

WHITE IS SENT UP ON THEFT CHARGE

Last of Dominion Express Cases Heard in Police Court---Prisoner Committed on Three Charges of Forgery and One of Theft.

This morning in the police court Harry B. White, charged with larceny of $411.11 through a cheque signed by the Collier Co., was committed for trial.

This is the fourth case upon which White has been sent up for trial and is the final one. He will appear before Judge Fortes on the 4th Tuesday in May or he may elect to be tried under the Speedy Trials Act.

Mr. H.C. McIntyre was the only witness called by the prosecution this morning. He stated that he is at present accountant in the branch Bank of Nova Scotia at Sussex and was formerly paying teller for the Bank of Nova Scotia in this city. The cheque for $411.11 was produced and the witness stated that it had been negotiated through the bank.

To Mr. McKown the witness said that he knew the defendant and White had frequently endorsed cheques for the company. He knew that he did the business for the express company but not always personally.

LUDLOW RUNS AMUCK AGAIN

This Time she Chewed Quite a Portion out of the East Side Ferry Floats.

And, too, it came to pass that upon the twenty-seventh day of the month of April, the fourth day of the month, the ferry steamer Ludlow did again attempt to explore the regions beneath the east side ferry floats.

This morning at about twenty minutes after 8 o'clock the matches $80,000 beauty of the Ludlow ferry float, took the bit in her teeth and despite the efforts of her driver, she chewed up about twenty-five dollars' worth of the ferry floats before she could be quieted down. The spirited animal has been very uneasy since her escapade of a few months ago, when she managed to puncture the floats and incidentally do some few hundred dollars' worth of damage to herself, and this morning when she thought she saw an opening she raced for the floats with a do or die air, evidently bent on finishing the job she started before, but she failed to compass her fell designs, as she was curbed just in time, getting about a mouthful of the landing place.

Her performance this morning is looked upon as outrageous in view of the fact that the alderman for Brooks ward and the alderman for Dukes ward, were a part of her previous cargo.

It may just be possible that the spirited young thing saw them coming and decided to give them a scare, however, be that as it may be the city fathers displayed great courage in their trying situation.

The officials of the boat attribute the trouble to the failure of the engine to back when called upon to do so, a pin in the machinery having dropped out of place.

Last evening while on her way across the harbor the Ludlow sidestepped a bit with the result that she collided with a spar and the windows and side of the "liver" cabin were somewhat damaged. Repairs will be made at once.

This morning's frolic did not delay the boat more than 2 or 3 minutes and it is thought that some of the spirit has been taken out of her. Future developments are, however, awaited with interest.

MAY ESTABLISH PRIVATE MARKET

Proposition on Foot to Utilize Woods Property for This Purpose.

The Times was informed this morning from what is considered a reliable source that in the very near future a private market would be established at what is known as the Wood's property, situated between the old Westmoreland road and the Marsh road.

It is proposed to put up a wooden shed on the property and by the charging of a moderate toll induce many of the countrymen now coming to the city market to offer their goods there instead of going into town. The property referred to is at present used as a hay and cattle market, but it is intended to extend the scope of the place so that all kinds of produce would be handled. As the proposed market would be situated outside the city line it would not be necessary to pay toll into the city market, but the same law would apply to it as the north end.

A number of men are interested in the matter and it is probable that arrangements will be completed for the carrying out of the project very shortly.

SITUATION IN FRANCE IS RAPIDLY REACHING A DANGEROUS POINT

Parisian Police Today Made Wholesale Search of Headquarters of Confederation of Labor---Important Papers Found in Homes of Suspected Royalists.

PARIS, April 27--The police adopted decisive measures today to apprehend the element which is fomenting disorder and capture the source of its supplies. Early in the day a search was made of the headquarters of the confederation of labor and also of its fifty branches throughout the city. Simultaneously the police searched the homes of a number of royalist sympathizers who were suspected of encouraging disorder. The offices of La Croix, a reactionary paper, were also searched.

Important papers, it is understood, were found at the homes of some of the royalists, but the search of the headquarters of the confederation of labor yielded negative results.

On the other hand certain reactionary groups and publications devote themselves to the exploitation and exaggeration of the fears of a social revolution with the object of provoking a counter movement by the panic-stricken people.

"But the reactionaries themselves are now beginning to understand that in view of the strong anarchistic element which exists, they are playing a dangerous game and they are changing their tactics, fearing that a too widespread movement would defeat their own hopes and ends.

"They have sown the seeds of alarm and this is turning the tide against them. As far as any danger of the actual possibility of a social revolution is concerned, this fear is absolutely chimerical for if there exists in any country as elsewhere some hundreds of thousands of men in latent and permanent revolt against established social order there also exist several millions of people interested in the maintenance of the social edifice.

"It is earnestly to be hoped that the duty of the government whatever its policies may be is to defend the nation by insuring order in the streets and to enforce the respect for individual property and liberty and you may be certain that in this case the authorities will not fail in their duty.

"After the elections this effervescence will subside and we then will have to face these social problems, which call for urgent study as to the best means of finding their solution. This will be the work of the new parliament which will have to face it.

MONCTON ANGRY AT PRINCE ARTHUR

When Royal Train Stopped There, He Did Not Acknowledge the Citizens' Greeting, but Munched His Breakfast, While Hundreds Cheered Him.

MONCTON, April 27--(Special)--The royal train carrying Prince Arthur of Connaught and his party arrived here this morning at nine fifty and departed for Halifax at ten o'clock. The train was composed of six cars a baggage car, the "Chadman," "Gloucester," "Becunine" and "Violet." The latter being occupied by the Prince. The train was brought from Campbellton by Conductor Thomas Corbett and Driver Jas. Wood and made the run in five hours and forty minutes making stops at Bellefleur and New Brunswick. The train was taken to Halifax by Conductor John Berry and Driver Lightbody, being preceded by a light engine to guard against accidents.

About a thousand visitors assembled at the Moncton depot to get a glimpse at the royal visitor but they had to be content with taking a look at His Royal Highness through the car window as he sat at breakfast. Cheers led by the mayor were given for King Edward and the royal visitor but even this failed to bring the Prince from his car and the train pulled out without a great majority of the people even getting a glimpse of him through the car window. The crowd was much disappointed and many expressed the view that His Royal Highness acted stiffly in not presenting himself for inspection. Among the crowd assembled was Premier Tweedie, who was on his way home, the mayor and many leading citizens.

Two members of the Dominion police and Chief Detective Williams of the I. C. R. were on the train as were also a number of I. C. R. officials. An effort is being made to have the prince stop off here on his way back from Halifax on Wednesday to see the bore.
