Teeth Extracted and Filled

Absolutely Without Pain by a Wonderful Painless Process.

THAT this is distinctly the day of the specialist—of the man who knows, or is able to do some one thing better than any one else in the world—was clearly illustrated to me when I visited, yesterday, the spacious rooms occupied by the Boston Dental Parlors, 527 Main street.

That there have been many advances in the practice of dentistry is made vividly apparent during a visit to this model establishment.

This much is certain:

There is no longer the slightest pain attached to any dental operation. The summit of dental science has been attained.

Years ago when Dr. J. D. Maher first introduced Painless Denfistry into Canada many people were skeptical, but his well-known success has long since been recognized and to-day he is generally conceded to have the largest dental practice in Canada.

Not only are teeth extracted painlessly by his wonderful painless method, but teeth are filled without pain and so skilfully that the filling whether it be of gold, silver, cement or other substance, remains a permanent and satisfactory fixture.

Artificial teeth that never bother or betray their artificiality are now made by perfect methods at a cost to the patient so moderate that it seems almost a miracle that that such excellence can be provided for so small a fee. By a method in vogue it is possible to restore most teeth to perfect usefulness without extracting them. Plates are done away with, and every tooth becomes as sound and perfect as nature intended it should be.

Lower sets of teeth, usually a disappointment to the wearer, are here made perfectly, and a new method, original with and exclusively controlled by these dentists, provides comfort and an entire absence of all annoyances common to sets made by those less skilful.

Various other branches of dental science are now skilfully performed by trained dentists at moderate prices easily within the reach of all.

A patient whose teeth may chance to be rendered unsightly or in danger of decay by tartar may have immaculate cleanlines restored to their teeth by a simple and quickly performed operation.

Uneven or protruding teeth may also be straightened with an entire absence of pain by the skilled treatment here practised.

I was greatly interested in the information given me by the genial manager of this enterprising institution.

"The science of dentistry," he said, "is so varied in its many branches that it is a recognized impossibility for one man, however diligently he may study, to attain perfection in all departments of this profession.

"The recognition of this fact is the component principle of the Boston Dental Company, and in this respect we differ from any dentist or association of dentists in America.

"Every dentist in this establishment is a specialist—a man who has attained the highest perfection in some branch of this difficult science. He was chosen because he is a specialist, because he can do one thing better than any one else. The result of this system is of the greatest benefit to our patients who are never made the victims of inexperience or of experiment. The result is therefore known, and every action of the dentist evidences the perfection of the result.

"Take the extracting of teeth as an illustration. Most dentists go blindy about it. Their aim is to get a certain tooth, indicated by the patent, out. It's a case of tug and twist, and pull, with them; anything, in fact, to get the poor tooth out.

"Our skilled specialists, who for years have practised and made a special study of this branch of their chosen profession, work differently. They understand the formation of every root, can tell exactly the way to avoid tearing or injuring the gum, and by using our famous local anaesthetic, can rid the patient of the troublesome tooth so easily and so pleasantly, so painlessly, that the patient will arise from the chair smiling—all ache, and pain and trouble gone. There will be no soreness in the gum, nor after effects of any nature.

"Our anaesthetic is a really marvellous pain preventive agent.

"The filling of teeth is another branch of dentistry in which specialists are necessary. Any one who has had filling inserted by the common methods in vogue can readily understand how vast is the improvements of our methods over the former. Our skilled specialists in this department fill the cavity or cavities so that decay is permanently resisted, the contour of the tooth is preserved, and because of our great skill the infliction of the slightest pain is positively avoided.

"We further claim exceptional superiority in the making of artificial teeth. Our specialists study the facial contour, temperament, age and characteristics of a patient, and select teeth to replace lost ones that will assist speech and mastication and avoid any appearance of artificiality, they will be fitted perfectly, and so skilfully that trouble will never be experienced by the patient.

"We also have a superior method fof inserting teeth without plates by our perfected system of 'crown and bridge work.'

"This system is the highest perfection of scientific dentistry. It obviates all unpleasantness, provides perfect cleanliness and comfort, and is, in fact, a duplicate of perfect, natural teeth.

"Although skill in anything commands the highest price as a rule, in our case we have made it a point to furnish the greatest skill at the lowest prices.

"For instance: We extract teeth positively painlessly and make only a nominal charge.

"We make perfect sets of Artificial Teeth for only $5.00 up a complete set. Fillings are perfectly and painlessly nserted for the lowest fees compatible with this class of work.

"Gold Crown and Bridge Work, or teeth without plates to cost but from $5.

"Our prices for other work are proportionately moderate and within the reach of all.

"Our gold inlay work, our unexcelled gold-plate work, and our new unbreakable plates are attracting wide interest.

"We can give an estimate of the cost of work the first sitting and for consultation or examination we make no charge.

"You may tell the readers of "The Times," continued the proprietor, "that their patronage as well as that of the rest of the public, will continue to be fully appreciated in the future as it has in the past and that we will spare no effort to deserve it.

"Our offices are open from 9 a. m. until 9 p. m. A lady assistant is always in attendance."

Bidding him adieu after a visit through the various handsomely arranged departments I ended my visit to what is undoubtedly the most reliable and thoroughly up-to-date dental parlors in this city.

The Boston Dental Parlors occupy three floors in the building, 527 Main street, and have elegantly and sumptuously furnished apartments. The laboratory is fitted with all the latest appliances and inventions.

Dr. Maher has two dental offices in the city of Halifax.

The many thousands of patients treated yearly by Dr. Maher is the best proof of the satisfaction rendered his patrons and the testimonials showered on him by Governors, Premiers, Senators, Common Councils, etc., have never ben equalled by any dentist in this country.

All in all it would seem that dental perfection has been attained and we have no doubt the people of New Brunswick will realize that they have exceptional opportunities to obtain good, reliable workmanship at this model home of painless dentistry.

ALD. ELKIN TELLS OF PAVING TRIP TO STATES

He Says it Was Perfectly in Order for the Aldermen to go as the Guests of the Hassom Paving Company

Ald. Elkin, who accompanied Ald. McGoldrick and Vanwart and City Engineer Murdoch on the trip to Lowell and other New England centres at the invitation of the Hassam Paving Company of Worcester (Mass.), returned to the city on Saturday and expresses himself well satisfied that the delegation will acquire much useful information on the subject of permanent paving as the result of their visit.

Speaking to a Telegraph reporter yesterday he said he considered the criticisms leveled at the aldermen for accepting the company's invitation were altogether uncalled for. An opportunity offered to inspect the various kinds of permanent paving which had been laid down in some of the New England towns and he failed to see that the aldermen had compromised themselves in any way by taking advantage of it. Mr. Murdoch had accompanied them because, after his former trip, they received no report on this subject and in fact the board of works had no practical information on which they could rely in dealing with the question.

Owing to his time being limited, Ald. Elkin had only one day to inspect the work. The party, he said, left Boston in two of the company's automobiles on Friday and spent the day in Lowell and Cambridge, where considerable permanent paving had been laid down. Besides the St. John contingent, Ald. Burchill, R. W. McLellan and City Engineer Grimmer, of Fredericton, with S. Lowe, of Sydney (C. B.), the company's representative in the maritime provinces, and Mr. Putnam, the secretary, took part in the trip.

Describing the main features of the paving manufactured by the company, Ald. Elkin said it could perhaps best be described as a macadamized pavement. Broken stone was laid on the street to a depth of about ten inches at the centre and, after being rolled, a cream cement of a certain strength was forced into it through a hose. The cement penetrated to a depth of about six or seven inches. The roadway was then rolled again and in about eight days made a solid pavement. It gave a street a fine appearance and was impervious to water which ran off it as it would from the roof of a house.

The party returned to Boston on Friday evening, when Ald. Elkin left for home. On Saturday the time was to be spent in visiting Worcester, where the work of laying the pavement was going on. Ald. Elkin added that he expected Ald. McGoldrick and Vanwart and Mr. Murdoch would return on Tuesday.

SONS OF ENGLAND HEAR ELOQUENT SERMON

They Marched to St. Lukes's Church Sunday Morning—Members of Both Lodges Present

The annual church parade of the Sons of England was held on Sunday morning to St. Luke's church, where the rector, Rev. R. P. McKim, preached an eloquent sermon on their duties and responsibilities to God and their country.

Portland lodge of the North End, headed by St. Mary's Band, marched from their rooms in the new Temple of Honor building in Main street, to Odd Fellows' hall in Union street, where they were joined by Marlborough lodge members. The route of march to the church was via Germain, King, Dock, Mill and Main streets. Both lodges turned out strong in full regalia and carrying their banners and they made a creditable appearance. In the church special seats were reserved for them.

The rector was assisted by Rev. A. H. F. Watkins, rector of Chipman, and Rev. S. E. Smart, of Pleasant Point. The preacher took his text from 2nd. Chronicles, i—10: "Give me now wisdom and knowledge that I may go out and come in before this people; you who can judge this thy people that is so great."

Before proceeding with his discourse, he welcomed the Sons of England on behalf of himself and the congregation of the church. He said he would be guided in what he had to say by a letter written by an Englishman 140 years ago, that good man Rev. Thomas Wood who came from the old land and landed in what is now called St. John in July, 1769, and preached on the following Sunday to the aborigines.

Rev. Mr. McKim said that his hearers too had come from the old land and were making their homes in this great land. They were carrying with them the traditions that made for the good of the old land and he believed they were assuming their responsibility to build up their society for the Lord God in this great country.

Speaking of their duty, he asked them to consider the heritage God had given the people in Canada. Stretching from ocean to ocean over mountains and plains, forests and minerals, surely no fairer land ever passed from the hands of the Divine Maker. Was it any wonder that the eyes of all the world were today upon Canada? But what was it that was so outstanding? Egypt, ancient Greece, Rome, all had their characteristics. The Anglo Saxon race stood for liberty. But what did Canada stand for as part of the greatest empire the world had ever known? Was it enough to say that they had natural resources. Rather let them stand as one, giving God his tribute of praise. Therefore he said to them and to all who were now writing pages of history that he should have no part in Canada who would not pay tribute to God and give Him praise.

The speaker said a vision seemed to come before him; he looked down into the distance of past ages to see the old King of Israel as he accepted his God-given task of temple building and nation building. He looked at Canada and saw bands of men as they tramped the prairies in the development of this country. Their faces were lifted up and they were strong in the land.

He caught again the spirit of this old letter of 140 years ago. The writer was an Englishman; he came as a friend of the aborigines, the friend of those coming from the continent.

To his hearers Mr. McKim said to them was that responsibility of caring for the aborigines and those who came from the continent. He said they should be intensely imperialistic. He did not see how they could be any thing else. Did they think that it was by chance that God had given them this flag, the cross on which stood for all those for whom Jesus had died. Other empires had failed because they lacked the knowledge and the spirit of God. They remembered that great Frenchman who had almost the world for his empire. That was the country that now had put God out of her counsels.

There must be a personal righteousness. There must be sacrifice. Had they looked up to the Son of God who was willing to pardon them? Had they received the peace of God in their hearts? When Jesus came He went into the temple and saw the money changers grasping after gain. There was on the one side the sordid idea, on the other the spiritual.

There were three statues of that great countrymen of theirs, Chinese Gordon. The one on Trafalgar square had the face turned in the direction from which help did not come. That in Khartoum, however, had not the face turned to where there might be escape but to the desert, the home of the men for whom Gordon gave his great life.

God, said the speaker, called upon men to live clean, good Christian lives; this was for his hearers, as Sons of England, in this great country.

During the offertory the band played and at the conclusion the national anthem was sung. The procession reformed and marched to the Temple of Honor hall, where they disbanded.

LADY ABERDEEN CAN'T COME HERE

Regrets She is Unable to Accept Invitation From Woman's Council

As announced some days ago, the Local Council of Women invited Lady Aberdeen to visit St. John while in Canada to attend the quinquennial meetings of the international council in Toronto.

Lady Aberdeen wil not be able to accept and has conveyed her regrets in the following letter to the recording secretary of the local council:

Vice Regal Lodge,
Dublin (Ire.), 19th May.

It is most kind of the president and members of the local council of St. John to invite me and my party to St. John during my approaching visit to Canada. I wish, with all my heart, that I could accept, but unfortunately the time at my disposal is very limited and I shall only be able to go direct to the international council meetings, and then return to Ireland at once.

Yours very sincerely,
ISHBEL ABERDEEN.

DOUBLE DROWNING IN KENT COUNTY

Lobster Boat Came Ashore at Point Sapin With Both Occupants Missing.

Richibucto, May 30—Word reached Richibucto today of a double drowning at Point Sapin some miles from here. Particulars are lacking and just how the disaster occurred is not known. All that is known is two lobster fishermen named Manugl, an elderly man, and Fred Daigle, a young man, are missing, while their boat with sails set and 1,000 lobsters abroad came ashore yesterday at Point Sapin.

It is taken for granted the men by some means were drowned. The supposition is they were fouled by lines which were set and were dragged overboard. Both were fishing lobsters for W. S. Loggie & Co.

A new reredos of six panels has been placed in the Mission Church of S. John Baptist by a lady of the congregation. It is a very fine piece of work and takes the place of the curtain behind the altar. The design is floral in delicate tracery of gold with a dove on the centre panel.

The monthly meeting of the Natural History Society will be held on Tuesday evening, when arrangements will be made for the summer outings. A report on the recent meeting of the Royal Society will be received from J. W. Wilson, of Ottawa, who represented the society in the geological department.
