MORNING NEWS

A large number of people were present at the meeting held last evening in the series of jubilee services in Exmouth street church. Rev. T. J. Dineen, of Fairville; Rev. Neil J. McLaughlin and James Myles spoke briefly. Miss Edna Butler presided at the piano. Mrs. MacKay gave a solo and Roy Harding a fine reading. An interesting feature tonight will be the unveiling of a tablet to the memory of the pastors who have had charge of the church since its organization.
A fairly well-dressed man resorted to begging on the Pacific express yesterday afternoon and A. Fairweather, of Robb's, was one of the passengers who wasasked for alms. He refused to give and the beggar became insolent. When the train reached the city Mr. Fairweather sought Officer Smith, but the bird had flown before the policeman got to the train.
The Natural History Society of N. B. met last night and several new members were elected. Several donations to the museum were received and W. F. Burditt read his paper on Messengers from Outer Space and What They Have to Tell Us.
Despite the inclement weather there was a large crowd in St. Malachi's hall to be in attendance at the concert put on by the A. O. H. Cadets. The entertainment was a success from every standpoint and those taking part are deserving of great credit for their proficient work. The following programme was carried out:—Solo John P. Kelly; solo, Miss Maud Buckley; reading, Mr. McGloin; solo, Miss J. Fitzpatrick; violin solo, Edmund Lunney; reading, Leonard Conlon; solo, Miss Agnes Tomney; reading, Miss Annie McGrath; solo, P. Lunney; solo, M. Kelly; Misses McMullin and Brown acted as accompanists during the evening.

HON. JOHN M. JOHNSON

"BUSIEST MAN IN MAINE"

What a Writer in a Boston Paper Says of John M. Johnson,
Well Known Here in Business and Turf Circles.

(Edward E. Cogswell, in Boston American).

Without a question, had the person who wrote the few lines about the busy seen John M. Johnson before he penned them, he would have realized how the latter had his bee yarn faded, and maybe have fixed up another dope or gone way back and sat down.
It took the writer just two weeks of hard labor to get hold of Mr. Johnson long enough to talk with him ten minutes. It wasn't a steady ten minutes, either, as we were interrupted several times by outsiders butting in with business questions, while Mr. Johnson was on a fidget for fear he might miss a directors' meeting.

Here are a few officials matters of importance that occupy his mind in the business and sporting world: President of the St. John, N. B., Milling Company; director of the Calais, Me., National Bank; director of the Franco-American Company; treasurer and manager of the Calais, Me., Tanning Company; director in the Gold King and Gold Prince Mining Company of Colorado; one of the firm of H. C. Grant & Company, of Boston; is the J. M. Johnson, dealer in wool, St. John, N. B., with branch offices in other prominent cities in this country and abroad; president of the New England Trotting Horse Breeders' Association; president of the Maine Breeders' Association; member of the Board of Review of the National Trotting Association; president of the Grand Circuit; director in the American Trotting Horse Breeders' Association of America, and a member of the Boston and Metropolitan Driving Clubs.

IN POLITICS, TOO.

Now that is going something for one man, yet in the meantime he has political clout to keep him from loafing. These things thrust upon him by his neighbors in Calais, Me., he representing them in the state legislature, where he has been appointed house chairman of the railroad committee. Besides he has the noted trotting horse breeding establishment in Ponkapog, Mass., formerly the property of the late J. L. Malcolm Forbes, on which are some of the most famous horses in the world.

In the fifty-two years of his life Mr. Johnson has accumulated all that he now represents and owns with absolutely nothing to begin with except the rugged constitution he inherited from his parents.

"Every dollar I ever had I was obliged to earn for myself," he said, in referring to his career.

"When I went to Calais, I was obliged to walk all the way from McAdam Junction, not having the money to ride. I had come from Malone, N. Y., where for the year previous I worked for my board and schooling in the winter. This job was taking care of three horses, three cows and cutting cordwood." He was then sixteen years old.

JESUIT TELLS OF
JAMAICA HORRORNo Pen or Tongue Could do Justice to the Scene After the Earthquake.(Boston Herald)
"You can't read about it. You should have been there, as I was, and seen the ruin and desolation. And it was all done in 15 seconds."
The Rev. Francis B. Goeding, S. J., one of the Jesuit missionaries who were conducting a mission at Kingston, Jamaica, when the earthquake visited that city, was the preacher at the high mass yesterday at the Church of the Immaculate Conception.

No more harrowing story has been told from a pulpit than that related by Fr. Goeding to his large audience of keenly attentive listeners. Possessing a voice of rare resonance and power, he told in a simple but most graphic manner of the scenes attendant upon the awful calamity, and of which he was an eyewitness.

No pen or tongue, he said, can do justice to the horrors of Jan. 14. All he can do personally, when he realizes what happened is to thank God that he escaped with his life. The other fathers who were in Kingston with him some 10 or 12 in all, escaped as he did, but their beautiful church and their dwelling house were turned into hopeless ruin. The suddenness of it all was terrible. One moment Kingston was a prosperous, populous city; before 15 seconds had passed, desolation and terror and death were on every hand.

Fr. Goeding was on the second story of the priest's house when there came an awful noise and, then, like a flash, a horrible sensation that everything was sinking all around him. Then a roar was heard, as the walls and roofs of the building came tumbling into the streets. His first thought was to get out of the house and see what had happened. He reached the street in safety, but how he did so, he does not know, and never will. The floors, the walls, the roofs, the streets, everything rocked like a ship that was being tossed on a stormy sea. The air was filled with shrieks and lamentations. The natives were on their knees in the streets crying out: "The master has come."
Fr. Goeding made his way as quickly as he could over the debris and through the panic-stricken crowds to the church, where he found the other fathers who had just escaped with their lives as the roof and the greater part of the beautiful church came down in a heap of ruin. As in his own case, they did not know how they escaped. Soon the fathers were surrounded by numbers of their people, who joined in the prayers that were offered. He was impressed at once and made proud of those people by their calm demeanor, as compared with the howling mobs he had just passed through, whose members made the scene, terrible enough as it was, perfectly hideous by their mad shrieks of terror.

No Appetite

Means loss of vitality, vigor or tone, and is often a precursor of prostrating sickness. This is why it is serious. The best thing you can do is to take the great, alterative and tonic Hood's Sarsaparilla. Which has cured thousands.

THIRICE MAYOR OF CALAIS.

"How did I get into politics? Well, you see, the city of Calais had gone Democratic for a couple of years or so and the backers of the Republican party there rather guessed I might pull them out of the hole. Finally they persuaded me to run for mayor. I won, and twice more equal success. Last fall the Democrats had again become strong, and the Republicans put me up for representative to the legislature, and there you are."

It is a wonderful thing for one to be able to hold lifelong friendship. This is Mr. Johnson's long suit. Sincerity and honesty are two great points that work overtime.
When he was eighteen years old he bought his first colt. It took about every cent he possessed, but he was happy. Then came the unfortunate, as the colt got kicked and had to be killed. In place of another horse, he sold the colt for another horse. The next time it was a brood mare by Mambino Charter, which he bred to Olympus, selling the foal at three years for $700 to go West, where he trotted in 2:21.

His first race trotter was Lady Sin, 2:13 1/2, which he raced and got the Maritime record for paces. Later he got the pacer Ituna, 2:10, and she, too, by and by he heard of a young stallion at the Allen Farm, named Kyanon, and bought him. After getting a record of 2:12 1/2, he sold him to George Van Dyke of Boston for $3,500.

In 1893 J. Malcolm Forbes held a sale at his farm. Mr. Johnson was present and purchased the brood mare Fannella, 2:13, at the time carrying Sadie Mae. When she started a yearling, he sold her for $4,000. Her career on the turf is so prominent to need mention, but when she dropped dead at Hartford she carried a record of 2:06 1/4. Todd, 2:14 3/4, he bred and sold when two years old for $4,000, but after her he carried a season in Kentucky he brought him back, and he now is the premier stallion at the Johnson farm.

He was one of the syndicate to buy Cochato for $10,000 last spring, and the colt turned out a futurity winner, getting a record of 2:11 1/2, and won in purses close to the sum paid for him. One of the brood mares on his Ponkapog farm is the ex-trotting queen, Nancy Hanks, 2:04. Admiral Dewey, 2:04 3/4, Lord Roberts, 2:07 1/4, etc., have already made her famous in the harem. She is now in foal to Todd.

The very inception of his connection with the trotters it has been his object to breed better than has anybody else. The choicest blood in existence is none too good according to his way of thinking. It is for this reason that he has sent his mares to the prominent stallions in different parts of the country. And it is the produce of these mares from such mating that has made, and will continue to, the name of the Johnson farm world wide.

terror. Kneeling around the priests they made the responses to the brief prayers with splendid coolness of demeanor, and then, when the one started to give what succor or relief was possible.

The scenes everywhere were perfectly horrible. He would not harrow the feelings of those whom he was addressing by going into details of what he witnessed. Without rest or food or sleep, he worked among the victims, giving them what consolation they could under the appalling circumstances.

Despite the warnings of those about him Fr. Goeding climbed over the heaps of fallen masonry of the church to see if he could save the Blessed Sacrament, and over where the altar stood, right above where he knew he could find the tabernacle, was piled a huge mass of debris which no man could penetrate.
The work of years had been undone in those 15 seconds. That quarter of a minute sufficed to destroy utterly what it had taken years to construct. The fathers who are now in Kingston find themselves without a home to live in themselves or a church in which to say mass. Sleeping upon the ground when worn out from their work of relief and offering mass upon a rude altar in the open air, they are doing their very best for the hapless people who have lost everything in the terrible calamity. For one thing the fathers are grateful. The day before, at 3 o'clock, 1,000 children were in the church at a mission service. Had the earthquake come then he did not see how one of them could have escaped.

Fr. Goeding closed with a fervid appeal for assistance to rebuild the house and church, to which the collection baskets showed, there was a generous response.

CURBING POWERS OF THE HOUSE OF LORDSBritish Liberals Will Hold a Conference to Consider This Matter.London, Feb. 5.—Premier Bannerman, in his customary summons to his supporters to attend the reopening of parliament, employ the very unusual phrase, "To discuss matters of grave importance."
As foreign affairs are now tranquil, these matters are regarded as applying to the coming conflict between the house of lords and the house of commons, and judging from the recent platform utterances of prominent members of the government it is not unlikely that the ministers will ask the house of commons to pass a resolution limiting the lords' powers of veto. Should this be done a struggle would be precipitated at once.

In the meantime the lords themselves seem to realize the necessity of putting their work of relief and offering mass upon a rude altar in the open air, they are doing their very best for the hapless people who have lost everything in the terrible calamity. For one thing the fathers are grateful. The day before, at 3 o'clock, 1,000 children were in the church at a mission service. Had the earthquake come then he did not see how one of them could have escaped.

Snowballed the Kaiser
Berlin, Feb. 5.—Emperor William was accidentally hit in face by a snow ball while driving through the Bradenburger Tor Gate on Sunday. The missile was aimed at a citizen who was passing in an automobile. The emperor, the Deutsche Tages Zeitung says, shook his finger at a group of boys from which the snowball came and they thereupon scampered away.
Col. George West Jones was reported as very much better last evening.

CHAMPLAIN FUND

The contributions which the common council and the provincial government will make to the Champlain memorial fund will be a subject for discussion within the next few days and it is generally expected that the grant from both representative bodies will be liberal ones.
The treasury board, with whom the matter now rests as far as the city is concerned, will likely meet this week. From indications given by Ald. Bullock, the chairman, at the common council meeting on Monday, the civic grant will not be less than $1,000.

The provincial government are now holding their monthly meeting in Fredericton and will probably come to some decision as to their contribution, a letter from the mayor asking for a liberal grant from the provincial treasury being before them. Any conference between the two bodies will, it is thought, be more or less of a formality.

With both civic and provincial grants on a generous scale there will still remain a balance to be made up by the citizens and it is hoped to see the total sum still to be subscribed considerably reduced within the next day or two. The total amount subscribed to date is $7,145, leaving an outstanding balance of $2,855.

Word of the death of Dr. William B. Sangster, at Buenos Ayres, on December 17, has been received. Dr. Sangster formerly was engaged in the practice of dentistry in this city. He was the son of Dr. E. Sangster.

Mrs. Eunice Donovan, widow of Daniel Donovan, of Welsford, died there Sunday at the advanced age of ninety-five years. Deceased is survived by three sons, Patrick in Welsford, John in Boston and Daniel in western Canada. The funeral took place yesterday afternoon from the residence of her son, Patrick, Rev. Father Carleton conducting the service.

LADY GRENELL'S BODY TO BE BURIED IN ENGLAND
Ottawa, Feb. 5.—Telegrams of sympathy and condolences from all parts of Canada and cables from Great Britain continue to pour into Government House to Earl Grey over the death of his daughter, Lady Grenfell. The funeral will be conducted with simple ceremony at Government House before the body is entined for St. John, where it will be placed on board the steamship Empress of Britain for interment in Great Britain.

At the annual meeting of the St. John county Loyal Orange Lodge, which was held last night in the hall in Germain street, J. King Kelley was elected county master. The other officers chosen were: J. B. M. Baxter, D. C. M.; W. J. Patterson, chaplain; J. Kenny, Jr., R. S.; H. W. Robinson, F. S.; Neil J. Morrison, treasurer; J. W. Cullen, lecturer; J. E. Hetherington and F. W. Brewster, deputy lecturers.

The attendance, in spite of the inclement weather, was large. After the election was over addresses were delivered by the new officers.
S. B. Huston, the retiring county master in his address referred to the work of the officers during the past year, the official visitations made and some interesting statistics.
"In New Brunswick," the report continues, "there are nearly 150 lodges owning $33,400 worth of real estate and $8,875 of personal estate. In Canada it musters an army more perfectly organized than that of Japan, 225,000 strong, divided into 1,900 primary lodges and bwning altogether outside of the life insurance department, $70,000 worth of property, principally real estate, an order that has enrolled 3,250,000 members, every man a British subject. Across the line is entrenched an army, with like purposes as our own, of 1,250,000 men. These armies and their wealth are ever rapidly increasing. In the last report of the proceedings of the M. W. G. L. of B. A., 77th meeting, it was reported that 43 new lodges had been instituted in Canada, 7,300 men initiated into the order and that 2,093 had been introduced by certificates."
The report dealt also with the order's life insurance, the care of orphans and the proposed building of a home for aged and indigent members.

Non-union Men May Join P. W. A. and End Trouble.

Halifax, Feb. 5.—There is no change in the strike situation at Sydney Mines except that even a smaller number of men than were at work yesterday are on duty today. Four men only turned out this morning and even this quartette would have remained at home had not their services been absolutely necessary to keep the fires running in the pit, and look after the fires.

With the exception of about twenty-five men, all the non-union workers have joined the association, and these are expected to yield before tomorrow, or else quit the employ of the company. It is expected work will be resumed either tomorrow or day after at latest.
