

F. S. THOMAS' ANNUAL FUR SALE.

Commencing SATURDAY, JANUARY 4th, and Continuing Until Midnight of JANUARY 11th, it is Our Intention to Dispose of Every Dollar's Worth of Our Well Known Fashionable Furs. This Will be a Bona Fide Sale.

SWEEPING PRICE REDUCTIONS.

attention, and will be as well—if not better—looked after than if you were present in person. We guarantee to fill all MAIL ORDERS to your satisfaction. Note Our Prices.

Look For the Green Tickets Which, Marked in Plain Figures, Will Guide You to Bargains. Mail orders, as usual, will receive our prompt

ASTRACHAN JACKETS.

$40.00	-	-	-	now	$32.00.
35.00	-	-	-	now	27.50.
30.00	-	-	-	now	25.00.
25.00	-	-	-	now	18.50.

MARTEN TIES.

25.00	-	-	-	for	20.00.
20.00	-	-	-	for	16.50.
10.00	-	-	-	for	6.50.

MARMOT STOLES.

$9.00	-	-	-	for	$6.00.
--------	---	---	---	-----	---------

MARMOT STORM COLLARS.

18.00	-	-	-	now	$14.75.
15.00	-	-	-	now	11.75.

$12.00 Dyed Coon Double

18.00	-	-	-	now	15.00.
15.00	-	-	-	now	12.00.

Stole, 78 inches long,

18.00	-	-	-	now	$6.75.
-------	---	---	---	-----	---------

Children's Grey Lamb Caps

-	-	-	-	-	$1.50.
---	---	---	---	---	---------

MUFFS AT BIG DISCOUNTS.

—A LARGE LOT OF—

TIES AND STORM COLLARS AT HALF-PRICE.

PRICES FOR CASH ONLY.

NO GOODS ON APPROVAL.

WE SELL FURS LOWER THAN ANY HOUSE IN THE MARITIME PROVINCES.

DUFFERIN BLOCK.

Telephone 1274.

St. John, N. B.

539 and 541 Main Street, North End.

FINANCIAL and COMMERCIAL

COMMENTS ON CURRENT COMMENT

(Chicago Inter-Ocean.)

It is impossible to enumerate all the different kinds of blithering idiots who are running around just now with their mouths open, but here are a few of them: The man who regards it as "only a flury in Wall street."

The man who asks "Do you think we're going to have a panic?"

The man who says that "it has cleared the atmosphere."

The man who says "It's looking better" since these "crooked banks shut up."

The man who argues that these "New York swindlers" ruined themselves to "get even with Roosevelt."

The man who is sure that "Morgan, Rockefeller, and Harriman just did it to scare Teddy."

The man who suspects a "bank conspiracy" to hoard currency and "squeeze us all" while "they buy cheap stocks with our money."

The man with the amethyst ring and nickel-headed cane who announces every where that "they can't bluff Teddy," and "he's got the Wall street gamblers going."

The man who proclaims that "it helps the situation" to "smash the rotten banks," and that "Teddy's got the finance villains on the run."

The man who borrows $10 and then tells you "it'll be all right in a few days, because there's just as much money in the country as there ever was."

The man who sits at the pie counter and tells everybody that it is a "good thing" to "smash every bank in the country" and save the "common people" from "slavery" to the "money power."

BRITISH COLUMBIA AND ITS FORESTS

(Victoria Colonist.)

The action of the government in placing a reserve upon all the unskated timber lands in the province has created a great deal of interest in this city and the great majority of people applaud the action of the government.

Hon. F. J. Fulton, chief commissioner of lands and works did not care to say anything very much with regard to the subject.

There is abundant timber staked off to supply the mills for years to come, he remarked, "and we thought it wise to stop the taking up of timber until we decide upon what policy we shall finally adopt. Whether we will continue the system of timber leases, or shall change it in the future, is not to be discussed at present. We will give ourselves plenty of time to consider the matter."

The total amount of timber held under the 10,000 licenses at a very low estimate contains 3,200,000,000 feet of lumber. All the timber held under crown grants and otherwise is not included in this, and it is probable that the total figure would approximate nearer double the above figure than under it. With the total capacity of the mills of the province placed at under 250,000,000 feet a year, it will be seen that at the very lowest estimate it would take ten years to cut the timber at present staked.

A very successful year was reported, the total enrollment in the Sunday school being at present 355, the largest in the history of the school. The sum of $8,000 was raised and mostly expended for missions. A new library has recently been purchased. The largest increase in attendance had been in the adult classes taught by Rev. Mr. Hutchinson and Mrs. Roach, and it was recognized that these classes are doing a great work.

The annual meeting of the New Brunswick Military Veterans, which was held Thursday in their rooming house, was well attended. The officers for the ensuing year were elected, as follows: Andrew Emery, president; Thomas McAfee, vice-president; James Hunter, secretary; George Gorham, treasurer; J. Buchanan, W. Knowles, J. L. Eagles, C. Belcham, J. McCarthy and J. Alexander, managing committee. The association consists of the officers of the association and J. Buchanan, C. Bolyea and Thomas Nixon.

A letter was received from James McAvity, of the North End, who has been sick for a time, thanking the members for kindness to him on New Year's eve.

Recent visits to the Metropolitan and Manhattan Opera Houses, the real glasses in which fashion for men, as pertaining to evening clothes, are reflected, reveal the fact that several departures have been made by the smartest New York's smart set this winter in their evening attire. One that has become almost universal is that every recently made evening coat contains a lining of silk braid, a fashion, which until the present season, was confined entirely to morning suit and afternoon frock coats. A round of the boxes and in the foyers of the opera houses between the acts will show that nine of every ten men in evening dress, and fully this proportion in the theatre, are wearing coats with this innovation. It is a material difference in the appearance of the coat. A wide stripe of braid is also popular on the seams of trousers, and this, too, is almost universal this winter. The evening coat, to be worn over evening clothes, has returned to favor, and these have been generally adopted this winter. The well-dressed New Yorker has adopted a custom long prevalent in England—that of carrying a small silver-headed walking stick when in evening dress.

Mme. Nevro was one of those women whom it is difficult to please. Her husband took her one summer for a trip into Switzerland, and by dint of much care managed to keep her in good humor until they had nearly reached their destination. As the train commenced the last and steepest ascent it stopped a moment or two, and Mme. Nevro put her head out of the window to ascertain the cause. When she withdrew her head M. Nevro saw, with dismay that his peace was at an end. "What is the matter, my dear?" he asked.

"Matter enough," replied his spouse. "There are two engines on this train now, one at each end. You know I can't sit with my back to the engine without being ill, so what shall I do now, pray?"—Pele Mele.

J. W. Hoyt, collector of customs at McAdam, and son, William H., were in the city Thursday.

The great Uterine Tonic, and only safe effective Monthly Regulator on which women can depend. Sold in three degrees of strength—No. 1, 2, 3. 10 degrees stronger, $3; No. 2, for special cases, $5 per box. Sold by all druggists, or sent prepaid on receipt of price. Free pamphlet. Address: The Cook's Cotton Root Compound.

Deacon Hayrick—Farmer Corniasse has bought a new fur cap, a new pair of mittens and a new pair of boots.

Deacon Barndoor.—What for?

Deacon Hayrick.—To serve his own ends, I guess.

SUNDAY SCHOOL SUPPER

Good Time Enjoyed by Main St. Sunday School Last Evening.

The tables were waited upon by a number of teachers assisted by members of the senior classes. Among those prominent were Mrs. A. W. Thorne, Mrs. E. M. Sippell, Mrs. D. Hutchinson, Mrs. H. H. Roach, Mrs. Chalmers, and Mrs. T. Granville. The annual meeting of the officers and teachers of the Sunday school was held after the supper. The officers elected were H. V. Hayes, superintendent; Allison Myles and Walter Chase, assistants; John R. Cowan, treasurer; Stella Hayes, secretary; A. W. Thorne, librarian.

A very successful year was reported, the total enrollment in the Sunday school being at present 355, the largest in the history of the school. The sum of $8,000 was raised and mostly expended for missions. A new library has recently been purchased. The largest increase in attendance had been in the adult classes taught by Rev. Mr. Hutchinson and Mrs. Roach, and it was recognized that these classes are doing a great work.

The annual meeting of the New Brunswick Military Veterans, which was held Thursday in their rooming house, was well attended. The officers for the ensuing year were elected, as follows: Andrew Emery, president; Thomas McAfee, vice-president; James Hunter, secretary; George Gorham, treasurer; J. Buchanan, W. Knowles, J. L. Eagles, C. Belcham, J. McCarthy and J. Alexander, managing committee. The association consists of the officers of the association and J. Buchanan, C. Bolyea and Thomas Nixon.

A letter was received from James McAvity, of the North End, who has been sick for a time, thanking the members for kindness to him on New Year's eve.

Recent visits to the Metropolitan and Manhattan Opera Houses, the real glasses in which fashion for men, as pertaining to evening clothes, are reflected, reveal the fact that several departures have been made by the smartest New York's smart set this winter in their evening attire. One that has become almost universal is that every recently made evening coat contains a lining of silk braid, a fashion, which until the present season, was confined entirely to morning suit and afternoon frock coats. A round of the boxes and in the foyers of the opera houses between the acts will show that nine of every ten men in evening dress, and fully this proportion in the theatre, are wearing coats with this innovation. It is a material difference in the appearance of the coat. A wide stripe of braid is also popular on the seams of trousers, and this, too, is almost universal this winter. The evening coat, to be worn over evening clothes, has returned to favor, and these have been generally adopted this winter. The well-dressed New Yorker has adopted a custom long prevalent in England—that of carrying a small silver-headed walking stick when in evening dress.

Mme. Nevro was one of those women whom it is difficult to please. Her husband took her one summer for a trip into Switzerland, and by dint of much care managed to keep her in good humor until they had nearly reached their destination. As the train commenced the last and steepest ascent it stopped a moment or two, and Mme. Nevro put her head out of the window to ascertain the cause. When she withdrew her head M. Nevro saw, with dismay that his peace was at an end. "What is the matter, my dear?" he asked.

"Matter enough," replied his spouse. "There are two engines on this train now, one at each end. You know I can't sit with my back to the engine without being ill, so what shall I do now, pray?"—Pele Mele.

J. W. Hoyt, collector of customs at McAdam, and son, William H., were in the city Thursday.

The great Uterine Tonic, and only safe effective Monthly Regulator on which women can depend. Sold in three degrees of strength—No. 1, 2, 3. 10 degrees stronger, $3; No. 2, for special cases, $5 per box. Sold by all druggists, or sent prepaid on receipt of price. Free pamphlet. Address: The Cook's Cotton Root Compound.

Deacon Hayrick—Farmer Corniasse has bought a new fur cap, a new pair of mittens and a new pair of boots.

Deacon Barndoor.—What for?

Deacon Hayrick.—To serve his own ends, I guess.

The annual meeting of the New Brunswick Military Veterans, which was held Thursday in their rooming house, was well attended. The officers for the ensuing year were elected, as follows: Andrew Emery, president; Thomas McAfee, vice-president; James Hunter, secretary; George Gorham, treasurer; J. Buchanan, W. Knowles, J. L. Eagles, C. Belcham, J. McCarthy and J. Alexander, managing committee. The association consists of the officers of the association and J. Buchanan, C. Bolyea and Thomas Nixon.

A letter was received from James McAvity, of the North End, who has been sick for a time, thanking the members for kindness to him on New Year's eve.

Recent visits to the Metropolitan and Manhattan Opera Houses, the real glasses in which fashion for men, as pertaining to evening clothes, are reflected, reveal the fact that several departures have been made by the smartest New York's smart set this winter in their evening attire. One that has become almost universal is that every recently made evening coat contains a lining of silk braid, a fashion, which until the present season, was confined entirely to morning suit and afternoon frock coats. A round of the boxes and in the foyers of the opera houses between the acts will show that nine of every ten men in evening dress, and fully this proportion in the theatre, are wearing coats with this innovation. It is a material difference in the appearance of the coat. A wide stripe of braid is also popular on the seams of trousers, and this, too, is almost universal this winter. The evening coat, to be worn over evening clothes, has returned to favor, and these have been generally adopted this winter. The well-dressed New Yorker has adopted a custom long prevalent in England—that of carrying a small silver-headed walking stick when in evening dress.

Mme. Nevro was one of those women whom it is difficult to please. Her husband took her one summer for a trip into Switzerland, and by dint of much care managed to keep her in good humor until they had nearly reached their destination. As the train commenced the last and steepest ascent it stopped a moment or two, and Mme. Nevro put her head out of the window to ascertain the cause. When she withdrew her head M. Nevro saw, with dismay that his peace was at an end. "What is the matter, my dear?" he asked.

"Matter enough," replied his spouse. "There are two engines on this train now, one at each end. You know I can't sit with my back to the engine without being ill, so what shall I do now, pray?"—Pele Mele.

J. W. Hoyt, collector of customs at McAdam, and son, William H., were in the city Thursday.

The great Uterine Tonic, and only safe effective Monthly Regulator on which women can depend. Sold in three degrees of strength—No. 1, 2, 3. 10 degrees stronger, $3; No. 2, for special cases, $5 per box. Sold by all druggists, or sent prepaid on receipt of price. Free pamphlet. Address: The Cook's Cotton Root Compound.

Deacon Hayrick—Farmer Corniasse has bought a new fur cap, a new pair of mittens and a new pair of boots.

Deacon Barndoor.—What for?

Deacon Hayrick.—To serve his own ends, I guess.

The annual meeting of the New Brunswick Military Veterans, which was held Thursday in their rooming house, was well attended. The officers for the ensuing year were elected, as follows: Andrew Emery, president; Thomas McAfee, vice-president; James Hunter, secretary; George Gorham, treasurer; J. Buchanan, W. Knowles, J. L. Eagles, C. Belcham, J. McCarthy and J. Alexander, managing committee. The association consists of the officers of the association and J. Buchanan, C. Bolyea and Thomas Nixon.

A letter was received from James McAvity, of the North End, who has been sick for a time, thanking the members for kindness to him on New Year's eve.

Recent visits to the Metropolitan and Manhattan Opera Houses, the real glasses in which fashion for men, as pertaining to evening clothes, are reflected, reveal the fact that several departures have been made by the smartest New York's smart set this winter in their evening attire. One that has become almost universal is that every recently made evening coat contains a lining of silk braid, a fashion, which until the present season, was confined entirely to morning suit and afternoon frock coats. A round of the boxes and in the foyers of the opera houses between the acts will show that nine of every ten men in evening dress, and fully this proportion in the theatre, are wearing coats with this innovation. It is a material difference in the appearance of the coat. A wide stripe of braid is also popular on the seams of trousers, and this, too, is almost universal this winter. The evening coat, to be worn over evening clothes, has returned to favor, and these have been generally adopted this winter. The well-dressed New Yorker has adopted a custom long prevalent in England—that of carrying a small silver-headed walking stick when in evening dress.

Mme. Nevro was one of those women whom it is difficult to please. Her husband took her one summer for a trip into Switzerland, and by dint of much care managed to keep her in good humor until they had nearly reached their destination. As the train commenced the last and steepest ascent it stopped a moment or two, and Mme. Nevro put her head out of the window to ascertain the cause. When she withdrew her head M. Nevro saw, with dismay that his peace was at an end. "What is the matter, my dear?" he asked.

"Matter enough," replied his spouse. "There are two engines on this train now, one at each end. You know I can't sit with my back to the engine without being ill, so what shall I do now, pray?"—Pele Mele.

J. W. Hoyt, collector of customs at McAdam, and son, William H., were in the city Thursday.

The great Uterine Tonic, and only safe effective Monthly Regulator on which women can depend. Sold in three degrees of strength—No. 1, 2, 3. 10 degrees stronger, $3; No. 2, for special cases, $5 per box. Sold by all druggists, or sent prepaid on receipt of price. Free pamphlet. Address: The Cook's Cotton Root Compound.

Deacon Hayrick—Farmer Corniasse has bought a new fur cap, a new pair of mittens and a new pair of boots.

Deacon Barndoor.—What for?

Deacon Hayrick.—To serve his own ends, I guess.

The annual meeting of the New Brunswick Military Veterans, which was held Thursday in their rooming house, was well attended. The officers for the ensuing year were elected, as follows: Andrew Emery, president; Thomas McAfee, vice-president; James Hunter, secretary; George Gorham, treasurer; J. Buchanan, W. Knowles, J. L. Eagles, C. Belcham, J. McCarthy and J. Alexander, managing committee. The association consists of the officers of the association and J. Buchanan, C. Bolyea and Thomas Nixon.

A letter was received from James McAvity, of the North End, who has been sick for a time, thanking the members for kindness to him on New Year's eve.

Recent visits to the Metropolitan and Manhattan Opera Houses, the real glasses in which fashion for men, as pertaining to evening clothes, are reflected, reveal the fact that several departures have been made by the smartest New York's smart set this winter in their evening attire. One that has become almost universal is that every recently made evening coat contains a lining of silk braid, a fashion, which until the present season, was confined entirely to morning suit and afternoon frock coats. A round of the boxes and in the foyers of the opera houses between the acts will show that nine of every ten men in evening dress, and fully this proportion in the theatre, are wearing coats with this innovation. It is a material difference in the appearance of the coat. A wide stripe of braid is also popular on the seams of trousers, and this, too, is almost universal this winter. The evening coat, to be worn over evening clothes, has returned to favor, and these have been generally adopted this winter. The well-dressed New Yorker has adopted a custom long prevalent in England—that of carrying a small silver-headed walking stick when in evening dress.

Mme. Nevro was one of those women whom it is difficult to please. Her husband took her one summer for a trip into Switzerland, and by dint of much care managed to keep her in good humor until they had nearly reached their destination. As the train commenced the last and steepest ascent it stopped a moment or two, and Mme. Nevro put her head out of the window to ascertain the cause. When she withdrew her head M. Nevro saw, with dismay that his peace was at an end. "What is the matter, my dear?" he asked.

"Matter enough," replied his spouse. "There are two engines on this train now, one at each end. You know I can't sit with my back to the engine without being ill, so what shall I do now, pray?"—Pele Mele.

J. W. Hoyt, collector of customs at McAdam, and son, William H., were in the city Thursday.

The great Uterine Tonic, and only safe effective Monthly Regulator on which women can depend. Sold in three degrees of strength—No. 1, 2, 3. 10 degrees stronger, $3; No. 2, for special cases, $5 per box. Sold by all druggists, or sent prepaid on receipt of price. Free pamphlet. Address: The Cook's Cotton Root Compound.

Deacon Hayrick—Farmer Corniasse has bought a new fur cap, a new pair of mittens and a new pair of boots.

Deacon Barndoor.—What for?

Deacon Hayrick.—To serve his own ends, I guess.

The annual meeting of the New Brunswick Military Veterans, which was held Thursday in their rooming house, was well attended. The officers for the ensuing year were elected, as follows: Andrew Emery, president; Thomas McAfee, vice-president; James Hunter, secretary; George Gorham, treasurer; J. Buchanan, W. Knowles, J. L. Eagles, C. Belcham, J. McCarthy and J. Alexander, managing committee. The association consists of the officers of the association and J. Buchanan, C. Bolyea and Thomas Nixon.

A letter was received from James McAvity, of the North End, who has been sick for a time, thanking the members for kindness to him on New Year's eve.

Recent visits to the Metropolitan and Manhattan Opera Houses, the real glasses in which fashion for men, as pertaining to evening clothes, are reflected, reveal the fact that several departures have been made by the smartest New York's smart set this winter in their evening attire. One that has become almost universal is that every recently made evening coat contains a lining of silk braid, a fashion, which until the present season, was confined entirely to morning suit and afternoon frock coats. A round of the boxes and in the foyers of the opera houses between the acts will show that nine of every ten men in evening dress, and fully this proportion in the theatre, are wearing coats with this innovation. It is a material difference in the appearance of the coat. A wide stripe of braid is also popular on the seams of trousers, and this, too, is almost universal this winter. The evening coat, to be worn over evening clothes, has returned to favor, and these have been generally adopted this winter. The well-dressed New Yorker has adopted a custom long prevalent in England—that of carrying a small silver-headed walking stick when in evening dress.

Mme. Nevro was one of those women whom it is difficult to please. Her husband took her one summer for a trip into Switzerland, and by dint of much care managed to keep her in good humor until they had nearly reached their destination. As the train commenced the last and steepest ascent it stopped a moment or two, and Mme. Nevro put her head out of the window to ascertain the cause. When she withdrew her head M. Nevro saw, with dismay that his peace was at an end. "What is the matter, my dear?" he asked.

"Matter enough," replied his spouse. "There are two engines on this train now, one at each end. You know I can't sit with my back to the engine without being ill, so what shall I do now, pray?"—Pele Mele.

J. W. Hoyt, collector of customs at McAdam, and son, William H., were in the city Thursday.

The great Uterine Tonic, and only safe effective Monthly Regulator on which women can depend. Sold in three degrees of strength—No. 1, 2, 3. 10 degrees stronger, $3; No. 2, for special cases, $5 per box. Sold by all druggists, or sent prepaid on receipt of price. Free pamphlet. Address: The Cook's Cotton Root Compound.

Deacon Hayrick—Farmer Corniasse has bought a new fur cap, a new pair of mittens and a new pair of boots.

Deacon Barndoor.—What for?

Deacon Hayrick.—To serve his own ends, I guess.

The annual meeting of the New Brunswick Military Veterans, which was held Thursday in their rooming house, was well attended. The officers for the ensuing year were elected, as follows: Andrew Emery, president; Thomas McAfee, vice-president; James Hunter, secretary; George Gorham, treasurer; J. Buchanan, W. Knowles, J. L. Eagles, C. Belcham, J. McCarthy and J. Alexander, managing committee. The association consists of the officers of the association and J. Buchanan, C. Bolyea and Thomas Nixon.

A letter was received from James McAvity, of the North End, who has been sick for a time, thanking the members for kindness to him on New Year's eve.

Recent visits to the Metropolitan and Manhattan Opera Houses, the real glasses in which fashion for men, as pertaining to evening clothes, are reflected, reveal the fact that several departures have been made by the smartest New York's smart set this winter in their evening attire. One that has become almost universal is that every recently made evening coat contains a lining of silk braid, a fashion, which until the present season, was confined entirely to morning suit and afternoon frock coats. A round of the boxes and in the foyers of the opera houses between the acts will show that nine of every ten men in evening dress, and fully this proportion in the theatre, are wearing coats with this innovation. It is a material difference in the appearance of the coat. A wide stripe of braid is also popular on the seams of trousers, and this, too, is almost universal this winter. The evening coat, to be worn over evening clothes, has returned to favor, and these have been generally adopted this winter. The well-dressed New Yorker has adopted a custom long prevalent in England—that of carrying a small silver-headed walking stick when in evening dress.

Mme. Nevro was one of those women whom it is difficult to please. Her husband took her one summer for a trip into Switzerland, and by dint of much care managed to keep her in good humor until they had nearly reached their destination. As the train commenced the last and steepest ascent it stopped a moment or two, and Mme. Nevro put her head out of the window to ascertain the cause. When she withdrew her head M. Nevro saw, with dismay that his peace was at an end. "What is the matter, my dear?" he asked.

"Matter enough," replied his spouse. "There are two engines on this train now, one at each end. You know I can't sit with my back to the engine without being ill, so what shall I do now, pray?"—Pele Mele.

J. W. Hoyt, collector of customs at McAdam, and son, William H., were in the city Thursday.

The great Uterine Tonic, and only safe effective Monthly Regulator on which women can depend. Sold in three degrees of strength—No. 1, 2, 3. 10 degrees stronger, $3; No. 2, for special cases, $5 per box. Sold by all druggists, or sent prepaid on receipt of price. Free pamphlet. Address: The Cook's Cotton Root Compound.

Deacon Hayrick—Farmer Corniasse has bought a new fur cap, a new pair of mittens and a new pair of boots.

Deacon Barndoor.—What for?

Deacon Hayrick.—To serve his own ends, I guess.

THE WORLD OF SHIPPING

MINIATURE ALMANAC

1908	Sun	Rises	High	Tides
January	1	8.11	4.47	9.08 3.28
2	Wed.	8.11	4.48	10.02 4.21
3	Thur.	8.10	4.49	10.54 5.15
4	Fri.	8.10	4.50	11.45 6.08

The time used is Atlantic standard.

VESSLS BOUND TO ST. JOHN.

Nishowen Head, 1,988, sid Ardrossan, Dec 30.	Empress Britain, 8,934, sid Liverpool, Dec 27.
Kathinka, 725, sid Jamaica, Dec 21.	Isleworth, 1,988, sid Ardrossan, Dec 30.
Mount Royal, 4,606, sid Antwerp, Dec 7.	Kathinka, 725, sid Jamaica, Dec 21.
Manchester Exchange, 2,649, at Halifax, Jan 1.	Mount Royal, 4,606, sid Antwerp, Dec 7.
Monmouth, 2,569, sid Avamouth, Dec 24.	Manchester Exchange, 2,649, at Halifax, Jan 1.
Milwaukee, 4,754, sid Antwerp, Dec 22.	Monmouth, 2,569, sid Avamouth, Dec 24.
Pomeranian, 2,700, sid Havre, Dec 21.	Milwaukee, 4,754, sid Antwerp, Dec 22.
St John City, 1,412, sid London, Dec 22.	Pomeranian, 2,700, sid Havre, Dec 21.
Trinitia, 2,720, sid Glasgow, Dec 28.	St John City, 1,412, sid London, Dec 22.