Our teeth are so natural in size, shape, color and the expression they afford to the features as to defy detection EVEN BY A DENTIST unless closely examined.

SCHOONER ARRIVED AFTER ROUGH TRIP

The Schooner Lewanika Reached St. Vincent Safely—Was About Given up for Lost.

After a passage of 60 days, about 40 days more than is usually required on such a voyage, the schooner Lewanika, Capt. E. C. Williams, arrived yesterday at St. Vincent, West Indies, from Moss Point, Mississippi. The vessel has apparently encountered all the heavy storms that have been prevalent in that region during the past two months.

Last evening R. C. Elkin, received a cable from Capt. Williams saying that they had arrived safely after a very boisterous passage. She lost a part of her deckboard and some of her sails but the crew are safe.

The message was a great relief to the agent, R. C. Elkin and also to the members of Capt. Williams' family here, as they had about given up all hope of ever hearing from the vessel.

The cablegram did not give much information, but details will be forthcoming in a letter.

The Lewanika was loaded with pitch pine. She was 298 tons net.

Capt. Williams home is in the North End.
