WHAT AUSTRALIAN CRICKETERS TAKE

Many people have long thought the Australian cricketers at the close of their periodical tours in England carried back to their homes under the Southern cross fabulous sums of money. This was owing to the big gate money of which they drew the larger proportion. No doubt they receive handsomely, but it largely went in the expenses incidental to their tour and the money consequently never went out of the "Tight little island."

Some estimates have placed each man's share of the spoils, that were carried home at from $4,000 to $5,000. It is admitted that these figures may have been struck in exceptional years of the good old time, but an average, struck over the whole series of tours, would yield a much smaller distribution. G. H. S. Trott, for some time Australia's international captain, has been giving the figures in his own case. He toured England four times. His best year was 1896, when his dividend was £300. In 1893 it was £150, in 1890 a little over £100, and in 1888 only £80.

NO EPIDEMIC IN LAPRAIRIE

Montreal, Feb. 18—Citizens and doctors of the little village of Laprairie are very indignant on account of the spreading of a malicious rumor that a "dread unknown disease" was ravaging the population. Out of 1,100 souls, the normal death rate of two within the past two weeks is written down in the health report. Dr. Longtin, the leading physician of the place, said today: "It is utterly false that we are suffering from any dread unknown disease. The horrible symptoms ascribed to our dead and dying are ridiculous. We have a few cases of grippe, and two or three cases of typhoid. Our town is healthy, and the mortality has been particularly low."

BEGGARY ALL AROUND.

A Maryland man recently married off his fourth daughter, the ceremonies touching whose wedding were given much attention by the "society editors" of the country papers in that region.

A week or two after the wedding a friend who had been north for some time, met the father, to whom he made some jocular reference in regard to the recent "event." "I see by one paper," said he, "that Mary's wedding 'well nigh beggared description.'"

"Well," said the old man, "I don't know about that, but I do know it well-night beggared me!"

DRISCOLL BESTS ATTELL IN TEN ROUNDS

English Champion Had It On Abe in Their Contest in New York Last Night

New York, Feb. 19—Jem Driscoll, the English featherweight champion, and Abe Attell, of San Francisco, holder of the world's championship in that class, met in a ten-round bout tonight at the National Athletic Club and Driscoll had the better of the contest. They weighed in at 6 o'clock, neither turning the scale at the stipulated weight, 125 pounds.

No decision was given by Referee Charley White as the laws of this state do not permit decision to be rendered in boxing bouts. The championship title was not involved in the articles governing the match.

At the conclusion of the contest both men were in good condition and could probably have gone on for many more rounds. The experts were a unit in saying that nothing short of a twenty or twenty-five round go would be sufficient to determine the superiority of either man. There was not much betting on the outcome. Even money was offered just before the bout began.

It was one of the fastest and cleverest bouts ever seen in this city. Both men are very quick, but Attell seemed to have more steam behind his blows. Driscoll's left jabs were frequent.

Round 1—Driscoll was short with his left and Attell ripped left and right to the wind. Driscoll's left went to face three times and Attell sent left to wind and crowded Jem to the ropes. Attell misses two swings as Driscoll sidesteps and the American falls against the ropes. He bounded back laughing. He hit Jem with a left to the stomach. Jem's lightning left found Attell's mouth. It was Driscoll's round.

Round 2—Attell's left went to the stomach and Driscoll jabbed left on mouth. The American ripped right to stomach and sent his left to the Englishman's jaw. Driscoll put two lefts on nose and mouth. Jem jabbed three lefts to the eye and the last one on the mouth which rocked Attell's head. They swapped lefts to head. Driscoll's blocking was marvellous and Attell's not a shade behind. Attell got to the wind with good left. Attell's round by a shade.

Round 3—Attell's right reached the ear and Driscoll jabbed nose and mouth. Attell sent three lefts to the mouth and Driscoll jabbed a left on nose and mouth. Jem hooked a left to the eye and battered the stomach with right. Attell blocked two lefts but Driscoll's right hook landed soidly on the jaw. A swap of lefts on face was followed by Driscoll's right to the jaw. This staggered the American and Driscoll was in like lightning with three lefts on head. Driscoll's round.

Round 4—Jem staggered Attell with a solid right on jaw. Attell rushed but the Englishman ducked out of harm's way. Driscoll put two lefts to Attell's face and shook him up with a solid right on ear. Attell reached the stomach with both hands. Jem cut Attell on the eye with a left and then put the left to the wind. After a break they exchanged lefts on the mouth. Driscoll's left went to Attell's nose and mouth. Driscoll's round.

The Luckiest Day of My Life.

Mr. Thomas Wylie (Box 384), Galt, says:—"It was the luckiest day of my life when I struck PSYCHINE, for I truly believe I should not be alive now but, for that."

"A neglected cold was the beginning of my trouble, and what seemed to be a simple ailment, soon developed into a serious and dangerous condition. I got so low that it was scarcely possible for me to walk around, and I lost so much flesh that I looked like a skeleton. I was just about ready to "hand in my checks," although only 20 years of age. The medicine the doctor gave me made me worse and I got disgusted and hopeless. Then I struck PSYCHINE."

"PSYCHINE did miracles for me. The first bottle gave me new life and courage, and in less than no time I began to put on flesh rapidly, and felt I was on the high road to recovery. My appetite returned and "ate like a hunter," as the saying goes. My friends were surprised, and hardly knew me. In three months I was as strong and well as ever, and returned to work in the mill. I have not had a days' illness since. Nobody could wish for better health than I enjoy, and it is all owing to PSYCHINE. It should be in everybody's hands."

USE PSYCHINE EARLY

Too often PSYCHINE is used as a last resort, when doctors have failed to relieve or cure, and frequently when they have abandoned all hope. Under these unfavorable conditions, let hope be not abandoned, for PSYCHINE will prove an unfailing friend. How much better and surer would be the results if PSYCHINE were used in the early stages of the illness!

Use PSYCHINE for COUGHS, COLDS, WEAK LUNGS, LOSS OF APPETITE, WEARINESS and that TERRIBLY RUN DOWN FEELING. All Druggists and Stores sell at 50c, $1.00, and $2.00 Bottle.

USE YOUR OWN JUDGMENT!

There are times when a choice has to be made between following the advice of a physician and taking the responsibility of using PSYCHINE without or in opposition to his advice. You have the fullest assurance that you will be perfectly safe and justifiable in taking PSYCHINE irrespective of any physician's advice, and even contrary to it. The physician that opposes its use is either out of date and not in touch with the most successful systems of treatment, or his own interests are put before those of his patient. The best physicians, who have, without prejudice, looked into the great work PSYCHINE is doing for humanity, are recommending it to many of their patients, and are unstinted in their praise of this remedy, the equal of which the world has never seen.

THE PREVENTION OF OUTDOOR UGLINESS

(Maritime Merchant)

Public beauty is not evident in many of our towns and cities, chiefly because any organized plan necessarily costs much money. Yet it is possible to effect gradual improvements without spending too much of the public funds. One thing, at least, that can be done without cost is the prevention of public ugliness. For instance, the city or town or county authorities have a right to step in and say to individuals who would propose building a hideous building on some spot which should be preserved for its beauty: "You must not build here." This is a right which is exercised in many communities where there is a great civic pride in the appearance of things. Another thing that can be done is the encouragement of private beautification of property. A town could very easily be entirely altered in appearance if the people were to unite in an effort to keep their gardens and their properties generally in trim condition all the time. These things do not cost much money and might just as well as not be followed up. It requires only the necessary fine feeling on the part of the town leaders to inaugurate such movements. But there must as well be an educative campaign. The trouble is, every community is filled with people of no feeling who have a brutal idea that any old thing will do, and resent any interference that will prevent them from perpetrating anything they like in the shape of a public eyesore. That sort of thing must be overcome, and the sentiment created of having everything as well ordered in the streets and roads as one should have them in his house. When we go away from home we find people who have a finer regard for public beauty than we have. It may be the result of more refinement in their life, or it may be that the refinement springs largely from a sense of fitness inherited from their ancestors, or it may be that the two act and react one on the other. At any rate it is plain that if things are left to themselves they will never be very much better. It is necessary for someone to take the lead. Which of our readers in every community in the provinces will undertake to talk this up among their friends now. If only many of them would do so, it would not be many years until Maritime communities would be noted for the tidiness and trimness of things out of doors. This is something to aim at and now is the time to begin.

C. P. R. TO BUILD GRAIN ELEVATOR AT VANCOUVER

(Montreal Star)

Information is given out at the head offices of the Canadian Pacific Railway that negotiations are going on for the construction of a grain elevator at Vancouver in anticipation of a big export trade from that city. A vessel leaves Vancouver next month with a cargo of grain for Europe, and she will be the first ship to leave the port with a cargo of this kind. It is expected, however, that in future the whole grain crop of Alberta, or at least the great bulk of it, will be sent out by way of Vancouver, and the St. Lawrence route will lose a valuable trade. Montreal especially, it is said, will feel the loss.

That there is truth in the story is proved by the fact that a Kingston firm of contractors are making efforts to obtain tax exemption in Vancouver, if an elevator is built by them. This elevator will cost $400,000, and is to have capacity for half a million bushels. The civic authorities refused exemption, on the grounds that the prospects for western grain going out of a western port were sufficient to ensure profits. The Kingston contracting firm are now making efforts to have a site granted them by the Canadian Pacific, but the Montreal officials have come to no decision as yet.

THE WOOD BISON

Harry Vincent Radford, explorer, will shortly start on a 6,000 mile trip through northwest Canada in an effort to locate the rare wood bison.

He will buy his supplies in Montreal then go to Ottawa as the guest of Dr. Robert Bell, L. S. O., F. R. S., who is an authority on exploration. Mr. Radford will also call on Earl Grey, who will give him permits to facilitate his travils.

Mr. Radford said: "There are numerous obstacles to be overcome in this undertaking, but I am used to hardships. I shall take only one sledge and eight dogs with me, and my emergency rations will be limited to malted milk and sweet chocolate. For the rest I shall trust to the game and fish of the country for support. The American Bison Society has appropriated a sum for a report of my trip, and I have secured contracts with several magazines for articles. Archbishop Farley has given me his special blessing and letters to the the most northern railroad point in America, I shall travil by snowshoe to Nome, Alaska, and between these points I expect to find the long sought wood bison.

The explorer comes from the State of New York, and has travelled over a great part of the world, though he has not done any exploration work in Canada.

MARK TWAIN'S PETRIFIED INDIAN

The days when "Sam" Clemens "stuck type" on The Hannibal Union are recalled by his anecdote. One morning "Sam" came into the office very thoughtfully, hung up his coat and went to the frame. He worked dilligently for several hours without any copy on his small-cap case in front of him. He was setting up the story of a wonderful find he and some of his comrades found in McDougal's Cave the Sunday before. The narration was to the effect that a crowd of boys, while exploring the great cave on Sunday afternoon, ran across a petrified Indian. The citizens were greatly worked up over the story, and they hired a scientist from Quincy to look the dead Indian in the face and report. The man who came to perform this task wore gray mutton-chop whiskers, a thoughtful brow, and the spectacles, of course. He was an emotional chap and looked learned and the committee was satisfied of his ability. By the terms of his contract he was to write a complete report, detailing every possible feature of the discovery for historical preservation. The investigator returned at nightfall, covered with clay, with clothing torn and skin barked in countless places by falls on rock.

He sought out the chairman of the committee that employed him and silently delivered to him this statement: "Mileage in looking for dead Indian, $20; reading story about dead Indian, $5; bruised shins on way to dead Indian, $1. Report: There was no dead Indian."—Macon (Mo.) Republican.
