PLAYS AND PLAYERS

The Lyceum Stock Comp opened an indefinite engagement at the Opera House last night under most auspicious conditions. The theatre was crowded to capacity the S. R. O. sign being exhibited early.

David Belasco's great play The Charity Ball was the vehicle chosen to introduce the talented organization N. L. Jelenko has gathered about him and at the end of the production there was but one verdict possible—i. e. that the Lyceum Stock Company is easily the best organization of the kind seen here this season.

Much was expected of Mr. Jelenko. When he was last seen here as a valued member of the first Daily Stock Company he made a host of friends by his splendid work and that those friends have not forgotten him by the evidence in the hearty applause which greeted his first appearance last evening. That it is not his intention to trade on past successes was apparent to all who attended last night's performance for he has surrounded himself with a company that is capable from start to finish and if he follows out his avowed policy of producing the best in drama there is no reason why his present engagement should not prove a highly successful one.

The Charity Ball, as a play, is too well known and has too often proved its right to be regarded as one of the very best to be subject to criticism. It is a good example of the Belasco art at its best and highest, abounding in bright, sparkling dialogue, strong situations and delightful climaxes. It is withal subtle and artistic and demands much of any company. Consequently it is not a piece capable of meritorious production by an average company and the fact that the Lyceum players scored a success in it is a sufficient proof of their excellence.

All the members of the company acquitted themselves well last evening. There was a slight nervousness apparent during the first act but the production was not spoiled as the situation was easily relieved by the splendid work of Mr. Stepling as Judge Peter Knox and Miss Lee as Mrs. DePeyster.

In the second act the nervousness was gone while the third act, which by the way, is an exceptionally strong one, was a veritable triumph for Mr. Powell, Mr. Jelenko, Miss Hicks, Miss Atkinson, Miss Goodall and Miss Hollis. In the last act Miss Hollis and Mr. Butler had their opportunity and did excellent work.

The Charity Ball does not depend for its success upon the work of one or two actors but requires a capable cast throughout. All the units must work well with each other and when this is achieved, as it certainly was last evening the result is an artistic delight.

Frank Powell, the leading man of the company, has been here with Harkins, and as Rev. John Van Buren, last night he was at his best. In his scenes with Ann Cruger (Miss Hicks), he was very much the man, while his tender solicitude toward poor Phylys Lee (Miss Atkinson), was delightfully shown. In his stronger scene with his brother Dick (Mr. Jelenko) in act 3 he succeeded in every particular.

Mr. Jelenko was especially good as Dick and his passionate outburst in act 3—when his brother—in order to secure justice for Phylys intimated that their sister might be in similar plight, was in itself sufficient to stamp him as a splendid actor.

Mr. Steppling was excellently cast as Judge Knox, while Mr. Butler as Alec contributed much of the comedy.

Mr. Hockey and Mr. Baumann were convincing in minor character roles, while Mr. Aikin and Mr. Nealand had "bits."

Miss Eleanor Hicks, in the role of Ann Cruger, was at her best in her scenes with Mr. Powell. She gave an excellent portrayal of a role in which many illustrious actresses have been seen and there is no doubt that she will be a favorite here.

Miss Juliette Atkinson, in the emotional role of Phylys scored heavily. In her highly emotional lines in act 3 she was magnificent, while her lighter work showed careful shading and artistic treatment. Miss Goodall as the blind mother, was convincing in a difficult role. She sustained the character evenly throughout and showed her ability beyond question.

A special word of praise is due to Miss Jeanne Hollis in the ingenue role of Bess. Her finale to the auction scene in act 2 was one of the most artistic effects of the evening. Although this little lady has had a comparatively brief experience, she brims over with natural ability and vivacity and is destined to win high recognition in her profession.

Miss Lee, as Mrs. De Peyster, did character work of a high order.

Scenically the play was magnificently presented, and great credit is due to H. C. Aiken, the scenic artist. The reception room setting was particularly elaborated and evoked much applause, while all the settings were in excellent harmony.

The costuming was exquisite, the ladies displaying some particularly handsome creations.

The Opera House lobby was decorated for the occasion and for half an hour before the curtain rise the orchestra was stationed in the gallery over the entrance.

The Charity Ball will be repeated this and tomorrow evenings and at Wednesday souvenir matinee, when souvenir photos of Frank Powell will be given to each lady in attendance.

Blue Jeans is underlined for the latter half of the week.

GOOD VAUDEVILLE

Excellent Performance at the Vaudeville Theatre Last Evening--Audience Was Large.

There was a large audience at the vaudeville house last night and the new bill for the week met with a hearty reception.

The orchestral offering and the moving pictures were up to the usual high standard, a fact which the audience were not slow to acknowledge.

Walsh and Thorne's sketch, "Our Country Neighbors," is really bright and witty.

Dale and Delmont's musical comedy turn was somewhat above the average, the music being well rendered and the comedy crisp and clean. They were followed by Mardo, the clown juggler who is beyond doubt a strong feature in the programme. His work from start to finish is clever and in most cases original, the juggling with rubber balls being particularly good.

Earle and Bartlett's travesty sketch evoked a good deal of laughter but was inclined to be a little boisterous. The Irish comedy was good and kept the audience in a state of constant merriment.

Thomas E. Clifford's baritone solos were nicely rendered and he was twice obliged to respond to encores.

The double trapeze turn presented by Valding and Davis is easily the best part of the programme. In sustaining their title as "Kings of the double trapeze," they more than made good. Every movement was graceful, every detail perfect and the act should be a head-liner at any time.

The illustrated songs were well received and a second series of bioscope films brought the evening to a close.

THAW TRIAL STAGED.

(Kalamazoo Gazette)

One "dramatization" of the Thaw trial has been summarily suppressed.

Four young "gentlemen" belonging to Amherst College went over to Holyoke the other day and invaded the stage of the Empire theatre on amateur night with a volunteer dramatic version—"unexpurgated," as they significantly announced—of New York's cause celebre.

The impersonator of Mr. Jerome proceeded to put the youth introduced as Evelyn Nesbit Thaw through an "unexpurgated" cross-examination of such vital double meanings and flippant downright obscenities that the women in the audience began to file out of the hall, and then the impromptu second part commenced.

The two main offenders were soundly thrashed by the manager of the house, and the exit of the entire quartette into outer darkness was then accelerated by a fusillade of well planted kicks which, the dispatch pleasantly and we hope accurately says, "have since made a sitting posture refined cruelty." The expulsion from the university of the four blackguards brought the trilogy to an appropriate grand finale, and forms a piece of good presumptive evidence that the faculty of the institution have a commendable regard for the moral sanitation of their temple of the higher education.

For those who have been hopefully moralizing on the publicity given the Thaw trial as conveying a salutary objective lesson on the wages of sin and the goal of the rake's progress, its effect on the minds of these promising collegians is a little discouraging. For them apparently this whole ugly tragedy of gilded vice, wrecked womanhood, murder, and a coming denouement in the death chamber or the madhouse, was only the inspiration of a smutty jest.

NOTES.

Klaw and Erlanger will present Ben Hur at the Jamestown Exposition.

The Robinson Opera Company, which did such good business here in the early winter, is still "standing 'em up" at every performance through the New England states. Last night they opened an engagement at Fall River, Mass., to a large audience, and will play there all this week. Manager McAdam has made several additions to the company since leaving St. John, and his energy is being rewarded with big patronage.

Augustus Thomas is writing a play dealing with Mexican life, for Dustan Fornum, well known in St. John, who made such a hit this season in "The Virginian." By the way, there is a possibility that St. John theatre goers may have an opportunity to see "The Virginian," as I hear it is to be included in the repertoire of the Lyceum Stock Company, which opened in the Opera House last night.

James O'Neill in "The Count of Monte Cristo," is touring the Southern States.

Richard Mansfield, if his health permits, will sail from New York for Europe on May 4. His next season will commence in October in Montreal, which city Mr. Mansfield visits for the first time in five years.

Archbishop Bruchesi, who placed the Theatre Nouveautes, Montreal, under the ban of the church on account of a performance of "La Rafale" being given there, has revoked his interdiction on receiving the pledge of the theatre management that no more immoral plays will be produced there. In future all plays billed for the "Nouveautes" will be submitted to a committee of censors before they are produced.

London, Ontario, is to have a big fair this summer to be known as the "Great Western Fair of Canada." There will be free vaudeville and grand stand attractions. Knabenshue and his airship will be the feature attraction.

The Metropolitan Opera Company's season in New York has not been a financial success. It is estimated that the withdrawal of Salome was responsible for a loss of $100,000.

Roselle Knott, in "Alice Sit By The Fire," who is booked at the Opera House during the summer, is now in Colorado.

Henrietta Crossman, in "All of a Sudden Peggy," made almost a record jump last week. She closed at Albany, N. Y., on Thursday and opened in Denver, Colorado, last night.

Allan Doone, in "The Kerry Gow," closed a week's engagement in the Academy of Music, Montreal, on Saturday night.

Robert Mantell, in Shakespeare repertoire, is touring Pennsylvania.

The Myrkle-Harder Company closed in Glace Bay on Saturday night. They play Sydney the first three nights of this week, and finish the week in New Glasgow.

Kirk Brown, who follows the Lyceum Stock Company at the Opera House on May 6, is in Fall River this week.

Jere McAuliffe continues in Halifax this week.

A theatregoer of East Allentown, Pa., threw a lemon at an actress upon the stage at the Lyric Theatre, Allentown, Pa. one evening last week, for which he was promptly arrested. When brought before the mayor the lemon thrower pleaded that the plaintiff had sung to and guyed him, and he was discharged. Soubrettes and others who affect "Sammy" songs and the like should take notice.

As an outcome of the big success attained by Happyland Park, Winnipeg, last season, W. O. Edmunds, its promoter and J. Herbert Anderson, its financial backer have organized a promoting and building firm to be known as Anderson, Edmunds & Co., and are building amusement parks in four promising Canadian cities this spring as well as in two cities in the western states.

MONCTON NEWS

Railway Men Working for the Re-instatement of Conductor John Doyle.

MONCTON, April 8—Tired of delay on the part of the I.C.R. authorities in reinstating Con. John Doyle, under suspension in connection with the Beaver Brook disaster, the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen will shortly carry the case to the railway department at Ottawa, unless a favorable solution of the matter is arrived at by the management here. The B. of R. T. general adjustment committee at their meeting here the other day, pressed the management to reinstate Con. Doyle, claiming that there was no good excuse for further delay, in view of the decisions given by the coroner's jury and the official investigation. After a full inquiry before the coroner, it will be remembered, the jury exonerated the trainmen, and the official investigation also found the men in charge of the trains blameless in the matter. Therefore the B. of R. T. contend that the continued suspension of Con. Doyle and driver H. Cameron is unjustifiable. The committee expressed the unanimous opinion that Con. Doyle should not suffer through loss of time or other penalty, inasmuch as the coroner's jury decided that the accident was due to a loose system of running trains, rather than to the violation of rules on the part of the train hands. All the men concerned in the accident, with the exception of operator Henderson, who gave the order, and Con. Doyle and driver Cameron, were reinstated some time ago.

It is not unlikely that the B. of L. E. will also take up driver Cameron's case and work in conjunction with the B. of R. T. The general feeling among the public familiar with the case, is that the men should be put back to work at once.

U. S. Consul Bentelspacker and wife, leave tomorrow on a holiday trip to Canton, Ohio, to be absent some weeks.

J. S. Benedict, U. S. Consul at Campbellton, has been transferred to St. Johns, Nfld. Consul Benedict was formerly stationed in Moncton.

Y. C. Cosman, a well known I.C.R. employe, has resigned his position here and left today for Dorchester, where he has purchased a tin and plumbing business. Mr. Cosman is a prominent member of the Citizen's band and will be much missed. He had been in the I.C.R. service for fourteen years. He will lead the Dorchester band, which he has been instructing for the past year.

A. D. Murray, who recently resigned the management of the Humphrey clothing store in this city, leaves in a day or two for the Canadian west, where he will locate.

Mr. and Mrs. F. A. McCully left today for Halifax to sail for Bermuda on a month's trip.

LIBERALS FIX DATE FOR THE NOMINATION

Candidate for Dominion Bye-Election Will be Chosen on April 2E With Primories on April 22.

The Liberals of St. John city and county will on April 26 nominate a candidate to contest this constituency in the bye-election made necessary by the death of Dr. A. A. Stockton. The primaries will be held on Monday, April 22, and at them delegates to the nominating convention will be chosen and these delegates will assemble on the following Friday to select a candidate.

This was decided at a meeting of the Liberal executive held Monday in the office of the secretary. Thomas McAvity, president, was in the chair, and Heber S. Keith, the secretary, was in attendance. Others present were R. O'Brien, Hon. H. A. McKeown, F. J. G. Knowlton, E. Lantalum, M. P. P., A. O. Skinner, George Robertson, M. P. P., A. W. Adams, T. A. Linton, C. B. Allan, George E. Day, John Keeffe, W. E. Scully, Jas. S. Gregory, W. G. Scovil, W. J. Mahoney, Col. Blaine, Adam Macintyre and John M. Elmore.

Dates for the primaries and nominating convention were discussed and it was first suggested that the ward meetings should be next Monday night. It was after consideration, however, decided to have them a week later and have the nominating convention on the 26th.

On the other occasions, it was felt by some, the convention has been left until too near the date of the election, but in the present instance a different course is being pursued. There is no mention of the bye-election being called at present and it will probably not be before some months.
