BAD MONEY IN ST. JOHN

Counterfeit $2 Bills Reported to be in Circulation Here.

Ottawa, July 11—A number of counterfeit $2 Dominion notes have recently made an appearance in the Maritime Provinces. Several were refused at St. John by the ticket seller of a circus and others have been detected. The imitation is believed to have been an awkward one. It is reported that the gang of counterfeiters recently rounded up at Lindsay, were the utterers of these notes.

REXTON

REXTON, N. B., July 11.—Mrs. Jane McLellan, relict of the late James McLellan, and formerly a resident of East Galloway, died yesterday morning in Boston, Mass. The remains will be brought to Galloway for interment. Deceased, who was about 72 years of age, was Miss Jane Johnson, of Coalgate, and is survived by two sons and five daughters. Mrs. Edward Fitzpatrick, (nee Josie Murphy), of Kouchibouguac, passed away at her home in Waltham, Mass., on June 28th, after a lingering illness. She is survived by her husband and two small children, a son and a daughter. She was a daughter of Thomas Murphy, of Kouchibouguac, and a niece of Mrs. James Conroy, of this place.

The funeral of Mrs. Elizabeth Forster took place yesterday afternoon at Galloway and was largely attended. Rev. Mr. Young, of Richibucto, conducted the services at the house of the deceased.

The discharging of the cargo of the wrecked bark "Adams" is about completed. The bark "Imperator," Captain Birsen, which arrived Tuesday morning, will load the cargo.

J. & T. Jardine's large scow, which while filled with stone, sank in the river during the severe storm of last October, has at last been brought to safety. A great quantity of the stone has been saved and the scow is scarcely injured. Alex. Fraser, jr., who had the contract deserves great credit for his pluck and perseverance, as it was considered almost an impossibility to raise the scow.

Capt. Frank Hawes, who lived here with his family during some years, but moved a few years ago to Halifax, is in port with his vessel.

Summer Smiles.

By RYAN WALKER.

Fond Mamma—Now, here's baby's photograph. Do you see the resemblance to me?
Mr. Malaprop—Why, nothing could be plainer!

OF COURSE NOT. Scribbler writes advertisement verses. Instead of long romances; It pays so well he never curries. His "ad" verse circumstances.

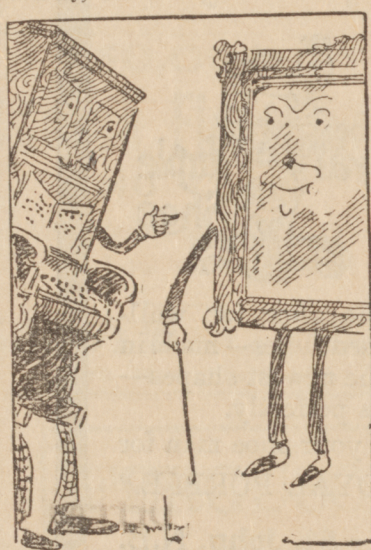

Henpeck—Wagon thought he was born to command.
Henderson—When did he discover his mistake?
Henpeck—When he married.

CROWDED OUT. Her Fashionable Friend—Why didn't you bring the baby?
The Modern Mother—I did want to, but there wasn't room in the carriage for her and my doggie both.

Mrs. Knox—Don't you think it's a sin for Mary to play the piano on Sunday?
Mr. Knox—Yes, and on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, too.

The Piano—Oh! I don't know; you're not so handsome.
The Looking Glass—Maybe not, but I've turned many a woman's head.

PERFECTLY SATISFACTORY.

He was an oldish man, and he may have been thinking of the days of his youth and the watermelons he used to steal, when he started to cross the street. At any rate, he had his head down and his eyes on the ground when an auto came along and tossed him thirty feet away and broke most of his bones. For a wonder the auto stopped to see what damage had been done. When told that the old man would die he said to him: "I want you to understand that this was not my fault in the least. I was out for a spin when I met Jones. You know him, perhaps?" "Yes, Jones is a great brag." "That he is. He was out in his machine. He said he could go two miles to my one." "But you didn't take the dare?" "Never. I told him to come on, and he came. I ran away from him like a rabbit from a hot turtle, and I was half a mile ahead of him and looking back and waving my hand when—when—" "When I got in the way." "Yes. You can't really blame me, you know. If it hadn't been for Jones, and if he hadn't grinned at me and gave me the dare—" "I see. You beat him, did you?" "Why, he won't be here for ten minutes."

HE CAME DOWN.

He was a prosperous looking citizen going home at ten o'clock at night, and he was suddenly accosted by a tramp who stepped out of a doorway to say: "Sir, not a morsel of food has passed my lips for the last thirty-six hours." The prosperous looking citizen didn't even look at him. "And if I cannot raise ten cents for a bed tonight I must sleep on the ground," continued the tramp. He was heard but not heeded in the slightest. "And you would not miss a dime, I should say by the smell that you
