AMUSEMENTS

AT THE NICKEL.

Despite the criticisms of some who are prejudiced against the motion picture enterprise the Nickel is continuing in its mission of regaling the people of St. John—rich and poor alike—with superior entertainment at a nominal figure. Today's show will be A Trip in Lapland, that strange inhospitable country of the far north so seldom heard about let alone seen in animated photographs; Louis XVII. and the Revolution, an historical drama, magnificently colored; Bess and Her Goose, and The Two Bandboxes, excellent comedies. Besides this array of fine photographs, Holmes and Buchanan will continue in their duets, and Mr. Courtnais is still singing that hit, Make a Noise Like a Hoop and Roll Away. Since the Nickel has been in business it has received the praise and commendation of exacting and discriminating people, and is rated as one of a select few exclusively high-class motion picture houses.

THE CAMERAPHONE

In spite of the weather of last night the Opera House was packed to the doors the greater part of the evening. The biggest attraction on the bill was Miss Sadie McDonald who is appearing in a collection of choice vocal numbers. Miss McDonald not only received great applause for her work, but at each performance the audience showed appreciation by applauding when she appeared on the stage. She will sing two new numbers this afternoon and evening. Among the cameraphone acts for today are Bessie Wynn, stageland's beautiful comedienne, in her catchiest song hit, The Arab Love Song; Marie Cahill's hit in The Boys and Betty; also Knight and Day. The Dark Aristocrats. Miss McDonald will appear afternoon and evening.

NEW SHOW AT STAR TONIGHT

At noon today the Star Theatre's new programme of pictures for this afternoon, tonight and all day tomorrow reached the city. At this hour of writing it is impossible to give titles, but every film is fresh and new.

PARTY POLITICS INTERFERE WITH THE PORT DEVELOPMENT

mission should settle the matter. They came back and made no reference to it and gave as an explanation that the harbor commission could not provide a remedy. The fullest publicity should be given to the matter.

They had heard of nothing but harbor commission. The bill had been thrown at the minister and the information they now received was that it was not for the immediate future and that the money involved was too large to handle under present conditions. If ever anything ought to be made public it was the details of this proposition.

For simplicity or audacity there was nothing to equal the offer of the C. P. R. Having failed to keep their promise to develop the 1,600 foot strip they came to the city and said, "Here, gentlemen, having stolen your property we will give you back part of it if you will give us everything else of value that you possess."

"In the words of a well known politician," continued Ald. Baxter, in part, 'Why can't Cox wait.' Why this everlasting rush? The application for this property came first from that little half-starved railway, the Shore Line, they saw that the key to the situation lay there. They did not get it. Then the C. P. R. demanded it. They told us they could not carry a pound of freight until they got it. I have not changed my mind since then like the delegation which has been to Ottawa. They got cold feet. They seem to be afraid some wonderful opportunity will be lost. We are told to trust the government; we will trust ourselves as well. We will trust the government to find some other way when they see the city is not willing to hand over the property to the C. P. R."

Ald. Baxter reviewed the objections of John Bertram, chairman of the railway commission, and referred to the report of the railway commission in 1904 in which it was recommended that, owing to the restricted area on the west side, the city should not sell or lease any property without the consent of the government.

The mayor—"The government has agreed to the transfer. We are proposing to do just what the government ask for."

Ald. Baxter—"How much stock do you take in Courtenay Bay?"

The mayor—"A lot before I'm through."

Ald. Baxter said the railway commission took strong ground against locking up the property to one company. There was no immediate urgency. As an alternative, the government could lay out the yards themselves. It would make a new precedent but it would not be the first.

Ald. Kelley said he would move for copies of all data to be given to the members.

The mayor said it was not intended to make the communications public.

Ald. Kelley said he believed in trusting the people and the mayor had taken up an amazing attitude. He did not know how he reconciled it with his position. He could not understand why there was so much secrecy. He had asked for the communications and could not get them.

At this point there was no quorum and the meeting came to an end with a final question from Ald. Kelley, "Then I don't get them?"

[While Ald. Kelley was declaiming, the correspondence, which had been entrusted by the mayor to one of the aldermen in confidence, had already been printed in an evening newspaper.]
