THE IDEAL WIFE

Shapes the Destiny of Men—The Influence of a Healthy Woman Cannot Be Overestimated.

Seven-eighths of the men in this world marry a woman because she is beautiful in their eyes—because she has the qualities which inspire admiration, respect and love.

There is a beauty in health which is more attractive to men than mere regularity of feature. The influence of women glorious in the possession of perfect physical health upon men and upon the civilization of the world could never be measured. Because of them men have attained the very heights of ambition; because of them even thrones have been established and destroyed.

What a disappointment then, to see the fair young wife's beauty fading away before a year passes over her head! A sickly, half-dead-and-alive woman, especially when she is the mother of a family, is a damper to all joyousness in the home, and a drag upon her husband.

The cost of a wife's constant illness is a serious strain upon the funds of a household, and too often all the doctoring does no good. If a woman finds her energies are flagging, and that everything tries her, dark shadows appear under her eyes, her sleep is disturbed by horrible dreams; if she has backache, headaches, bearing-down pains, nervousness, or depression, she should take means to build her system up at once by a tonic with specific powers, such as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

This great remedy for women has done more in the way of restoring health to the women of America than all other medicines put together. It is the safeguard of woman's health.

Following we publish, by request, a letter from a young wife, Mrs. Bessie Ainsley, of 611 South 10th Street, Tacoma, Wash., writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"Ever since my child was born I have suffered, as I hope few women ever have, with inflammation, female weakness, bearing-down pains, backache and wretched headaches. It affected my stomach so that I could not enjoy my meals, and half my time was spent in bed."

"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound made me a well woman, and I feel so grateful that I am glad to write and tell you of my marvelous recovery. It brought me health, new life and vitality."

What Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did for Mrs. Ainsley it will do for other women who are in poor health and ailing.

Its benefits begin when its use begins. It gives strength and vigor from the start, and surely makes sick women well and robust.

Remember Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound holds the record for the greatest number of actual cures of women's ills. This fact is attested to by the thousands of letters from grateful women which are on file in the Pinkham laboratory.

Women should remember that a cure for all female diseases actually exists, and that cure is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

If you have symptoms you don't understand write to Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., for special advice. The present Mrs. Pinkham is the daughter-in-law of Lydia E. Pinkham, her assistant before her decease, and for twenty-five years since her advice has been freely given to sick women.

When you find your heart the least bit out of rhyme, your nerves unbalanced, don't wait until you are prostrated on a bed of sickness. Take Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. They'll put you in such condition you'll never know you have a heart, make your brain clear and active, your nerves strong, your blood rich and pure, and your whole being thrill with a new life.

Mrs. John C. Yensen, Little Bocher, N.B., writes: "I was troubled with a stab-like pain through my heart. I tried many remedies but they seemed to do me more harm than good. I was advised by a friend to try Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, and after using two boxes I was completely cured. I cannot praise them enough for the world of good they did me for I believe they saved my life."

Price 60 cents per box or 3 boxes for $1.25, at all dealers or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

SUSPENDED ANIMATION

Warmth and Glow Prevent Burial of Child in North Carolina.

Richmond, March 26.—A remarkable case of suspended animation is reported at Mayock, N. C., where Bessie, the ten-year-old daughter of a farmer named Perry, lies seemingly dead, but with a body still warm, and a face with all the natural coloring of life. The child fell suddenly to the ground last Friday.

Two physicians were hastily summoned both of whom pronounced the girl dead. The face of the child retaining its natural color and her body its warmth, however, the parents of the child refused to permit a burial.

The child presents every appearance of being asleep except that her limbs are still and there is no breath. The physicians now say that it is a case of suspended animation.

HARD TIMES AFFECT LONDON BROKERS

London, March 26.—Doleful tales of hard times are being told in London just now, and while they are palpable exaggerations in some respects, there is no denying the fact that in respect to one set of London's business men they are fairly truthful. There is no doubt that the Stock Exchange is suffering grievously from the stagnation prevalent for some time past.

It has been stated that as many as 500 members of the Stock Exchange had not renewed their subscriptions. Whether this statement be true or not cannot be verified before the end of March. The deplorable shrinkage in business, however, is shown by the cutting down of office staffs. Nearly 100 clerks employed in the "House" have been withdrawn.

There are some 3,300 members of the Exchange at present, and at least a dozen dealers where there is not enough business to support them. A member of the Stock Exchange said yesterday that many of his fellow members had barely enough money in their pockets to pay their train fares.

This dearth of spending money is the basis of many tales of woe in the west end. The times are almost as bad, according to one authority, as just after the Boer war.

POLICE DOG ARRESTS BURGLAR

(N. Y. Herald.)

Had John Thompson, forty-five years old, who gave his address as No. 3 York street, read the newspaper accounts of the deeds of the police dogs in Parkville in the last three days, he would have carried a bag filled with carpenter tools through the streets yesterday morning.

While elated at the success of Dona, one of the dogs, who captured Thompson, after two policemen had failed to overtake him, Captain Kelly is angry that the no-burglary record for March has been broken.

"This is the first prisoner who has been brought in here on charge since the last week in February," he said. "Before the dogs came here housebreaking was common. There is no denying it, this was a burglar's paradise."

It was just after three o'clock yesterday morning when Policeman McGovern saw a man who had a bag over his shoulder walking rapidly up East Seventeenth street, near avenue F. At the same time the man noticed the policeman and ran.

McGovern gave chase and yelled to the man with the bag to stop. For a hundred yards McGovern kept him in sight, but then the latter sprinted and pulled away. At this point Policeman Kee, who had heard McGovern's shout, joined in the chase. Kee blew his whistle for Dona, who was prowling in the bushes.

Kee heard the dog's answering bark, and the next instant a black streak came after the man with the bag. The black streak was Dona, who caught up with the man in a twinkling and jumped between his legs. The man turned a somersault, but Dona tripped him again when he regained his feet.

After that the man never had a chance for Dona held him until Kee and McGovern arrived. The man, who was Thompson, was taken to the station house, where on the bluff he was given credit for the capture.

As Thompson insisted that he was a carpenter and that the tools belonged to him, he was charged at first with being a suspicious person. When he was taken to the Flatbush Police Court, the charge was changed to burglary, after Frederick Hartman, controller, identified the tools as his property. Thompson was held for further examination today.

GOVERNOR GUILD GAINS A LITTLE

Boston, Mass., March 26.—The news from Governor Guild's bedside tonight was favorable. Dr. Frederick B. Winslow stated that the governor's condition had improved slightly since yesterday, notwithstanding a rather restless night. The last bulletin of tonight read: "The governor holds his gain of the past twenty-four hours."

While engaged in loading a steamer at Sand Point yesterday afternoon, William Duncan fell off the staging into a scow and was removed to the general public hospital in the ambulance. It was found his arm was broken, besides which he suffered bruises on his head, and internal injuries. He was resting comfortably late last evening.

HAD A STAB-LIKE PAIN THROUGH THE HEART, MILBURN'S HEART AND NERVE PILLS CURED HER AND SAVED HER LIFE.

There is no one, we imagine, so about deliberately to do injury to the heart, yet in the excitement and excesses of present-day living, the nervous system is done violence to, and the heart and nerves being so intimately bound up with one another, disorganization of the one means disease and disorder of the other.

When you find your heart the least bit out of rhyme, your nerves unbalanced, don't wait until you are prostrated on a bed of sickness. Take Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. They'll put you in such condition you'll never know you have a heart, make your brain clear and active, your nerves strong, your blood rich and pure, and your whole being thrill with a new life.

AN ELOQUENT ADDRESS GIVEN BY DR. MacPHAIL

Canadian Club Last Evening Heard Editor of University Magazine Speak on The Whole Duty of a Canadian.

The address of Dr. Andrew Macphail, of Montreal, editor of the University Magazine, at the Canadian Club luncheon last evening in Keith's Assembly Rooms, on The Whole Duty of a Canadian, was very interesting and practical, and was listened to attentively by the large number present. Dr. Macphail is a forceful and eloquent speaker and he dealt plainly with many important problems affecting Canadian life. Imperialism, imperial defence, home politics, loyalty to the mother land were all spoken of. Dr. Macphail also said that Canada was an expensive country to live in and that taxes were by far too high.

Dr. T. D. Walker was in the chair. Among the guests was Judge Russell, of Halifax. Dr. Walker referred to the death of W. B. Howard, sr., who had taken such an interest in the club. He also announced that Prof. Leacock, Archbishop Howley, of Newfoundland, and H. B. Ames, M. P., of Montreal, would address the club at future luncheons. The catering last evening was done by the King's Daughters' Guild, and the club's cutlery, suitably stamped, was used for the first time.

Dr. Macphail was heartily received. After introductory remarks of some length, he began his subject by saying that each individual owed a duty to himself as an individual and also as a citizen. It was with the civic duty he proposed to deal. All public achievement arose out of the excellence of individual effort. All social evils were the result of the breaking down of family life. Every branch of industrial development tended towards the destruction of family life. For the women of the poor there was now nothing left but the office, the factory or the street. For the rich it was worse, there was nothing but the club. The ideal of citizenship was committed to hibernals and the spring of natural affection had given place to a noisy sentimentality, bad alike for the mother and the child.

The family like in these days, however, was not enough. The ideal government, that averaged by the expression of the opinion of each individual. The theory of complete democracy was that each citizen should assist in the government. A belief commonly expressed was that "politics was a goal to which the leader was alone." Professionals said that nothing was known of the experience until one had passed through the throes of a recount, petition and cross-petition. (Laughter.) A man who said "I do not meddle with politics as I look for favors from both sides," was employing the language of the sycophant and the slave.

In Canada 73 per cent of the people live on farms and the other 27 per cent in cities. The people on farms did not express an opinion but those in the cities did. One result was that the country was becoming an expensive one to live in. In Toronto in nine years, from 1896 to 1906, the cost of living had increased 64 per cent. It was true that wages had increased, but not quite as much and the men who paid wages and bought material were in a bad position.

Dr. Macphail also urged that the truth should be told about Canada. The fact that the climate was cold in winter should not be hushed up. A few immigrants might be kept away, but in the long run it was better to tell the truth. Speaking of immigration, the speaker said that one object that should be kept in mind was that the immigrant should be happier in Canada than he had been in his own country.

Dr. Macphail also devoted some attention to parliament and said that Hansard contained language which would not be used in private life or in public by decent men. It should be remembered that this was not the 18th century. There was no longer any excuse for the titles Liberal and Conservative.

It was wise to be suspicious of the man who would govern the country by any one document. The life of a nation was too vast to be controlled by a paper. The Fathers of Confederation had little thought that their works would allow the dominion to roll in luxury while the provinces starved.

Dr. Macphail also warned against those who criticized England for making concessions to the United States. He summed up in eloquent language the difficulties which beset England in times of stress and urged that the greatest enthusiasm by his appeal to loyalty.

The speaker also dealt with imperial defence and pointed out the difficulties which surrounded the contribution of Canada to the navy at present, but urged the duty of making the coast secure as had been done in Australia.

WILL MAKE GEODETIC SURVEY

IN THE VICINITY OF ST. JOHN

Ottawa Official here to make Necessary Preparations—How the Operations will be Carried on.

Charles A. Bigger, on the staff of the Dominion astronomical observatory, Ottawa, who is in charge of the geodetic survey which is being made over all the settled parts of Canada, is in the city taking preliminary observations for a survey along the Bay of Fundy, which will be carried out during the coming summer.

Speaking to a Times reporter yesterday on the nature of the work, Mr. Bigger said the object of the survey was to establish the latitude and longitude of certain fixed points, generally some fifty or sixty miles apart, which would form the basis for the preparation of maps. The geodetic work, or in other words the measurement of the earth's surface by triangulation, would also eventually be used to determine the figure of the earth.

The present Canadian survey was really an extension of what is known as the oblique arc recently completed by the United States coast and geodetic survey. The north western and north eastern corners of the last quadrilateral determined by the United States survey, Mr. Bigger explained, were situated on Chamcook Mountain and on Grand Manan, in Charlotte county. During the last few days he had visited Chamcook Mountain, which was about four miles from St. Andrews. It was about 650 feet high and was adapted to form a south west corner of the chain of quadrilaterals which would be extended along the Bay of Fundy and continued as far as the eastern extremity of Cape Breton. One side of the quadrilateral, he added, would run on this side of the bay, the other would be decided by the distance of an angular point across the bay, in Nova Scotia.

Asked as to the methods employed in the work, Mr. Bigger said the angles between the points chosen were measured at night by means of acetylene reflectors. A small staff was employed. The reason the work was carried out by the observatory staff was on account of their having also to make an astronomical survey which would finally determine the geographical positions.

Mr. Bigger's stay in St. John naturally depends on the weather conditions. On leaving he proposes to visit some elevation about forty of fifty miles up the bay, the exact location of which will be determined while here by the nature of the country as seen through an astronomical telescope.

ARRIVES HOME AFTER A WRECK EXPERIENCE

Thomas Woods, Formerly Cabin Steward on Bark Strathern

Tells of his Adventures

A thrilling story of shipwreck and disaster is told by Thomas Woods, who returned to St. John yesterday after a long battle with winds and waves. Some weeks ago he held the position of cabin steward on board the bark Strathern, near the West Indies. In a terrific squall the bark was stripped of canvas twice and at length was driven ashore on some rocks off the island of St. Vincent.

In the excitement while Woods was cutting among the wreckage an iron bar fell on his foot, crushing it quite badly. Crippled in this way, he took part in the fight to save the bark, and the crew at length succeeded in kedging her off the rocks.

The Strathern was condemned by a board of trade inspectors, and Woods was obliged to look for another berth. He found one on board a Newfoundland schooner and on the voyage to St. John met with other thrilling adventures.

In one storm one man was washed overboard and lost, while he himself had a narrow escape. After two weeks spent in St. John's he took passage to Halifax on the steamer Ulinda, and yesterday morning arrived in St. John on the steamer Senlac. He will start work this morning in the Royal Hotel as porter.

The board of health reports that there are now ten or twelve cases of diphtheria in the city. The disease is steadily on the decrease.

A committee of the board of trade has a report from E. J. Granton, representative from Barbados at the conference between the Canadian and West Indian boards of trade. He recommends that it is essential that the difference between the duties levied at Canadian ports on sugar from British possessions and the duties on sugar from foreign countries should be proportionate appreciably in favor of the former.

A committee from the St. John Medical Society, composed of Dr. James H. Gray, Dr. J. P. McInerney and Dr. George G. Melvin, has been appointed to act with a committee from the board of health to wait upon the municipal council and ask that a medical inspector for the city be appointed. The idea is to appoint a physician who could devote his whole time to the work. He would also act as inspector in the schools.

Hon. R. J. Ritchie will be the new president of the Irish Literary and Benevolent Society, and John O'Regan vice-president.
