SALVATION AND SOOTHING SYRUP

A Hartford Baptist Church to start a Baby Annex to bring Mothers to Service

Hartford, Conn., April 1.—Salvation and soothing syrup will go hand in hand, if the plan of the Memorial Baptist Church meets with the success which its originality deserves. The deacons of the church have noticed a falling off in the number of cases which its originality deserves. The deacons of the church have noticed a falling off in the number of cases which its originality deserves. The deacons of the church have noticed a falling off in the number of cases which its originality deserves.

"Come and bring the babies with you. We'll see that they get the best of care and that you get the right ones back."
This is, in substance, the invitation that has been sent to every woman of family in the congregation. Fond papers who have had to do a little road work with the baby, if the mothers did take a chance on leaving the dears to their care, are considering the advisability of holding a mass meeting to publicly congratulate the deacons on the splendid idea.

It has been decided that the "nursery" room shall be in a remote part of the basement, where the youngsters can turn on the lung power without disturbing the worshippers overhead. On presenting her baby at the door each mother will receive a check, the details of which will be attached to little Tommy or Nellie, as the case may be. The women of the congregation will take turns presiding over the safety pin section, and a philanthropic old gentleman has promised to supply the new department with plenty of fresh milk and rubber hose.

"It will work splendidly," said a maiden lady, "unless those children get quarrelling and pull the identification tags off each other. Then think of the job we would have sorting them out!"

THE DEATH BED.

We watched her breathing thro' the night.
Her breathing soft and low
As in her breast the wave of life
Kept heaving to and fro.

We silently seemed to speak,
We slowly moved about,
We had lent her half our powers
To eke her living out.

Our very hopes belied our fears,
Our fears our hopes belied,
We thought her dying when she slept
And sleeping when she died.

For when the morn came dim and sad,
And chill with early showers,
Her quiet eyelids closed—she had
Another morn than ours.

CONCLUSIVE.

There is a story of a musician who, in talking with another passenger on a trans-Atlantic steamer, boasted that he was the best horn player in the world. "How do you prove it?" asked the other man, and the player responded: "I don't prove it; I play it!"

SHE WOULD GROW CHILDREN ON PLAN OF GARDEN TRUCK

Miss Mary Jewell will raise crop of Sturdy Youngsters on a Texas farm--Thinks Children and Vegetables can be Cultivated by same Methods

St. Louis, April 1.—Miss Mary Jewell, of Alton, may rent a farm in Texas for the purpose of putting into practice her theory of cultivating vegetables and children by the same methods. Miss Jewell desires to imitate Luther Burbank in the development of a "Shasta daisy," excepting that hers is to be human.

As the Alton representative of the Illinois Children's Home and Aid Society, Miss Jewell has, in the last four years, had opportunity for studying the children in whose interests she has worked. As she has transplanted them in some shape or other under which they grow, she has noticed the impetus. She has gloried in the additional vigor and promise which was attained by improved environment.

Now she will make an effort to establish a colony of children of various conditions whom she may personally care for and train.

"I think that a normal child has the same chance among other normal children as a perfect potato plant has among other perfect plants," Miss Jewell said to a reporter. "It is all a matter of nourishment and training. I think the average child is truly the creature of its environment."

Miss Jewell's desire to become a husbandman of vegetable and human plants was conceived during a trip through Texas recently. She saw women managing farms and was attracted because she thought she would love the life. Then it occurred to her that it would be a fine place for the growing of children, as well as potatoes.

"One of the first requisites for the proper development of a child is health," she said. "Farm work is healthy and affords suitable employment. They might learn much from healthy, growing plants in the fields. The child, like the plant, must be given proper nourishment and care. It must be protected and encouraged. The things with which it is brought into contact must be carefully selected."

It is Miss Jewell's plan to rent a small farm in Texas, which she will be able to operate with profit to all concerned. She says her plans are not at all mature, but she thinks arrangements will be made for her undertaking. She has investigated land in the Dakotas and Colorado but she favors the Texas location.

WHAT CANADA'S SURPLUS MEANS TO THE TAXPAYERS

It is Made up of Money Paid Out by the People and which Should be Returned when not needed

Montreal Shareholder.)

We have of late years become quite accustomed, in Canada, to large surpluses, and every time the budget is presented the Finance Minister smiles with satisfaction at the country's income having exceeded its expenditure. Now, while a surplus is undoubtedly better than a deficit, still, as we have on a previous occasion pointed out, it has been collected from and comes out of the pockets of the people who have a clear right to have it returned to them in some shape or other. It is their own money, over and above what they have paid for the maintenance of government, and if it is not returned to them in the shape of reduced taxation, should be expended in ways for the benefit of not private concerns or corporations, but the whole community, otherwise the surplus is neither more nor less than robbery as palpable as that which Dick Turpin committed with his pistol in his victim's face. Mr. Justice Miller, of the United States Supreme Court, stated some years ago, "To lay with one hand the power of the government on the property of the citizen, and with the other to build up private fortunes, is not less robbery because it is done under the forms of law and taxation." Unless the public as a whole participate in a surplus, the country is so much the poorer for having the extra taxation wrung out of the earnings of the people. An extravagant or wasteful government is the most pernicious of all governments and does more to impoverish its subjects than any other form could do. It lays on a burden which the former Rajahs of India did upon the ryots, starving them in order to keep up luxurious harems and hoard up diamonds and rubies, or like the Egyptian despots—before England took a hand in the game—did for the wretched fellows who tilled the cotton rich in order that the Khedives might loiter on silks and velvet. What is this but political corruption?—and are our white men willingly going to bow their necks to the yoke? Some of our members have been shouting in praise of our vast expenditure, and seem to glory in the fact that our federal taxation is nearly double per head of what it is in the United States, being almost $12 against about $6, failing or refusing to see that this does not necessarily mean prosperity, but simply a drain upon resources, which, however great, belong to the people, who should not be mulcted of their money. A camel will carry a heavy load, but there is the old story of the last straw breaking its back; and so a time will come, unless relief is given, when our white men will find their burden too heavy for their backs. The Manager of the Bank of Montreal is reported to have said in some remarks about vested rights and we are convinced that it is not the office of a government to be interfering and tinkering with private property. The plea that such are of public utility, for example, trade is more or less so; and further, it is the duty of a government to be as economical as possible, the funds collected being in trust, and belonging to the people. Until this is done, there will be political corruption, and the white man's burden will continue to grow.

REGULATIONS AT THE BISLEY MEET

New Rules will go into effect at this Summer's Meeting

Ottawa, April 1.—The Bisley meeting will open this year on July 13 and will continue during the fortnight. Various new regulations will come into force, among the most important of which may be mentioned the definition of a volunteer, which has been amended so as to include members of the territorial force and officers' training corps, while a retired volunteer need only have had ten years' service as such instead of twenty as hitherto. With the service rifle and backslight, whether including a vernier, ventometer or aperture sight, may be used in all competitions, provided it conforms to certain rules, and the War Office pattern miniature rifle may be used in competitions open to military miniature rifles. As regards targets, the second and third class will this year be circular, the divisions at 200, 300 and 600 yards remaining the same, but for 300 yards a new target has been introduced with a nine-inch bullseye and an eighteen-inch inner.

In the competitions probably the most important change is that made in the King's prize, in the second stage of which the twenty shots at 600 yards are now replaced by ten shots at 300 and ten at 600 yards. The Waldegrave, instead of being a single-distance competition, will now be at 800 and 900 yards, while a challenge cup has been presented by Major C. T. Mander for yeomanry competition in the mounted scouts' competition, and a challenge cup and £50 have been given by Mr. J. Hamilton Leigh for teams of five from any unit, to be shot for at Wantage targets at 300 yards.

TROPHY NAMED FOR A FAMOUS BALL PLAYER

Hans Wagner's name to be Perpetuated in Trophy Offered to Amateur Ball Teams in New York

New York, March 31.—The gift of Harry Pulliam, President of the National League, a cup to be known as the "Hans Wagner Trophy" will be competed for by the Clubs of the Interborough Amateur Baseball League.

Mr. Pulliam, in making his purpose of presenting the trophy, after eulogizing baseball as the most healthful of sports, said: "I consider Hans Wagner the greatest baseball player yet produced in the professional leagues, and I should like to perpetuate his name in the form of a cup. I will give a trophy to the best player in the Interborough Cup to the Interborough League to be won three seasons in succession before it becomes the property of any individual team. I think this will properly perpetuate the name of Wagner and at the same time make a good incentive for the Interborough players."

The Interborough League, composed of eight teams in Manhattan, Bronx, Brooklyn and Queens, will open its season Decoration day.

HEALEY AND ASQUITH.

Their Speeches in British House Arouse considerable Criticism

London, March 31.—Mr. Asquith's speech seems likely to produce a strained relationship between the government and the Nationalists. Bitter disappointment at it was expressed in the lobbies by the Irish members.

Mr. Healey's speech was a scathing attack on the chancellor. He reminded the House that in the question of amnesty for the dynamiter some years ago, Mr. Asquith "closed the gates of mercy with a clang," but the gates were opened by the Tory party within two years.

Then, referring to the ordeal of the Piggott forgeries, Mr. Healey said that the only thing he regretted was that Mr. Asquith was engaged in that case to defend the Parnellites. Continuing, he said that it was on the Irish question that Mr. Asquith first came into notice.

"Today he is an important man," said the speaker; "tomorrow he may be a god, but we shall not worship at his shrine."

Mr. Healey's argument was that the Conservatives would force "free trade versus protection" as a plank at the next general election; therefore Mr. Asquith's attitude meant indefinite deferment of home rule.

MACHINE MEASURES

JOY AND SORROW

New Instrument Records the Effects of Different Kinds of Music on Human System

New York, April 1.—Just how much joy or sorrow may be produced in the human system by various kinds of music will be shown with mathematical accuracy by a new instrument which will be exhibited in Carnegie hall. The mechanism will be shown by James E. Homans to members of the National Society of Musical Therapeutics.

As melody rises from the piano, from the instrument of seven strings and from the psalter, the subject will be secured to the machine and his blood circulation and vibration of his nerves accurately measured. Mr. and Mrs. Karl Feininger will help soothe the clinical material with piano and violin. The society, which was established last year, is devoted to the theory that many ills can be cured or mitigated by music.

The validity of convictions under the local option bylaw in Owen Sound is to be tested in the courts. There have been some 75 convictions under the local bylaw which will be affected by the decision in the case. It is claimed that the measure was put into force on the 15th of the month, and soon after the vote for the convictions under it to be legal.

East Indians resident at Vancouver have eabled a protest to Mr. John Morley, secretary for India, against their treatment in Canada.

English Immigrants in Toronto Prefer to Stay in the City

The immigration authorities are trying to place them on the farms in western Ontario, but not more than a third of them appeared willing to leave Toronto. The new arrivals are mostly English, with a few Scotch. Another train load arrived yesterday afternoon.

AGED MAN DIED TRUE TO HIS AFFECTIONS

Telegraph Operator suicided because young Girl jilted him

Vancouver, April 1.—Romantic indeed is the story of the death of William Heinz, a Yukon telegraph operator, whose body was found at Burns Lake, several weeks ago.

Months ago Heinz became infatuated with a girl of the under world, Flora Franklin. She is very young and professing affection for Heinz, who was 50, he sent her to Winnipeg to be educated, but recently she went to Los Angeles, where she is now in a convent. Before leaving Vancouver, he declared he would end his life if the girl went back on him.

He took a large quantity of morphine into the northern wilds, and circumstances point to suicide. His will be made several days before his death, and a note added that he was, in fact, instructing that his money, which he had, be forwarded to her. He left $2,000 in cash and property in the east.

M. De Struve, the Russian consul at Montreal, has made a proposal which is at present under consideration by the Canadian government, namely that the fanatical section of the Doukhobors should be permitted to settle on one of the small unoccupied islands under the French flag, near the French dependency of Tahiti, in the Pacific ocean.

Ladies & Gentlemen,

I will be a Candidate for ALDERMAN to Represent QUEENS WARD at the ensuing CIVIC ELECTION and kindly Solicit your Support.

Yours respectfully,

HENRY DUNBRIDGE

According to the report of the superintendent of education, there are 2,465 schools in Nova Scotia. It is stated that Nova Scotia has still the largest attendance at school, for the population of any country in the world. In one particular 1907 was a disappointment, the number of pupils falling 325 from the previous year, when the attendance was 100,232.
