

BLAMES IT ALL ON THE PAPERS

They Are Responsible for Lengthy Trials
in America

SAYS NEW YORK JUDGE

How Such Things Are Handled in England--In Recent Trial for Attempted Murder Jury
Was Picked in 3 Minutes.

LONDON, July 26.—Justice Vernon M. Davis, of the New York supreme court, while sitting on the bench yesterday, at the side of Mr. Justice Darling, in the central criminal court, saw with justice dealt to "Chicago May" Churchill and John Smith, for the attempted murder of Edward Guerin, of Devil's Island fame.

Asked his opinion of such expeditious justice, he said:—

"I have been profoundly impressed by everything I have seen. The trial was conducted admirably, the cross examination was exceedingly fine, and the lawyers showed an excellent spirit."

"Do you think such a speedy trial will ever be possible in America?"

"Not under the present circumstances. There are two principal considerations which militate against such celerity. The first of these is in connection with the selection of the jury. In this respect America is the victim of her causes celebres. Everyone in America reads the newspapers—not one, but many. When a sensational case arises, like that of New Patterson or Thaw, the papers detail long before the case is called. The result of this is that it is almost impossible to get together 12 intelligent men who have not studied the case and reached a verdict."

"How different here in England. Today's case had all the elements of a sensation yet the jury was selected in exactly three minutes. There may have been a great crowd of the public to obtain admittance, but I saw no evidence of it. I saw no sketch artists. In fact I could not distinguish whether any reporters were present."

"In my opinion the only way to meet the jury problem in the United States is to permit the presiding magistrate to select the jury with of course, the advice of the counsel in the case."

MEAT PRICES CAUSED RIOTS

Yiddish Women in Philadelphia
Attack Kosher Butchers Who
Advanced Prices of Meats.

PHILADELPHIA, July 26.—The Jewish quarter in the southern section of the city was the scene of many disturbances and incipient riots today following the efforts of Yiddish women to boycott Kosher butchers who have increased the price of meats. All throughout the Ghetto there were fierce outbreaks in which persons who attempted to patronize the stores were roughly handled. In several instances the stores were sacked and the meat destroyed. The women gathered in front of the stores and seized every person who entered. The meat the customers had purchased was taken away from them and tossed into the streets after coal oil or acids had been poured on them. In three shops coal oil was poured on every piece of meat, the chopping blocks and counters were overturned and the windows were smashed.

The police of three districts were kept on the run answering riot calls and reserve squads had to be sent to their assistance. As a result of the outbreak 38 men and women were either sent to prison or held in bail to answer charges of assault, inciting to riot and other charges, and as many more were arrested and locked up on minor charges.

Because most of the disturbers were women the police at first hesitated to use force in trying to disperse the mobs in front of the stores, but as the situation became more serious they were finally compelled to use severe measures and a number of men and women were sent to the hospital suffering from injuries received in resisting the officers. No one was seriously hurt, however, and the authorities have the situation well in hand.

MINISTER HAS BISCUITS TO SWAP FOR KISSES

CHICAGO, July 25.—Methodists gathered at the camp meeting here were startled when the Rev. W. A. Quayle, pastor of St. James church, declared that he would give a biscuit at any time for a kiss.

"Kisses are as much a necessity as a desert," he continued.

Many of the non-believers in dancing and the theatres looked at each in blank amazement. Rev. Quayle continued, however.

"The woman who does not care about her bonnet," he said, "is lost at a lot which she ought to have kept. Piety is like a bonnet, for anybody having sense enough to wear it. The man who doesn't care how his wife and children dress, is mean, not pious."

One of the lady passengers going out on the Point du Lac this morning said she was very much excited over the loss of her pocketbook with all her money and tickets, etc. in it. After getting the conductor and several passengers on the boat for it she finally located it herself in the waiting room.

The various civic boards will meet in regular monthly session next week.

THE FREAKS OF ELECTRICITY

Man Dangling On Wire Turned
Three Colors by Subtle Current--Still He Lives.

ASHBURY PARK, July 25.—After going through the experience of having his body turn to a deep red and then blue and finally coal black, from the force of an electric current, William Hicks, an employee of the New York and New Jersey Telephone Company, is slowly recovering from the shock.

Hicks was at work splicing cables at the top of a thirty-five foot pole at Beachley Beach this morning. He accidentally took hold of a high tension wire, and instantly he was hurled from the pole and held dangling from the wire. He tried in vain to free himself, but so strong was the current that his hands were held tightly to the wire. Finally his body became rigid.

Witnesses ran to the pole, but were several minutes in reaching Hicks. Meantime bystanders were horrified to see him gradually turn a deep red, then bluish, and finally black. His hands were at last freed from the wire and he was lowered to the ground with a block-and-tackle.

Everybody expected that Hicks was dead, but Dr. Hathaway found there was still a spark of life. The doctor worked on the man for an hour before consciousness returned. He will probably recover.

NEW LONDON, Conn., July 23.—Patrick Morris, fifty years old, an electrician employed at the Central Vermont Railroad wharf, was instantly killed at East New London tonight, when he placed his hand on an iron conduit inclosing electric light wires.

NEW LONDON, Conn., July 23.—Patrick Morris, fifty years old, an electrician employed at the Central Vermont Railroad wharf, was instantly killed at East New London tonight, when he placed his hand on an iron conduit inclosing electric light wires.

NEW LONDON, Conn., July 23.—Patrick Morris, fifty years old, an electrician employed at the Central Vermont Railroad wharf, was instantly killed at East New London tonight, when he placed his hand on an iron conduit inclosing electric light wires.

NEW LONDON, Conn., July 23.—Patrick Morris, fifty years old, an electrician employed at the Central Vermont Railroad wharf, was instantly killed at East New London tonight, when he placed his hand on an iron conduit inclosing electric light wires.

NEW LONDON, Conn., July 23.—Patrick Morris, fifty years old, an electrician employed at the Central Vermont Railroad wharf, was instantly killed at East New London tonight, when he placed his hand on an iron conduit inclosing electric light wires.

NEW LONDON, Conn., July 23.—Patrick Morris, fifty years old, an electrician employed at the Central Vermont Railroad wharf, was instantly killed at East New London tonight, when he placed his hand on an iron conduit inclosing electric light wires.

NEW LONDON, Conn., July 23.—Patrick Morris, fifty years old, an electrician employed at the Central Vermont Railroad wharf, was instantly killed at East New London tonight, when he placed his hand on an iron conduit inclosing electric light wires.

NEW LONDON, Conn., July 23.—Patrick Morris, fifty years old, an electrician employed at the Central Vermont Railroad wharf, was instantly killed at East New London tonight, when he placed his hand on an iron conduit inclosing electric light wires.

NEW LONDON, Conn., July 23.—Patrick Morris, fifty years old, an electrician employed at the Central Vermont Railroad wharf, was instantly killed at East New London tonight, when he placed his hand on an iron conduit inclosing electric light wires.

NEW LONDON, Conn., July 23.—Patrick Morris, fifty years old, an electrician employed at the Central Vermont Railroad wharf, was instantly killed at East New London tonight, when he placed his hand on an iron conduit inclosing electric light wires.

NEW LONDON, Conn., July 23.—Patrick Morris, fifty years old, an electrician employed at the Central Vermont Railroad wharf, was instantly killed at East New London tonight, when he placed his hand on an iron conduit inclosing electric light wires.

NEW LONDON, Conn., July 23.—Patrick Morris, fifty years old, an electrician employed at the Central Vermont Railroad wharf, was instantly killed at East New London tonight, when he placed his hand on an iron conduit inclosing electric light wires.

NEW LONDON, Conn., July 23.—Patrick Morris, fifty years old, an electrician employed at the Central Vermont Railroad wharf, was instantly killed at East New London tonight, when he placed his hand on an iron conduit inclosing electric light wires.

NEW LONDON, Conn., July 23.—Patrick Morris, fifty years old, an electrician employed at the Central Vermont Railroad wharf, was instantly killed at East New London tonight, when he placed his hand on an iron conduit inclosing electric light wires.

NEW LONDON, Conn., July 23.—Patrick Morris, fifty years old, an electrician employed at the Central Vermont Railroad wharf, was instantly killed at East New London tonight, when he placed his hand on an iron conduit inclosing electric light wires.

NEW LONDON, Conn., July 23.—Patrick Morris, fifty years old, an electrician employed at the Central Vermont Railroad wharf, was instantly killed at East New London tonight, when he placed his hand on an iron conduit inclosing electric light wires.

$10,000 BLAZE
ON MILL STREET

Three Buildings Burned
in This Morning's Fire

PARAFFINE STARTED IT

Use of "Persuader" on Kitchen Fire Caused All the Trouble--Tenants Rush to Street Clad in Night Clothes

An ugly blaze in Mill street this morning for a time, threatened a repetition of the conflagration in that street some few years ago.

As it was the loss will be in the vicinity of $10,000, about $7,000 of which is covered by insurance. The fire is reported to have been caused by an attempt to light a fire with paraffine in the apartments occupied by Robert Cook, of 127 Mill street.

The alarm was rung in by a lad by the name of Loeb, about 7.30 o'clock from box 154, and both city and north end departments responded. No. 3 steamer was put on the hydrant in front of John McGoldrick's store; No. 5 in front of the Hygiene Bakery. The north end and city salvage corps were on hand.

So quickly did the fire spread that the buildings occupied by Alderman John McGoldrick, junk and metal dealer, and E. S. Springer, grocer and feed merchant, were soon in flames.

The families living overhead and in the rear were forced to flee with little or nothing of their belongings, many being obliged to rush to the street in their night clothes. There are in all nine families who are probably burnt out of house and home.

Over the McGoldrick store were the Barrett, Ashkin and Smith families. Of these Miss Smith gave music lessons on piano and organ.

In the building adjoining, occupied on the ground floor by E. S. Springer as a feed store are the Loeb, Snow and Preeton families, and over the Springer grocery store were located families by the name of Cook and Earle and some Germans.

Mr. Springer estimates his loss at about three or four thousand dollars, with one thousand insurance.

The E. J. Carpenter meat store, next to Springer's suffered. Mr. Carpenter reports a loss of five or six hundred dollars.

The Salvation Army, directly over this store, also reports a loss of probably three or four hundred dollars. Mr. Carpenter has the building insured for $2,000, with C. E. L. Jarvis, A. C. Fairweather and White & Calkin, and $800 on the stock and barn in the rear, with Wm. Thomson & Co.

The other three buildings belong to the Segee estate, of which W. B. Bustin is trustee, and W. E. Earle mortgagee, and the insurance in all amounts to $6,500, divided as follows:

Ottawa, $500; Underwriters Co., $500; Atlas, $500; Queen, $1,000; Eetna, $1,500; Northern, $1,000; and Hartford, $1,500; which will not, Mr. Bustin thinks, cover the loss by a considerable margin. The fire was not under control until about 9 o'clock and the "all out" was rung in at about 9.30. In the rear the three buildings were considerably gutted, while the front received a bad scorching. What furniture or bedding was gotten out was badly damaged by water, which was poured through in torrents.

TOMORROW'S BALL GAMES

A team of baseball players from the Bank of Nova Scotia will play a team from the Bank of New Brunswick at the Victoria grounds tomorrow afternoon at four o'clock. This game will follow one in the Amateur League series between the Marathons and Portland Y. M. C. A. With two games to see, there should be a large attendance. The Marathon-Portland game will start at 2.30, sharp.

A meeting of the committee having in hand the matter of the Champlain fund was to have been held in the mayor's office at noon today, but owing to the absence of the mayor nothing was done.

Thompson, the 17 year old Englishman, who some few days ago was given protection at central police station, has been found employment on a farm up river by the Portland Lodge Sons of England.

Thompson, the 17 year old Englishman, who some few days ago was given protection at central police station, has been found employment on a farm up river by the Portland Lodge Sons of England.

Thompson, the 17 year old Englishman, who some few days ago was given protection at central police station, has been found employment on a farm up river by the Portland Lodge Sons of England.

Thompson, the 17 year old Englishman, who some few days ago was given protection at central police station, has been found employment on a farm up river by the Portland Lodge Sons of England.

Thompson, the 17 year old Englishman, who some few days ago was given protection at central police station, has been found employment on a farm up river by the Portland Lodge Sons of England.

Thompson, the 17 year old Englishman, who some few days ago was given protection at central police station, has been found employment on a farm up river by the Portland Lodge Sons of England.

Thompson, the 17 year old Englishman, who some few days ago was given protection at central police station, has been found employment on a farm up river by the Portland Lodge Sons of England.

ENGINE CORD DID NOT WORK

And Steamer Victoria
Struck Oromocto
Wharf

SERIOUSLY DAMAGED

Big Star Liner Met With Bad
Accident On Her Trip Down from Fredericton to the City
This Morning.

FREDERICTON, July 26.—(Special)—The steamer Victoria, Captain Perley, which left here for St. John at eight o'clock this morning ran into the wharf at Oromocto sustaining considerable damage. All efforts to float her have been unsuccessful and tugs have gone to her assistance.

People who witnessed the accident from the wharf say the steamer approached side on at a higher rate of speed than usual and they were surprised to notice that the engine did not reverse the engine.

The explanation offered for this is that the signal cord got out of working order and the captain found himself unable to communicate with the engine room.

The steamer struck heavily on her starboard side just in front of the paddle wheel and was seriously damaged. A hole was stove in her side and she stuck fast to the wharf timbers. There were about twenty passengers on board and the accident gave them a great shock and scare but fortunately nobody was injured. It seems certain that the boat will have to lay up at least a week for repairs.

Capt. Perley took command of the Victoria on Tuesday and this was his second down trip.

R. C. Orchard, manager of the line, was advised of the accident about 10 o'clock this morning. To the Times Mr. Orchard said that he believed the steamer was hung to the wharf by her guard, and that the engine were now being made with jacks screws to lift her, after which she would likely come off without the assistance of tow boats. He was unable to say how long the steamer would be off the route. There will, in consequence of the accident, be no boat tomorrow to Fredericton. As to the cause of the trouble, Manager Orchard said as information was there was a mistake in the signals. The Majestic also met with a slight mishap this morning, being delayed at Brown's Flats with a line in her propeller.

R. C. Orchard, manager of the line, was advised of the accident about 10 o'clock this morning. To the Times Mr. Orchard said that he believed the steamer was hung to the wharf by her guard, and that the engine were now being made with jacks screws to lift her, after which she would likely come off without the assistance of tow boats. He was unable to say how long the steamer would be off the route. There will, in consequence of the accident, be no boat tomorrow to Fredericton. As to the cause of the trouble, Manager Orchard said as information was there was a mistake in the signals. The Majestic also met with a slight mishap this morning, being delayed at Brown's Flats with a line in her propeller.

R. C. Orchard, manager of the line, was advised of the accident about 10 o'clock this morning. To the Times Mr. Orchard said that he believed the steamer was hung to the wharf by her guard, and that the engine were now being made with jacks screws to lift her, after which she would likely come off without the assistance of tow boats. He was unable to say how long the steamer would be off the route. There will, in consequence of the accident, be no boat tomorrow to Fredericton. As to the cause of the trouble, Manager Orchard said as information was there was a mistake in the signals. The Majestic also met with a slight mishap this morning, being delayed at Brown's Flats with a line in her propeller.

R. C. Orchard, manager of the line, was advised of the accident about 10 o'clock this morning. To the Times Mr. Orchard said that he believed the steamer was hung to the wharf by her guard, and that the engine were now being made with jacks screws to lift her, after which she would likely come off without the assistance of tow boats. He was unable to say how long the steamer would be off the route. There will, in consequence of the accident, be no boat tomorrow to Fredericton. As to the cause of the trouble, Manager Orchard said as information was there was a mistake in the signals. The Majestic also met with a slight mishap this morning, being delayed at Brown's Flats with a line in her propeller.

R. C. Orchard, manager of the line, was advised of the accident about 10 o'clock this morning. To the Times Mr. Orchard said that he believed the steamer was hung to the wharf by her guard, and that the engine were now being made with jacks screws to lift her, after which she would likely come off without the assistance of tow boats. He was unable to say how long the steamer would be off the route. There will, in consequence of the accident, be no boat tomorrow to Fredericton. As to the cause of the trouble, Manager Orchard said as information was there was a mistake in the signals. The Majestic also met with a slight mishap this morning, being delayed at Brown's Flats with a line in her propeller.

R. C. Orchard, manager of the line, was advised of the accident about 10 o'clock this morning. To the Times Mr. Orchard said that he believed the steamer was hung to the wharf by her guard, and that the engine were now being made with jacks screws to lift her, after which she would likely come off without the assistance of tow boats. He was unable to say how long the steamer would be off the route. There will, in consequence of the accident, be no boat tomorrow to Fredericton. As to the cause of the trouble, Manager Orchard said as information was there was a mistake in the signals. The Majestic also met with a slight mishap this morning, being delayed at Brown's Flats with a line in her propeller.

R. C. Orchard, manager of the line, was advised of the accident about 10 o'clock this morning. To the Times Mr. Orchard said that he believed the steamer was hung to the wharf by her guard, and that the engine were now being made with jacks screws to lift her, after which she would likely come off without the assistance of tow boats. He was unable to say how long the steamer would be off the route. There will, in consequence of the accident, be no boat tomorrow to Fredericton. As to the cause of the trouble, Manager Orchard said as information was there was a mistake in the signals. The Majestic also met with a slight mishap this morning, being delayed at Brown's Flats with a line in her propeller.

R. C. Orchard, manager of the line, was advised of the accident about 10 o'clock this morning. To the Times Mr. Orchard said that he believed the steamer was hung to the wharf by her guard, and that the engine were now being made with jacks screws to lift her, after which she would likely come off without the assistance of tow boats. He was unable to say how long the steamer would be off the route. There will, in consequence of the accident, be no boat tomorrow to Fredericton. As to the cause of the trouble, Manager Orchard said as information was there was a mistake in the signals. The Majestic also met with a slight mishap this morning, being delayed at Brown's Flats with a line in her propeller.

R. C. Orchard, manager of the line, was advised of the accident about 10 o'clock this morning. To the Times Mr. Orchard said that he believed the steamer was hung to the wharf by her guard, and that the engine were now being made with jacks screws to lift her, after which she would likely come off without the assistance of tow boats. He was unable to say how long the steamer would be off the route. There will, in consequence of the accident, be no boat tomorrow to Fredericton. As to the cause of the trouble, Manager Orchard said as information was there was a mistake in the signals. The Majestic also met with a slight mishap this morning, being delayed at Brown's Flats with a line in her propeller.

R. C. Orchard, manager of the line, was advised of the accident about 10 o'clock this morning. To the Times Mr. Orchard said that he believed the steamer was hung to the wharf by her guard, and that the engine were now being made with jacks screws to lift her, after which she would likely come off without the assistance of tow boats. He was unable to say how long the steamer would be off the route. There will, in consequence of the accident, be no boat tomorrow to Fredericton. As to the cause of the trouble, Manager Orchard said as information was there was a mistake in the signals. The Majestic also met with a slight mishap this morning, being delayed at Brown's Flats with a line in her propeller.

R. C. Orchard, manager of the line, was advised of the accident about 10 o'clock this morning. To the Times Mr. Orchard said that he believed the steamer was hung to the wharf by her guard, and that the engine were now being made with jacks screws to lift her, after which she would likely come off without the assistance of tow boats. He was unable to say how long the steamer would be off the route. There will, in consequence of the accident, be no boat tomorrow to Fredericton. As to the cause of the trouble, Manager Orchard said as information was there was a mistake in the signals. The Majestic also met with a slight mishap this morning, being delayed at Brown's Flats with a line in her propeller.

R. C. Orchard, manager of the line, was advised of the accident about 10 o'clock this morning. To the Times Mr. Orchard said that he believed the steamer was hung to the wharf by her guard, and that the engine were now being made with jacks screws to lift her, after which she would likely come off without the assistance of tow boats. He was unable to say how long the steamer would be off the route. There will, in consequence of the accident, be no boat tomorrow to Fredericton. As to the cause of the trouble, Manager Orchard said as information was there was a mistake in the signals. The Majestic also met with a slight mishap this morning, being delayed at Brown's Flats with a line in her propeller.

R. C. Orchard, manager of the line, was advised of the accident about 10 o'clock this morning. To the Times Mr. Orchard said that he believed the steamer was hung to the wharf by her guard, and that the engine were now being made with jacks screws to lift her, after which she would likely come off without the assistance of tow boats. He was unable to say how long the steamer would be off the route. There will, in consequence of the accident, be no boat tomorrow to Fredericton. As to the cause of the trouble, Manager Orchard said as information was there was a mistake in the signals. The Majestic also met with a slight mishap this morning, being delayed at Brown's Flats with a line in her propeller.

R. C. Orchard, manager of the line, was advised of the accident about 10 o'clock this morning. To the Times Mr. Orchard said that he believed the steamer was hung to the wharf by her guard, and that the engine were now being made with jacks screws to lift her, after which she would likely come off without the assistance of tow boats. He was unable to say how long the steamer would be off the route. There will, in consequence of the accident, be no boat tomorrow to Fredericton. As to the cause of the trouble, Manager Orchard said as information was there was a mistake in the signals. The Majestic also met with a slight mishap this morning, being delayed at Brown's Flats with a line in her propeller.

R. C. Orchard, manager of the line, was advised of the accident about 10 o'clock this morning. To the Times Mr. Orchard said that he believed the steamer was hung to the wharf by her guard, and that the engine were now being made with jacks screws to lift her, after which she would likely come off without the assistance of tow boats. He was unable to say how long the steamer would be off the route. There will, in consequence of the accident, be no boat tomorrow to Fredericton. As to the cause of the trouble, Manager Orchard said as information was there was a mistake in the signals. The Majestic also met with a slight mishap this morning, being delayed at Brown's Flats with a line in her propeller.

R. C. Orchard, manager of the line, was advised of the accident about 10 o'clock this morning. To the Times Mr. Orchard said that he believed the steamer was hung to the wharf by her guard, and that the engine were now being made with jacks screws to lift her, after which she would likely come off without the assistance of tow boats. He was unable to say how long the steamer would be off the route. There will, in consequence of the accident, be no boat tomorrow to Fredericton. As to the cause of the trouble, Manager Orchard said as information was there was a mistake in the signals. The Majestic also met with a slight mishap this morning, being delayed at Brown's Flats with a line in her propeller.

SPANGLER CASE IS WITHDRAWN

Medical Society Has Dropped Case for Present

MAY ACT LATER

Dr. Spangler Says That the Medical Society's Contention of Control Over His Method of Healing is Highly Absurd

The case of the New Brunswick Medical Association against Dr. Spangler, osteopath, which was to have been taken up before Judge Ritchie, has been withdrawn on this complaint, but it does not follow from this that another action may not be entered against him at a later date.

In court this morning, Recorder Skinner, who appeared in the interests of the New Brunswick Medical Association, said he wished to state that the present complaint would not be proceeded with.

As previously announced the prosecution was brought under the act relative to physicians and surgeons which imposes a penalty of $20 on any person or persons practicing physic, surgery or medicine for gain or with the hope of reward.

The medical profession promoted the act for the purpose of giving to the public practitioners who shall have the necessary knowledge and qualifications required by the act, the absolute monopoly of the practice of medicine, and that no one is entitled to practice healing in any way without the knowledge prerequisite.

H. A. Powell, who with J. D. Hagen, K. C., has been retained for the defence, says that the act referred to is along the lines of similar medical acts in the United States, and in other provinces in Canada.

He adds that Dr. Spangler's contention is that the act applies only to the higher branches of medicine, or what is technically known as medicine, i. e. the use of affecting cures, and does not apply to the bones or tissues.

Mr. Powell says that Dr. Spangler maintains further that the act is no more applicable to osteopaths than it is to the dentist who extracts teeth, the barber who shampoos and fringes the hair, the cleanser of the skin, the chiropodist who treats corns, the manicure who pares the nails or the masseur who rubs the muscles; all of these work for the health of the subjects on whom they operate, and it would be absurd to say that the legislature intended the act to control them. If, however, they went beyond their peculiar lines of practice and encroached on the usages of physicians, they would be liable to the penalty.

Mr. Powell says that Dr. Spangler maintains further that the act is no more applicable to osteopaths than it is to the dentist who extracts teeth, the barber who shampoos and fringes the hair, the cleanser of the skin, the chiropodist who treats corns, the manicure who pares the nails or the masseur who rubs the muscles; all of these work for the health of the subjects on whom they operate, and it would be absurd to say that the legislature intended the act to control them. If, however, they went beyond their peculiar lines of practice and encroached on the usages of physicians, they would be liable to the penalty.

Mr. Powell says that Dr. Spangler maintains further that the act is no more applicable to osteopaths than it is to the dentist who extracts teeth, the barber who shampoos and fringes the hair, the cleanser of the skin, the chiropodist who treats corns, the manicure who pares the nails or the masseur who rubs the muscles; all of these work for the health of the subjects on whom they operate, and it would be absurd to say that the legislature intended the act to control them. If, however, they went beyond their peculiar lines of practice and encroached on the usages of physicians, they would be liable to the penalty.

Mr. Powell says that Dr. Spangler maintains further that the act is no more applicable to osteopaths than it is to the dentist who extracts teeth, the barber who shampoos and fringes the hair, the cleanser of the skin, the chiropodist who treats corns, the manicure who pares the nails or the masseur who rubs the muscles; all of these work for the health of the subjects on whom they operate, and it would be absurd to say that the legislature intended the act to control them. If, however, they went beyond their peculiar lines of practice and encroached on the usages of physicians, they would be liable to the penalty.

Mr. Powell says that Dr. Spangler maintains further that the act is no more applicable to osteopaths than it is to the dentist who extracts teeth, the barber who shampoos and fringes the hair, the cleanser of the skin, the chiropodist who treats corns, the manicure who pares the nails or the masseur who rubs the muscles; all of these work for the health of the subjects on whom they operate, and it would be absurd to say that the legislature intended the act to control them. If, however, they went beyond their peculiar lines of practice and encroached on the usages of physicians, they would be liable to the penalty.

Mr. Powell says that Dr. Spangler maintains further that the act is no more applicable to osteopaths than it is to the dentist who extracts teeth, the barber who shampoos and fringes the hair, the cleanser of the skin, the chiropodist who treats corns, the manicure who pares the nails or the masseur who rubs the muscles; all of these work for the health of the subjects on whom they operate, and it would be absurd to say that the legislature intended the act to control them. If, however, they went beyond their peculiar lines of practice and encroached on the usages of physicians, they would be liable to the penalty.

Mr. Powell says that Dr. Spangler maintains further that the act is no more applicable to osteopaths than it is to the dentist who extracts teeth, the barber who shampoos and fringes the hair, the cleanser of the skin, the chiropodist who treats corns, the manicure who pares the nails or the masseur who rubs the muscles; all of these work for the health of the subjects on whom they operate, and it would be absurd to say that the legislature intended the act to control them. If, however, they went beyond their peculiar lines of practice and encroached on the usages of physicians, they would be liable to the penalty.

Mr. Powell says that Dr. Spangler maintains further that the act is no more applicable to osteopaths than it is to the dentist who extracts teeth, the barber who shampoos and fringes the hair, the cleanser of the skin, the chiropodist who treats corns, the manicure who pares the nails or the masseur who rubs the muscles; all of these work for the health of the subjects on whom they operate, and it would be absurd to say that the legislature intended the act to control them. If, however, they went beyond their peculiar lines of practice and encroached on the usages of physicians, they would be liable to the penalty.

Mr. Powell says that Dr. Spangler maintains further that the act is no more applicable to osteopaths than it is to the dentist who extracts teeth, the barber who shampoos and fringes the hair, the cleanser of the skin, the chiropodist who treats corns, the manicure who pares the nails or the masseur who rubs the muscles; all of these work for the health of the subjects on whom they operate, and it would be absurd to say that the legislature intended the act to control them. If, however, they went beyond their peculiar lines of practice and encroached on the usages of physicians, they would be liable to the penalty.

Mr. Powell says that Dr. Spangler maintains further that the act is no more applicable to osteopaths than it is to the dentist who extracts teeth, the barber who shampoos and fringes the hair, the cleanser of the skin, the chiropodist who treats corns, the manicure who pares the nails or the masseur who rubs the muscles; all of these work for the health of the subjects on whom they operate, and it would be absurd to say that the legislature intended the act to control them. If, however, they went beyond their peculiar lines of practice and encroached on the usages of physicians, they would be liable to the penalty.

Mr. Powell says that Dr. Spangler maintains further that the act is no more applicable to osteopaths than it is to the dentist who extracts teeth, the barber who shampoos and fringes the hair, the cleanser of the skin, the chiropodist who treats corns, the manicure who pares the nails or the masseur who rubs the muscles; all of these work for the health of the subjects on whom they operate, and it would be absurd to say that the legislature intended the act to control them. If, however, they went beyond their peculiar lines of practice and encroached on the usages of physicians, they would be liable to the penalty.

Mr. Powell says that Dr. Spangler maintains further that the act is no more applicable to osteopaths than it is to the dentist who extracts teeth, the barber who shampoos and fringes the hair, the cleanser of the skin, the chiropodist who treats corns, the manicure who pares the nails or the masseur who rubs the muscles; all of these work for the health of the subjects on whom they operate, and it would be absurd to say that the legislature intended the act to control them. If, however, they went beyond their peculiar lines of practice and encroached on the usages of physicians, they would be liable to the penalty.

Mr. Powell says that Dr. Spangler maintains further that the act is no more applicable to osteopaths than it is to the dentist who extracts teeth, the barber who shampoos and fringes the hair, the cleanser of the skin, the chiropodist who treats corns, the manicure who pares the nails or the masseur who rubs the muscles; all of these work for the health of the subjects on whom they operate, and it would be absurd to say that the legislature intended the act to control them. If, however, they went beyond their peculiar lines of practice and encroached on the usages of physicians, they would be liable to the penalty.

Mr. Powell says that Dr. Spangler maintains further