SPOKE AFTER SILENCE OF TWENTY-ONE YEARS

Chicago Man Recovers His Voice after being Dumb Since Boyhood.

CHICAGO, June 6—After twenty-one years of silence during which time he was unable to utter an intelligible sound, Louis Mendelson, suddenly recovered his power of speech yesterday. The return of words was as mysterious as the affliction which silenced him so long. Mendelson is 38 years old and until yesterday had not spoken since he was 17 years old. To the surprise of his three brothers and his friends he walked into their wholesale liquor store and said: "Hello, is this hot enough for you?"

Samuel Mendelson, one of his brothers, was so shocked by the unexpected remark that he failed to answer the question. He called his two other brothers, Jules and Anton and to the great surprise of all three the man who had been dumb since boyhood repeated his question. The mystery perplexed all three. Louis told his brothers that he had felt a sudden tickling in his vocal chords and the impulse to attempt speech had grown so strong that he could not resist it. When he tried he discovered that his voice responded.

Mendelson lost his voice after an attack of fever when he was in his seventeenth year.

PRINCE OF WALES TALKS ON INDIA

Advises all Who are Interested in the Empire to Study India at First Hand.

The Prince of Wales, whose reputation as an effective public speaker has been growing ever since his accession to his present position, delivered a notable address at a Guildhall banquet in the city of London the other day, in which he summarized the impressions made upon him by his recent tour in India. Among other things, he said: "If I were asked to name any general impressions which I have formed during this exceptional, but all too short, experience, they would be that I have learned to appreciate the fact that India cannot be regarded as one country. We talk casually of going to India. But the majority of us perhaps do not realize that it is a continent with an area equal the whole of Europe without Russia, containing a population of 300 millions of diverse races, languages, and creeds, and of many different grades of civilization. I cannot help thinking, from all I have heard and seen, that the task of governing India will be made the easier if we on our part infuse into it a wider element of sympathy. I will venture to predict that to such sympathy there will be an ever-abundant and genuine response. And may we not also hope for a still fuller measure of trust and confidence in our earnest desire and efforts to promote the well-being and to further the best interests of every class?" In conclusion, he remarked: "I am fully aware how impossible it is to gain accurate and intimate knowledge of so vast a country by a visit of only four and a half months. Yet, I would strongly suggest to those who are interested in the great questions which surround the India of today, to go there, and learn as much as possible by personal observation on the spot. And I cannot but think that every Briton who treads the soil of India is assisting towards a better understanding with the mother country; helping to break down prejudice; to dispel misapprehension, and to foster sympathy and brotherhood."

A NATIONAL DEFECT.

Literary Englishman — One peculiarity of your American humor is that it loses much of its point in translation into foreign languages.

Literary American — That is true. I have observed that peculiarity about it when it is translated into Cockney.—Chicago Tribune.

THE STORY OF CLASSIFIED TOWN

THE BOOKKEEPER.

CHAPTER VI.

This is the bookkeeper, smiling content;
His accounts are correct to the very last cent
When he adds a column it's always with pride;
He knows that the balance is on the right side.
"The balance of power," said he, "you will find,
Is in the ad columns—the very best kind.
Times want ads form colums of strength,
From first to the last, throughout the whole length."
The Times ad columns gave me the chance
To obtain a position and then to advance
If you're seeking work to the moral take heed;
The Times want ads you should every day read."
