IN THE ST. JOHN CHURCHES SUNDAY

Rev. F. H. Wentworth opened his pastorate in Waterloo street United Baptist church yesterday when he preached to large congregations both morning and evening. His morning text was taken from Revelations and in the evening he preached on the lives of the disciples, their characteristics and their relation to the church. In the afternoon Rev. Mr. Wentworth addressed the children of the Sunday school.

The minister made a good impression on his congregation and his pastorate is likely to be highly successful. It is probable he will bring his family from Andover the latter part of the week.

In St. Stephen's church last night, a service in memory of the late Rev. Dr. MacRae, who was a former pastor of the church was held. The church was draped in black. Rev. Gordon Dickie preached an able sermon on "The Prophet's Reward." He spoke of the fine qualities and the genial disposition of the late minister and of the efforts he put forth in the interests of his church and the Presbyterian church in general.

Rev. James Crisp delivered a sermon last night in Zion church against the "useless expenditure of large sums of money in preparation for war." He strongly condemned military drill in schools and the proposal to found a large navy in Canada.

THE BEAVER AS AN ENGINEER

"Canals dug, dams built, trees felled, ponds raised or lowered, bark cut and stored, is the advertisement of Beaver Brothers, in "The Birchbark News," and first class workmen they are, I can assure you. In all the forest there is not so neat a village as Castorville, the home of the beavers.

When a beaver starts out to work he never forgets his trowel, his shovel nor his axe. Indeed, he could not leave them behind if he wished, for his strong front teeth serve as a combination axe and saw, his webbed feet make first class spades, and his broad, flat tail is a splendid trowel.

Moonlight nights are the beavers' chosen time for work and patience, and perreverance are their watchwards. A smart young beaver can cut through a good sized birch tree in three minutes with his sharp chisel teeth. As soon as it is felled and trimmed he rolls the log to the nearest water, a river or a canal of his own building, and floats it down to Castorville. It may be used for strengthening his dam, or he may anchor it in the mud at the bottom of the pond—a part of his winter store of food.

Though they are such clever and ingenious workmen none of the forest people love a game of "tag" or "follow my leader" more than the little brown folk. After working hours they have great frolics in the water, diving, romping and chasing one another like a troop of merry schoolboys. Suddenly Grandpa Beaver hears a suspicious rustling in the bushes. Down comes his broad flat tail with a tremendous whack on the water. Instantly every beaver dives into one or another of the water subways under the pond and scrambles into his cosey house, safe from the approaching danger, whatever it may be.

About twenty-five ladies and gentlemen were present at the opening of the Badminton Club at their courts in the Fort Howe drill shed Saturday. Tea was served by the ladies committee consisting of Mrs. H. C. Schofield, Mrs. Sherwood Skinner, Mrs. W. E. Foster, Mrs. W. H. Harrison, Mrs. S. A. Jones, Miss Katie Hazen and Miss Leslie Smith. The following were elected members: Messrs. Prescott, Emerson, Colin MacKay, Fred Keator, Fred Crosby and G. P. Worsley.

Wm. N. Robson of St. John street, Carleton, narrowly escaped drowning in Dunn's Slip, Carleton on Saturday about five o'clock. He fell from the steamer Premier but was rescued by Thomas Lynch who with the assistance of two boys pulled him aboard in an exhausted condition.

THE CHURCH AND THE LIQUOR SALOON; BIG MEN'S VIEWS

"The Church and the Bar" was the topic in most of the city pulpits and temperance meetings in Toronto last week.

Mayor Oliver, addressing the West End Christian Temperance Society, said he expected in 1910 to attend a Provincial Convention of the Liberal party, and that he would, with many others, urge upon the meeting the adoption of an "abolish the bar" plank. In the event of the refusal of the party to adopt the temperance plank he was prepared to unite with any party that would take such a step.

REV. DR. CARMAN.

Rev. Dr. Carman, preaching in Jarvis Street Baptist Church last night, said that drink was the great enemy of good character. Our industrial life was being destroyed by the saloon. It sent women to industrial slavery, and also children, who ought to be on the playground. "Go, look at the work of the saloon throughout the country," he said, "and see what it is doing with our homes."

REV. W. BREWING.

Rev. W. Brewing, Christ's Church, Reformed Episcopal, spoke on the question of minding the other fellow's business. "Nothing forces to mind other men's business like the liquor traffice because it incapacitates men from minding their own. "A weak compromise," was the speaker's charcterization of the license system, and he criticized the government for profiting in the traffic.

ARCHDEACON CODY.

"Great Britain's drink bill last year was £120,000,000—sufficient to build enough Dreadnoughts to make her supremacy secure," said Archdeacon Cody last night at St. Paul's Church. "The Lord Bishop of London stated the other day that Canadian men drank only one-quarter as much as their British brethren." The speaker's plea was was for personal abstinence, as he believed that to be the surest means of keeping the evil of drink within check.

REV. A. L. GEGGIE.

That Canada's hope for future greatness depended largely on the successful outcome of the struggle which the Dominion Alliance and kindred organizations are putting up against the bar-room, was the opinion of Rev. A. Logan Geggie, Parkdale Presbyterian Church. It took years to accomplish the abolition of slaves and slave trade, but it was accomplished. "The temperance movement is not a hundred years old, and its success is coming just as sure as you and I are alive," he asserted.

REV. B. H. SPENCE

"The temperance propaganda has passed the stage of the sentimental movement," said the Rev. Ben H. Spence in Broadview Methodist Church. He traced the history of the temperance movement since the formation of the first society one hundred years ago, when the members pledged themselves not to get intoxicated in public unless on some occasion worthy of such celebration. In the balmy days of the Royal Templars, the Sons of Temperance and other organizations, the movement was sentimental in its foundations. But it has passed this now and become a hard, cold business proposition.

REV. DR. ROSE.

In Sherbourne Street Methodist Church Rev. Dr. Rose, reviewing the progress of temperance reform, said that much was heard just now in Canada about a contribution to the British navy, and what form it should take. "If," he declared, "the money spent in the drink traffic in the Dominion during one year was handed over to Great Britain, it would make her navy as strong as desired, and not one Canadian would feel the effect of the giving." All political parties recognized temperance reform was on the winning side, and, when Sir James Whitney, in Massey Hall, recently declared that he intended to do all he could to minimize the evil, Dr. Rose said that he firmly believed him, but the premier of this province and his colleagues were not so unwise that they were going to commit political suicide. They would go just as far as public sentiment would uphold them. It was the moderate drinker today who was the apologist for the traffice, ad not the total abstainer. Temperance made the greatest progress where closely allied to moral reform, which looked after the bodily comfort, clean surroundings, healthy conditions and a better state of affairs generally in society.

F. S. SPENCE.

Speaking in the Metropolitan Church, F. S. Spence said: "Thou shalt not" was the only way of dealing with the liquor traffic. Canada spent $76,867,649 last year for strong drink, and Toronto's share of this would be one-twentieth, or $3,800,000. Last year in Toronto there were 8,930 persons arrested for being drunk and disorderly, and 911 of them women, "enough to fill this church five times over." What has the sowing of good brought forth? "We don't," said Mr. Spence, "drink as much as we did, only 6.23 gallons per head last year, while in the United States it was 20 gallons, and in Great Britain 30 gallons, and nearly the same in other European countries." Licenses had decreased in 30 years in Ontaria from 6,185 to 2,328, and in Toronto from 493 to 160, while the populatoin had trebled. Great progress had been made all over the Dominion except perhaps in British Columbia. Outside of 70 licenses in the city of Halifax, three in Cape Breton and one or two in Richmond, there was not a single one issued in Nova Scotia. Two-thirds of New Brunswick was under prohibition. Not a single license was left in Prince Edward Island. In Quebec 664 parishes out of 1,008 had local option, and in Ontario in 334 municipalities out of 806, no licenses were issued. In Manitoba half the municipalities were local option. In the United States half the territory and 35,000,000 people were under prohibition.

RICH FIND OF BUDDHIST LORE

Frenchman Brings Back 30,000 Volumes From Chinese Turkistan

A young Frenchman, Paul Pelliot, is just back in Paris after a modest exploration which seems to have borne very important fruit. The narrative of his discoveries will be heard from his own lips by the Societe de Geographie at the Sorbonne early in December.

He left France in 1890 as an appointee of the Academie des Inscriptions to pursue Oriental studies in the Far East, he distinguished himself by acts of bravery at the siege of Pekin. At the request of several learned bodies he subsequently set out to study the remains of Buddhist civilization in Chinese Turkestan. He brings back with him 30,000 volumes of Buddhist manuscripts, many of which were hidden in grottoes, and all will be deposited in the Bibliotheque Nationale. Among these is an entire series belonging to the period fro mthe eighth to the eleventh century of the Christian era. One manuscript of the eighth century, he says, shows that Buddhism and Christianity must have existed at that epoch side by side.

"It has been often said

"It has been often stated," adds the explorer, "that Chinese civilization is very ancient. That is possible, but evidences of it do not go further back than the first millennium before our era. The documents which I have found demonstrate that Buddhistic art, far from preceding Graeco-Latin art, was from the very beginning impregnated with it."

MR. CUDLIP IS HOME FROM ENGLAND

Manager J. B. Cudlip of the Cornwall & York Cotton Mills Company returned from the old country on Saturday on the Allan liner Victorian Mr. Cudlip said that the cotton business in the British Isles was bad and this also applied to Germany. No improvement was looked for for many months.

Speaking of the British elections Mr. Cudlip said that the trade question was a paramount issue and opinions were diverse. Of the budget he said to the lay mind it appeared to be hopelessly mixed. What greatly impressed him was the prominent place held by Canada as a field for investment. He was able to ascertain that recent large investments in the North West paid handsomely and more English money was being invested in real estate in the west as a result.

A GREAT BASEBALL PITCHER'S START

Mordecai Brown, the premier pitcher of the Chicago Cubs, has been visiting for several days his mother at Rosedale, near Coxville, Indiana. This is the little town where Brown used to dig coal.

The three-fingered wonder grew reminiscent while talking to some of his old baseball friends. "I got my start as a baseball pitcher right here in Brazil," remarked the great twirler. "I was playing with the Coxville team, which, by the way, was the best aggregation of amateur ball players ever gotten together. We came down here to play Brazil, which was a salaried team, and some ball players, too. There was Schultz, a little Chicago pitcher, who had a bunch of curves that were foolers; Tubs Noonan, Happy Gay, Gage, Bob Berryhill and others that went to fast company. It was our hardest game and the boys at home sent all the money they could get together to back the team. Our lads were all coal miners, and didn't have much of the coin of the realm, but they cheerfully placed it all on us. Well, just before the game, Clayton, our pitcher became intoxicated. He was the only twirler we had. I was playing third base and had never pitched a game in my life. John Buckley, manager of our team, said to me, 'Brownie, we are up against it. You'll have to pitch this game.' I told him I couldn't, but he said I had the best arm and would have to do it. Well, I went in and beat Brazil's salaried team, 9 to 3.

"I'll never forget that game as long as I live," said Brown. "The game that I pitched against the New York Giants at the Polo grounds two years ago to decide the championship of the National League wasn't in it with this one, I was the idol of Coxville, and from that time on was a pitcher. I later signed up with Brazil and worked here the remainder of the season. I was an a salary which was a great treat to me. Good old days those. All the fun is not to be had in the big leagues."

SENT CAT BACK TO BE BURIED.

The dead body of a cat was brought to Windsor, Ont., last week, consigned to W. H. Everett. Accompanying the body was a letter from Alexander Abar, of Sandwich, who with his family is taking a houseboat trip down the Mississippi river. Mr. Abar requested Mr. Everett to take the dead cat to Sandwich "and bury it beside the other poor kitty which passed away some time ago." The request was complied with.

The boys of the gymnasium class of the Y. M. C. A. have been divided into five teams to compete in volley ball, bowling, basket-ball and indoor baseball during the winter.

COUGHED ALL NIGHT

Till This Recipe was Tried. Cure Followed in Five Hours

A prominent medical man, who suffered with a severe cough and cold on the lungs, often being kept awake all night, and weakened by loss of sleep, finally discovered a simple formula which will cure any cough in five hours by the clock. It is a laxative tonic cough syrup which can be made at home by anyone and the formula is here given for the benefit of those who pass sleepless nights in painful paroxysms. Those who have tried it say it is magical, and beats any high-priced, slow-acting cough medicine ever sold.

Mix in a bottle one-half ounce fluid wild cherry bark, one ounce compound essence cardiol and three ounces syrup white pine compound. Take twenty drops every half hour for four hours. Then take one-half to one teaspoonful three or four times a day. Give children less according to age. This will tone up and rid the system of deep-seated coughs every time.

The doctor says you have got to take Cod Liver Oil—if so, why not take it in the easiest and best form—why not take

Scott's Emulsion

That is what the doctor means. He would not force you to take the crude oil when he knows the Emulsion is better—more easily digested and absorbed into the system—and will not upset the stomach like the plain oil.

MORNING LOCALS

A largely attended meeting was held in the Seamens Institute on Saturday night in the interests of temperance. Eight sailors signed the pledge. Mrs. J. W. Seymour presided. The speaker was Rev. L. A. McLean. Last night Mr. McLean gave an address and the choirs of the Wiggins' Male Orphan Institution and of Calvin church sang. Wm. Pearce gave a pleasing solo.

The circuit court adjourned on Saturday until Dec. 14 when the case of Queen v Linton will come up. L. P. D. Tilley is acting for the plaintiff and J. B. M. Baxter for the defendant. Breach of contract is charged.

Shore Captain Cotterell of the Elder-Dempster line arrived in the city on Saturday and will remain until the S. S. Sokoto, due from Mexico today, has been loaded. The first South African boat of the season will arrive here on Thursday, the captain said, and he also stated that St. John would be the terminus of the Cuban-Mexican service, instead of Halifax.

The Elkes were tendered a harvest supper in their lodge room on Saturday evening by W. A. Quinton. L. R. Ross, exalted ruler, presided. A very attractive menu, toast list and musical programme were enjoyed.

THE TURNING OF THE WORM.

It used to be not long ago
That men would tell their wives—
"I've got to go to lodge to-night
When eight o'clock arrives."
"All right, my dear, but hurry home,"
The trusting dear would say,
And like as not the husband came—
About the break of day.
Time brings a change in everything,
No longer hubbies dodge
The truth, and make a night of it
By deftly pleading "lodge."
For wifey, too, has gotten wise,
And she no longer frets,
She also has a lodge or two
Thanks to the suffragettes.

WHAT SILHOUETTE MEANS.

The little black pictures which have been revived during the past year or two derive their name from Eilenne de Silhouette who was the French minister of finance in 1759. His extreme economy in matters of finance was caricatured by all classes, and any cheap mode of fashion was sarcastically called by his name. About that time these profiles were produced by casting the shadows of a face on the paper by the light of a candle and tracing about it. Because they were cheap they were called in ridicule of the minister "silhouettes," and the name has ever since been retained.

Prof. Adam Shortt will address the Women's Canadian Club in Keith's Assembly rooms next Monday evening on "A Comparison of Canadian and American Forms of Government."
