DR. NANSEN'S DUAL LIFE.

The life of Dr. Nansen, who has just been appointed Professor of Oceanography at the University of Christiania, seems to alternate between a spell of adventure in the wilds and one of calm scholastic seclusion. He received his education at the University where he is now professor, and then went off to the Greenland Sea. Home again, he became attached to the Bergen Natural History Museum. Then came his famous tramp across Greenland. He rested awhile in the Museum of Comparative Anatomy at Christiania, and then made his famous dash to the Pole. After the no less famous greeting with Mr. Jackson—"How do you do?" was all they said at first—and a much-needed warm bath, he was appointed Professor of Zoology at Christiania. The spell in London as Norwegian Minister broke that connection, but he now returns to his alma mater with added honors and an undiminished capacity for work.

The Yarmouth steamship Usher, Captain Perry, arrived at Auckland last Tuesday from Newport News via St. Lucia.

Two schooners, the E. Mayfield and the Jessie D., cleared yesterday for Eastport with 1,500 bags of salt each.

The Battle Line steamer Albuera, Captain Lockhart, arrived at Savannah last Tuesday from Jacksonville.

The Norwegian- steamer Lovstakken, Handeland, left Sharpness for this port on the 22nd inst.
