"KID" NICHOLS' LATEST SCHEME.

The once famous pitcher, "Kid" Nichols, is erecting on the third floor of his bowling academy in Kansas City a device for reproducing every play in the baseball games the Blues play away from home. He will have a diamond painted on a large board and electric lights at each position. The lights will be so arranged as to show hod each field handles a hit ball, whether cleanly or whether he hobbles it. Lights will show the progress of men on bases. A gong will indicate each run, while a buzzer will signify a hit. The batting order will be posted, and a light will show what man is at the bat. Cards will show the balls and strikes as registered against players.

LUCK IN BATTING AVERAGES.

Batsmen will often bat in very hard luck—bat the ball hard, but, unfortunately, directly at some one. Luck enters largely into batting averages. The figures amount to little just at this stage of the game, when there has been so little baseball weather. The final batting percentages should never be based on anything less than 50 per cent. of the largest number of games played by any one batsman. It is not fair to the man who has participated in all of the games of a season to be rated with a man who has participated in but fifteen.

A ball team at Streator, Ill., has a player named Turnipseed. Naturally he plays in the outer garden.

COACHING FROM THE BENCH.

Just how much a manager on the bench should be allowed to talk to his ball players is a matter of considerable controversy among umpires or others. There is a wide difference between coaching and talking. Managers have no right at all to coach from the bench, but a perfect right to talk to the players. It is a question if it were not better that no one be allowed to sit on the bench who is not in uniform. Then the manager could coach to his heart's content if he desired to do so.

CRICKET

CRICKET FEAT IS UNPRECEDENTED

Many bowlers have performed the hat-trick in first-class cricket; several—the most noticeable of recent instances being Fielder's success in the last Gentlemen v. Players match—having taken all ten wickets in an innings; but the annals of the game revealed no such achievement as that of which Albert Trott, the Middlesex professional, was the hero at Lord's on May 22.

The famous Australian, who is now in his thirty-fifth year of age, brought his benefit match at headquarters to a sensational conclusion, gaining a victory for Middlesex by 166 runs. In getting seven wickets for twenty he took four wickets with four successive balls, and then finished up with three in three balls, his feat of doing the "hat trick" twice in one innings being quite without precedent in first-class matches. The ball used is to be suitably inscribed and kept in memory of the performance.

The second Somerset wicket fell at 74, and then came the collapse, Lewis, Mr. Poyntz, Mr. Woods and Robson going down in four balls, with the total at 77. Lewis was l. b. w. and Mr. Woods played on, the other two being clean bowled. Trott caught Mr. Lee at slip at 92, and then at 97 he did his second "hat trick," Mr. Mordaunt was easily caught at mid-off, the Rev. A. P. Wickham was bowled, and Mr. Bailey fell to the simplest of catches at mid-on. Up to last year Trott was the only cricketer to make a thousand duns and take 200 wickets in one season. He did this in 1899, and repeated the performance in 1900.

THE RING

FITZ IS AFTER JACK O'BRIEN.

Bob Fitzsimmons, a report from New York says, is out on the war path for Philadelphia Jack O'Brien, and says it will be a fight to the finish when they meet, no matter where it is. He wants to fight a duel with O'Brien for the latter's story to the effect that those two fights of theirs were fakes. "H'll knock 'is bloomin' 'ead h'off," declared Bob.

Mike Schreck and Jack Johnson were to have fought July 4, but Schreck has put off the fight indefinitely. He may never meet the colored heavyweight. There is a half promise that they will get together on Labor Day, but by that time Brusso and Squires will have had their fight and this may alter the situation considerably.

DECLINES TO MEET SHRUBB.

Billy Sherring has decided to don his spiked shoes once again, but not as a professional. Billy has applied for an amateur card and intends limiting his operations to games in and around Hamilton. Despite many tempting offers to meet Shrubb, Sherring declines to turn professional for this privilege alone.—Toronto News.

MR. BARRY MAY BE CHOSEN NEW ATTORNEY GENERAL

Provincial Government Caucus Held at Fredericton Yesterday---Dr. Pugsley Banquets Legislators and Departmental Heads.

Fredericton, N. B., June 6—A caucus of members of the legislature supporting the government, held in the executive council chambers this evening, was presided over by Mr. Barnes, of Kent. The only absentees were Messrs. Young, of Gloucester, who is ill; Farris and King, at present in the old country, and Whitehead, of York.

Premier Robinson came in for a most cordial reception and the proceedings were most harmonious. Matters in connection with the policy of the party were discussed, but just what conclusions were arrived at have not been made public.

Premier Robinson when asked for information concerning what took place, said that the vacant portfolio of attorney-general was not discussed, but he intimated that some action would likely be taken before members of the legislature left the city.

It is said that J. H. Barry, K. C., of this city, stands a good chance of securing the position. Some matters still remain to be discussed, and it is understood another meeting will be held tomorrow.

At the conclusion of the caucus, ex-Premier Pugsley entertained the members of the legislature supporting the government and head officials of the several departments at a farewell dinner at the Queen hotel. It was a most successful function, and everything passed off pleasantly.

There were more than fifty guests, and not a vacant seat. The table was arranged in the form of a T, and was beautifully decorated with smilax, carnations and apple blossoms.

Dr. Pugsley, who made an ideal chairman, had on his right Premier Robinson and Speaker Osman, and on his left F. B. Carvell, M. P. for Carleton, and Hon. C. H. LaBillois. Surveyor-General Sweeney occupied the vice-chair, having A. B. Copp on his left and Deputy Receiver-General Babbitt on his right.

A full course dinner was served in Landlord McCaffrey's best style, and came in for ample justice at the hands of the guests.

Hanlon's orchestra, from a position in the hall, furnished an excellent programme of music during the progress of the dinner.

The health of the King was proposed by the chairman and drank with musical honors.

Hon. Dr. Pugsley also proposed the health of Premier Robinson. He made a witty speech and expressed the opinion that Mr. Robinson would fill the position more successfully that he (Pugsley) could ever have done. He said that the premiership of New Brunswick was no mean position, and it was the proudest moment of his life when he accepted it. Circumstances over which he had no control made it necessary for him to tender his resignation and his action in recommending Mr. Robinson as his successor had met with the hearty approval of the people of the province.

Premier Robinson responded to the toast in an eloquent speech, which was frequently punctured with applause. He paid an eloquent tribute to the work of Dr. Pugsley, and expressed the opinion that he would soon be filling a high position in the great councils of the nation. He, Robinson, would follow the same progressive lines which had marked the administration of his predecessor, and it would always be his aim to give the people good, sound, honest, economical government. He felt that New Brunswick was on the eve of great development in the way of transportation and he felt sure that St. John was destined to be the great winter port of Canada. Moncton also, he thought, had a wonderful future before it.

The vice-chairman proposed the health of F. B. Carvell, M. P., and that gentleman responded in an able speech, which was applauded again and again. He paid an eloquent tribute to the work of Dr. Pugsley, and predicted that he would soon be occupying a very high position in the public life of Canada.

Hon. F. J. Sweeney, in an interesting speech, proposed the health of ex-Premier Pugsley, and the company joined in singing For He's a Jolly Good Fellow.

Dr. Pugsley, replying to the toast, said that he did not consider himself worthy of all the kind words that had been spoken concerning him. He had been a member of the government since 1885, and had done his best to advance the interests of the province. He believed that the affairs of the province during the past twenty-three years had been honestly and economically administered and the government would be sustained when next it appealed for the support of the people. He thought it was decidedly in the interests of the country that the government so ably led by Sir Wilfrid Laurier should also be maintained in power, for it had done much to advance the interests of the country.

He thought that New Brunswick was on the threshold of a great era of prosperity and in this connection he made mention of the railway development that is now going on in the province.

In conclusion, Dr. Pugsley spoke of the pleasant relations which always existed between himself and his supporters in the legislature, and assured the latter that he would always maintain a friendly interest in their work.

Short addresses were made by Hon. G. F. Hill, Urbain Johnson, G. W. Allen, M. P. P., and Geo. N. Babbitt, deputy receiver-general. It was after 3 o'clock when the gathering broke up.

The Wesleyan this week makes its first appearance under the guidance of its new editor, Rev. Dr. D. W. Johnson, M. A.

ORCHARD'S CONFESSION GROWS MORE HORRIBLE

His Victims Now Number Eighteen---On the Stand Yesterday He Swore Moyer, Haywood and Pettibone Planned the Work and Praised and Paid Him When it Was Done.

Boise, Idaho, June 6.—Harry Orchard crowned his admissions of grave crimes today when, continuing his case against William D. Haywood, he made a detailed confession of the murder of Frank Steunenberg by an infernal machine that directly opens the way for his own conviction and execution for the mortal offense. He swore that the assassination of Steunenberg was first suggested by Haywood, was plotted by Haywood, Moyer, Pettibone and himself, was financed by Haywood and was executed by himself after the failure of an attempt, in which Jack Simpkins had participated.

Orchard lifted the total of his own murdered victims to eighteen, detailed the circumstances under which he tried to murder former Governor Peabody, Judge Goodard, Judge Gabbert, General Sherman Bell, Dave Moffatt and Frank Herne.

Then under cross-examination, Orchard confessed guilt of the sordid social crimes of deserting his young child and wife in Ontario, going to British Columbia with Hattie Simpson, the wife of another man, and committing bigamy by marrying a third woman at Cripple Creek.

Through the shocking details of murder plots, stories of secret bomb-making and tales of man-hunts with sawed-off shotguns and infernal machines as weapons, the witness went on in the same, quiet, off-hand manner that marked his demeanor yesterday. His voice dropped to lower keys as the pitiful stories of the long hunt for Steunenberg narrowed down to the last day and he told of the race from the hotel to the home to beat his victim with the death-trap and the meeting in the evening gloom as the victim walked unconsciously to his doom.

Through it all he winced but once, and that was when the defense made him name his six sisters and his one brother and give their residences in Ontario and New York.

The defense fought the story with a multiplicity of objections and succeeded in heading off an attempt to tell the story of the murder of Arthur Collins at Telluride and temporarily shut out the contents of a telegram received and a telegram sent by Orchard after his arrest. Except for this the state managed to get in its story intact.

The state today began its corroboration of Orchard's crimson tale by producing the lead casing of the Peabody bomb. Orchard identified it, swore that he brought it from Canon City to Denver and then on to Wallace, where he gave it to a man named Cunningham. It was thrown into the river ,and the state promises later to prove its recovery.

Haywood and his kinsfolk listened quietly to the long recital and about their first show of feeling was one of amusement when Attorney Richardson began his onslaught and brought out Orchard's domestic crimes.

There were the same precautions and the same armed guards today to protect Orchard and the same court room scenes except that among the spectators the women to men were as two to one. There was another rush for admittance and the doors of the court had to be closed at both sessions.

Orchard finished his direct examination at 2.35 o'clock and the cross-examination only reached to the Coeur d'Alene days of 1899 when the court rose. The cross-examination will be continued at 9 o'clock tomorrow.

Harry Orchard this morning on the stand continued his story of almost unparalleled crimes. First he gave the names of several persons he met in San Francisco when he went there to kill Fred. Bradley, formerly manager of the Bunker Hill and Sullivan mines in the Coeur d'Alene. Orchard, part of the time, was known as Barry. On returning to Denver wearing a soldier's uniform, he called up Pettibone by telephone and told him Bradley was alive but had lost his sight, and probably would be deaf the remainder of his life.

"Pettibone said that was better than if I had killed him outright, that Bradley would be a living example,' 'continued the witness. Orchard said he asked for money and received $125 from Pettibone.

Orchard said Haywood next asked him "to go to work on Judge Gabbert, of the supreme court of Colorado."

"He said Judge Gabbert," Orchard went on, "had been rendering decisions against Moyer, whom we were trying to get out of Telluride on habeas corpus. I went to Judge Gabbert's house with Steve Adams and a shotgun, but we did not see the judge. Haywood also wanted us to try again at Governor Peabody, who was about to be re-elected. Steve Adams, Billy Ackman and I made a bomb. We put it under the sidewalk at 138 street and Grant avenue in Denver. The governor walked along here every morning.

The passage of two coal wagons as the governor walked over the spot prevented Adams and Orchard from pulling the wire, and the bomb was thrown into the river. Attempts to shoot Peabody likewise failed. Orchard said Haywood also wanted him to shoot Frank Hearne, of the Colorado Fuel & Iron Company, and Dave Moffatt, president of the First National Bank, who were behind the fight against the federation. He and Adams had no chance to kill these men.

"We were also to get after Judge Goddard who, Haywood said, was instrumental in defeating the eight-hour bill, which had been declared unconstitutional," Orchard continued.

"At the fall elections, Peabody was succeeded by Governor MacDonald. Peabody went to live at Canon City, Colorado. Moyer, Haywood and Pettibone all told me to keep after Peabody. It was arranged that I should become a life insurance solicitor."

Orchard declared he got recommendations for that position with one of the big agencies in Denver from Mr. Hawkins, an attorney, and partner of E. F. Richardson, one of the attorneys now representing Haywood, and F. J. Sullivan, president of state federation of labor.

Orchard said he decided to prepare a bomb to place beneath Peabody's bedroom window at Canon City.

The state here produced in evidence the lead casing of the bomb. It was the size of a two gallon can. Orchard identified it. He said he had shown the casing to Pettibone in Denver and loaded it in the basement of Pettibone's store, the latter assisting him. Thirty pounds of giant powder were used.

Orchard declared that Pettibone gave him $100 before he went to Canon City with the bomb, but that an explanation he had jokingly made in response to a question from a traveling companion who had heard a clock ticking in the grip with the bomb caused Pettibone to suggest that the attempt be deferred.

As Pettibone wanted something pulled off before the convention to show for the money spent, he and Orchard made a bomb for Judge Gabbert and placed it in a vacant lot which the judge daily crossed. A wire was left outside of the bomb, to which a pocket-book was to be attached, so that anyone picking up the purse would upset the sulphuric acid inside the bomb.

"We tried one day to fasten the purse, but Judge Gabbert came too fast, and we had to leave it alone," said Orchard.

"Pettibone had to go next day to Salt Lake to attend the convention of the federation. I was afraid to touch the old bomb, so I prepared a new one. As Judge Gabbert started out the next morning, I rode ahead of him on a bicycle and fastened the pocket-book to the wire. I rode away, heard an explosion an hour afterwards. A man named Wally was killed. Judge Gabbert had passed without noticing the pocket-book.

Coburg, Ont., June 6.—Alfred Horsley, cheesemaker at the factory in North Brighton, left the country about 1896. He is the chief witness in the Boise, Idaho, murder trial under the name of Orchard. Horsley was born of respectable parents who kept a garden farm about two miles from Wooler. After working on the farm in his younger days Horsley became a cheese-maker at Wooler, going afterwards to the Brighton factory. Horsley was looked upon as a good cheese-maker and established a name as a hustler. He had an off hand manner and made friends easily but, as one who knew him says, "he did not improve upon acquaintance."

Horsley left the country with a woman who later returned to her husband. His wife was left deserted and has lived at Wooler up to this spring, where she has supported herself by working in evaporator factory and for farmers. She has one little girl.
