Her cheeks flushed with color, and for the second her whole expression grew excited and serene. She looked at some martyr girl might who was ready to make her bold confession of faith and then to be thrown to the lions.

"Jack," she exclaimed, "there is something I want to say to you."

"Yes?" He turned and looked at her, smiling. "Ah! Patience," he murmured, "what is there left to say to each other now but—good-bye?"

"You are right," she winced as she spoke. Then she held out her hands, hoping that he would clasp them again, perhaps for the last time, but he drew back coldly. "Jack," she went on, "you need not be afraid. You or your father shall never be harmed by my instrumentality. The stolen papers shall be restored to you."

Jack shook his head. "Don't deceive me—don't deceive me again," he muttered. He had refrained from taking her hands. His young face had aged and hardened, his trust in her was dead.

"I am not deceiving you," cried Patience, "I am only speaking the truth. I swear to you, Jack—and Roger shall witness my oath—that the papers which might bring so much trouble on you shall be in your hands before a month is over. Jack, I swear it!"

She held up her cold, white hand and her voice and manner carried conviction with them.

Both men looked at her, bewildered and amazed. Roger was the first to speak. "Patience," he exclaimed, "what do you mean by this statement? Besides, it is impossible. The man who has got the papers will never restore them. He knows their value too well."

"Wait!" Patience smiled a faint and curious smile. "I am speaking the truth," she continued. "I am not promising anything I cannot perform. Jack, you needn't be afraid."

She turned and addressed herself to her lover, gazing at him with infinite tenderness, her eyes moist and shining.

"Patience"—Jack made a step forward—"how do you intend to get these papers?" He asked the question anxiously. She smiled once again, a dim, inscrutable smile, then shook her head. "Ah, Jack, that is my own secret," she murmured; then she walked quickly towards the door of the summer-house.

A second later it had closed behind her, and Roger and Jack were left alone to confront each other with startled faces and puzzled eyes.

It was a full hour before Stern rose to go, and this was only after another appointment to meet later in the evening had been made between the two men. Stern had repocketed his papers, after the other man had carefully inspected their appearance.

"Now, mind, you're to give up the drink for tonight," Stern said as he made his way out into the night street.

He took a cab to Park lane and presented himself at the newly-decorated mansion, and asked to see Baron Gelderstein. He was admitted almost at once to the Baron's study; it was as though he had been expected.

Baron Gelderstein shook his visitor genially by the hand, rising from the great desk at which he had been writing. The diamond merchant had but recently moved into his new house, and he was intensely proud of it. It seemed to him to be a preliminary to obtaining a footing

I have recommended them to others and they have found them just what they needed."

THE PARISIAN CLOCHE.

Newer than the mushroom and far smarter than any hat which we have had this season is the cloche, a French model, which Parisiennes have been wearing since early spring, and which is accounted the smartest shape in midsummer styles on this side of the Atlantic. The crown of this cloche or bell shape, as we Americans call it, is rather high, from four to five inches, and the brim about six inches wide. This slopes away from the crown and is a trifle wider in the back than in the front. Its trimmings vary, but it is seen at its best when trimmed with flowers and foliage or fine grasses. A combination of these masses and mauve-colored China astors trim the illustrated hat of fine milan in a golden brown shade. The grasses stand up around the crown and over the brim and are seemingly held in place by the wreath of flowers which encircles the crown.

mere vulgar pickpocket, nor did I get a chance of being one."

"How did you work it?"

Baron Gelderstein emitted great volumes of smoke from his mouth, lounging back in his chair, fat and ungainly.

"I was pleased to do Roger Selborne a bad turn," replied Stern, "for I've had my knife into him for some time back. As it happens, however, he didn't leave his coat in the hall as one might have imagined, but it got packed up with his travelling bag, and looked in a room with a lot of other luggage. Of course, I didn't know that he might not have taken out the papers and packed them up too; but he seemed to me to have forgotten all about them. Luckily," he smiled complacently and pulled at his long moustache—"I've got some influence with Mrs. Selborne, as she now is—Vivienne Strangeway, as she was. So I got her to steal the papers for me, and, like a good girl, she did just as she was told. Couldn't help herself, poor dear."

Baron Gelderstein glanced at his companion admiringly. "What a demon you are Stern!" he said. "Well?"

"Well," continued the other, "as luck would have it, Miss Vivienne hid the papers for the night in a place where fate would have it that I should find them. I'll explain that matter to you later on. It's in connection with the Blue Diamond. Any way, I got them, and I've been waiting for the first time he hesitated, he saw no necessity to explain to Baron Gelderstein why he had so abruptly taken his departure from Barrington Lodge. "And then," he continued, "as I had been quite successful, I invented important business to take me back to town before he could scribble a little note to Vivienne, just to tell her I'd got all I wanted, and would not bother her any more."

He paused, seemingly perfectly at his ease, inhaling with pleasure the smoke from his cigar, and sprawling in his chair. Yet much of this attitude was assumed. He was not forgetful of his promise to Patience that these very papers which he had now handed over to Baron Gelderstein should be placed in her hands on the day when she became his wife, and that in the meanwhile no harm should befall those who were threatened by the existence of these letters.

SUFFERING WOMEN

Need Just the Rich Red Blood Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Actually Make.

From girlhood to middle life the health and happiness of every woman depends upon her blood. If her blood is poor and watery she becomes weak, languid, pale and nervous. If her blood supply is irregular she suffers from head aches and back aches, and other unspeakable distress which only women know. At every stage of woman's life Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are her best friend, because they actually make the rich red blood which gives help and strength and tone to every organ of the body. They help a woman just when nature makes the greatest demand upon her blood supply.

Mrs. H. Gagnon, who for twenty years has been one of the best known residents of St. John, Que., says: "Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have been a blessing to me. I was weak, worn out and scarcely able to drag myself about. I suffered from headaches and dizziness, my appetite was poor, and to attempt housework left me utterly worn. I slept badly at night, and what sleep I got did not refresh me. For nearly three years I was in this condition, and was constantly taking medicine, but found no benefit from it. One of my neighbors, who had used Dr. Williams' Pink Pills with much benefit, advised me to try them. I did so, and the whole story is told in the words 'I am well again.' There are times yet when I take the pills for they seem to me a guarantee against the troubles from which so many women suffer."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills don't act on the bowels. They contain just the elements that actually make new blood and strengthen the nerves. That's why they cure anemia, indigestion, neuritis, rheumatism, lumbago, headaches, back aches and heart palpitation, and skin diseases like pimples and eczema. That is why they are the greatest help in the world for growing girls who need new blood and for women who are troubled with irregular health. Sold by all medicine dealers or by mail from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont., at 50 cts. a box or six boxes for $2.50.

Mrs. J. Talbot Rogers, of Napa (Cal.), is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. Adams, Glasgow, Carleton.

WHAT DOES IT MEAN?

Dr. Hamilton Gives a Full and Satisfactory Explanation.

Look at your tongue!

Sometimes it's heavily coated, sometimes it's clear and red.

Study this out and you'll find some interference with the functional activity of the body.

This means the bowels are not regular, the liver is sluggish and the blood is contaminated.

Strong cathartic pills act so destructively on the intestines as to provoke deadly sickness; this often frightens people from taking medicine when they badly need it. To the multitude of dangerous purgatives now on the market, Dr. Hamilton's Pills are a notable exception, they neither gripe, cause sickly feeling or headache, yet they cleanse and purify the entire system in one night. No other laxative acts with such mildness and certainty. Giving proper stimulus to the liver and kidneys, strengthening the stomach and lending valuable aid to digestion, it's small wonder that such marvelous results accompany Dr. Hamilton's Pills.

Mr. Geo. O'Hogarty, of Amherst, N. S., writes: "Last winter I worked in a lumber camp and neglected my health. I was dreadfully constipated and had a headache that fairly made me reel at times. I was sick and miserable, and hadn't the slightest ambition to work or stir around. I felt heavy and dull and had a bad taste in my mouth. I sent into the city for Dr. Hamilton's Pills, which I knew were good for my condition. They fixed me up very quickly and have kept me in good condition ever since. There are other men in the same camp that use Dr. Hamilton's Pills also. They say they wouldn't be without the pills for ten times their price."

Every dealer in the land sells Dr. Hamilton's Pills—25c. per box or five boxes for $1.00. By mail from N. C. Polson & Co., Hartford, Conn., U. S. A., and Kingston, Ont.

TO ASK BOURASSA TO ADDRESS CLUB

Canadian Club Decides to Invite Henri Bourassa to Speak Here.

The executive of the Canadian Club held a meeting yesterday afternoon in the Times office. The secretary reported that he had had a letter from Sir Thomas Shaughnessy in which he expressed his regret at inability to address the club in June. He promised, however, that he would come and added that he would let the secretary know a week or ten days before the date of his arrival.

Rev. Dr. Falconer wrote to say that, owing to matters connected with Queen's University which demanded his personal attention, he would be unable to come as he had intended the latter part of the present month. He hoped, however, to be here the latter part of July.

Another letter was received from Sir J. A. Sweetnam in which he said he could not fix a date to address the Canadian Club here as his tour of eastern Canada is by no means a certainty.

There was some discussion about inviting Saint H. Sing, a native Indian journalist, to address the meeting of the Canadian Club. Mr. Sing is now in Chicago. Nothing definite was decided on in the matter. The secretary was instructed to communicate with Henri Bourassa, inviting him to speak here at the end of the present month. The programme committee was authorized to make other arrangements if Mr. Bourassa is unable to come.

The membership of the Canadian Club is now nearly 400. The following were elected yesterday afternoon: Hon. J. G. Forbes, J. Simeon Armstrong, D. Hunt, W. J. Ingram, W. S. Barker, John H. Bond, Fred C. Macneil, J. A. Tilton, Geo. H. White (Sussex), M. Frank Irwin, R. S. Ritchie, Dr. F. C. Bonnell, E. W. Bonnell, R. C. Bonnell, Rev. R. A. Armstrong, J. Fraser Gregory, Dr. C. F. TEMPLE OF HONOR

Annual Session of Grand Temple of New Brunswick Held Last Evening.

The Grand Temple of Honor of N. B. met in their 40th annual session in Victoria Temple Hall last evening at 8 o'clock. The session was opened by G. W. Templar Blewett and P. G. W. T. Knowles conducted devotional exercises. About 30 delegates were present. The credential committee report 87 delegates eligible to seats.

Reps. Fred Johnson and Chas. Gallop were initiated and subordinate templars on motion were admitted.

The grand templar, in reviewing the year's work, felt much gratified with the progress made by the temples and sections and wished that the same good work might be carried along on the same lines in the coming year. In the section work there were gratifying results and a promise of better things in the temples. His earnest advice was perseverance and fidelity.

The grand worthy recorder reported three temples—Victoria, Alexandra and Milford with a membership of 160; four sections—Victoria, Alexandra, LaTour and Aberdeen—with a membership of 190—a gain of 87 during the year.

Cash receipts were $38.89; cash expended, $39.46; cash at beginning of term, $22.03; cash at end of term, $51.16.

The outlook for the Temple of Honor was never brighter and it requires only a little extra earnest effort to make it still more successful.

The grand worthy treasurer reported the balance on hand $51.16. The finance and audit committee reported the accounts correct.

The committee on the state of the order gave a lengthy report covering almost every department and bringing forward suggestions and amendments that would greatly benefit the order. The officers elect for the ensuing year are: G. T. Blewett, G. W. T.; F. H. Pidgeon, G. W. V. T.; W. C. Simpson, G. W. R.; C. B. Black, G. W. Treas.; G. H. Johnson, G. W. Usher; J. Sullivan, G. W. G.; Wm. Lewis, grand chaplain.

They were installed by the D. M. W. T. S. E. Logan. The semi-annual session next fall is to be with Victoria Temple, the annual session in the summer of 1908 with Alexandra Temple.

Rep. J. H. Pidgeon was returned as delegate to the supreme council.

J. K. Scammell, C. E., returned yesterday from Bethlehem (N. H.).
