CANADIAN TRADE HELPS THE PORT OF MANCHESTER

And That Port Introduces Canadian Shippers to the Most Densely Populated Manufacturing District in the World
---Ten Million of People.

The new weekly journal, Canada, in its issue of Feb. 17th, has the following very interesting letter from its correspondent in Manchester:

"The port of Manchester is indeed in no small measure to Canada for the great strides it has accomplished in the first twelve years of its existence. The Manchester Ship Canal had been opened only a short time when Canadian steamships began to give attention to it as a means by which new markets might be opened up for Canadian exporters, and the help which the Canadian government gave to the ship canal in its early days has been abundantly justified in the development of an enormous direct trade between Manchester and Canada. It was in 1897 that Professor Robertson, the Canadian commissioner of agriculture and dairying, visited Manchester or purposely to enquire into the accommodation of the port, and the facilities for distribution. A first visit convinced him that Manchester was the natural distributing centre for a district that could consume unlimited supplies of Canadian produce, and he paid a second visit some months afterwards and completed his most exhaustive enquiries. Subsequently the Hon. S. F. Fraser, Canadian minister of agriculture, followed Mr. Robertson on a mission having the same object in view, and the result of these negotiations was that the Canadian government granted a subsidy of £8,000 per annum to ensure the fortnightly running of steamers between Canadian ports and Manchester.

"This was practically the commencement of the Manchester Line, Ltd., a concern which now has a fine fleet of steamers specially equipped with refrigerated space and accommodation for live cattle—for carrying Canadian produce across the Atlantic. The enterprise of the Manchester government admittedly has been of great service to the ship canal. At the same time it has enabled Canadian producers to take a strong position in the best and biggest markets available for their goods on this side of the Atlantic.

"The ship canal is not yet a divided-earning enterprise. It has never looked back since the waterway was opened, but its progress towards prosperity has been hindered in many ways that the promoters could not have foreseen. One of the greatest difficulties has been to induce steamship owners—who to a great extent are bound down by vested interests in specific ports and conference rings—to operate to and from Manchester. But the canal is gradually winning its way. There are now regular lines of steamers running between Manchester and most of the principal ports of the world, and the great factor in bringing this about is the general recognition that Canada was right in her early appreciation of the advantages of Manchester as a much desired outlet for the produce of British Colonies. Within a short time the district of the Manchester docks there is a population of two millions, and a very large consumption of all kinds of produce, both in food and raw materials for manufacture. But the port is not dependent alone on local traffic. As a great distributing centre it stands unrivalled. Manchester is the nearest seaport to the most densely populated manufacturing district in the world. The district nearer to this busy inland port than to any other steamship port has a population of more than ten millions of people, and traffic shipped direct to Manchester is distributed with a minimum of handling and cost, because all the principal railways run their cars direct alongside the steamers in the ship canal docks.

 Consequently as compared with traffic landed at Liverpool, the mileage covered as between ship and consumer is considerably reduced. A feature of the arrangement of the ship canal docks is the ample accommodation provided for various trades. There are special wharves and ranges for live cattle imported from Canada, and elsewhere, grain elevators, cold air stores, tanks for oil storage, lumber yards, and so on. Our Manchester docks, it is an interesting fact, are models which are being visited constantly by engineers who are on the look-out for "wrinkles." The docks cover an area of 400 acres, and the latest addition, which was opened by King Edward and Queen Alexandra last summer, is the largest dock in Europe, being 2,700 feet in length, and 250 feet in width. Along the whole length of one side of this dock there is a very fine range of concrete-built, four-storied sheds.

"The provision of this immense dock accommodation is not likely to prove in excess of the requirements of a few years hence. Bigger and bigger ships are coming to Manchester. It has been demonstrated that ocean-going steamers of 12-000 tons dead weight can navigate the ship canal with ease, and in readiness for even greater loads the canal is being deepened from twenty-six to twenty-eight feet.
 The canal has proved an undoubted boon to traders. Its construction was projected in the first place because the trade of the thickly populated district of which Manchester is the centre was gradually being strangled by the heavy cost of transporting the traffic to and from the seaboard, combined with the port expenses at Liverpool, and although its 40,000 shareholders have received not a penny as yet in direct return for their investments, it is beyond question that the construction of the canal not only averted a threatening commercial crisis in the Manchester district, but also laid the foundations of a long period of commercial prosperity.

"The new industries that have sprung into existence on the banks of the canal alone would allow, serve as subject matter enough for anybody who must be called upon to justify this gigantic and costly undertaking. The canal has proved an immense boon to traders, who now import direct instead of getting their goods via Liverpool. Their savings, it is calculated, average from 10s. to 15s. per ton on the cost of transporting goods. For instance, the saving in transportation charges on a miscellaneous cargo weighing 6,238 tons, which recently arrived at Manchester from Montreal, averaged 5.19 cents per 100 lbs., the total saving in transport charges on the whole cargo as compared with the cost which would have been incurred in delivering from Liverpool to the same destinations being £1,500, or $7,220. And by getting Canadian cattle shipped direct to Manchester we are saved the cost of the carriage of meat from the Birkhead lagers; it amounts to something like 14s. 2d. per ton.

"Therefore, although the ship canal is not yet paying us back in direct dividends it is providing us with substantial indirect benefits; these benefits advantage both we who buy and those who sell, since the more we can economize on the cost of transit the more we have to spend on making larger purchases of the things we need. And the things that we need from Canada make quite a long catalogue."

Learn the Art of Keeping Well.

At all cost avoid constipation. It is the most certain source of disease of every kind. Harsh, gripping pills are sure to make matters worse because they inflame tablish perfectly regulated movements.

I. C. R. TRAIN STONED NEAR MONCTON

One Window Broken--Shanty Broken Into and Robbed--Changes in Police Salaries--New Scott Act Officer.

Moncton, March 5.—The I. C. R. police have been busy today searching for a party who threw a stone through the vestibule window of a first class car on No. 133 express going to St. John this morning. As the train was passing Jones' siding, four miles from Moncton, a stone was hurled through the car window by parties, at present unknown. It is said tramps were seen in that vicinity. The I. C. R. trackmen's shanty, three miles west of Moncton, was entered this morning and the dinner boxes stolen and an overcoat was also taken. Boys are suspected and it is thought the same parties may have stoned the Maritime Express.
The police are also in search of these culprits.

The police committee at a meeting tonight decided to take the present policemen three months on trial at a reduced salary.

The salary of officers was reduced from $45 to $40 per month. If at the end of three months the chief can recommend them for appointment and increase in salary they will receive $45 per month.
After eighteen months in the service, if their record is good, they will be given $50.

Ex-Policeman McLean has been engaged as Scott Act policeman at $50 per month, deposing Officer Chappell, who will be reduced to an ordinary constable.

The body of the late William Gardner, who committed suicide Saturday morning by throwing himself from the Maritime Express, was interred this afternoon in Moncton rural cemetery. Rev. G. E.
Whitehouse conducted the services.

It is understood that immediately on B.
Mooney & Sons completing their work of tearing down the walls of the Royal Bank building in Canterbury street, the bank will commence the erection of their fine new building. The bank's architect will arrive here about the middle of the present month to look over the situation.

John Kelly, light house inpector, went to Fredericton last evening.

Fred. A. Reid, who for a number of years has been chief accountant with Emerson & Fisher, Ltd., is leaving their office to take the same position with the Enterprise Foundry Company, of Sackville, his place being filled by H. Walker Emerson, who, for the past six years, has been with the Bank of Montreal, and has just returned from their branch at St. John's (Nfld.).

In the police court yesterday afternoon Edward Perry, traveler for a Montreal liquor house, was before Judge Ritchie on complaint laid by Inspector J. B. Jones that Perry was soliciting orders in the city from retail dealers without having obtained a provincial license. As he signified his willingness to take out the necessary document he was allowed to depart for that purpose.
