IN THE CHURCHES YESTERDAY

Centenary Methodist church, yesterday, commenced an interesting celebration in connection with its anniversary. Services were held yesterday morning and evening and Rev. Dr. Sparling, of St. James' Methodist church, Montreal, was the preacher at each. In the afternoon the annual rally day services were held in the Sunday school. Attendance at both the church services and at Sunday school was unusually large. Excellent musical programmes were rendered. In addition to the regular numbers by the choir solos were sung by Mrs. A. Pierce Crockett, D. B. Pidgeon and Guy Taylor. At the Sunday school rally service the music was furnished by the Sunday school orchestra under the direction of Morton L. Harrison. A clarinet solo by W. G. Stratton and a vocal solo by Mrs. L. M. Curran were the special musical numbers.

for repairs, etc., and $660.38 for the paragon account.

The Sunday school statistics show a total enrollment of 390 with an average attendance of 158, exclusive of the cradle roll department. During the year the Sunday school raised $338.89, including $151.48 for missions, $87.42 for church funds, and $99.99 for school purposes.

Rev. E. D. MacLaren, D. D., secretary of home missions for the west, from Toronto, preached a very interesting sermon in St. John's Presbyterian church last evening. Dr. MacLaren based his discourse upon the words of Moses to the children of Israel, viz.: "The Lord gives thee a good land, and also the following words, Beware lest ye forget the Lord your God. The preacher applied the statement and warning in these words to our Canadian life and spoke of the goodness of our national heritage in its resources and its developments. He emphasized the importance of maintaining the forces that make for righteousness, if Canada is to realize her possible glory as a nation. He appealed for a larger interest in our western life because of the dangers that come to the pioneers on the frontier of western Canada. He also gave many instances of the trouble that men have in many parts of the newer west to maintain their moral character untarnished.

varied somewhat from the usual order. Professor J. W. Falconer, of Halifax, was present and gave a very interesting and inspiring talk based upon the words found in the book of Revelations: "Be thou faithful until death and I will give thee a crown of life." Rally day, said Professor Falconer, suggests the life of a soldier and the Book of Revelations might be called the Soldiers Book. The words quoted, he said, were addressed to those who are having a hard fight and need encouragement. He emphasized the fact that the crown promised was not a crown of gold or of a perishable nature, but a crown of life. It was to be won through faithfulness. The boy working at his task from day to day, doing his best, was doing that which ensured him the crown of life.

Mr. Titus will enter Acadia College where he will continue his theological studies and also preach in the Christian church at Port William (N. S.) before going to college. Mr. Titus will take a trip to Boston for a few days.

Rev. Canon Downie, of Port Stanley, (Ont.) occupied the pulpit in St. John's (Stone) church last night. He preached an interesting sermon and was listened to by a large congregation.

KILLED A MOOSE

J. D. Wannamaker, George Allen and J. Doherty have returned from a twelve days' moose hunting expedition to South Branch, Ontario. They succeeded in capturing a moose, but endured all the hardships of the freshet. They had as cook John Hutchins, of Millstream, and two experienced guides, Cyrus Keirstead and son. Mr. Wannamaker reports moose very plentiful, and says the woods are filled with hunters.

ESCAPED; RE-CAPTURED

While working around the farm of the Boys' Industrial School at Crouchville, Saturday afternoon, Harry Greene, aged 15, who was serving a term of four years imprisonment in that institution, managed to escape and make his way to the city. His liberty was of short duration. The police were notified of the boy's sudden departure and while Officer Lawson was patrolling his beat in Fairville at 10 o'clock last night he captured the youth in a passenger car at Fairville station.

THREE ARRESTED IN $12,900 SWINDLE FROM A BANK

Represented Northern Pacific R. R. as N. P. Railway Stock and Got Big Loans—Fourth "Broker" Sought — Cashier Took Certificates to Railway Office to Learn it is Worth $2. a Share

New York, Oct. 11.—Between the Northern Pacific Railway and the Northern Pacific Railroad there is a great big difference, also between the stocks of those institutions. The Northern Pacific Railway is a living, growing, profitable line and its stock is worth about $155 a share. The Northern Pacific Railroad is a "dead one" and has been for twenty years. Two dollars a share would be a high figure for its securities.

The little difference in names, similar as they sound when carelessly spoken, has cost the State Bank, a small institution at No. 376 Grand street, $6,500, according to its officers.

They caused the arrest of two old men and one middle-aged man, whom they charged with having obtained the $6,500 by falsely representing the $2 stock to be the $150 stock.

The prisoners are Jacob Sternglanz, aged sixty-five of No. 1239 Union street, Bronx; Randall Foote, aged seventy-three, of No. 264 West One Hundred and Thirty-third street, and Ernest B. Reis, aged forty-three, of No. 264 Twelfth street, Brooklyn. A fourth man, for whom the police are looking, is Stephen Dutton, described as a veteran swindler, who once tried to get $500,000 from Hetty Green.

According to the affidavit sworn out by Albert I. Voochris, cashier of the little bank in Grand street, Sternglanz formerly was a wealthy real estate operator, and a few years ago always had a balance of $20,000 or more in the bank. "A couple of months ago, according to the police, Sternglanz, who naturally is well known at the bank, said: 'I have thirty shares of Northern Pacific worth about $4,500. C. C. Corbett, of No. 29 Broadway has loaned me $2,400, but I'd rather that your bank would take up that loan and then let me have $1,500 additional. In return I'll turn over the stock to you.'

The bank officials looked at the ticker, found that Northern Pacific Railway (the only N. P. they knew about) was quoted at 150, William Kroenke, a clerk, went to the Corbett office with Sternglanz. There a man representing himself as Mr. Corbett turned over the stock and the loan was transferred, and Sternglanz was given the $1,500. Two other strangers—professedly Corbett employes—were present.

A few days later, according to the police, Sternglanz again visited the bank, and this time said he had 100 more shares of Northern Pacific. H. L. Horton, a broker of No. 66 Broadway, had advanced him $6,000 on it (it was worth $15,000), but he wanted the bank to take up this loan and advance him $2,000 in cash.

Clerk Kroenke again accompanied Sternglanz. They went to Horton's offices and there a stranger representing himself as in charge of the place. He produced the stock, and the second deal was consummated.

On October 4 Clerk Kroenke went to the offices of the Union Pacific Railway at No. 32 Nassau street and saw one of the officials. He merely wanted to have the stock transferred to John N. Keisel, the assistant cashier of the bank, as a matter of proper business precaution.

"How much is this worth?" he asked the official, a Mr. Kent.

"Well—I said Kent, 'I should say about $2 a share, at the most.'

After Kroenke, and later Keisel, were covered from their amazement and excitement they called on Inspector McCafferty and he sent out Detectives McConville and Nelson to gather in the dealers in ancient stock paper. The detectives got them last night.

Keisel, when arrested had a letter signed by J. Pierpont Morgan in his pocket. Mr. Morgan recommended him as worthy of trust and as an efficient broker. Foote formerly was a member of the Stock Exchange and is well known in Wall street. He told the police his grandfather was the former Lord Mayor of Dublin. He said he got the U. P. R. R. stock from a Philadelphia man, who deals in such "cats and dogs."

It is charged by the police that Foote, Dutton, the missing man, figured in queer financial dealings as long ago as 1896. He and his three brothers, in that year, were all in the police toils.

CANADIANS AT THE HARVARD EXERCISES

The Harvard Canadian Club celebrated the inauguration of President Lowell by holding a reception on the afternoon of Oct. 6, for the delegates from Canadian and other British universities attending the inauguration.

The club, which includes professors and students of British birth at Harvard, as well as many graduates throughout Canada and the United States, moved into quarters of its own at the beginning of the college year. It is the only foreign club thus happily situated.

The reception marked the opening of the club house and was a notable event, both from the occasion and the prominence of the visitors. These included Ambassador Bryce, representative of Oxford and Manchester; Principal Peterson, of McGill; President Schurman, of Cornell; President Falconer, of Toronto; Chancellor Burwash, of Victoria College; Dr. W. G. Gamewell, of Smith College; Professor W. F. McQueen Gray, of the University of New Mexico; Dr. K. G. S. Webster, of Dalhousie, and Professor F. W. Nicolson, of Wesleyan.

The hosts included every part of the British empire. Canadians, more particularly men from the maritime provinces being in the majority. The vast extent of Britain's domain was shown by the group that assembled to meet the leaders in the British scholarship. Interesting Hindus mingled with West Indians, New Zealanders, English, Irish, Scotch, South Africans and Canadians, all fraternal and happy in the thought of their common loyalty.

Mrs. W. S. Ferguson, a P. E. Island lady, wife of Professor Ferguson, of Harvard, and Miss A. M. Roche, of St. John, student at Radcliffe, presided at the table. Among other Canadians present were Professor W. A. Neilson, S. C. de Lumierost, W. S. Ferguson, W. B. Munro, W. H. Schofield and Benjamin Rand, now filling important chairs at Harvard; H. E. Bigelow, president of the club; E. Fraser, J. L. MacSweeney, C. Walker, I. C. Rand, R. P. Borden, Lloyd Dixon, Albert Oulton, Roy Fullerton, J. S. MacGregor, J. H. Fraser, M. R. Elliott, W. R. Perry, Stanley Smith, Charles Robb, and other students in the University from the maritime provinces.

HIS NECK BROKEN

Amos Margison Found Dead in Hayfield in Upper Knoxford

A long distance telephone message received last evening from Centreville stated that Amos Margison, of Upper Knoxford, Carleton county, who had been working on his farm, was found dead on Saturday in the hay field, his neck being broken. Mr. Margison had left the house about 12 o'clock Saturday noon, to bring in a load of hay. His daughter-in-law, who lives with him, became anxious when he did not return home in a reasonable time. About 4.30 in the afternoon she went out in the field and found him lying on the ground all huddled up. Turning him over she found that he was dead.

It is supposed that while Mr. Margison was on the load of hay the horse bolted, throwing him off and breaking his neck. The family at once tried to get into communication with a doctor but both of the doctors in that vicinity were away. The body was taken to the house and later, after the particulars were told to the doctor, he decided that death was accidental.

Mr. Margison was one of the most respected residents of Upper Knoxford, where he had been living for a long time. He was 70 years of age and leaves three sons and one daughter, Allen and Wilmot at home, Norman, who is residing at Mars Hill (Me.), and Mrs. R. Lawrence, of Upper Knoxford. The deceased is also survived by four brothers, George and Leonard, of Centreville; Charles, of Upper Knoxford, and B. E. Boston. The funeral will take place this afternoon from his late residence.

ANOTHER WOMAN CURED

By Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Gardiner, Maine.—"I have been a great sufferer from organic troubles and a severe female weakness. The doctor said I would have to go to the hospital for an operation, but I could not bear to think of it. I decided to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Sanative Wash—and was entirely cured after three months' use of them."—Mrs. S. A. WILLIAMS, R. P. D. No. 14, Box 89, Gardiner, Me.

No woman should submit to a surgical operation, which may mean death, until she has given Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made exclusively from roots and herbs, a fair trial.

THE MERCER FORTUNE

James A. Mercer, of 2 Beechwood Place, Cork, Ireland, writes to The Telegraph in connection with the Mercer fortune, asking for information regarding relatives in Woodstock. Mr. Mercer, in his letter, says: "I was born in Woodstock in July, 1855. My parents resided there for some years and then returned to Ireland with two sons. I am the oldest." He gives the names of a McAfee family in Woodstock as his cousins and desires that they, if located, should write him particulars of the Mercer fortune to assist him in establishing a claim to it. He says that one of his cousins, a Miss Maggie McAfee was married in 1892 to a J. B. Wolvenston, but the writer of the letter is at present unable to locate any of them.
