug stores, and although in some cases a patient preparation, yet I believe I get more and better charcoal in Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges than in any of the ordinary charcoal tablets."

The daily use of these lozenges will soon tell in a much improved condition of the general health, better complexion, sweeter breath, and purer blood, and the beauty of it is, that no possible harm can result from their continued use, but on the contrary, great benefit.

A Buffalo physician, in speaking of the benefits of charcoal, says: "I advise Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges to all patients suffering from gas in the stomach and bowels, and to clear the complexion and purify the breath, mouth and throat; I also believe the liver is greatly benefited by the daily use of them; they cost but twenty-five cents a box at drug stores, and although in some cases a patient preparation, yet I believe I get more and better charcoal in Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges than in any of the ordinary charcoal tablets."

The daily use of these lozenges will soon tell in a much improved condition of the general health, better complexion, sweeter breath, and purer blood, and the beauty of it is, that no possible harm can result from their continued use, but on the contrary, great benefit.

A Buffalo physician, in speaking of the benefits of charcoal, says: "I advise Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges to all patients suffering from gas in the stomach and bowels, and to clear the complexion and purify the breath, mouth and throat; I also believe the liver is greatly benefited by the daily use of them; they cost but twenty-five cents a box at drug stores, and although in some cases a patient preparation, yet I believe I get more and better charcoal in Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges than in any of the ordinary charcoal tablets."

The daily use of these lozenges will soon tell in a much improved condition of the general health, better complexion, sweeter breath, and purer blood, and the beauty of it is, that no possible harm can result from their continued use, but on the contrary, great benefit.

A Buffalo physician, in speaking of the benefits of charcoal, says: "I advise Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges to all patients suffering from gas in the stomach and bowels, and to clear the complexion and purify the breath, mouth and throat; I also believe the liver is greatly benefited by the daily use of them; they cost but twenty-five cents a box at drug stores, and although in some cases a patient preparation, yet I believe I get more and better charcoal in Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges than in any of the ordinary charcoal tablets."

Free Catarrh Remedy

Gives Instant Relief No More Bad Breath

"My Secret Remedy Quickly Cures Catarrh."—C. E. Gauss

Catarrh is not only dangerous, but it causes bad breath, ulceration, death and decay of bones, loss of thinking and reasoning power, kills ambition and energy, often causes loss of appetite, indigestion, dyspepsia, raw throat and reaches to general debility, idiosyncrasy and insanity. It needs attention at once. Cure it with Gauss' Catarrh Cure. It is a quick, radical, permanent cure, because it hits the system of the poison germs by the force of all at once. Send us your name and address today and the treatment will be sent you by return mail; try it. It will positively cure you, so that you will be welcomed instead of shunned by your friends. C. E. GAUSS, 604 Main St. Marshall, Mich. Fill out coupon below.

FREE.

This coupon is good for one trial package of Gauss' Combined Catarrh Cure, mailed free in plain package, duty free. Simply fill in your name and address on dotted lines below and mail to G. E. GAUSS, 604 Main Street, Marshall, Mich.

CHRISTIAN BROTHERHOOD

A Great Church Movement in Moncton---General News of the Railway Town.

MONCTON, Feb. 22.—The Christian Brotherhood movement recently started by Rev. Geo. E. Whittebury, pastor of the First Baptist church, in this city, is pronounced the biggest success of any organization effected in connection with church work in Moncton. The movement has proved such a great success in arousing public attention that it has set other churches in the city to work striving to get the men to take a deeper interest in religious matters.

Mr. Whittebury's Christian Brotherhood movement is the talk of the city and it is not escaping some hostile criticism on the part of some of the city pastors who think their particular field is being encroached upon. The Christian Brotherhood has among its members quite a few young and middle-aged men who have hitherto been to other churches and this is what has caused some little friction. The organization, however, does not aim to draw from other churches, but Mr. Whittebury has declared exists for the purpose of bringing into a sphere of usefulness young and middle-aged men who were not in the habit of attending a religious service on Sunday afternoons. The great majority regard the Brotherhood as one of the finest agencies for good ever started in the city and consequently the promoter has the good wishes of the bulk of the church-going people. The result of the organization, however, is likely to be the organization in some of the other churches already St. John's Presbyterian church has formed a men's mission with a large and active membership and will endeavor to interest the men of that congregation in the work of their own church. The Christian Brotherhood movement has already been the means of quite a number of conversions in the city, and is working with the church in which the organization originated. Church workers are looking forward to a big revival among the young men more particularly through the efforts of the Christian Brotherhood, which now has a membership of over three hundred.

Moncton vocalists are very busy at the present time rehearsing for two important musical events to be put on very shortly. The Chimes of Normandy is to be presented in the opera house on the 7th and 8th of March, under the auspices of Westmorland Lodge, Knights of Pythias. There will be about sixty-five voices in the chorus, and the leading singers are taking part. John Kelly, of St. John will be the leading tenor soloist.

The choice of the different churches are preparing for a concert to be given about Easter in the Presbyterian church. A large number of singers are to take part, and the proceeds will be divided among the different choirs to purchase music.

The Citizens' Band will hold their annual at home in Castle Hall tomorrow night. The committee in charge consists of J. B. Toombs, W. T. Wistay, J. C. Coeman, Arthur Sharpe, W. D. Stewart, Roy O'Brien, J. S. Henderson, P. D. Ayer, secretary.

The free cooking school being conducted by the Royal Household flour people, here, is meeting with great success. Over 300 visitors have registered and the full capacity of pupils are in attendance. The school leaves here on March 10th for Amherst.

According to the chief of police there are at least thirty-five places in Moncton where liquor is sold. That many places have contributed to the revenue of the city through the enforcement of the Scott Act. Business with some of the smaller shops, however, has not been very flourishing of late, and it would not be surprising to find many places put out of business within the next few months, as a result of the announced policy of the new police committee to close up the beer salons. To the Christian Brotherhood movement is attributed the loss of considerable business in the saloons. Geo. Trenholm, accountant in the Woodside Sugar Refinery, Halifax, has been spending a few days in Moncton. Arthur Walton, a well known hotel man of Pictou, N. S., is in the city for a few days. John McKean, manager of the Bank of Nova Scotia, at Amherst, is here today.

UNIONISTS MAKE POOR SHOWING

Second Vote in British House Gives Liberals an Enormous Majority.

London, Feb. 23.—An amendment to the address to the throne in reply to the king's speech at the opening of parliament, expressing regret at the fact that the government had brought the reputation of the country into contempt by describing the employment of Chinese in South Africa as slavery, was defeated in the house of commons this afternoon by 456 to 91 votes.

The debate, which lasted two days, developed considerable bitterness. Joseph Chamberlain and other members of the opposition declared the government had ridden into power on false pretences. Mr. Chamberlain asserted that he had been informed that the mining magnates had approved the government's proposals, which could not be carried out for several years.

Premier Campbell-Bannerman here interrupted Mr. Chamberlain, saying that the statement was false.

Chancellor of the Exchequer Asquith, who was the principal speaker today in behalf of the government, said that, though it would take a wet sponge and wipe the hateful ordinance off the slate.

However the ordinance would be amended and all colonies desiring to leave South Africa would be repatriated at the cost of the imperial exchequer. When a responsible government is established in the Transvaal it would have full power to determine whether to retain the Chinese. But the conditions would be subject to the assent of the imperial government which would unhesitatingly veto conditions inconsistent with British traditions, like those at present in force.

There are three periods of a woman's life when she is in need of the best strengthening, nerve toning, blood enriching action of

MILBURN'S HEART AND NERVE PILLS

The first of these is when the young girl is entering the portals of womanhood. At this time she is very often pale, weak and nervous, and unless her health is built up and her system strengthened she may fall a prey to consumption or be a weak woman for life.

The second period is motherhood. The drain on the system is great and the exhausted nerve force and depleted blood require replenishing. Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills supply the elements needed to do this.

The third period is "change of life" and this is the period when she is most liable to heart and nerve troubles.

A tremendous change is taking place in the system, and it is at this time many chronic diseases manifest themselves. Fortify the heart and nerve system by the use of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills.

Fortify the heart and nerve system by the use of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. You are at liberty to use this statement for the benefit of other sufferers.

Price 50 cents per box, three boxes for $1.25, all dealers, or The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Cards announcing the marriage of Katherine Lilian Pheasant, youngest daughter of the late Capt. Pheasant, of this city, have been announced. The groom is Walter Otis Beaton and the ceremony was performed in St. Paul's church, Newton Highlands, Mass., on Monday last, Feb. 21. The bride will be at home at 100 Hamilton Place, New York, after April 17.

TO CURE A COLD IN ONE DAY Take LAXATIVE BROMO Quinine Tablets. Druggists refund money if it fails to cure. D. W. BROWN'S signature is on each box.

The following members of the legislature came to the city on the late train from Fredericton last night: Premier Tweedie, Attorney-General Pugsley, Surveyor-General Sweeney, D. J. Purdy, Robert Maxwell, J. D. Hazen, S. S. Ryan, Edward Lantham, E. G. Scovill, C. M. Leger, A. B. Copp, C. Robinson and James Lowell.

COAL.

You can feel safe with a full coal bin.

Besides the large stock of Hard Coal now on hand, Gibbon & Co. have landed a 60-ton cargo of best American Lehigh in Stove and Chestnut sizes.

Gibbon & Co. also have Scotch Anthracite in Chestnut, Nut and Jumbo sizes arriving each week from Scotland by steamer.

Almost every train on the N. E. R. brings some cars of coal for Gibbon & Co. from Broad Cove mines, Pictou mines and Joggins mines. Pictou mines are also arriving daily from Gibbon & Co.'s own Winter Port mines in Queens Co. N. B.

Strike or no strike, get your coal from J. S. GIBBON & CO.

Scotch and American Anthracite.

Fresh Mined Acadia Pictou arriving daily. Dry Hard and Soft Wood sawed and split. Best Quality of Charcoal always in stock.

GEORGE DICK, 48 Britain St. Foot of Germain St. Telephone 1110

WHAT CAUSES HEADACHES?

Blood Poisoning, Always!

The blood is poisoned by retained tissue waste, due to defective action of the bowels, kidneys or skin. The tissue waste, or dead cells, circulating in the blood, irritates the nerves and brain, and headaches and neuralgia are bound to arise. Headache powders and opiates of any kind do harm, by aiding the retention of the blood poison in the system. To cure headaches, purify the blood by opening the bowels, and by stimulating the kidneys and skin to increased action.

Testimonial of Mr. Bert. Cornell, Taylorville, Ont.

Chronic Headaches Cured by Fruit-a-tives

To Fruit-a-tives Limited, OTTAWA, ONT.

"I was a sufferer from fearful headaches for over 20 years, sometimes they were so bad I was