But Royson had found adversity a hard taskmaster. He had learnt early the lesson that a man who takes a leap in the dark should at least jump from firm ground, and when he asked himself what was the definite charge he would prefer against von Kerber his logic was brought to an abrupt halt. In plain English, he depended on a few words in the solicitor's letter, and these, in their turn, were probably inspired by the one-sided statements of the Austrian's avowed enemy, Alfieri. This consideration brought him back to the starting-point in his review of a puzzling situation. Fielding, whoever he might be, had done the right thing in placing his case before Mr. Fenshawe by letter. It would serve to clear the ground, and give scope for the interference of one who really had no cause of complaint against von Kerber.

"Anyhow," reflected Royson, smiling at the queer manner in which many opposing interests helped to entangle him in a mesh of difficulties, "I need not rush my fences. Let Fenshawe read his letter, and, above all else, let me seek counsel from his granddaughter. Then, by happy chance, I may hit on the right line."

When a young man does not want to deprive himself of the company of a nice woman, he may be depended on to argue himself into a state of mind which does not demand such a sacrifice.

At that instant Irene rose and told Captain Stump that she agreed with him—a scintilla of the chattering mob in the street was more to her taste than a description of the frocks worn at the last court ball. Dick pocketed his letters and, Mrs. Haxton was bending forward in her chair and examining the mixed pile of correspondence on the table. There was no grave significance in the action, because a number of magazines and newspapers were mixed with the heap, and but Royson, knowing of the existence of one document of exceeding importance, acted on the principle that if opportunity makes the thief Mrs. Haxton's reputation should remain unsullied that day if it lay in his power. He lit a cigar, wheeled his chair slightly, and sat, facing her, at a distance of ten or twelve feet. The open railing of the veranda was half a yard away on his right and on Mrs. Haxton's left. Through the narrow rails they both could see the opposite pavement, with its dun-colored throng of natives and the gloomy interiors of several small shops, while the white walls and closed-lattice windows of the upper stories seemed to be bleaching visibly in the slanting rays of a fierce afternoon sun.

Mrs. Haxton, apparently giving no heed to Royson, glanced listlessly at the wrappers and postmarks. The task seemed to prove uninteresting. Soon she selected a periodical, and was about to open it when a remark from Irene caught her ear.

"That Italian standing in front of the grain-dealer's place seems to be rooted to the ground with astonishment at seeing strangers in the hotel," said the girl, turning her smiling face towards her companion.

"Them dogs are impudent pups at times, miss," replied Stump. "His red eyes no doubt meeting the man's stare with a fixity that might have disconcerted most gapers."

"Does he know you, do you think?" I happened to see him coming along the street, and as soon as he saw us he stood stock-still. He has been gazing up here now for the past two or three minutes.

"I've booted a rare lot of Italians in my time," said Stump. "I wouldn't be a bit surprised if he was some loafer I'd helped across a ship's gangway at Genoa or Naples."

"But captain," laughed Irene, "that man appears to be a superior class."

"Bless yer heart, miss that's nothin'."

By the cut of his jib I'd rate him as a fiddler, and I remember once, at Brindisi, I was pointed out two counts at a marble among the coal-heavers."

Naturally enough, Mrs. Haxton and Dick looked for the person whose singular behavior was under discussion. Though they had no difficulty in finding him, it was impossible that they themselves could be seen with any degree of clearness. The railing and the deep shade of the veranda shielded them effectually. The Italian, a man of middle height, with a finely molded face and soldierly aspect, a man whose bearing went far to prove that Stump's general estimate of a great nation was apt to be wrong, was certainly very much taken up with the appearance of the two figures leaning over the balcony. But Royson had scarce time to note his main characteristics when he heard Mrs. Haxton utter a queer gasping sob. It seemed to him that she had only just succeeded in smothering a scream. Her cheeks suddenly became ashen gray, and her tightly compressed lips were bloodless. All her beauty fled, as the tints of a rose die under certain varieties of chemical light. Her eyes dilated in an alarming way, and lines not visible previously now puckered the corners of her mouth.

Owing to the babel of tongues in the street, neither Irene nor Captain Stump knew how terribly the mere sight of her eyes dilated in an alarming way, and lines not visible previously now puckered the corners of her mouth.

At that instant Irene rose and told Captain Stump that she agreed with him—a scintilla of the chattering mob in the street was more to her taste than a description of the frocks worn at the last court ball. British Columbia Likes Gin Pills.

Chilliwack, B.C.
I divide the year about equally working on this ranch and on various logging claims, being consequently entirely dependent on bodily fitness for a living. At times I have suffered like many others in this country from backache and weak kidneys, sometimes to the extent of being laid up for weeks together. Having tried many remedies I have pleasure in stating that your Gin Pills are the only one from which I have derived any permanent benefit. I had been using them only a short time when the trouble left me, and has not returned since.

THE SYNOD HAD THREE BUSY SESSIONS YESTERDAY

The Proposed Medley Canonry Fund was the Subject of Much Dis- cussion Yesterday Af- ternoon and Evening.

At the sessions of the Church of England Synod yesterday considerable business was transacted. Consideration was given to various sections of the Bishop's charge and committees were appointed for the ensuing year.

At the afternoon session consideration of the report of the committee on the bishop's address was resumed. Section 7 relating to the Medley canonry was adopted as follows:—"Your committee are of the opinion that this charge should at once be filled, and that the board of missions be instructed to augment the interest accruing from the Pan-Canadian thank-offering by a grant from the board of missions, sufficient to raise the stipend of such canon to the sum of $1,000.00 and traveling expenses. They also feel that it is most important to keep before the diocese the necessity of adding to the capital sum of the Medley Canonry Fund until such sum shall be sufficient to provide for both the salary and contingent expenses connected with the Medley canonry, and the committee would respectfully suggest that the offerings at confirmation services should be devoted to this purpose."

Section 8 was as follows:—"Your committee heartily rejoice to hear of the good work done for the diocese by the members of the different chapters of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew in St. John and elsewhere, and also of the phenomenal success of the laymen's missionary movement in St. John to send out delegations to other parts of the diocese."

Dean Schofield, Rev. Mr. Sisam (Moncton), Rev. R. A. Armstrong, Mr. Neale (Chatham) and other spoke strongly on the benefits and advantages of having a chapter in the parishes, the clergy paying eloquent tribute to the laudable assistance they received from the brotherhood in their work. The section was adopted.

Section 9 relating to the ministry was as follows:—"Your committee having given careful consideration to the section of his Lordship's charge dealing with the subject of the ministry, would recommend the issuing by his lordship of a special epistle and gospel for the ember seasons; and would also approve of the formation of the ordination candidates council therein recommended saving always the Episcopal responsibility."

The section was adopted without discussion.

Section 10 regarding appointments to rectories, and removal therefrom was adopted as follows:—"Your committee most strongly approve the principle set forth in his lordship's charge, with regard to appointment of clergymen to aided missions, and recommend that the executive committee be authorized to prepare a bill to amend the church act, insofar as it relates to election, and presentation to rectories, and the management and control of all temporalities in all aided missions and report such bill to the synod at its next session; and that a special committee be appointed to deal with the subject of removal from rectories."

On section 11 relating to aided missions there was a long discussion.

The report of the committee as originally presented was as follows:—"Your committee are of the opinion that in regard to aided missions, the principle should be made to the missionary in aid of stipend, on condition that an amount (to be agreed upon between the board of missions and the mission) be raised in the mission and paid directly to the missionary, and that the board of missions be instructed to carry this into effect; and further, they recommend that all aided missions be encouraged to make voluntary offerings to the missionary funds of the diocese."

The recommendation of the committee that the amount raised in the mission should be paid direct to the missionary was strongly opposed, and a long and earnest discussion followed.

The committee asked leave to amend their report by substituting that the board of missions should reconsider the present canon and report at the next meeting of the synod but as the resolution retained the condition as to the method of payment to the missionary the request was refused.

The great majority of the clergy from the present system. Dean Schofield, G. O. Dickson City and one or two other members advocated the change.

The discussion had not concluded at 6 o'clock when the synod adjourned until 8 p. m.

This and the remaining sections of the report were adopted at the evening session. The other sections provided: That the stipend for each canon be raised to $1,000 a year and traveling expenses, and that the offerings at confirmation services be devoted to the needy canonry fund; that the executive committee move for the amendment of the Church Act regarding election and presentation to rectories; that grants should be made to missionaries in aid of stipend, on condition that an amount (to be agreed upon between the board of missions and the mission) be raised in the mission and paid directly to the missionary, that an advisory committee be appointed to consider all proposals to erect new churches in the diocese.

His Lordship announced that he had appointed Rev. A. W. Smithers, Medley Missionary Canon.

The report of the committee on constitutions was considered and adopted and the notice of motion from last year to transfer the funds of the board of education to the finance board was carried.

W. E. Wallace, K.C., gave notice of motion for next year to amend the canon referring to the widows and orphans fund and the synod adjourned till this morning at 10 o'clock.

Laurier's work led the way to the adoption of preferential treatment of Great Britain in other parts of the Empire.

FIRST FREE RURAL MAIL DELIVERY ROUTE OPENED

Acting promptly on the decision of the Liberal government to give the people in the rural districts the benefits of the free mail delivery system, the post office department yesterday established the first free rural mail delivery service in the province when the carrier went on the first route a street of ten miles in the Upper Knoxford parish, Carleton county.

Thirty-two boxes were installed under the supervision of James Henderson of the St. John post office, who returned from Centreville last night after establishing the system.

The idea of rural mail delivery, popular everywhere, has created a fine impression in that section of Carleton county, where it is being seen in operation. It is expected that the service will soon be greatly extended.

Weak Women

To weak and ailing women, there is at least one way to win. But with many, two treatments must be combined. One is local, one is constitutional, but both are important, both essential. Dr. Shoop's Night Cure is the local. Dr. Shoop's Restorative is the constitutional. The former—Dr. Shoop's Night Cure—is a topical mucous membrane suppository remedy, while Dr. Shoop's Restorative is wholly an internal treatment. The Restorative reaches throughout the entire system, seeking the repair of all nerve, all flesh, and all blood ailments. The "Night Cure", as its name implies, does its work while you sleep. It soothes sore and inflamed mucous surfaces, brings about renewed strength, vigor, and energy. Take Dr. Shoop's Restorative—Tablet or Liquid—a general tonic to the system. For positive local help, use as well the "Night Cure".

GREAT MEETING AT MILLSTREAM

Geo. W. Fenwick, Dr. Pearson and E. H. McAlpine Held Big Meeting Last Night.

Sussex, N. B., Oct. 22.—The large public hall at Mill Stream was crowded to overflowing tonight in the interest of Dr. McAlister and many were unable to get in. Warren Mason in the chair. Geo. W. Fenwick, of the Millstream Law School, Dr. Pearson and E. H. McAlpine, were the speakers. The meeting closed with ringing cheers for McAlister.

AT THE NICKEL

Of all the engrossing travel pictures shown in this city lately none will have appealed more to the populace in general than "The Doll-Making Industry," which is booked for today. It will be of certain delight to the little ones and a treat for grown-ups as well. The making of lovely French dolls from the moulding stage right down to the finished product is shown in the most interesting and close range. Besides, this will be the domestic and at the same time semi-religious drama "The Happiest Day Of Her Life," of a little girl who was cured by a miracle. The church scenes in this were taken in one of the largest churches in Paris. "Two Good Grips" and the amusing tale of a widow and widower who met romantically in a cemetery. Last evening the Dramagraph Company's production of "A Lover's Ruin" proved laughable and exciting and will be a big feature for today's and Saturday's matinees. In fact the show of pictures in toto is a strong magnet for the children. Mr. Cairns and Miss Foley have scored new triumphs in their latest shows.

KLARK-URBAN CO.

A good sized audience witnessed the second performance of the Parish Priest in the Opera House last night, and showed their appreciation by frequent and liberal applause. The entire cast was good, the scenery excellent, and the specialties between acts above the average. The entire performance was well and credit to a higher degree of attraction.

The Black Band is announced for tonight and is said to be one of the best dramas in the company's large repertoire, and as the play is new, a large attendance should be expected. The specialties will all be new, and up to the standard.

AT THE PRINCESS

A very large crowd attended the Princess last night and thoroughly enjoyed the excellent performance. For tonight there will be an entire change of program—new pictures, new songs and vaudeville specialties. The Tavern Keeper's Daughter is a drama of western life; The Chaucer's Dream is a transformation picture; Fountains of Rome, is a beautiful scenic picture. A Second-hand Camera is a comedy picture; Mr. Provan, the Scotch comedian, will have a change of act; illustrated songs by Miss Smith and Mr. Courtney.

John E. McAuley, of Lower Millstream, Kings county, is a councillor of the parish of Studholm and an active Conservative and supporter of George W. Fowler. He is also a member of the Purity League and Temperance Federation of Kings county. Ira Earle is a prominent Liberal in the parish of Kars. He is postmaster at Belleisle Bay, and for years has tended the scow ferry placed at that point for the convenience of the people.

The following letter from John McAuley to Mr. Earle explains itself and is commended to the attention of those interested:

"Lower Millstream, Sept. 28, 1908.
"Mr. Ira Earle:
"Dear Friend:—I am writing you a short letter, I believe for your own benefit, regarding the future. As you know, we are before an election and everything at present points to the Laurier Government going down. Now Ira, let me and I reason together for a moment. First of all, the local government is changed and you are holding a position. Now if you put up a good bluff that you are taking no part, it WILL MAKE YOU SAFE FOR THE OFFICE YOU HOLD FOR THE FUTURE. ALSO, IF YOU TAKE ANY ACTIVE PART IN THE COMING ELECTIONS, and as I do consciously believe they go out, YOU WILL LOSE YOUR POST OFFICE AND THE SCOW BOTH. So Ira, for your own sake do not make any fuss over elections. Now remember, I am not asking you not to vote for your own party, but let no man know how you vote. Then neither party can censure you anyway. As I want to see you hold the Post Office, also the scow, please do not give me away as I am registering this letter. If you cannot do anything else, you CAN SHAM SICK FOR A MONTH. I HAVE DECIDED NOT TO MAKE ANY PRICE THIS TIME. *****
"Now do not say this outside, but watch carefully as it does not matter whether you or I vote or not this time, so no more in politics."

ST. STEPHEN 21, B. & P. 8

The champion St. Stephen team defeated the Brock and Paterson aggregation by this score last evening in St. Stephen's rooms, Charles street. The St. Stephen's forwards, although a little off in their shooting, played a fast, hard game. The St. Stephen defense—Smith and Ellis—played the hardest kind of a game, only two field goals being made off them.

Latham and Barton were the stars for the champions, while Paterson, Manning and Wetmore played the best games for the losers. At the end of the first half the score was 5-3 in favor of St. Stephen's. Wm. Paterson was referee. St. Stephen's next game will be with the St. Mary's team of the church league next Tuesday night in St. Mary's rooms. The line up last night was:
