HOCKEY TALK AT FREDERICTON

(Fredericton Gleaner)

There has been quite a good deal of hockey talk going the rounds the past few days, and with the approach of winter it ey will always continue to be "the" winter sport for Canadians.

When Bliss A. Keith, who has conducted the Arctic Bowling Alleys so successfully, leased the Arctic Rink a few days ago he at once announced that there would be ice skating this winter and that started the hockey talk. Mr. Keith should make an energetic, capable and popular person to control the rink from the standpoint of the players as well as the public.

Hockey talk received a further boost when Doyle, who played centre so successfully for the Sussex team the past few winters, arrived in the city and accepted a position with the Monitor Manufacturing Company, the local makers of acetylene gas generating machines. Doyle is a good hockey player, but has not been brought here to play hockey, as some of the wise ones no doubt will surmise.

With Ernest Ryan going south for the winter and Arthur Finnamore under suspension by the M. P. A. A. A. for the heinous crime of playing baseball with professionals, a new goal tender will have to be located; but "Tart" Titus, of roller polo fame, and Ray Gibbon have both shown senior form.

For other defence positions those available include Sandy Staples, the veteran who seems as anxious as ever for a game, and Archie Babbitt, who proved such a sensation last season.

There should be quite a lot of material for a forward line about sufficiently developed from the intermediate teams of a couple of years ago to be getting into the senior ranks just now, and it seems certain that there will be lots of material to make good practices assured. The senior players available for the forward line include Frank Rowan, Dick Malloy, Byron Burden and some others.

It is stated that there will be some fast hockey players among the regulars and short course officers and men at the local military depot this winter.

ALGONQUINS HAVE GOOD PRACTICE

U. N. B. vs. Algonquins.

A football game looked forward to with much interest will be the contest on Saturday between the U. N. B. and the Algonquins. The players on the local team are requested to meet each evening this week in the gymnasium in Metcalf street for indoor practice. The college boys will be in fine shape after their series of games, and the Indians will have to hustle to win; but, judging by the showing they made in Fredericton, they should do so.

Last evening in the Algonquin gymnasium, after some passing work, a basket ball match, lasting one hour and forty-five minutes, was played, and some very pretty work was done. The score was 27 to 16, in favor of Holder's team. The teams were:

Centre.

S. Holder.... ....Holmes

Forwards.

A. Roberts..... ....R. Finley
L. MacIntyre.... ....E. March

Defense.

C. Seely..... ....W. Jones
T. Morrow..... ....A. Eagles

S. Chase was referee.

FOOTBALL

STILL HARPING AT FREDERICTON.

The Gleaner man continues in the hot air business at the same old stand. The U. N. B.-St. Joseph's and the U. N. B.-Algonquin games continue to disturb his equilibrium. He should feel better after this:—

"Some time ago in an effort to belittle the U. N. B. XV. a writer in the St. John Telegraph had it that "Dick" Tibbitts had opined that the Algonquins legally scored a try in the game here with U. N. B. and for which they received no credit. "Dick" says that he was not in a position to see the play in question and that he therefore gave no such opinion.

"The St John Globe's football writer with the same evil purpose at heart stated that Capt. Rutledge had refused to allow the proposition made by the St. Joseph's college team at the end of the game here to have the contest go on for five minutes longer so as to give the Memramcook team a chance to defeat U. N. B. Of course captains of football teams don't make such foolish propositions to each other and Captain Rutledge says that the first he knew of it was when he read it in The Globe.

"There are therefore shown above two instances in which the frenzied St. John writers made mis-statements concerning the U. N. B. team. They should now take pains to correct them and apologize without delay."

The Gleaner and Mr Tibbitts to the contrary, that gentleman certainly did express the opinion credited to him by the St. John paper in question; of that there is not the shadow of a doubt. Now there is nobody wailing, old man; forget it!

THE TURF

HORSE NOTES.

Dan Patch's exhibition mile in 2:01 at New Orleans was his last performance of the year.

Gen. Watts (2.06 3-4) cost his present owner $1850. The colt won more than $20,000 in the campaign just ended.

Both of the great brood mares, Nancy Hanks (2.04) and Fanella (2.13) are in foal, the first to Todd (2.14 3-4) and the second to Peter the Great (2.07 1-4).

John R. Gentry (2.00 1-2), the first horse that demonstrated the possibility of a mile in two minutes in harness, is coming to the front as one of the successful sires of the day, having been represented by two of the crack 3-year-olds of the past trotting season.

J. M. Johnson, proprietor of Johnson Farm, tells me that the yearling colt, by Todd (2.14 3-4), out of the dam of Phalla (2.04 1-4), is the fastest piece of horse flesh for his age that he has ever owned. As Mr. Johnson gave Sadie Mac (2.06 1-4) her early lessons this is saying a good deal.

RESTRICTING IRON OUTPUT

Accumulation to Be Avoided and Output to Keep Pace of Consumption.

The Iron Age, reviewing conditions in the iron and steel trade, says:

Restriction of output to conform to whatever decline in consumption may develop, is the policy which, avowedly, the large interests in the iron and steel trade propose to pursue. Any accumulation of stocks is to be avoided. Action in that direction is already being taken. With a stock of only 88,000 tons of pig iron, a few days' supply only, the Steel Corporation is blowing out furnaces. At this writing fourteen are idle. The Columbus steel plant and furnaces have been shut down, the steel plant being on sheet and tin plate bars. A large percentage of the tin plate and sheet mills are idle, and it is possible that the Bellaire furnaces and steel works, which are on the same product may be next to cease to work.

A number of eastern pig iron furnaces will blow out, and it is understood that the principal independent Connellsville coke makers have determined to put out ovens, if the product does not at once go into consumption.

While this will not absolutely safeguard prices, which are not materially above the normal level in finished material, still it makes for stability.

MAKING BUTTER FROM WHEY

Toronto, Nov. 4.—Ontario cheese factories are now using the fat, hitherto lost in whey, for making butter. One manufacturer says he has realized $1,500 in the last few months out of the whey that he formerly threw away. The butter is said to rank first class.

We doubt if there is another town the size of St. George, in Maine, which can boast of three brass bands—the Tenants Harbor band, the Long Cove band, and a new band of eighteen pieces has just been organized at Wiley's corner.—Lewiston Journal.

BEER DRINKING AND INSURANCE RISKS

(Washington correspondent Indianapolis Telegraph.)

How far does the consumption of ardent spirits and malt beverages affect a man's acceptance as a risk by the great life insurance companies of the United States?

To a large extent this most interesting question has been answered by the companies themselves. Twenty of the largest and most noted companies of the country have written answers to questions asked them on this point.

The correspondence with the life insurance companies was brought out by the frequent statements by prohibition orators that the life insurance companies considered a beer drinker a worse risk than a whisky drinker. The Telegraph resented this, and asked its Washington correspondent to secure the facts. Correspondence with twenty of the largest companies brought answers from their medical directors. Some of the companies answer that they have no settled policy; some of them request that their answers be not printed, but a number of them are frank and outspoken, and do not object to the publication of their information.

In a general way all of them object to excessive drinking, either directly, or by saying that they have no objection to moderate drinking, emphasizing moderate. Some of them say that they consider, in every individual case, what moderate drinking is; but three of them, the Massachusetts Mutual, the Equitable, of New York, and the Prudential, adhere to Anstie's limit, which is one and a half ounces of absolute alcohol daily, or about as much as there is in three or four pints of lager beer. Prof. Francis E. Anstie, the correspondent explains, is an English authority, well known in the medical world, especially through his extensive investigations on the subject of toxicology, and his work on "Stimulants and Narcotics." He considers alcohol, if taken in small divided doses, and diluted, so as not to be greater than 10 per cent in strength, as a food, and that one and one-half ounces taken daily in this way, disappear entirely in the body; that is, are consumed by it, as other food is. He shows that it will prolong life beyond the period at which it must cease, if no nourishment or water only had been given, and that it has repeatedly supported life in acute diseases, when no other food could be given to, or was taken by, the patient.

Among the companies that answer frankly and without reserve is the Prudential. Its medical director, Dr. Edward H. Hammill, says: "That a moderate indulgence of lager beer is in no way harmful to a healthy individual. By the term moderate we mean a glass at meals, or, perhaps, four or five, possibly six, glasses within twenty-four hours.

"Anstie's limit of safe indulgence in alcohol beverages is one and one-half ounces of absolute alcohol. This is represented, in the case of lager beer, by possibly three pints or two quarts per diem. A life insurance company is not a temperance organization. The average life is acceptable, and the average man uses lager beer daily. If the writer mistakes not, the German families serve at the table, to the children, a glass of beer as a daily beverage. They regard it as we regard tea or coffee. A moderate drinking of beer does not interfere with the acceptance of applicants for life insurance. It is only the immoderate use that prejudices the applicant's chances."

One of the large Western life insurance companies makes this statement: "We have taken the records of the company in a general way concerning the use of stimulants, and find that the difference between the mortality of the abstainers and those who use beer and light wines moderately (the class we insure) is small, while the mortality in the class of persons insured who used ardent liquors was 13.74 per cent greater than the total abstainers."

The Equitable Life, of New York, has this to say: "I am directed to say that this society does not discriminate against a person who uses beer moderately. If he is all right in every other respect, we would consider such a man a first-class risk. We draw the line at a daily allowance of one and one-half ounces of absolute alcohol, which is about the amount contained in five tumblers of beer. Our experience shows that where policy holders, after receiving their policies, have become addicted to the use of beer and alcoholic drinks in excessive quantities, the death rate was much greater than normal."

The Pheonix Mutual, of Hartford (Conn.), says: "The drinking of beer, except intemperately, does not interfere with our acceptance of the application of a man for a policy."

The Mutual Benefit, of New Jersey, says: "We have not considered the moderate use of beer as prejudicing a risk, and in deciding upon what is moderation we are influenced by the applicant's build, occupation, environment."

The Germania Life, of New York, says: "We, of course, propose to write only on risks who indulge moderately in these beverages, and do not think that our favorable mortality experience has been less favorable than it would have been had we confined our writing entirely to total abstinence."

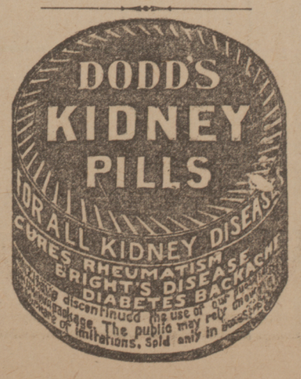

The tenor of these latter answers is almost typical for all of the twenty.

ST. ANDREW'S CHURCH GUILD

The opening meeting of the St. Andrew's church guild last night was largely attended. The programme was a very pleasing one and was greeted with hearty applause. Miss Eleanor Robinson, the lecturer of the evening, spoke on Dickens as a historical novelist. She took two of his books to illustrate her subject—Barnaby Rudge and the Tale of Two Cities. Miss Robinson showed an intimate acquaintance of and intelligent sympathy with her subject. At the close a hearty vote of thanks, moved by Judge Forbes and seconded by Rev. D. Lang, was carried. Besides the lecture the programme contained two musical numbers which were artistically played and heartily encored. The first was a piano solo by Mrs. Kent Scovil and the second an instrumental duet by Mrs. Scovil, piano, and Miss Elise McLean, violin.

An enterprising scissors grinder of Los Angeles (Cal.), has mounted his grinder on an automobile, using the car's power also to run the grinder, and now rides from place to place instead of walking.

AMAZING SUPERSTITION

A Hungarian Shopkeeper Sold His Chance of Salvation and Became Insane--Recovered When It Was Bought Back.

VIENNA, Nov. 4.—A remarkable case in which the effects of mediaeval superstition and suggestion are curiously mingled has come under the notice of the doctors of the Rudolf's Hospital in Vienna.

A Hungarian tradesman named Weiss was recently admitted to the hospital suffering from an illusion which caused him continually to lament the loss of his salvation. It appears that some weeks before Weiss was sitting with friends in a coffee-house in Pressburg, when the conversation turned on religion and a future life.

Weiss declared that there was no such thing as a future life or salvation, and added: "I would sell my chance of salvation for 10s."

A Jew named Krauss accepted the offer on condition that the transaction was put in writing. A regular deed of sale conveying Weiss' salvation in the next world to Krauss was thereupon drawn up, executed by Weiss and duly witnessed. Krauss took the deed and handed over the 10s to Weiss, who boasted that it had been easily earned.

A fortnight later Weiss lost his wife, who was killed in a carriage accident. He regarded this accident as a sign of the Divine anger with his impious bargain, and the idea so preyed on his mind that his reason gave way and he was taken to the hospital.

Professor Obermayer, who had charge of the case, on hearing this story from the man's relatives, decided to try the effects of counter-suggestion, and advised Weiss' relatives to recover the deed of sale.

Krauss, however, declared that since he had bought the other man's salvation his own business had prospered exceedingly, and he refused to give it up under £40. Weiss was unable to pay this, but finally the chief rabbi of Pressburg, to whom the matter had been reported, induced Krauss to hand the deed back to the sick man on receipt of £20.

The effect was most marked. Weiss, reassured as to the fate of his soul, immediately improved. A new deed was drawn up, in which Krauss solemnly reconveyed the other man's salvation to him. This was witnessed by two doctors, and Weiss has now been discharged cured.

THE NICKEL'S SHOW

Big Houses Greet Opening of Splendid New Programme.

The Nickel was opened for another week yesterday with bumper houses all afternoon and evening. Every crowd that left the big auditorium was thoroughly satisfied with the quality of the show down to the smallest detail. The pictures were excellent in subject matter, clearly and scientifically projected; the orchestral music up to the usual high standard and brand new, the songs up-to-date and most pleasingly rendered, the house staff attentive and courteous. The newest addition to the list of employes is the matron, whose duty it is to see that the ladies—particularly the elderly ladies—and the children are well seated and cared for throughout the performance.

The leading picture is entitled A Doctor's Conscience, and presents a very dramatic and ingenious plot, full of strong situations and with stirring climax. The Maniac Juggler was a continued scream of laughter, which drowned the orchestra, while A Well-Played Trick and Magical Wine Glasses were of a highly entertaining quality, the latter a clever conception in colored mystery photographs. DeWitt Cairns in singing 'Neath the Old Cherry Tree, Sweet Marie, and Mr. Newcombe with In the Valley of Keentucky, made instant hits and will be welcomed again today. The orchestra had a lot of new selections; same show this afternoon and evening.

THE LITTLE MINISTER

Harkins Company Scored Another Pronounced Hit at the Opera House Last Night.

The W. S. Harkins company presented The Little Minister to a large and very enthusiastic audience in the Opera House last night. The presentation was an entire success from every point of view and every incident of the play was most thoroughly enjoyed.

Miss Van Duzer as Lady Babbie made a decided hit in her dual role of the gypsy maid and Lord Rintoul's daughter. The part seemed particularly well suited to her and she left nothing to be desired in her interpretation of the part. She was seen to best advantage in the fourth act with the Little Minister and later with her father. She executed a very pretty little dance in the former scene.

Mr. Bernard as Gavin Deshart, the Little Minister, has a good stage presence and acted his difficult role in a manner most pleasing to the audience. He will lend additional strength to Mr. Harkins' already excellent company.

Carl Fey as Rob Dow lived up to his usual excellent standard and gave a most realistic portrayal of the character allotted to him.

Aldrich Bowker as Lord Rintoul, was true to his part as the autocratic lord of the castle. He gave a good portrayal of the struggle between the representative of the majesty of the law and the brusque old father who is forced to bend to the will of his capricious daughter.

Harry Stubbs, as Sneky Hobart, was a prime favorite and one could see that, with all his offended dignity at the conduct of the minister, he really sympathized with him when he said "her boy am I."

Orson Dunn, as Thomas Whammond, the chief elder of the kirk, was particularly fine and was especially good in dialect.

Fred Cummings, as Andrew Maelmaker, was also very good and he and the two preceding made an excellent trio. Their make-ups in the third and fourth acts were very original and caused much amusement among the audience.

Miss Anderson, as Nannie Webster, made a characteristic old Scotch lady. Miss Blanche Malli as the French maid, Felice, was very good and both looked and acted her part well. Miss Farnsworth, as the boy, Micah, Rob Dow's son, made the most of her part.

Harrison's orchestra rendered some familiar Scotch airs in a most entertaining manner, which did much to make the evening pleasant. Taken altogether the play is about the best yet presented by the Harkins company.

Dr. D. McN. Parker

Halifax, Nov. 4—Hon. D. McN. Parker, M. D., died this afternoon. Mr. Parker was a life-long friend of Sir Charles Tupper and was born of United Empire Loyalist stock, at Windsor in 1822. He graduated in medicine at Edinburg in 1845. In 1867 he was made a member of the legislative council of Nova Scotia from which, on account of ill health, he retired in 1899. During his long term of practice in Halifax, besides being president of the Medical Society of Nova Scotia and of Canada, he filled a large numebr of other offices—commisioner of schools, governor of Acadia College for twenty-five years, president of the Baptist convention, and a member of the boards governing the hospitals of the city.

Dr. Parker was for fifty years a member of the First Baptist church. He was the first surgeon in Halifax to perform an operation with the use of an anaesthetic, having first had it administered to himself to prove its safety. The first case in Halifax of the removal of ovarian tumors, which had counted their victims by the hundreds of thousands, was performed by Dr. Parker, he having assisted Dr. Keith, of Edinburg, the distinguished specialist in such operations.

In politics Mr. Parker was uniformly a supporter of the Conservative party. He was twice married.

The Gastric Juices Are Not Doing Their Duty and You're in the Grip of Nervous Dyspepsia.

A hot bitter fluid, and sour indigested food rise in your mouth.

Your vision is crossed with specks that float before the eyes.

Very shortly you'll have nausea, rank breath, and sleepless nights.

What you need is Ferrozone.

It regulates the gastric juices, puts new life into the stomach, braces digestive powers, gives the aid that's so badly required.

Ferrozone is the best treatment because it goes to the root of the trouble, remedies the conditions that cause dyspepsia and thereby cures permanently.

If you want proof, read the experience of Mr. E. P. Davison, a well known resident of Portland, who writes: "Ferrozone is beyond doubt a most powerful cure for indigestion and weak stomach. Food so badly disagreed with me that I was almost afraid to eat. Pastry and starchy foods fermented, caused sour risings and gave me headaches, brown taste offensive breath. I grew weak, my weight ran down fifteen pounds and my looks fully indicated all that was wrong. Ferrozone put me on my feet again. It braced me up, renewed my digestion and made me a well man."

Doctor and patients alike speak of the merit of Ferrozone; it is different from other remedies, different because it cures so you stay cured. Try it; sold everywhere in 50c. boxes.
