FINANCIAL and COMMERCIAL

REMARKABLE CHANCES FOR SECURITIES INVESTMENTS

J. S. Bache & Co.'s Review of the Situation in the Stock Market—The Bad Currency Laws—New York City's Bond Sale Criticised.

NEW YORK, Aug. 24—Even a casual study of the price list of securities reveals a number of remarkable opportunities for the investor. For instance: Southern Pacific advanced eighty-three, yielding over seven per cent. income, a stock whose high price last fall when it was paying 12 per cent. less in dividends was 97 1/2, and a stock which, when normal conditions again prevail, will conservatively be selling at 120.

Union Pacific selling around 125, yielding 8 per cent. to the investor, high last fall at 135, and bring later on at least 200 when money conditions once more become normal.

In the same category may be mentioned: Atchafalpa, selling at 85, yielding 7.00 per cent.; Great Northern preferred at 120, yielding 5.83 per cent.; Baltimore & Ohio at 89, yielding 6.74 per cent.; St. Paul at 119, yielding 5.88 per cent.

Or, if one wishes to get into a more protected field, the preferred stocks of old established railroads furnish him relatively attractive inducements. Atchafalpa preferred will yield him 5.50 per cent.; Baltimore & Ohio preferred 4.60 per cent.; Southern Pacific preferred 6.36 per cent., and St. Paul preferred 4.86 per cent.

Among the industrials, American Smelting & Refining preferred (a stock which in bad times is not affected because of increased business at a fixed charge), selling now at a price giving returns of 7.37 per cent. per annum, or U. S. Steel preferred at 93, yielding 7.40 per cent. These are a few of the remarkable bargains.

And good bonds are selling at 6 to 10 points lower than two years ago, and must eventually rise again to old prices. In the stress of other and really less important things it should not be forgotten that we have on the whole the most antiquated and most inadequate system of currency that ever afflicted a civilized commercial community, and that if our currency were on a scientific basis, the money to move the crops would be furnished automatically, and instead of depleting actual cash reserves at a time when the whole world most sadly needs to have them undisturbed, we should have only current and normal needs to look forward to for the next four months.

We have, of course, the treasury to depend upon, but this is artificial and anything should ever happen there, and the bottom of the chest begin to show itself, it would be a sad time for business.

NEW YORK CITY CREDIT. The New York City bonds must now be issued at a 4 1/2 per cent. rate, the highest in 20 years. An opportunity of placing all the 4 per cent. bonds necessary in a popular loan at par has been neglected. There was every reason to believe that the special character of the bonds would have given them favor with the small investor.

There certainly could have been no more unwise move made as far as the city's credit was concerned, than to dole out the bonds at par in payment to contractors, leaving them to find their own market. The inevitable result came, and the bonds dropped to 95, establishing the apparent necessity of the 4 1/2 per cent. issue. It seems as though, before a 4 1/2 per cent. bond is actually issued, the committee should take counsel with competent financiers to see if there is any possible way of avoiding this, and the consequent deplorable shrinkage in price of 600 millions already out.

RUNNING A CHICKEN FARM.

Pick up ten acres of land somewhere, and don't be too particular about it. Many a man who might have made tens of thousands of dollars in the chicken business hasn't made a cent because he was too particular.

Pick up a house and barn and a team of horses with the land, if they happen to come to hand. Also, a couple of thousands in cash. You can then start to lay the roosters, and you can start to grow, and you will thus be realizing on the capital invested all the time.

If a hen refuses to set argue the point with her. If she is still obstinate spike her to the nest.

By turning the lamps in the incubators up or down you can have either cold or hot chicks. Buy your time by the carload. Own your own gravel bank. It's wonderful how much patent chicken food you can buy for a thousand dollars spot cash.

Keep whitewashing the coops. Keep doctoring the hens for the gapes. Own your own mill and grind your own corn meal.

Own your own oyster beds and furnish your own shucks.

The man with a diamond mine isn't in it. You have got a big thing—a rich thing—a fortune right under your thumb. Stick right to it, and after you have made several millions at it come out into public view and let us run for Governor of the State.

A landlord had eight apple trees around his mansion—around these eight houses of his tenants, around these ten pear trees; he wants to have the whole of the pear trees to himself and allot to each of his tenants one of his apple trees in their place. How must he construct a fence to accomplish this?
