SIR ROBERT PERKS FIRST DAY HERE WAS A BUSY ONE

Arriving at Noon This Strenuous English Baronet Inspected the Harbor, Attended Reception and Luncheon in His Honor, and Addressed Mass Meeting in Centenary Church

Sir Robert Perks yesterday afternoon visited the west side and inspected the shipping facilities, and in the evening attended the reception and dinner given in his honor in Centenary Methodist church.

There were about 150 guests present and they were introduced to Sir Robert by Rev. Dr. C. R. Flanders. After half an hour spent in social intercourse luncheon was served by the White catering company. H. A. Powell, K. C., presided, and an excellent menu was enjoyed. The toast to the King was received with musical honors.

Dr. J. W. Daniel, M. P., then proposed the health of the guest of the evening. Referring to Sir Robert Perks as one of the most distinguished laymen in the Methodist church in England, he recalled the active interest their guest had taken in establishing the million guineas subscription fund for the propagation of Christianity and spoke of his devotion to Methodism in the midst of his public duties as a member of parliament as a striking tribute to the love he bore his church.

It showed, Dr. Daniel continued, that Sir Robert had not forgotten the teachings of his youth and, amid much applause, the speaker announced that in conversation with their guest he had made the discovery that they had been school fellows together in Somersetshire in their youthful days. Dr. Daniel paid a warm tribute to Sir Robert's father, who was head master of the school, and spoke of him as a most able and distinguished minister of the Methodist church.

He was glad, he said, that their distinguished guest had not followed the example of other visitors from England who, when they had visited Toronto, Montreal and other upper Canadian cities, went home and announced that they had seen Canada. He went on to refer to the Loyalist spirit extant in St. John and expressed the pleasure he felt that Sir Robert could carry back with him the knowledge that the people of eastern Canada were earnest in their desire to take some of the empire's responsibilities on themselves and not depend entirely for defence on the motherland.

In closing, Dr. Daniel spoke of Sir Robert's interest in immigration and expressed the hope that he would use his influence to send English-speaking people to Canada in place of people of foreign nations who in the past, he said, had been a tax and a weight on the community. By so doing, he said, he would confer a lasting benefit on the dominion.

Ex-Chief Justice Tuck, after alluding to the many pleasant features of the occasion, referred to the able preachers in the Methodist church with whom he had been acquainted and spoke of the brilliant career of Sir Robert Perks whom, he said, he regarded as one of the greatest men of the century.

Sir Robert Perks, on rising to respond, was received with much applause. His remarks, he said, must necessarily be brief owing to the mass meeting which was to be held, but he must first thank them most sincerely for the kind way they had received the references made to himself by his old schoolfellow, Dr. Daniel, and by the ex-chief justice. When he started to collect the million guineas fund, mentioned by Dr. Daniel, one of the first donors was a lady 103 years old. Her age struck him as so unusual that he made inquiries, and the lady sent the information that she attributed her long life to four things, being a tetotaler, eating plain food, taking plenty of outdoor exercise and never worrying. Noticing that she had not mentioned whether she was married or single, he learned on enquiry that she was not married. Perhaps, added Sir Robert, amid much laughter, that was the reason she never worried.

Referring to his visit, Sir Robert went on to say that he would be able to carry back to England a message of hope for the zeal and success of Canadian Methodism. He hoped that the lay preacher was not becoming extinct. In a recent conversation with the prime minister he told him that in England out of 26,000 sermons which would be preached in England on the following Sunday, 20,000 would be by laymen. All classes of men were included in their ranks, fifty-eight being members of the house of commons.

In England, Sir Robert continued, they were more democratic than in Canada. Their church was not affected by quite so rigid a code, and laymen had more authority. The Methodist church was popular, progressive and powerful, and had thrown aside all regulations that might impede its work. They endeavored to live in friendly rivalry with other communions. They endured the one form of church government paid for and protected by the state.

In the house of commons he belonged to the non-conformist party, and while he had not strong political opinions he must confess to a feeling of disappointment that the Liberal leaders had not secured for the country that freedom of religion which had been so long enjoyed in Canada. He again thanked them for their kind reception. It was one more instance of the affection Canadians showed to strangers from the old country. (Applause.)

As the length of the meeting had exceeded the time limit, the chairman briefly proposed the toast of the Methodist Church of Canada. In the absence of Rev. S. Howard, Dr. J. V. Anglin made a formal reply.

Ald. R. T. Hayes proposed the health of the ladies, which was responded to by F. R. Murray.

Then gathering then adjourned.

There was a large gathering in Centenary church after the luncheon to hear Sir Robert Perks' address on the scheme of Methodist brotherhood thoughout the world and the relations of English Methodism to the problems of the age. After Flanders, Rev. Dr. Campbell and Rev. Samuel Howard took part, Mayor Bullock briefly introduced the speaker of the evening.

On rising Sir Robert was greeted with warm applause, which was repeated ffequently during his address. He brought to Canada, he said, the greetings of Methodism in the old land. When he said that he did not wish them to picture English Methodism as old or decrepit but as alert, as energetic and as watchful as in the days of yore.

There were three branches of the Methodist church in Great Britain with 6,500,000 adherents. More people than there were in the whole of the dominion, so that when the Canadian church was asked to join forces with the English it was invited to co-operate with no weak community. Besides 4,000 regularly ordained ministers there was in the English church an army of 40,000 lay preachers drawn from all ranks of society and representing almost every grade of culture.

The English church was not divided by any schism and it was nearly seventy years ago since any doctrinal difficulty presented itself. Then it was not really a question of doctrine upon which they divided but rather on what are now called minor points, such as the admission of organs in the churches. Sir Robert went on to speak of the methods of John Wesley in his work. Methodism had never been patronized, he said, by the society leaders in England. Wesley often had dukes and earls and countesses in his congregations but these only went out of mere curiosity. Neither had the church there ever pandered to the popular taste for excitement and novelty. The Methodist church was a voluntary church untrammeled by any cast iron regulations and its greatest stronghold was in the affections of the masses of the people.

John Wesley, the speaker continued, was a daring social reformer who plunged headlong into some of the most pressing problems of his time. He was an experimentalist and hated the man who was forever talking theory. In an age when the common people were told that ignorance was indeed bliss he established common schools. He founded institutions in which neglected children were cared for and organized a system of relief works for the unemployed of London.

English Methodism, Sir Robert went on, was not the same as it was fifty years ago or even thirty-five years ago. The church was fully alive to and was grappling with the problems of the people.

The scheme of Methodist brotherhood contemplated the compiling of yearly lists of all Methodists who intended to leave England for any of the colonies. It also contemplated the compiling of lists of Methodist employers of labor in all colonial cities who would help such as were properly vouched for to them.

It was not the first time, Sir Robert said, when the church had stepped in when the state held back. Long before the state cared for the poor, Methodism was doing practical work in that direction and long before the government came to the conclusion to educate the children of its subjects out of its resources the church was establishing and maintaining schools.

There was something practical in the idea of a federated Methodist brotherhood and the result must be for the general uplifting of the race through the influence such a body would be able to exert. He believed that if the scheme could be realized it would be a great step towards bringing Christ's kingdom on earth.

A hearty vote of thanks, moved by George A. Henderson, and seconded by J. Hunter White, was tendered Sir Robert for his able and interesting address. The musical part of the service was led by a strongly augmented choir. Mrs. L. M. Curren sang two solos.

CURES CHILDREN'S CROUPY COLDS

At this season of cold, searching winds and changeable weather, children will catch cold, will contract croup, bronchitis and sore throat. The experienced mother knows of nothing half so good as a vigorous rubbing of neck and chest with Nerviline—rub it in well, and apply a Nerviline Porous Plaster. If the case is obstinate, give twenty drops of Nerviline in hot sweetened water every four hours.

This treatment is simply wonderful—swollen, inflamed tissues are soothed and healed, coughing is promptly allayed, hard, strong phlegm is loosened and every trace of cold and cough disappears.

Nerviline is so safe to use, so powerful, so penetrating—makes such a good all round household remedy that for nearly fifty years thousands of bottles are used every day.

AFTER SUFFERING TEN YEARS

Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

MARLTON, N.J.—I feel that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has given me new life. I suffered for ten years with serious female troubles, inflammation, ulceration, indigestion, nervousness, and could not sleep. Doctors gave me up, as they said my troubles were chronic. I was in despair, and did not care whether I lived or died, when I read about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound; so I began to take it, and am well again and relieved of all my suffering."—Mrs. GEORGE JORDY, Box 40, Marlton, N.J.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs, contains no narcotics or harmful drugs, and to-day holds the record for the largest number of actual cures of female diseases we know of, and thousands of voluntary testimonials are on file in the Pinkham laboratory at Lynn, Mass., from women who have been cured from almost every form of female complaints, inflammation, ulceration, displacements, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, indigestion and nervous prostration. Every suffering woman owes it to herself to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial.

REFUSES $20,000,000 FOR COBALT LIMITS

Ontario Government Declines to Sell Them at That Price—May Reap Enough in Royalties to Relieve Taxation.

Toronto, June 1—Twenty million dollars is the offer received by the Ontario government and declined for the famous Gillies limit at Cobalt, where silver abounds. The offer was for the entire limit, containing 64,000 acres, not all mineralized.

The Globe will refer to the offer editorially tomorrow and say in part:

"There is a strong conviction in the province that $20,000,000 in cash with the attendant and secondary benefits of active development of a gigantic industry would be better than the uncertain returns to be obtained from other methods of administering the property. But the government is in possession of the most reliable information regarding the mineral deposits of the limit, and if they decide to stake their reputation on the refusal of so good an offer, they must feel that it can be made to yield far better returns.

"It is quite possible for the limit to supply the revenues of the province for many years, and to relieve the people of all taxation. Such a result would put the province in an exceptionally fortunate position. The fact that so tempting an offer has been refused certainly gives grounds for the hope of large and continuous returns."

WOULD NOT PAY FOR JOB ON "THE FORCE"

Ernest Calve Says Ald. Proulx Asked $300 as Price of Job on Montreal Police Force.

Montreal, June 1—Ernest Calve, joiner, of Montreal, and erstwhile candidate to the city police force, told an interesting tale today before the royal commission.

Chief Champeau had just been on the stand and told how every candidate was questioned, before being admitted as to whether he had paid or promised to pay anything for a position on the force. Were the reply in the affirmative, then no further consideration was given to the application.

Mr. Calve told the commission that five years ago he was an applicant for a position on the force. He saw Chief Campeau fill in the necessary forms and passed the examinations. Then he asked the chief when his duties were to begin.

"You had better get some alderman to help you along," counselled the chief, according to the witness, and the applicant said he went to see Alderman Pacquin, at least he thought it was Pacquin, and the latter advised in turn to see Alderman Proulx. Conforming thereto, Calve said he called on Alderman Proulx and put the case before him. Ald. Proulx replied, so the witness stated, that there would be $300 to pay—so much for this man, so much for that man, and a little over for the others.

"I would not give you five cents for a job on the force," the witness declared he replied. He is not a policeman today.

An eminently successful programme was brought to a close by the splendid violin number by W. R. Smith, St. John, followed by the National anthem.

The feature of today's meeting of the Alumni Society was the inauguration of a movement for the endowment of an alumni chair in economics, and a subscription in the meeting of over $4,000 toward the purpose. A sub-committee was appointed to take the matter up vigorously during the year and there is no doubt that at the next meeting it will be carried to a successful completion.

The initiative in the matter was taken by the class of 1904, supported by the class of 1907. Each class promised a generous subscription. In a few minutes individual pledges ranging from $100 up to $500 were given, and pledges of gifts of unstated amounts were made by half a dozen others. The class of 1902 was also pledged to a generous gift.

Among the individual pledges were those of Senator Wood, '63, Sackville; E. R. Machum, S. D. Scott, St. John; Rev. C. H. Johnson, '98, River Phillip; N. T. Avard, '03. Joggins; Miss H. S. Considerable business of importance was also transacted. Officers were elected as follows: H. F. S. Paisley, '04, re-elected; vice-presidents, H. A. McKeown, '81, Miss Annie L. Smith, '06, St. John; Rev. C. E. Crowell, '91, Halifax; auditor, Principal Palmer, Sackville; secretary-treasurer, Prof. Tweedie. The council is made up of officers and Prof. Desbrarres, Miss Stewart, Prof. Hunton, C. C. Avard and F. B. Black. Mayor Pickard, Sackville, and C. C. Avard, '08, Sackville, were elected to the board of regents as representatives of the society.

At a meeting of the alumnae society, Mrs. Charles Pickard was chosen president; Mrs. T. N. Campbell, Amherst; Mrs. S. W. Hunton and Mrs. H. M. Wood, Sackville, and Mrs. W. W. Andrews, Sackville, secretary-treasurer; Miss Emma Trueman, auditor; Mrs. H. Humphrey and Mrs. Smith, St. John, were appointed the society's representatives on the board of regents.

In Schumann's Novelette Miss Nellie Myles brought out the singing quality of tone in most pleasing manner. The violin number by Miss Bessie Redden, Canning (N. S.), was beautifully rendered. Miss Redden has true musicianly feeling, correct phrasing, breadth of tone, brilliant interpretation. Miss Gladys Dixon, Sackville, gave a good rendition of her number. Miss Marion Harnett, of Hamilton, Bermuda, who gave a song, possesses a high soprano voice, light but very sweet. The stringed orchestra, which has won such favorable comment during the exercises, gave two selections, of marked contrast, in a striking manner. The light, easy rhythm of the Cradle Song, was pleasingly portrayed, while The Mill with its ceaseless activity was a delight. The reading Mosquito Mint by Miss Marion Harnett, was a most amusing number and caused much merriment. Miss Harnett handled the reading most admirably. Miss Minnie Merriam, of Port Greville (N. S.), has a mezzo-soprano voice and sang well. One of the most pleasing numbers was that by Miss Lennie Lusby, Amherst, who played most brilliantly. The song by twelve young ladies was exquisite, the blend being especially fine. Miss Hilda Hawker closed the remarkably fine programme with a really good performance of Thalberg's most difficult composition, Home Sweet Home.

Rev. G. W. F. Glendenning, B. D., of Digby, was heard this morning in the memorial chapel in the annual lecture before the Theological Union. He spoke upon The Church and the Social Problem and delivered a most scholarly and thoughtful address. Rarely, if ever, has a lecture of greater merit been heard here. At the close of his remarks he was tendered a hearty vote of thanks.

At the meeting the officers of the union were re-elected for the coming year as follows: President, Rev. Dr. Jost, of Bridgewater; vice-presidents, Rev. W. G. Watson, B. D., Sackville, and Rev. S. Howard, B. D., of St. John; secretary-treasurer, Rev. J. L. Dawson, B. A., of Sackville.

Rev. William Harrison was appointed to deliver the lecture before the union next year with Rev. A. D. McCully, B. D., of Bathurst, as the alternate. Rev. W. M. Ryan will be the preacher before the union. The alternate will be Rev. L. Daniel.
