

DALRYMPLE'S INNINGS

BY GEORGE HENDRICKS.

Dalrymple, with wistful eyes, watched the big red auto rushing down the quiet village street. It had been bad enough to have lost the two weeks of his vacation with Kitty because Jimmie Jordan was perpetually offering her rides and the auto had not yet lost its attraction for Miss Tracy.

He had counted on a long two weeks in the country and had so arranged it that his vacation time should be delayed until the autumn, when Kitty said the woods were at their best.

He had sat patiently while Kitty had gone for her daily ride, and just as he had counted upon those two weeks he had, later, counted upon the trip home on the boat with her. It would be a moonlight night, according to the almanac, and there he would have an opportunity to tell her of his love. Now Jordan had spoiled even that.

To tell the truth, Jordan had never given a thought to Dalrymple nor his ambitions. He had simply fallen in love with Kitty and the rest was forgotten. It was to prolong the delightful summer that he had suggested the trip to town by auto, and that morning he, his sister and Kitty had set out for the city.

"I'm sorry, Dave," Kitty had said the night before. "I know you delayed your vacation until all of the crowd had gone because I asked you, and now I'm afraid you will have a lonesome time."

"I wouldn't worry," said Dave placidly. "You see I've grown used to it now, I've had a lonesome time the past two weeks."

Kitty laid her hand upon his arm in mute sympathy. "I know I've been just horrid," she confessed, "but you see this is the first time I have ever had an auto at my beck and call, and just think of the lovely trip."

He caught her hand and would have told her love, but just then there came the evil honk of the auto and Jordan shot around the corner.

"Just taking a spin down the road to fry her out. Want to come?" he asked, and her mother and Dalrymple had gone around the corner of the piazza, where his opinion of autos and their owners might be more freely expressed.

Now he was left alone and only a cloud of dust showed where Kitty and his hopes of an engagement had been swallowed up. He turned and went to his room. Half an hour later he was shaking hands with the kindly landlady and offering halting excuses for his abrupt departure for town. As he was leaving she called him back.

"I wouldn't mind," she said kindly, "if young girls have to have their things. I'll warrant she's sick of autos by this time she gets back to town. I'll be good for her."

Dalrymple wrung her hand again and stepped into the wagon, contrasting its lumbering frame with the trim lines of the touring car now far ahead.

Two days later Dalrymple was driving slowly along the road. That afternoon his employer had asked him if he would run out and bring back to town his favorite team, which had been in the country all summer.

"I don't like to ask you, Dave," he had said half apologetically, "but Hawkins is such a poor driver I do not like to trust the spirited pair with him and it will be an outing for her."

He had jumped at the chance. He was as fond of horses as his employer, and he could ask nothing better than a twenty-mile drive through the bracing autumn air.

He had already covered five miles and was jogging along comfortably, when the team shied violently and in his struggle to quiet them he did not see the occupants of the big touring car at which the horses had taken fright until he was abreast of them. Then the glad hail from the front seat sent his heart into his mouth as he had vowed it should never do again.

"We've had another breakdown Dave," wailed Kitty, "and I promised Jessie Pellham that I would be at her party tonight. It's a five mile walk to the trolley and I don't know what I shall do."

That latter statement was not altogether true as was apparent from the appeal in the blue eyes turned hopefully toward Dalrymple.

Dalrymple glanced at the figure prone in the dust beneath the car. "Can't Mr. Jordan fix it up so you can get into town?" he asked.

"He says he can," admitted Kitty, "but I'm tired of sitting around until things get fixed. Won't you take me with you, Dave?"

He tried not to show his triumph in his tones as he answered, but Jordan swore softly to himself as he heard the reply.

MORALES FLEES TO PORTO RICO

President of San Domingo Resigns and Takes Refuge in American Consulate.

San Domingo, Jan. 12.—The fugitive President Morales has sought refuge in the American legation here.

General Morales' resignation as president of Santo Domingo was tendered and accepted later in the day. He will leave this city on board the U. S. gunboat Duquesne, bound for Porto Rico. The former president will be accompanied by Enrique Jimenez.

Vice-President Caceres, who has been acting as president since the time General Morales fled from the capital, is now, according to the Constitution, president of Santo Domingo.

The change in the government does not imperil the negotiations for a treaty between San Domingo and the United States.

THE VALUE OF CHARCOAL

Few People Know How Useful it is in Preserving Health and Beauty.

Nearly everybody knows that charcoal is the cleanest and most efficient disinfectant and purifier in nature, but few realize its value when taken into the human system for the same cleansing purpose.

Charcoal is a remedy that the more you take of it the better; it is not a drug at all, but simply absorbs the gases and impurities which are present in the stomach and intestines and carries them out of the system.

Charcoal sweetens the breath after smoking, drinking or after eating onions and other odorous vegetables.

Charcoal effectively cleans and improves the complexion, it whitens the teeth and further acts as a natural and eminently safe cathartic.

It absorbs the injurious gases which collect in the stomach and bowels; it cleanses the mouth and throat from the poison of catarrh.

All druggists sell charcoal in one form or another, but probably the best charcoal and the most for the money is in Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges; they are composed of the finest powdered willow charcoal, and other harmless antiseptics in tablet form, or rather in the form of large, pleasant tasting lozenges, the charcoal being mixed with honey.

The daily use of these lozenges will result in a much improved condition of the general health, better complexion, sweeter breath, and purer blood, and the beauty of it is, that no possible harm can result from their continued use, but on the contrary, great benefit.

A Buffalo physician, in speaking of the benefits of charcoal, says: "I advise Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges to all patients suffering from gas in the stomach and bowels, and to clear the complexion and purify the breath, mouth and throat; I also believe the liver is greatly benefited by the daily use of them; they cost but twenty-five cents a box at drug stores, and although in some cases a patent preparation, yet I believe I get more and better charcoal in Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges than in any of the ordinary charcoal tablets."

BIG WINDSOR HOTEL WAS BADLY GUTTED BY FIRE

Montreal's Largest Hotel Visited by Bad Fire Last Night—The Splendid Dining Room a Wreck—Loss will be in Vicinity of $50,000.

Montreal, Jan. 12.—(Special)—Fire has on various occasions threatened the great Windsor hotel, but it was not until dinner hour tonight that the dreaded element has ever been able to bring this far-famed hostelry to grief.

Although the main building escaped with almost providential good fortune from immediate contact with the flames, yet its twin brother in destruction, water, played havoc with the princely furnishings.

Nevertheless the hotel was thoroughly crippled, for its chief mainstay, the great dining room, together with an adjoining refreshment room, known as the ladies' ordinary, and the kitchen, were entirely ruined.

More unfortunately still, the loss of property was attended by a serious, though not dangerous, injury to the manager, W. S. Weldon.

The fire was caused by a defective electric light wire in the kitchen, and immediately after it was discovered the most dramatic scene was enacted, in what was, within an incredibly short time, a wild and confusion of the most intense activity.

When the news reached Mr. Weldon that a blaze had started, he at once headed a half dozen employees and, rushing with a hose from the south wing, began to direct a stream of water through a window into the skylights of the kitchen.

Suddenly from above a heavy bar fell and struck the manager on the head, and at the same time a burst of flame reached out and burned his hands and face. He was knocked back on the floor and was immediately carried out in a semi-conscious condition.

Meantime an alarm had been sent to the fire department, and a cry of fire rang throughout a score of corridors. The rush that followed was terrifying, and a panic seemed almost inevitable.

The 300 guests hurried about in the wild confusion and the appearance of smoke, together with the reflection of the flames on the windows facing the court, greatly added to intensify the situation.

While scores were hurrying down stairs and towards elevators, carrying bundles and groping in a confusion of others were pushing them in order to get up stairs to their rooms and obtain possession of their valuables.

Windsor square outside was fast becoming the scene of a densely packed multitude, and so quickly did news of the fire reach every part of the city that, at 8 o'clock, the streets in all directions were jammed with passengers eager for a spectacle.

To add to that were assiduous cabmen breaking a way through the crowd in order to reap a harvest from the overturned guests fleeing to other quarters.

How to Cure Rheumatism

I searched the whole earth for a specific Rheumatism—something that I or any physician could feel safe in prescribing—something that we could count on not only occasionally, but with reasonable certainty. For the ravages of Rheumatism are everywhere and genuine relief is rare.

After years of search and experiment, I learned of the German chemical I now employ. And I knew then that my search and my efforts were well rewarded. For this chemical, in combination with other, gave me the basis of a remedy which in the cure of Rheumatism is practically certain. In many, many tests and difficult Mild cases are sometimes reached by a single package—for sale by 40,000 Druggists.

PRINTERS LOST

GAZETTE STRIKE

Montreal, Jan. 12.—(Special)—The Gazette Printing Company has secured a signal triumph over its striking printers, the men from the news department returning in a body tonight and asking to be re-employed.

With a few exceptions they were all taken back, but it is announced that hereafter the premises will be conducted on the open shop principle.

In order to demonstrate the full meaning of the situation the men were set to work tonight side by side with girls who had been taken in to carry on the work in their absence.

Ten of the job printers, the instigators of the strike, have signified their willingness to follow the news printers, and it is fully expected that they will apply for reinstatement tomorrow.

CHILDHOOD INDIGESTION.

Nothing is more common in childhood than indigestion. Nothing is more dangerous to proper growth, more weakening to the constitution, or more likely to pave the way to dangerous disease. Nothing is more easy to keep under control, for proper food and Baby's Own Tablets will cover the whole ground. Here is strong proof. Mrs. G. G. Irving, Trout Brook, Que. says: "My baby boy was troubled with chronic indigestion and was a constant sufferer. Nothing helped him until I tried Baby's Own Tablets, but these promptly cured him and he is now as healthy a little lad as you would care to see. I always keep the Tablets in the house and they quickly cure all the troubles of indigestion. Every mother should keep these Tablets on hand. They cure all the minor ailments of children, and their prompt administration when trouble comes may save a precious little life. They are guaranteed to contain no opiate or harmful drug. You can get Baby's Own Tablets from any druggist or by mail at 25 cents a box by writing the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

The ladies of St. Stephen's church entertained the seamen in the old Chipman house last evening with a programme of music and readings, which was thoroughly enjoyed by the men of the sea. Songs were given by Misses M. McQuarrie, L. McKechnie and Miss McMichael, and D. Watson, and Messrs. Sullivan and McMichael also gave valuable assistance. A. W. Baird, who was in the chair, gave several readings, which were much appreciated. At the close coffee and cake were handed round. The ladies in charge were Mrs. Kirkpatrick, Mrs. Graham, Mrs. Campbell, Mrs. McKechnie, Mrs. McLeod, and Miss McQuarrie.

Now Knows That

CONSTIPATION

Can Be Cured

"Fruit-a-tives" also took away that severe pain in the kidneys.

No cathartic, purgative, pill, powder or salt will cure Constipation. "Fruit-a-tives" will. Cathartics and purgatives do not act on the liver. They irritate the lining of the bowels. This irritation does make the bowels move, but it so tires and inflames the muscles that they won't act again until irritated by another dose of purgative.

Bile from the liver is the only thing that makes the bowels move naturally. "Fruit-a-tives" don't act on the bowels at all. They tone up and invigorate the liver—enable the liver to send more bile into the bowels—and make the liver so strong that it will do this regularly every day. And bile is nature's only purgative.

Testimonial of A. McBain, Ottawa, Ontario.

Chronic Constipation and Kidney disease Cured by "Fruit-a-tives."

To Fruit-a-tives Limited, Bank St., Ottawa, Ont. OTTAWA, Aug. 14th, 1905. "I was a great sufferer for years with what seemed to be incurable constipation, and I tried every known remedy and several physicians but all the pills and medicine I took seemed to do me harm. I was advised to try 'Fruit-a-tives' and I can truthfully say they have absolutely cured me. I was also afflicted with a nasty pain over my kidneys while the constipation lasted and 'Fruit-a-tives' have entirely cured that pain also. My stomach also was in bad shape, my digestion was poor, with sour eructations and belching wind and 'Fruit-a-tives' cured my stomach, for now I have no trouble in that way. I cannot say too much in favor of 'Fruit-a-tives' and I wish to recommend them to any one suffering with constipation and stomach trouble, and also to any one with constant pains over the back or kidneys."

(Sgd) A. McBain, 75 Victoria St., Ottawa.

This is what "Fruit-a-tives" are doing all the time. Not a day passes in which someone, who has tried pills and tablets and salts in vain, does not have the same experience with "Fruit-a-tives" that Mr. McBain had.

"Fruit-a-tives" are a concentrated combination of fruit juices in tablet form. They contain no calomel, cascara, senna, jalap. They are nature's laxative and liver tonic. They cure Constipation in the only way that it can be cured—by making the liver healthy and causing the bowels to receive their daily supply of bile.

Druggists everywhere have "Fruit-a-tives." If, for any reason, your druggist has none, send order to the company. 50c. a box or 6 boxes for $2.50. Mailed postpaid on receipt of price.
