IN RESTIGOUCHE

The Hazen government has carried Restigouche, and will shortly add Victoria, Westmorland, Gloucester and St. John counties. At least that is what the ardent Conservative would infer from today's Standard. What has really happened is that the Restigouche Conservatives have chosen two candidates for the next provincial elections, and the Standard does the rest.

The Conservative convention was held at Campbellton yesterday. Mr. Flemming was there to tell about the shortcomings of the old government, and Dr. Landry to address the Acadians in their own language. Mr. W. S. Montgomery and Mr. Arthur J. Culligan were there to be nominated, and the delegates to distribute applause and loud cheers.. That was enough for the Standard, and it has proceeded to elect "two stalwart supporters" of the Hazen government, and to carry the war into the other counties named. The Standard may have its doubts about the discoverer of the north pole, but the north shore is solid for Montgomery and Culligan.

It was stated at the convention that Premier Hazen was prevented by pressure of official business from attending, but it may have been the state of the roads. At all events he was not present,

The Standard prints a fairly long report of Mr. Flemming's remarks, and they appear to have been devoted almost entirely to the alleged faults of the old government. The like is true of Dr. Landry's address. No reference appears to have been made to the by-elections in Carleton, Northumberland and St. John counties, although the speakers might fairly be expected to give some explanation of the cause of the defeat of the government candidates in those campaigns.

A government that has been almost two years in office should have some record of its own to talk about, and a policy of its own to explain and advocate. A sectional appeal was made to the Acadian electors on the ground that Dr. Landry is an Acadian, and Mr. Flemming solemnly and ostentatiously proclaimed the honesty of himself and his colleagues. This latter, in the face of broken pledges, indicates that the provincial secretary believes the people have short memories.

What has the Hazen government done in its two years in office? What progressive measures relating to the development of this province can be placed to its credit? When the electors of Restigouche give serious thought to this question their enthusiasm for Conservative candidates will be of a very mild type.

WAVING THE FLAG

Montreal has had a trifling "flag incident," in connection with its "old boys" celebration. Not long since Toronto was mildly excited over the same question. One reads with some astonishment of the very serious manner in which it is treated by some journals. For example, the Montreal Witness bursts forth as follows:—

"Montrealers will note those who give foreign flags a pre-eminent place in their decorations, and those who prefer their own country's allegiance will keep it in mind. The substitution of a foreign flag for that of Canada or of the empire may be done to signify that the decorator prefers a foreign allegiance to that under which he lives. It will certainly convey that impression to visitors and is therefore in itself a disloyal act. In most cases the motive is simply sordid and is meant to tempt custom, the assumption being that the 'old boys' have ceased to be British at heart, and that in returning to Montreal they would prefer to find themselves still under the United States flag. This is possibly true in some cases, and we have nothing but welcome for these, even if they do not still 'prefer Jerusalem above their chief joy.' But for those in Montreal who sacrifice their own allegiance at the altar of this sentiment we have nothing but reprobation. If the object of this disloyalty to their own flag is the commercial one of seeking to attract custom, we think it is an entirely mistaken calculation. The object of United States people in coming to Canada is to go abroad to see a country that is different and quaint and foreign. But in any case such a motive deserves to be treated according to its merit. If it is a subjection of home to foreign allegiance for the sake of custom then let those who do it be left to that custom by those who prefer their own flag."

This is dangerously close to the suggestion of a boycott for those citizens who use the American along with the Canadian flag in their decorations. No one in St. John has ever regarded an act of courtesy as one of disloyalty, or worried because the flag that floats over so many hundreds of thousands of Canadians in the United States is given a place among the decorations when we are seeking to attract visitors. The sentiment behind the Montreal "old boys" week was commercial rather than sentimental, and the Witness cannot be ignorant of the fact. Special efforts were made to attract visitors from the New England states.

There is a possibility of making loyalty almost ridiculous, just as it is possible to display overmuch hospitality on such occasions.

TO CANADIAN WOMEN

The city of Vancouver has a Women's Canadian Club, with over two hundred members. Earl Grey was recently the guest of the club, and delivered a very interesting and inspiring address. We quote from the World report:—

"It was for the women of Vancouver to create the atmosphere in which a community breathed and had its being. If the women of a community were frivolous and selfish, if a woman's most sacred duties were subordinated to other aims, the life of that city could not fail to be unworthy. However great the advantages a city might possess in beauty and in physique, all those advantages counted nothing if the women, by their example, did not give the lead to the community in the direction of righteousness, sacrifice and service. The ladies of Vancouver by establishing this club, wanted, he believed, to organize themselves into a force that would help their city to reach a high standard of righteousness and patriotic feeling. Earl Grey then went on to speak of the laudable objects of the Vancouver Women's Canadian Club. His lordship thought it was a very laudable thing for so many influential women to band themselves together to promote the higher moral life of the city. He cited the fact that in all quiet movements for moral reform the women were always prominent in the undertaking. He went on to cite numerous examples of what notable women workers had done in the social as well as national life of some countries. Speaking of reforms, Earl Grey said he considered it his duty as governor-general of Canada to take up the question of the proper care of women in jails throughout Canada. He mentioned that in many cases prisoners awaiting trial were treated in the jail as if they were already guilty. He thought that women's work in jail visiting could help to greatly better these conditions. He pleaded for disinteredness in the service of their country and empire. It brought its own satisfaction. Playgrounds for children was another of his excellency's topics. It was a movement that was making headway in all parts of Canada. It was one of the saddest results of our so-called civilization that there were so few opportunities for proper and adequate recreation by the children of the big cities. Women's work in hospital service was then dwelt upon by his excellency in eloquent manner. He mentioned the good work that had been done by the women towards the erection of the hospitals here. The women of Vancouver were noted for their business-like work in that respect all over Canada. He urged his fair hearers to always use their influence towards encouraging fair play. They could do so much in this respect in their daily life and home circles. They should instil into the minds of their children that rather than win a game by unfair means it was better to lose every time."

The Governor General has the happy faculty of being able to make himself interesting, and to touch many important subjects in a manner that leaves a deep impression on the mind of the listener. A Women's Canadian Club could not, as a club, engage in the work of social reform, but it may inspire its members with high ideals of social service; and the ladies who listened to Earl Grey must have been deeply impressed by the high standard which he set for Canadian womanhood and his practical suggestions concerning lines of work along which women could direct their efforts and thereby elevate the general standard of citizenship.

The Grand Trunk Pacific is becoming a factor in western transportation. An exchange says:—"Passenger trains over the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway west, which have hitherto run only to Scott, Sask., are now running through to Wainwright, Alberta, one hundred miles further west, and 666 miles west of Winnipeg. The regular passenger service is now within 115 miles of Edmonton, and it is stated that through trains from Winnipeg to the Alberta capital will be in operation next month. A regular passenger and freight service to Edmonton will then be put into operation for the winter."

THE OTHER MAN'S LOT

Each day he watched the trains go by;
He'd pause behind his plough to gaze
And many a time he heaved a sigh
An thought he wasted precious days;
The breeze blew sweetly from the sky,
His flocks and herds grazed on the slopes,
But turning when the trains were past,
His countenance was overcast
And envy blighted all his hopes.

His children played among the trees,
His fields were wide and rich and green.
A thousand things were there to please
By adding beauty to the scene;
But, longing for the sight of seas
And far-off mountains looming high,
A dozen times a day he turned
And in his bosom envy burned
What time he watched the trains go by.

He looked across his acres wide
And saw the billowy fields of wheat,
And heard the thundering trains and sighed,
Although the breeze was soft and sweet;
And many a weary one who spied
Him standing out there brown and grim,
Thought of his freedom from all care,
Thought of his independence there,
And, riding onward, envied him.

MERCHANTS' MATCH ON RIFLE RANGE

A dinner was tendered the visiting riflemen last evening at Scammell's. Capt. Neil J. Morrison presided. Speeches were delivered by Mayor Bullock, Major T. H. Hartt, Col. Baxter, Col. A. J. Armstrong, A. E. Barton, of the Moncton Rifle Club, Ald. Codner and Postmaster Sears.

In the afternoon the Merchants' Match was shot. It was won by Sergeant James Sullivan, with the score of 100 out of the possible 105. He was followed by Sergeant Downie, of the 62nd Fusiliers, with the score of 94, while E. T. Gladwin, with 93, came third. The match was shot from the 200, 500 and 600 yard ranges, and called for seven shots and a sighting shot from each range. The results were said to be excellent. To only lose five points in twenty-one shots is a creditable showing even for Sergeant Sullivan. The score in this match was as follows:

1st. Sergt. J. G. Sullivan, St. John Rifle Club, 100.
2nd. Sergt. J. Downie, 62nd, 94.
3rd. E. T. Gladwin, St. John Rifle Club, 93.

BLEW OUT SIDE OF BRICK HOUSE

Hamilton, Sept. 15—There was a terrific natural gas explosion yesterday morning, which blew out the whole of one side of the two story brick house owned and occupied by Felix O'Neil.

O'Neil lived alone and as he was about to enter the bathroom to take a bath, he struck a match. Instantly the explosion occurred. O'Neil escaped injury beyond being stunned for a few minutes. A small fire started and the services of the fire department were called upon. The explosion is thought to have been due to a leak in the natural gas pipe.

WOULD DRIVE OUT CANADIANS

Niagara Falls, N. Y., Sept. 15—In a resolution presented at a meeting of the common council the city clerk was directed to communicate with the secretary of state to the end that conditions now existing in the employment of Canadian workmen in the city be remedied. Ald. Mansfield, who is responsible for the resolution said that there are at least 600 skilled workmen out of employment in the city.

One of Ald. Mansfield's reasons for agitating the movement to exclude Canadians who will not become naturalized citizens of the country is that the Canadian Immigration Department has served notice upon several American citizens that they must either move to Canada or else quit their positions.

POLITICAL MATTERS

Campbellton, N. B., Sept. 15—Ever since last session, when Wm. Currie, M. P. P., complained in the legislature about the sheriff of Restigouche county dispensing the government patronage, because he had been a candidate at the last general election, several efforts have been made by the Conservatives to hold a convention to nominate candidates for the coming elections, upon whose shoulders would be placed the responsibility of patronage.

Finally the government party have succeeded in finding two men to contest Restigouche when dissolution takes place. Pursuant to notice, some thirty delegates met today in St. Onges hall, Campbellton. The delegates were mostly government officials, scalers, road commissioners, etc. W. S. Montgomery, mayor of Dalhousie, and Arthur J. Culligan, lumber merchant, of Jacquet River, were the choice of the convention.

Weymouth, N. S., Sept. 15—(Special)—The Liberal-Conservative convention for Digby county was held today for the selection of candidates to contest the county at the provincial elections. W. B. Vanblarcom, of Digby, and Adolph A. Theriault, of Belliveau's Cove, were nominated. Addresses were delivered by the nominees, C. Jameson, M. P., and others.

Shelburne, N. S., Sept. 15—(Special)—The Liberal picnic here today was addressed by Hon. G. H. Murray, Hon. W. S. Fielding, R. Irvin, M. L. A.; M. H. Nickerson, M. L. A., and Alex. Johnston.

A convention of the party was held this morning, when Dr. J. S. Morton, of Shelburne, was elected president of the Shelburne County Liberal Association, and John Hood, of Shelburne, secretary.

A SELECT CONGREGATION

The Rev. Mr. Ward was a timid man by nature, but his theological ideas were strongly developed, so much so, indeed, that the emphasis of his first sermon gave offence to some good people in the parish. Even the rector was shocked at the definite certainty with which the new curate consigned a portion of the congregation to ultimate warm quarters.

"My dear Mr. Ward," said the rector, "you must try to remember that our people here are nice people, good people, in fact, and in future you must endeavor to —er—er—er—qualify things a little:

The curate took the lesson to heart and finished up his next sermon something after this fashion:

"And so, my dear brethren, you will have to repent, as it were and to reform so to speak, or you will be damned—to some extent."
