JUBILEE IS ENDED

Successful Celebration in the Leinster St. Baptist Church Closed Last Night.

There was a large gathering of the members of Leinster street Baptist church and their friends last evening at the closing service in connection with their 50th anniversary. The evening proved very interesting and enjoyable. They met first in the auditorium where A. A. Wilson, K.C., clerk of the church read a history of the congregation. There was also a roll call of the members and addresses were delivered by Rev. Dr. J. A. Gordon, of Montreal, and Rev. E. W. Kelly. Adjournment was then made to the schoolroom, where a congregational social was held and a short but excellent programme presented.

The nucleus of the congregation now worshipping in the Leinster street building was organised in a chapel in what was then known as Church street, near the Marsh bridge on March 29, 1858. The first pastor was Rev. E. B. DeMill, a son of Nathan S. DeMill of this city. Of the original fifteen charter members of the church, only one is now alive, Campbell G. Berryman, now in South America. In 1860 rooms were taken in Ritchie's building, where a Sunday school was organized and weekly prayer meetings held. Services were, however, continued in the Marsh bridge chapel till January 1861.

In April, 1860, the membership of the church having grown to seventy-three, a lot to the east of the present building was bought and seven years later a new building was completed. Rev. Mr. De Mill died in 1863 and was succeeded by Rev. W. V. Garner, of Binghampton (N. Y.) He resigned in the fall of 1866 and Rev. W. S. McKenzie, A.M., took charge in the following year. Rev. Mr. McKenzie resigned in 1872 and in the fall of 1873, Rev. J. D. Pope, of Norwich (N.Y.), took up the work. The church building was destroyed by the fire of 1877, as also was a parsonage adjoining.

Rev. Mr. Pope left in 1878 and for a time the congregation was ministered to by Rev. W. P. Everett and Rev. Geo. Armstrong. On Dec. 15, 1878, the vestry of the present church was occupied. The pastors who since have been in the pulpit of Leinster street church, with the dates of their ministrations were: Rev. E. W. Kelly, 1879-82; Rev. Dr. Bartlett, 1883-85; Rev. J. A. Gordon, D.D., 1885-88; Rev. E. M. Botterell, 1888-89; Rev. H. G. Melick, 1889-94; Rev. E. E. Daley, A.B., 1895-98; Rev. Ira Smith, 1899-1901; Rev. Christopher Burnett, 1902-05; Rev. Wellington Camp, A.M., 1905. The lands and buildings with furnishings of Leinster street church cost originally $45,580.22. The pipe organ was installed in 1889 at a cost of $2,500.

The Missing Men

At the late Publishers' Convention held in New York city the following questions were asked of various editors:

"What has become of the funny man who used to write about the mother-in-law dropping in unexpectedly on the family.

"What has become of the mirthful chap who used to come out in the fall with a tale of putting up the coal stove, and in the spring with a tale of moving it up stairs, down stairs or into the back yard?"

"The man who wrote about the railroad sandwich—where is he? Where is the sandwich? Where are the graves of those who laughed themselves to death over his joke—always the same joke?"

"And the man who used to convulse the country with his story of running across the back yard of a dark night and sawing his neck on a clothes line—is he living or dead? Did he at last saw his own head off on that much-used clothesline?"

"And there was the husband who helped ed clean house in the spring and started to move a bureau up or down stairs. It always got the better of him about the middle of the stairs, and with one wild yell to his wife he was rolled over and over and made a wreck of. Where is he now?

"And the man who decided that the cellar needed whitewashing and started in so bravely, to get his eyes filled with the compound at the third stroke of the brush and lay it off on his wife? Is he here with us yet?

"And the man who tried to hang a screen door? And the man who did some spring painting? And the man who tried to get a barrel of vinegar down cellar unaided? Where are they? Have you seen them of late? Do you know where they can be found?"

And each and every publisher appealed to shook his head in a sad and solemn way and let a tear roll down his cheek in memory of the good men gone.
