CHAPTER XV.

AN UNCONSCIOUS RIVAL.

The level sunset light was pouring through the tall lancets of the tapestry room as Basil entered it, making three long lanes of brightness and throwing the rest of the room into shadow. For a moment, with the sun dazzling in his eyes, he thought the room was empty, then he saw a white figure in a deep, high-backed chair, and he came forward with a quickened step. During the past few days, if he had not actually avoided Isobel, he had at least not sought her society. Short of leaving Stormont, it was the only course left to him if he were to keep his word to Sir David, which with every day was proving a more galling yoke. But to find Isobel alone for once! It was too much to ask that he should deny himself these few minutes, this brief chance which he had not sought. Yet he seemed to have nothing better to say than:

"So you've got back again?" after all, his tongue was tied on the one subject on which he would fain have spoken.

"As you see," said Isobel. She had pleaded headache as an excuse for silence on the homeward drive, while she had tried to disentangle her thoughts as like a recurring wave the vision of that hot, listening room with its rows of sleek heads and stolid faces had returned to her bringing with it that strange confusing sensation which seemed to blur her very identity.

"Do you want any tea?" she now asked in a duty voice. "If so, I'm afraid you'll have to ring for it. We were so tired and thirsty when we got home, we drank it all up."

"I don't mind. It doesn't matter," said Conyers hastily. He didn't want the servants fussing about. "Of course, you were in Duncard this afternoon. By the bye, who were the two?"

"Only mother and I and Mr. Ashe. Apparently he likes an occasional change carelessness. "I don't seem to see him somehow as an amateur school inspector. How did the poor little beggars comfort themselves? Speeches are bad enough on breaking-up day, but to jaw at them at the beginning of term!"

"Oh, they stared and stared till I think they must have—I can't get the word—with her little perplexed frown."

"Hypnotized you," suggested Conyers. "Yes, I suppose that's the word, though I am not sure if I know what it means exactly. Anyhow they stared until I felt as if I was losing hold somehow, as if I wasn't quite sure who I was, though."

As she spoke she drew herself up from the depths of her chair and stood erect, stretching out her arms with an abandon which was a little more frank than convention prescribes.

"What do you mean?" asked Conyers, stirred by something in her tone.

"I think you know what I mean," said Isobel, mutinously; then flushing as she recollected herself, and hastily let her arms fall. Her eyes followed the last long fading sun ray which touched her portrait, showing the face wan amid the shadows. "Now, of you can ever think of me without thinking of her. I'll lay your thinking just now; she wouldn't have done that, just as she wouldn't say or do half the things which I do."

"No, I don't think she would," said Conyers, smiling, his eyes following hers, and then passing from the pale, pictured face to the brilliant living one before him. Like the waning moon fading to a white cloud before the morning sun, his memories of the little cousin of these old days seemed dwindling and paling fast in the presence of the radiant young creature, whose every changing mood, even her present somewhat thorny one, had its own freshness and delight.

"You're honest at least," cried Isobel, drawing in a quick breath. "She can't account of the look or the tone in which

MODEL OF CLIPPED BEAVER WITH PLUMES.

Clipped beavers in black, navy blue and the fashionable browns, will be worn this season for semi-dressy wear, trimmed with ribbons, flowers, ostrich plumes and the various other feathered effects classed as novelties. The high crowned broad brimmed shape is perhaps the most attractive, the brim drooping slightly all around, a little wider in the back than the front, and the crown from three to four inches high. These hats are not worn on the back of the head as the summer model of this type was, but are tilted a little to the front and the right side by an inch bandeau, trimmed simply with maline of a color to match the hair. No matter what the color of the hat may be this bandeau trimming is always selected to match the coiffure. The crown of this hat is trimmed with brown satin ribbon, the hat being of this same brown tone, and two very full medium length brown plumes are posed at the side beneath a bunch of white roses, the tips drooping backward and over the back brim. The under brim of this hat is faced with brown satin.

big, heavy paper-cutter, in shape like a Moorish scimitar, and made a passionate lunge toward the portrait.

Shaken though she was by excitement, by emotions which she could not understand nor control, she would not have touched the canvas, but a tall figure suddenly stepped between her and it, Sir David, who had just returned, had entered the room unnoticed. He caught her wrist, and flung her back with such violence that Basil started forward with an angry exclamation.

"How dare you?" cried Sir David, his eyes blazing fierce from a white, haggard face. "You shall not touch my child—my Isobel—all that I have left of her—now!"

Policeman Gosselin, of Carleton, received a telegram from Haverhill (Mass.) yesterday, stating that his daughter Bessie was ill with fever and was not expected to live. He left for Haverhill (Mass.), yesterday morning. Policeman Lee is doing duty on west side until his return.

The funeral of Mrs. N. B. Smith will take place at 2:30 p. m. Saturday from her late residence, 53 Hazen street.

town Grammar school. The young couple are deservingly popular and begin life together with the best wishes of their friends as was shown by the many useful and costly presents which they received.

Heart Strength

Heart Strength, or Heart Weakness, means Nerve Strength, or Nerve Weakness—nothing more. Positively, not one weak heart in a hundred is, in itself, actually diseased. It is almost always a hidden tiny little nerve that really is all at fault. This obscure nerve—the Cardiac, or Heart Nerve—simply needs, and must have, more power, more stability, more controlling, more governing strength. Without that the Heart must continue to fail, and the stomach and kidneys also have these same controlling nerves.

This clearly explains why, as a medicine, Dr. Shoop's Restorative has in the past done so much for weak and ailing hearts. Dr. Shoop first sought the cause of all this painful, palpitating, suffocating heart distress. Dr. Shoop's Restorative—this popular prescription—is alone directed to these weak and wasting nerve centers. It builds; it strengthens; it offers real, genuine heart help. If you would have strong hearts, strong digestion, strengthen these nerves—re-establish them as needed, with

THE HARTLAND FIRE

Court of Inquiry Comes to Conclusion That It Was of Incendiary Origin.

Hartland, N. B., Aug. 15.—The fire enquiry is closed, to be resumed next Wednesday. Among the witnesses examined today were Sheriff Foster, Reid Chase, W. D. Keith and Robert Goodwin.

It has been established beyond any doubt that the fire was of incendiary origin. This much the court officials give out for publication.

—Mr. McKeown left en route for St. John today and he told your correspondent that the evidence conclusively proves that the fire was set.

Some comment was occasioned yesterday on it becoming known that U. S. Consul Judge Wilrich, owing to his being dissatisfied with the place assigned to him at the supper given by the mayor and corporation to his excellency the governor general, left the Union Club on Wednesday evening before the repast commenced. Judge Wilrich declined to discuss the matter.

WEDDINGS

Madill-Rowley.

On Wednesday evening at the home of W. A. Rowley, his sister Alice Maud Rowley, was united in marriage to Gilbert B. Madill. Rev. S. Howard performed the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Madill will reside at 225 Brussels street.

Murphy-Wakely.

In Halifax on Wednesday, in St. Patrick's church, Harry C. Murphy, maritime provinces traveler for the W. K. Brook Company, Ltd., of Montreal, was united in marriage to Miss Madge Wakely, of Halifax.

Wright-Horsman.

A very pretty wedding took place at the United Baptist church, Grand Falls (N. B.), on the 14th inst., when Mamie Janet Horsman was married to Frederic Curry Wright. The ceremony was performed by the pastor of the church, the Rev. H. Judson Perry, M. A., B. D., in the presence of friends and invited guests. The wedding march was played by the groom's aunt, Miss Bessie C. Wright, of Andover. The groom was attended by his brother, Herman B. Wright, while the bride's sister, Miss Beatrice Horsman was bridesmaid. Little Misses Alice Horsman and Inez Wright, sisters of the bride and groom, were flower girls. The bride was given away by her uncle, J. T. Horsman, B. A., of Gagetown.

WHERE DOES THE PAPER GO?

The first question asked by a general advertiser. The Telegraph and Times reach that class of people who subscribe and agree to pay for the reading privilege. These papers go first hand from the publishers by carrier and not through street boys to be left in office or store by purchaser after reading. Common sense teaches that every paper passed into homes direct will be read. The Telegraph and Times are home papers. Do they contain your advertisement?

GENERAL BOOTH IS COMING HERE

Head of Salvation Army Will be in St. John September 21-22-23.

General William Booth, of the Salvation Army, will be in St. John Sept. 21, 22 and 23, and has chosen this city as the place to make the first address of his forthcoming tour of the maritime provinces and the United States. He will be sure of a warm welcome here.

Col. Pugmire is now in the city making arrangements for the coming visit of the head of the army to Canada. The general will arrive by steamer at Rimouski, and according to the present programme will reach St. John Saturday Sept. 21 or possibly on the night of Friday, the 20th. Saturday night will be given over to a meeting with the soldiers and officers of this command and neighboring districts, which it is expected will take place in the new citadel, Charlotte street, as that building will probably be near enough to completion by that time. The Sunday meetings will be held in the Opera House. The general will preach at 11 o'clock and 7 p. m. and will lecture at 3 o'clock on The Secret of the Success of the Salvation Army. Lieut. Governor Tweddle will preside at the lecture.

The programme for Monday has not yet been definitely decided on as Col. Pugmire is awaiting a message from the general through Commissioner Combes. Among those who will accompany the general will be Commissioner Combes, Col. Lawley, A. D. C., Commissioner Nicol, editor in chief of the army publications; Brigadier Howell and Colonel Pugmire. General Booth will leave this city on Monday and will spend the 24th in Halifax. On the 25th he will address a meeting in Moncton at which Premier Robinsom will preside. While in the railway city the general has been invited to be the guest of the premier. On leaving Moncton the general will pass through St. John on the morning of the 26th on his way to Boston, and after a six weeks tour of the states he will return to England.

HEARTY FAREWELL FOR PRINCIPAL FALCONER

Halifax Citizens Present Him With Handsome Gifts on Eve of His Departure for Toronto.

Halifax, N. S., Aug. 15.—A large meeting of Halifax citizens was held tonight to honor Dr. R. A. Falconer, on the eve of his departure from Halifax, and to present him with testimonials of their regard. The chair was occupied by Governor Fraser. Dr. Falconer and Mrs. Falconer were presented with a magnificent solid silver service and to Dr. Falconer himself, was given a gold watch and chain. Speeches were made by Archbishop McCarthy, Bishop Worrell, Deputy Mayor Johnson, Premier Murray and by representatives of all the colleges in Nova Scotia. One of the addresses was made by Judge Snider, of Hamilton.

President Falconer made a touching and effective reply. Speaking specially to his colleagues from the college represented he said: "Ours should be a fellowship of those whose primary interest is not elevation of our country through inculcating in our students worthy ideals of life, both as men and as citizens. Let us aim at the noblest in our work. I hope that in Canada there may soon arise a type of educational manhood and womanhood that will have its own distinction among national types. In time this dominion will have in addition to the present colleges great universities equipped amply for research and professional study to which students will come, even from abroad. In the meantime let us in all our efforts be thorough and honest, avoiding show and aiming at reality."

Dr. Falconer leaves on Saturday morning for Pictou, where he will spend Sunday with his father, Rev. Dr. A. Falconer.

A MATTER OF ECONOMY.

If the thousand and one things about the house that make money go fast—the little things that don't seem to count—were bunched together in one, it would not be so difficult to stop the leak. But they are usually such trivial things that it takes more than a sharp and ever-watchful eye to keep expenses down.

In flour, for instance. We buy a flour that our grocer recommends. He doesn't know for what particular purpose we want it—and it sells pretty well—so he sends it to our homes. The flour may be good, but perhaps it takes a long time to knead. Or it may take more flour to make a batch of bread than it ought to. Or we may want it for cakes and pastry and it won't give the light, appetizing cake, or short crust in the pie that we expect. Most of us have found trouble of this kind.

If we had time to compare one brand with another, some household leaks would be avoided, and some household tempers would disappear. There is a big difference in flour. Some flour turns out a perfect baking, seems to do equally well for bread and pastry.

Blended Flour—made from Ontario fall wheat and Manitoba spring wheat, blended in just the right proportions—makes baking a pleasure, and is winning unexampled favor in the kitchens of careful housekeepers. It makes better bread, lighter cakes, more wholesome pastry and biscuits.

Note it, good housekeepers, and use Blended Flour next time.

HALIFAX ELECTION CASES

Hearing of Cross Petitions Set Down for September 3.

Halifax, N. S., Aug. 15.—The court to hear election cases (Judges Townsend and Russell), heard a motion today by H. Mellish, K. C., to set the cross petitions of Roche vs. Borden, and Carney vs. O'Mullin down for trial on Sept. 3. R. E. Harris, K. C., moved for a later date, stating that Mr. Borden had made arrangements previously for a tour from Halifax to Vancouver. He asked that a date in November be fixed. The court filed judgment setting the cross petitions down for trial on Sept. 3, the same date as the cases of Hetherington vs. Roche and Carney.

W. H. TRUEMAN RESIGNS

His Resignation as Exequy Court Reporter is Rumored.

It is reported that Walter H. Trueman has resigned the position of equity court reporter, which he has held for the last twelve years.

When asked by telephone Thursday Hon. C. W. Robinson, who is in Fredericton, said he was unable to give any information as the matter had not been brought to the notice of the provincial government, nor is it known why Mr. Trueman has resigned. The position is worth $600 or $700 a year.

Rochester, N. Y., Aug. 14.—Adèle, the defeated Canadian challenger for Canada's cup, will be sailed across the lake to Toronto as soon as the weather permits. Speaking of the races, Skipper Jarvis said this morning: "There was nothing to it from the beginning. Adèle is a beautiful boat and a fast boat, but she is not the equal of Seneca in any point of sailing. Seneca is a wonderful boat and was sailed

Practical Temperance

Pabst Blue Ribbon Beer is brewed as a temperance beverage—not as a stimulant.

As the consumption of beer increases, the sale of strong drink decreases. Beer is primarily a food, and its regular use satisfies the natural craving for a mild stimulant and prevents the desire for intoxicating liquors.

Pabst Blue Ribbon The Beer of Quality is richer in food values and lower in the percentage of alcohol than any other beer. The Pabst Eight-Day Malting Process retains all of the food values of the barley, while the Pabst Perfect Brewing Process transmits them to the beer in their most wholesome and digestible form.

When ordering beer, ask for Pabst Blue Ribbon.
