

AFTER ONE OF THE MOST SUCCESSFUL CLOTHING SALES

EVER HELD IN ST. JOHN, N. B., which came to a close Saturday night at midnight, we have the following garments left over which we will sell at the Sale prices until all sold. We are determined to make a thorough clearance of goods advertised:—

292 Men's and Boys' Overcoats . . . at Sale Prices
462 Men's, Youths' and Boys' Suits . . . at Sale Prices
987 Men's, Youths' and Boys' Trousers, Sale Prices
47 Men's and Youths' Storm Reefers, Sale Prices
69 Boys' Storm Reefers at Sale Prices
92 Men's Rainproof Coats at Sale Prices
52 Men's Sheepskin-Lined and Rubber Coats

and we have lots of other clearing lines which will be sold at sale prices until all sold. Everybody was well satisfied with the great values given during our Monster Sale, and this will give those who had not the chance to be there a few bargains. DON'T WAIT TOO LONG, as these bargains will not last long.

UNION CLOTHING CO.

ALEX. CORBET, Manager
 26-28 Charlotte Street, Opposite City Market

"THE LATE TENANT"

By GORDON HOLMES

(Continued.)

"It is ended! I have done with her! She has played me false!" exclaimed the man when he understood that Violet had really quitted Rigsworth. His paroxysm of rage was so fierce that Mrs. Mordaunt was terrified that he would die on the spot; but his passion ended in an equally vehement declaration of sorrow and affection. He would follow her and bring her back. Mrs. Mordaunt must come with him instantly. The girl must be saved from herself. Surely they would find her, even in London, whither he was certain she had gone, for she would only go to her accustomed haunts.

He infected the grief-stricken mother with some of his own frenzy. She promised to be at the station in time for the next train; he tore off to the telegraph office, where he wrote messages in a white fever of action. First, he bade his factotum Neil meet the train from Rigsworth in which Violet traveled, and ascertain her movements, if possible.

The second was to Dribbin:

A client has recommended you to me. Leave by earliest train for Portsmouth and call at offices of (a named firm of solicitors) for instructions. I forward herewith fifty pounds for preliminary expenses.

HENRY VAN HUFFELDT.

The fifty pounds which he telegraphed to Dribbin were notes which he had brought for the gamekeeper; so this payment was deferred, at the least.

Then he sent word to the Portsmouth firm that Dribbin was to be dispatched on a secret estate-hunting quest in Devonshire, at any terms he chose to demand. His next telegram was to Mrs. Carter at Pangley:

Take baby at once by train to Station Hotel, New street, Birmingham. Leave word with neighbors and at station to say where you have gone. I will write you at Birmingham and send money tonight.

Finally to David he wired:

I now know everything. Mrs. Carter is about to take my sister's child away from Pangley. Please go there at once, find out where she has gone, and follow her. Wire me tomorrow, or next day, what you have discovered. Forgive yesterday's silence; it was unavoidable. VIOLET.

That was all he could devise in the present chaos of his mind. But it would serve, he thought, to give a few hours' breathing-space. He was hard pressed, but far from beaten yet. And now that Violet and her mother were away from Dale Manor, he would take care that they did not return to the house until Violet was his wife. Perhaps even in this desperate hour things had happened for the best.

CHAPTER XX.

DAVID HAS ONE VISITOR, AND EXPECTS OTHERS.

David had to rise pretty early to admit his charwoman. Behind her, in the outer lobby, he saw the scared face of the hall-porter, who remembered that a certain loud knocking and difficulty of gaining admission to that flat on one other occasion had been the prelude to a tragic discovery though he had heard of the affair only from his mates.

David smiled reassurance at him, and went back to his bedroom to dress. He placed the portrait and the letters in an inner pocket of his waistcoat provided for paper money, and the hour being in advance of breakfast-time, went out for a stroll.

Regent's Park was delightful that morning. Not spring, but summer, was in the air. Nature, to compel man to admire her dainty contrivances, was shutting in the vistas. Already trees and hedge-rows flung their leafy screens across the landscape. So David wandered on, promising himself many such mornings with Violet; for it passed his wit to see how Van Huffeldt could wriggle out of the testimony of his own picture and his own handwriting.

Hence, instead of being earlier he was somewhat later than usual in sitting down to breakfast, and he was a surprised young man when his charwoman, arriving gone to answer a ring at the door, the announcement came of:

"A lady to see you, sir."

"A lady!" he gasped. "Who is she?" and he hoped wildly that it might be Violet.

"You know her well enough, old boy," came the high-pitched voice of Miss Erynny L'Estrange, who now appeared in the dining-room, a pink-faced vision in a flower-garden hat and muslins. "Poof!" she cried. "I have not been out for many a day before the streets were aired. Say, young man, that bacon and egg has a young party, that bacon and egg has a young gratifying scent than violets. I have come all the way from Chelsea on one cup of tea."

The charwoman, eyeing the visitor askance, admitted that more supplies could be arranged.

"Hurry up, then, fairy," said Miss L'Estrange. "And don't look so shocked. Your master here is the very gooddest young man in London."

David said that even the just man fell seven times a day; but, anyhow, he was delighted to see her.

"But, for goodness' sake—" "Whoa, my boy! Don't rush your fences. I'll tell you everything, so keep calm. First, the night before last, Strauss comes to me—" "One moment," broke in David. "Is this Strauss?" and he handed her the portrait.

She looked at it and laughed. "Why, of course it is!" she said. "Fancy you keeping his picture over your heart! Now, if it had been Violet, or me—" "Sorry to have interrupted you, she said."

"Funny idea! Anyhow, Strauss turned up the night before last and wanted to borrow Jenny for the whole of next day. It was beastly awkward, as she was helping me to re-hem this dress and put new sleeves in the bodice; but he begged me so that I could hardly refuse," and she thought for an instant of certain notes crumpled up in the gold purse which was slung from her neck; "so I packed Jenny off about eight o'clock next morning—yes, today, that is, I was in a temper all day, and tore two boucous out of my frock, and scraped my chin on the step of a hansom; so when the mix came blinking home about midnight, to find me making my own fire, I let her have it, I can tell you. But it fairly gave me the needle when she wouldn't say what Strauss wanted her for, and then the row sprung up. Guess you want to smoke eh? I would like a cigarette myself."

David was most docile outwardly while all of a boil within. He awaited her pleasure, saw her seated in a comfortable chair, dining in her own admiration of a pair of really pretty feet, and lit a pipe. Then she continued:

"There was poisonous trouble for about five minutes. I might have let her off if she hadn't said things. Then I frightened her. I believe I did yank her hat off. At last, she confessed that Strauss told her that his name now was Van Huffeldt, and he wanted her to go down to Rigsworth to be introduced to two ladies as Sarah Gissing, Gwen Barnes's maid."

"What?" yelled David, springing to his feet.

"Oh, chuck it!" said Miss L'Estrange in a voice of deep disgust. "You nearly made me swallow my cigarette."

"Sit down, boy, sit down. You men are all six of one and half a dozen of the other where a woman is concerned. Poor things! I wonder how any of us escape you at all. Still, Strauss is pretty artful, I admit. You see, Jenny, having been in service here, could lie so smoothly about Gwen Barnes that it would be hard to find her out."

"What?" yelled David, springing to his feet.

"Oh, chuck it!" said Miss L'Estrange in a voice of deep disgust. "You nearly made me swallow my cigarette."

"Sit down, boy, sit down. You men are all six of one and half a dozen of the other where a woman is concerned. Poor things! I wonder how any of us escape you at all. Still, Strauss is pretty artful, I admit. You see, Jenny, having been in service here, could lie so smoothly about Gwen Barnes that it would be hard to find her out."

"What?" yelled David, springing to his feet.

"Oh, chuck it!" said Miss L'Estrange in a voice of deep disgust. "You nearly made me swallow my cigarette."

"Sit down, boy, sit down. You men are all six of one and half a dozen of the other where a woman is concerned. Poor things! I wonder how any of us escape you at all. Still, Strauss is pretty artful, I admit. You see, Jenny, having been in service here, could lie so smoothly about Gwen Barnes that it would be hard to find her out."

"What?" yelled David, springing to his feet.

"Oh, chuck it!" said Miss L'Estrange in a voice of deep disgust. "You nearly made me swallow my cigarette."

"Sit down, boy, sit down. You men are all six of one and half a dozen of the other where a woman is concerned. Poor things! I wonder how any of us escape you at all. Still, Strauss is pretty artful, I admit. You see, Jenny, having been in service here, could lie so smoothly about Gwen Barnes that it would be hard to find her out."

"What?" yelled David, springing to his feet.

"Oh, chuck it!" said Miss L'Estrange in a voice of deep disgust. "You nearly made me swallow my cigarette."

"Sit down, boy, sit down. You men are all six of one and half a dozen of the other where a woman is concerned. Poor things! I wonder how any of us escape you at all. Still, Strauss is pretty artful, I admit. You see, Jenny, having been in service here, could lie so smoothly about Gwen Barnes that it would be hard to find her out."

"What?" yelled David, springing to his feet.

"Oh, chuck it!" said Miss L'Estrange in a voice of deep disgust. "You nearly made me swallow my cigarette."

"Sit down, boy, sit down. You men are all six of one and half a dozen of the other where a woman is concerned. Poor things! I wonder how any of us escape you at all. Still, Strauss is pretty artful, I admit. You see, Jenny, having been in service here, could lie so smoothly about Gwen Barnes that it would be hard to find her out."

"What?" yelled David, springing to his feet.

"Oh, chuck it!" said Miss L'Estrange in a voice of deep disgust. "You nearly made me swallow my cigarette."

"Sit down, boy, sit down. You men are all six of one and half a dozen of the other where a woman is concerned. Poor things! I wonder how any of us escape you at all. Still, Strauss is pretty artful, I admit. You see, Jenny, having been in service here, could lie so smoothly about Gwen Barnes that it would be hard to find her out."

"But, for goodness' sake—" "Whoa, my boy! Don't rush your fences. I'll tell you everything, so keep calm. First, the night before last, Strauss comes to me—" "One moment," broke in David. "Is this Strauss?" and he handed her the portrait.

She looked at it and laughed. "Why, of course it is!" she said. "Fancy you keeping his picture over your heart! Now, if it had been Violet, or me—" "Sorry to have interrupted you, she said."

"Funny idea! Anyhow, Strauss turned up the night before last and wanted to borrow Jenny for the whole of next day. It was beastly awkward, as she was helping me to re-hem this dress and put new sleeves in the bodice; but he begged me so that I could hardly refuse," and she thought for an instant of certain notes crumpled up in the gold purse which was slung from her neck; "so I packed Jenny off about eight o'clock next morning—yes, today, that is, I was in a temper all day, and tore two boucous out of my frock, and scraped my chin on the step of a hansom; so when the mix came blinking home about midnight, to find me making my own fire, I let her have it, I can tell you. But it fairly gave me the needle when she wouldn't say what Strauss wanted her for, and then the row sprung up. Guess you want to smoke eh? I would like a cigarette myself."

David was most docile outwardly while all of a boil within. He awaited her pleasure, saw her seated in a comfortable chair, dining in her own admiration of a pair of really pretty feet, and lit a pipe. Then she continued:

"There was poisonous trouble for about five minutes. I might have let her off if she hadn't said things. Then I frightened her. I believe I did yank her hat off. At last, she confessed that Strauss told her that his name now was Van Huffeldt, and he wanted her to go down to Rigsworth to be introduced to two ladies as Sarah Gissing, Gwen Barnes's maid."

"What?" yelled David, springing to his feet.

"Oh, chuck it!" said Miss L'Estrange in a voice of deep disgust. "You nearly made me swallow my cigarette."

"Sit down, boy, sit down. You men are all six of one and half a dozen of the other where a woman is concerned. Poor things! I wonder how any of us escape you at all. Still, Strauss is pretty artful, I admit. You see, Jenny, having been in service here, could lie so smoothly about Gwen Barnes that it would be hard to find her out."

"What?" yelled David, springing to his feet.

"Oh, chuck it!" said Miss L'Estrange in a voice of deep disgust. "You nearly made me swallow my cigarette."

"Sit down, boy, sit down. You men are all six of one and half a dozen of the other where a woman is concerned. Poor things! I wonder how any of us escape you at all. Still, Strauss is pretty artful, I admit. You see, Jenny, having been in service here, could lie so smoothly about Gwen Barnes that it would be hard to find her out."

"What?" yelled David, springing to his feet.

"Oh, chuck it!" said Miss L'Estrange in a voice of deep disgust. "You nearly made me swallow my cigarette."

"Sit down, boy, sit down. You men are all six of one and half a dozen of the other where a woman is concerned. Poor things! I wonder how any of us escape you at all. Still, Strauss is pretty artful, I admit. You see, Jenny, having been in service here, could lie so smoothly about Gwen Barnes that it would be hard to find her out."

"What?" yelled David, springing to his feet.

"Oh, chuck it!" said Miss L'Estrange in a voice of deep disgust. "You nearly made me swallow my cigarette."

"Sit down, boy, sit down. You men are all six of one and half a dozen of the other where a woman is concerned. Poor things! I wonder how any of us escape you at all. Still, Strauss is pretty artful, I admit. You see, Jenny, having been in service here, could lie so smoothly about Gwen Barnes that it would be hard to find her out."

"What?" yelled David, springing to his feet.

"Oh, chuck it!" said Miss L'Estrange in a voice of deep disgust. "You nearly made me swallow my cigarette."

"Sit down, boy, sit down. You men are all six of one and half a dozen of the other where a woman is concerned. Poor things! I wonder how any of us escape you at all. Still, Strauss is pretty artful, I admit. You see, Jenny, having been in service here, could lie so smoothly about Gwen Barnes that it would be hard to find her out."

"What?" yelled David, springing to his feet.

"Oh, chuck it!" said Miss L'Estrange in a voice of deep disgust. "You nearly made me swallow my cigarette."

"Sit down, boy, sit down. You men are all six of one and half a dozen of the other where a woman is concerned. Poor things! I wonder how any of us escape you at all. Still, Strauss is pretty artful, I admit. You see, Jenny, having been in service here, could lie so smoothly about Gwen Barnes that it would be hard to find her out."

"What?" yelled David, springing to his feet.

"Oh, chuck it!" said Miss L'Estrange in a voice of deep disgust. "You nearly made me swallow my cigarette."

"Sit down, boy, sit down. You men are all six of one and half a dozen of the other where a woman is concerned. Poor things! I wonder how any of us escape you at all. Still, Strauss is pretty artful, I admit. You see, Jenny, having been in service here, could lie so smoothly about Gwen Barnes that it would be hard to find her out."

"What?" yelled David, springing to his feet.

Daily Fashion Hint for Times Readers.

THAT FASHIONABLE MARABOUT SCARF.

stroll along any fashion thoroughfare today is sufficient to reveal the fact that this season of neckdresses—scarfs, boas, stoles and ruches. Quite the most fashionable of all these novelties is the long marabout scarf in black or colors worn with natty-tailored suits, tailored dresses and dressy afternoon frocks. Brown is a very fashionable color, and this with black makes the season's favored color. These marabouts come in white and all the light pastel shades as well, but we do not see them with the street gown; only for evening wear. Brown scarfs, the ends of which shade up to white at the tips of the tails, are very attractive and somewhat newer than one-color pieces, which have been worn all summer with linen tailormades and lingerie frocks.

HARRISON A. McKEOWN NEW ATTORNEY-GENERAL

He Was Sworn-in at Moncton Yesterday and Will Run in St. John County--Nov. 15 the Date.

Hon. Harrison A. McKeown was sworn in as attorney-general in the New Brunswick government Monday afternoon at Moncton. The oath of office was administered by J. Howe Dickson, clerk of the executive council, in the presence of Lieut. Governor Tweedie, Premier Robinson and Hon. F. J. Sweeney.

This took place at five o'clock Monday afternoon and the new attorney-general returned to this city, arriving here last night.

Hon. H. A. McKeown.

Hon. Mr. McKeown will run for St. John county. Dr. Ruddick M. P. P., one of the county members, has resigned his seat and his resignation is now in the hands of the premier. Dr. Ruddick, it has been stated, is slated for the position of quarantine officer at this port. It is understood that the bye-election will be called on at once, that nomination will be on Nov. 8 and the election on Nov. 15. It was reported Monday that George Robertson, M. P. P., had resigned to take the position of deputy receiver general here but this is denied. The report that it has been decided to call another session of the local legislature before the general provincial elections has recently been strengthened and a session is now regarded as assured.

Hon. Harrison A. McKeown, the new attorney-general, was born in St. Stephen on Nov. 28, 1863, and is the son of Rev. Ezekiah and Elizabeth S. McKeown. He was educated in the collegiate school at Fredericton and at Mount Allison, graduating B. A. from the latter in 1881. He studied law with the late Dr. A. A. Stockton and Hon. A. S. White and was admitted attorney of the supreme court in 1884. In the following year he graduated in law from Victoria University.

He represented the city and county of St. John in the legislature from 1890 to 1892 and in 1890 he was returned for the city. On the reconstruction of the New Brunswick government in January, 1900, Mr. McKeown was taken into the cabinet and was a member of the Emmerson administration as solicitor-general. Subsequently he resigned to run for the federal house and was beaten in the bye-election by Dr. J. W. Daniel and in the next general election he contested the city and county and was defeated by the late Dr. A. A. Stockton.

The annual thank offering service of the W. F. M. Society, of St. Stephen's church was held last evening and was well attended. Rev. Gordon Dickie, the church pastor, presided. Rev. A. B. Cohoe, of Brussels street Baptist church, gave an interesting address, saying that the best way to interest oneself in missionary work was to do missionary work at home. Mrs. Worden sang Lead, Kindly Light, Fred Keyes sang a solo, while the children of the mission band also took part in the programme.

Stomach troubles, Heart and Kidney ailments, can be quickly corrected with a prescription known to druggists everywhere as Dr. Shoop's Restorative. The prompt and surprising relief which this remedy immediately brings is entirely due to its Restorative action upon the controlling nerves of the Stomach, etc. Sold by all druggists.

CARLETON'S CITY HALL

Its Condition Discussed at Safety Board Last Night.

At a meeting of the board of public safety last night Ald. J. H. Frink referred to the present condition of the Carleton city hall as discussed. On his motion the director was instructed to obtain estimates of the cost of renovation so that the work could be gone on with next year. A number of matters relating to city leases were discussed and passed upon.

The recorder explained the position with reference to the piece of land the C. P. R. wished to acquire from the city. He was not quite clear whether the city could give a fee simple or lease, but he would look into all the authorities and give an opinion at the council meeting.

A petition was presented from the Carleton Cornet Band asking for the use of the lower hall in the Carleton city building for entertainments. It is understood that the band wants to start a nickel show. After some discussion W. J. Irons, who appeared for the band, was told that Rev. Mr. Sampson, who has a lease of the lower flat, has power to sub-let to the band.

The board decided to grant the petition of James McAulay, who rents a lot from the city for $50 a year and who desired a reduction to $40. It was also decided to renew the Bridget Looney lease at Greenhead at the minimum rent of $40.

Miss DeVos offered to sell to the board the strip next No. 1 engine house, 15 feet by 30 feet for $200. A sub-committee will look into this matter.

The application of Policeman Gosline to be reappointed for six days time lost on account of sickness and death in his family was granted.

Chief Clerk sent in a requisition for six new overcoats for the force and repairs to nine other overcoats. It was decided to call for tenders.

The director said that he had received two tenders for two and a half miles of copper wire wanted by the fire department. James Hunter's tender was for 18 cents and Chas. Jones' 23 cents a pound. On motion of Ald. Hamm the contract was awarded to the lower tender.

Tenders will also be called for the forage necessary for the department, three roll sleds and for the restoration of the old No. 8 engine house. In connection with this last Ald. Bullock suggested that the upper flat could be used for a men's shelter.

The matter of properly heating the lavatory in the market building was left with the director and that official was instructed to repair the roof of Carleton city hall.

The pay roll of the regular and call men of the fire department was submitted to the meeting. It amounts to $12,000.24, which is $80 over the estimate. Chief Kerr was instructed to look into the advisability of connecting the bell in the east side toll house with the fire alarm system.

Aldermen Spragg, Holder, Kelley and Christie were appointed a sub-committee to act with a sub-committee of the treasury board to consider the application of the Isaacs car works concern.

The director submitted a plan of 28 lots surveyed on the Mott property in Mahogany road. He was instructed to advertise them for building purposes. Those present at the meeting besides the chairman were Ald. Hamm, Lewis, Sprout, Spragg, Frink, McGowan and Bullock, Director Winchester, Chief Kerr and Common Clerk Wardroper.

$100 Reward, $100

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is a blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O. Sold by all Druggists, 75c.

VANDALISM AT TOWN OF NICOLET

Anglican Church Damaged and the Bible Burned--Authorities Will Investigate.

Three Rivers, Que., Oct. 28.—An act of vandalism is reported from Nicolet. When the Anglican church in Nicolet was opened yesterday morning it was discovered that fifty panes of glass were smashed, the doors were torn from their hinges, books were destroyed and the large Bible had been taken from the lectern and burned in the stove.

Rev. Mr. Stuart, of Three Rivers, went over to Nicolet a few Sundays ago, but did not go near the church, the service being held in a private house. He passed by the church on that occasion, but did not notice anything wrong. It is not known when the outrage was committed, but the authorities promise that a vigorous investigation will be made.

"BRICK'S TASTELESS"

REGISTERED

What it is

It is an extract of fresh cod livers, containing all the virtues of pure Cod Liver Oil without the nauseous grease, combined with Phosphorus in the form of the Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites, nutritious Extract of Malt and the Fluid Extract of Wild Cherry Bark.

What it does

It will promptly relieve, and if its use is continued, permanently cure chronic bronchitis, all pulmonary affections, croup, hoarseness, nervous disorders due to an exhausted condition of the system, prostration following fevers, debility at change of life, or constitutional weakness at any age, and all blood disorders.

What we do

We positively guarantee "Brick's Tasteless" to do exactly what we claim it will do as printed on the label of the bottle, or any advertising matter, and every druggist who sells "Brick's Tasteless" is authorized to refund to his customer the full purchase price if one bottle does not show a decided improvement, which improvement will result in a complete cure if additional bottles are taken.

We therefore request you to try a bottle of "Brick's Tasteless" on our recommendation, and if no improvement is shown after taking it, return the empty bottle to the druggist from whom you purchased it and he will refund your money.

Can we be fairer?

Two Sizes—8 ounce bottle 50c; 20 ounce bottle $1.00

SLEEPLESS?

Nerves Are Racked
 Vitality is Lowered
 Brain is Congested
 Health Undermined

Opates, Sedatives, Narcotics, Worse Than Useless—Produce no Permanent Good.

Worry, overwork, over-study and indigestion cause insomnia. Healthy, natural sleep can't be produced by drugs.

First, the blood circulation must be improved. Congestion of the blood in the head must be removed.

Irritation in the brain must be relieved. It's because Ferrozone equalizes circulation, because it soothes the irritation, because it removes congestion that it does cure insomnia.

For building blood and nerve, for installing force and life into overworked organs, for establishing strength and vitality, where can you find anything so sure as Ferrozone.

Remember, sleep is just as important as food.

You must sleep, or break down. You can if you'll use Ferrozone and thereby remove the conditions which now keep you from sleep.

Ferrozone is not a narcotic, not a dope; it is a health-giving tonic that any child or delicate woman can use.

Absolutely safe is Ferrozone. Take it for a month, take it for a year—no harm, but immeasurable good will result.

HOME PAPERS THE TELEGRAPH AND TIMES

THESE PAPERS are delivered to St. John residences BY CARRIER. They are taken into the homes of responsible and desirable people who pay for the privilege of reading them.

An advertisement in The Big Papers will place you in company with the most prominent local and general advertisers in Canada.

THE TELEGRAPH AND TIMES enjoy a greater advertising patronage than any other two papers in New Brunswick, and if business is any indication of ability to deliver results, then The Big Papers are always "making good."

RATES ARE NEVER CUT. One price to all. Telephone main 705 for The Advertising Dept.

COMBINED CIRCULATION OVER 15,000