JOHNSON'S VIEW OF IT

Big Negro Expresses His Pleasure That Jeffries Will Fight Him

Pittsburg, Pa., April 23—Then the fight with Ketchel is off, said big Jack Johnson, the colored champion of the world, on being told that Jeffries in New York had practically decided to come out after the championship again.

"I understand that the news is challenging the winner of the Johnson-Ketchel fight, I can tell him from this distance that since he has shown a disposition to get into the ring again there will be no Johnson-Ketchel fight.
"Throw Stanley Ketchel down in order to get a chance at Jeffries? Sure I will Ketchel is but a middleweight, and I took him on because I could get no one else to meet me; but now that Mr. Jeffries seems willing to get into the game once more, allow him to cover my bet of $5,000, which is already posted in New York to bind a match with him, and then we will get down to business. If in the ring again, Jeffries cannot afford to ignore me, and I guess it's pretty well understood that I'm the man he's after, so we will not lose any time in settling this. I can't afford to fight middleweights when such as Jeffries are wanting a fight."

CORBETT WON BOUT ON POINTS

Account of the Contest By Rounds Between Him and Keyes

New York, April 23—There were several preliminary bouts all of short duration and the semi-final contest brought together Jack Ryan, of Chicago, and Jack Laubury, of Australia. This pair boxed six clever rounds so evenly that a draw was the result. Young Corbett and Keyes were then introduced, and a few moments later the bout started.

Round 1—They got to close quarters quickly, exchanging body blows. Keyes sent a hard left to the face, but Corbett came back smiling and replied with a stiff left on the wind. Both kept plugging away at close quarters until the bell rang with honors about even. Keyes' left eye was cut and he was bleeding when the round was over.

Round 2—Corbett forced the fighting, using his left, but suffered from a hard right swing on the side of the head. Corbett outpointed his man to the bell.

Round 3—Keyes sent a hard left to the ear. A right uppercut staggered Keyes, who clinched and after a long embrace the police separated them. Corbett was forcing the fighting until the end and had a shade the better of the round.

Round 4—Keyes was the aggressor, landing heavy on the body and sending a hard right to the head. Corbett sent back a right over the head and a left jab to the chin. Keyes got the better of a rapid fire exchange and had the round at the bell.

Round 5—Corbett met Keyes in a rush and drew blood from the Philadelphia fighter's nose. Keyes sent Corbett back several times with hard smashes on the face, but the Denver boy was willing and went back with a right on the neck that almost sent Keyes to the floor. The round was pretty even with Corbett showing a lack of wind.

Round 6—Corbett opened with a right hand swing, forcing Keyes to clinch. Corbett rushed his man to the ropes and sent in a body blow and a left on the jaw which met Keyes' breast ground. Corbett kept on forcing the fighting and easily had the honors at the bell.

Round 7—Corbett landed a blow over the heart and another to the stomach. Keyes then landed on the head and stomach and sent a left to the head. A rapid exchange ended the round with honors slightly in Corbett's favor.

Round 8—Keyes met Corbett's rush with three lefts to the face. Corbett got to the body with two rights, but a quick left jab by Keyes opened a gash over Corbett's left eye. Corbett landed a right and a left and Keyes had a shade the worse of the mix-up.

Round 9—Corbett jabbed Keyes twice and got in a hard right on the ribs. Keyes retaliated with a stiff right to jaw which jarred Corbett. A jab brought blood from Corbett's mouth. Keyes had this round.

Round 10—Corbett rushed, landing both hands on the wind. Keyes fell back to the ropes from Corbett's next rush, but landed a right which showed signs of firing toward the finish and this round was even. The bout was Corbett's on points.

Dr. McLaughlin's Talk About His Electric Belt

Ever since the beginning of civilization, the man who made a new discovery or invention was jeered or laughed at. When More, the inventor of the telegraph, claimed that he had a means of transmitting messages by electricity, nearly everybody thought he was crazy.

Today people are almost as skeptical about any new invention as they were fifty years ago. When a doctor comes forward with a new remedy or a new method of curing disease, their first cry is, "show me." I can do it.

I have invented an electric body battery for the cure of chronic and nervous ailments, and for weakness in men and women. It gives vigor, health, new vitality to you blood, nerves, organs, or any other part of your body that may be weak.

My electric belt generates a powerful current of electricity, and can be made as strong or mild as you like, by the adjustment of a regulator.

Scientists tell us, and I have proven, that the motive power of the body is electricity. When you are full of it you are strong and healthy. When you lack it you are weak, stupid and nervous. Electricity cures by restoring to the body the power it has lost. When I say that electricity cures I don't ask you to take my word for it. I back up my statement with the testimony of hundreds of honest men who have found health and strength in this life-giver, and who were just as skeptical as you before they tried my treatment.

Dear Sir—I write to let you know that your belt has cured me, and am entirely satisfied with your treatment. Then I gave it to my sister to wear, and she, too, was entirely cured, after being treated by many different doctors, and also being told that she would have to go under an operation, to which she would not consent. She used your belt and was entirely cured.

JOHN W. THIBAUT, Bruce Mines, Ont.

When your stomach, liver or digestive organs get out of order it is because they lack the necessary electricity to enable them to perform their regular functions. The breaking down of one of those organs nearly always causes other trouble. Nature can't cure them, because your body hasn't enough electricity to do the work, so you must assist nature by restoring this electricity where it is needed. My belt does this while you sleep. It saturates the nerves with its glowing power, and these conduct the force to every organ and tissue of your body, restoring health and giving strength to every part that is weak.

Electricity is a relief from the old system of drugging. It does by natural means what you expect drugs to do by unnatural means. It removes the cause of the disease, and after the cause has been removed nature will do the rest.

If you are sceptical, all I ask is reasonable security for the price of the belt, and you can

A GRATEFUL WOMAN

Tells of the Remarkable Cure Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Wrought in Her Case—Had Undergone Four Operations

Without Help

When women approach that critical period in their lives known as the turn of life, they do so with a feeling of apprehension and uncertainty, for the manner in which they pass that crisis determines the health of the country during the most important time in the life of a woman, her whole aim should be to build up and strengthen her system to meet the unusual demands upon it. Devotion to family should not lead to neglect of self. The bare work and worries of household cares should be avoided as far as possible. But whether she is able to do this or not, no woman should fail to take the tonic treatment offered by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, which will build up her blood and fortify her whole system, enabling her to pass this critical period with safety. We give the following strong proof of what Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are constantly doing for suffering women.

Mrs. Margaret Wood, Southfield, N. B. says:—"Some years ago I became a victim to the troubles that afflict so many of my sex, in the very worst form. The doctor in charge neither through medicine nor local treatment gave me any help, and he decided that I must undergo an operation if I was to have any relief. During the next two years I underwent four successive operations. During this time I had the attention of some of the best physicians. From each operation I received some benefit, but only of short duration, and then I drifted back into the same wretched condition as before. During all this time I was taking medicine to build up my system, but with no avail. I was reduced to a mere skeleton; my nerves were utterly broken down. My blood was of a light yellowish color, and I was so far gone that I took spells in which my lips, fingers and tongue would seem paralyzed. I cannot begin to express what I suffered and went through in those two years. I was completely discouraged and thought I could not live long. Then on the urgent advice of friends I began to take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and after some weeks perceived a change for the better. I continued to take the Pills for several months, gradually growing stronger and suffering less, and in the end found myself once more a well woman and enjoying the blessing of such good health as I had not known for years. I now always keep these Pills in the house and after a hard day's work take them for a few days and they always seem to put new life and energy in my body. I sincerely hope my experience may be of benefit to some other suffering women."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all dealers in medicines or will be sent by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 by addressing The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

UNION OF THE RACES

The last issue of the Canada-Review publishes an article signed C. J. Charbonneau, advocating the principle of mixed marriages in the Province of Quebec. The article concludes as follows: "It is to be hoped that the good common sense of the French families, Protestants, will see that it is to the advantage of the growing generation in this beautiful Canada of ours, that French and English, Catholic and Protestant, should complete one another, and if all exchange is useful, if all communion is fruitful, it is manifest between them that the most fruitful of all exchanges, and the most fruitful for national progress in the Province of Quebec. There is in this world and there will always be but one moral force, conscience. Let us not revive our fratricidal struggles, for reasons condemned by the same conscience. Let us cause to grow in the hearts of our sons and daughters true national feeling, by means of mixed marriages, based on mutual human love, and of still closer relations than ever between French and English, Catholics and Protestants. The future of the nation depends upon the union of hearts and minds. We will thus follow progress in fellowship, and future generations will reap the benefit thereof."

The automatic electric egg-boiler, like those in the Lusitania and Mauretania, are able to cook 200 eggs at once, a clock arrangement causing the basket containing the eggs to hop out of the water at any half minute up to six minutes. Another novelty is a self-dumping oyster cooker for stews.

The sanitary room

Summer Home Furnishing

Inexpensive artistic, light and durable is the furniture that the big shops are showing for summer homes. Chairs, couches, tables, and even desks are in cane and bamboo, beautifully fashioned and with an eye to cheerfulness and seasonableness. The expensive summer rug of former years has been entirely displaced by the grass rug, which has excellent wearing qualities, is cool as any other, is grateful to the eyes and has the excellent quality of cheapness.

Air and light and plenty of them have been the watchwords of every health conscious and the people of the country have become educated along hygienic lines to such a marked degree that the furniture manufacturers have been compelled to take notice and treat great food of cheap, handsome and sanitary furnishings has been the result.

An important feature of suburban home settlements nowadays is the bungalow, with its spacious veranda, very much resembling a room. In shopping do not forget to provide hammock and willow couch for the veranda and the Japanese hanging screen, which can be lowered to make the place private or raised to let in the air and light when necessary.

Good, easily adjusted window screens play a large part in the furnishing of a summer home. They not only keep out the flies and mosquitoes, but they also act as a filter for the dust-laden air which is ever present in the summer time when the windows and doors are open in order to allow the heat-worried residents the benefit of every breeze that is stirring.

The veranda is really the summer sitting room for the family and should be furnished with good taste and as comfortably as the season of the year and the possibilities of the pocket-book will admit. The shops are flooded with pretty cushion covers and straw cushions that make acceptable as well comfortable seats for the household.

And, by the way, the average household is extraordinarily prone to the "step" habit. Young people of all ages, even the young grand, who has reached three score and ten, enjoy sitting on the steps of an evening more than they do the comfortable chairs on the veranda. For this purpose grass cushions prove very satisfactory, and there should be plenty of them. If there is lawn the hanging of some hammocks and the addition of a

Helpful Housekeeping Hints

A new way to clean silver is to place it in a panful of sour milk that has just begun to thicken. Let the silver remain in the milk about an hour, and then wash in warm soapsuds and dry with soft cloth.

In making griddle cakes, beat two or three tablespoons of melted butter in the batter and it will not be necessary to grease the griddle.

Burnt milk should not be thrown away, but put in a clean jar and placed in cold water. In a short while the scorched taste will disappear.

Muffins that would tempt even the most jaded of palates can be made by the mixing in with the batter any portion of oatmeal or rice left over from a previous meal. This prevents the muffins from being tasteless and dry.

Small pieces of toilet soap that are no longer usable should be saved in a glass jar. When the jar is nearly full add little water and boil until a mixture is of the consistency of muckage. This is an excellent hair wash, as it precludes any possibility of small pieces of soap sticking to the hair, as is frequently the case when a cake of soap is used.

Every piece of stale bread should be saved, as so many dishes call for bread crumbs. First place the stale bread in a baking pan, and put on the shelf in the oven to dry, and brown slightly. When crisp, roll finely and place in an airtight jar.

Warm water, not hot, should be used for neuralgia. Dip the fingers in the water, and rub the face well. Then use a coarse towel until the cheeks are flushed. The feet should be treated in the same manner and then wrapped in woolen blankets. In this way the blood is drawn from the head to the feet.

When Asepto Gives a Helping Hand, Washing Labor is Halved.

Asepto is the right sort of a washday helper. Use it with hot water or with cold. A tablespoonful to a bucket of water is plenty. Leave the clothes in this preparation for two hours—and attend to other household duties. After the time is up, you will be amazed to see how rapidly the dirt disappears—and without the use of the destructive washboard.

Asepto cleans better than soap—is a harmless, odorless, antiseptic soap powder. Costs but 5c. a package, at all discerning grocers.
