SUFFRAGETTES INVADE THE PROVINCIAL HOUSE

Delegation Urging the Franchise for Women Stormed the House of Assembly This Morning—Their Bill Likely to Pass—Committee Meetitgs

Fredreicton, N. B., April 24—(Special)—There were loud calls of "police" followed by a clanging of division bells in the house this morning, when a delegation of ladies representing the Canadian Suffrage Association, appeared in the chamber.

The agricultural and municipalities committees were about to go into session and a number of members were sitting about discussing the events of the evening.

Mr. Hatheway, the ladies' representative in the house, was not present when the delegation arrived, but Mr. Dixon who seconded the resolution, came forward and gave a smiling greeting to them, as did also Recorder Skinner, who is a champion of demands of ladies for equal rights.

The more bashful of the members made a rush for the lobbies, but the ladies had enjoyed a previous experience in the house and corralled a bunch of memebrs and impressed them with their views. The delegation consists of Mrs. J. R. Calhoun-Mrs. Fiske, Mrs. Cougle, Miss Allen, Miss Peters, Mrs. W. F. Hatheway, Mrs. Harold Climo, and during the morning they struggled with those members who voted against Mr. Hathaway's measure to change their views and do equal justice to the fair sex.

To the Times, Miss Peters, who takes a very advanced view of the suffrage question, said the measure Mr. Hatheway had brought forward, while not giving all that she thought should be granted to women, was satisfactory to the association, she represented as a step forward. Miss Peters thinks that women and men should be treated alike so far as suffrage is concerned.

As the government was in session, the delegation did not meet the executive as a body, but availed themselves of the opportunity of personal interviews with those whom they met.

One of the ladies made a dead set on the good looking member for Queens, who resides in Fredericton, and found him inclined to be argumentative. The room was warm and her coat heavy.

In a moment she had divested herself of her outer garment, and at last accounts the member was gradually surrendering to her arguments. The bill is not likely to come up today, and its fate still hangs in the balance, but if delegation proves as persistent as their sisters in England and stand to their guns the bill will pass.

There was another delegation here last night on a somewhat different errand. It consists of about fifty residents of Woodstock and other portions of Carleton county, who are interested in the construction of the St. John Valley railway, and particularly desirous of having legislation enacted this year that will enable the company, whose bill is now before the house to proceed with the construction of the road this year, provided the federal government will undertake to operate the railway. Some of those who were present last night, composed the delegation, who went to Ottawa, and they were so impressed with what Sir Wilfrid Laurier had said that they thought it desirable that the provincial government should go on record concerning this important question, and pass a measure through the house expressive of their intenitons concerning the construction of the railroad.

The question of the route the railway should take is also a matter of some concern to the delegation. This matter has been discussed in the corporation committee where the necessity of the road passing through Lakeville and Centreville was strongly urged and agreed upon. Another point raised in this committee is the route from Centreville on to the connection with the Grand Trunk Pacific. In the original proposition, which passed the house two years ago, the intention was to connect with the Canadian Northern, which left no doubt as to the route. To connect with the Grand Trunk Pacific raises many new questions. The Dominion subsidies provide for a connection at St. Leonards, and this will probably fix the route.

Last night's delegation had for its spokesmen Messrs. B. Frank Smith, Dr. Rankin E. Balmain and Rev. G. D. Ireland, who urged their views very strongly and were very much in earnest in asking the government to decide on a course that would admit of the railway being operated as a portion of the Intercolonial, if the Dominion government should decide on that course. The government will consider the matter, and no doubt legislation will be introduced before the end of the session to meet the views of the delegation as far as possible, at least that is how the matter looks today.

Messrs. Wm. McLean, Thomas Stothard, and W. J. S. Myles, all from St. John, representing the Teacher's Association, had an interview with the government this morning for the purpose of urging the adoption of the pension scheme for school teachers. The members of the delegation claim to have accurate information concerning the cost of their proposal to the province, having gone over the ground very carefully to obtain the information as to the number of teachers affected.

They say that the cost will not exceed $12,000 annually. The members of the delegation are of the opinion that the matter will be favorably considered by the executive.

The effect of Mr. Pinder's amendment to the St. John River Log Driving Company's bill last night was apparent this morning when members of the corporation and others interested made their appearance in the lobbies. To say that the company is displeased with the action of reconsidered, and the whole amendment is putting it mildly. They want the bill reconsidered, and teh whole amendment struck out. What will happen in this matter no one seems to know

The accounts committee did not meet this morning.

Fredericton, N. B., April 24th—The Agricultural Committee held another session this morning, chairman Dickson presiding.

Col. Sheridan desired information as regards artificial fertilizers, and the action of fertilizers upon the soil. He knew something of the action of stone lime and how it left the soil in a harsh and unproductive state. He also knew that mussel mud was a real benefit to the soil and left it in a good state.

Mr. Pinder said his experience was that fertilizer assisted to produce good crops, and was specially valuable in growing potato crops. In that case the soil was left in good condition for a crop of oats the succeeding year, without further fertilization, and hay for two years following. His experience was that a barrel of fertilizer was required to each barrel of potato seed, about half a ton to the acre. One objection to the fertilizers on the market was that the purchaser got only a small percentage of ingredients valuable to the soil, and a large percentage of sand which the farmers were paying high prices for, and paying freight on. He made fertilizer for his own use from bone and ashes. He moved the following resolution, seconded by Mr. Woods:

"Resolved, that this committee recommend the commissioner of agriculture to have a thorough investigation made into the cost of securing ingredients and manufacturing fertilizers with a view of arranging for an adequate supply to the farmers of the province at the lowest possible cost."

The resolution carried.

Mr. Allain moved the following resolution.

"Whereas, it has been demonstrated that apples and various other fruits can be profitably grown in many parts of this province and,

"Whereas, experts of wide experience state there is a larger area of apple growing territory in New Brunswick than in Nova Scotia therefore,

"Resolved that the opinion of this committee this important industry should be developed and as a first step towards securing this development, a provincial horticulturist should be appointed."

Deputy Commissioner Peters doubted the wisdom of the resolution. The department was doing all possible with the means at its disposal and was carrying on a beneficial work of education. The resolution was discussed and carried and the committee adjourned.

BULLETS FLEW LIKE RAIN IN STREETS OF CONSTANTINOPLE

Constitutional Army Entered the City This Morning and Desperate Fighting Occurred in the City—Casualties Were Heavy—Troops Now Preparing to Attack Yildiz Kiosk

Constantinople, April 24—The commander of the troops at Yildiz Kiosk and Schefket Pasha, the commander of the army of investment are negotiating the surrender of the Yildiz garrison. Schefket demanded unconditional surrender by noon, but at that hour he granted an extension of time for four hours. It is understood that the Sultan is insisting on additional guarantee. Two white flags are flying from Yildiz Kiosk. The Sultan is unharmed and none of the members of his houshold were injured. All is quiet within the royal palace.

Constantinople, April 24—Fighting between the army of investment under General Mamoud Schefket and part of the troops faithful to the Sultan began at five o'clock this morning in the southwest part of Pera, a suburb within two and a half miles of Yildiz Kiosk.

Berlin, April 24—A special despatch from Constantinople says that the Sultan's troops have surrendered.

Constantinople, April 24—Heavy rifle firing shortly after 5 o'clock this morning, mingled with the occasional rattle of artillery from the heights surrounding Yildiz Kiosk, marked the culmination of the expected clash between the favored troops of the Constantinople garrison and the army of investment, which began its advance on the city yesterday.

The fighting started in the southwest part of Pera, near Yildiz Kiosk, between the troops under General Mahmoud Schefket, commanding the army of investment, and part of those loyal to the Sultan. The Saloniki troops attacked the Matchka and Tasch Kischla barracks south of Yildiz Kiosk, where they met stubborn resistance. It is reported that the casualties are heavy. The firing caused a panic in the city and thousands began fleeing away, detachments of military cadets commanded by officers of the constitutionalists, are protecting the foreign embassies and every possible means has been taken to prevent disturbances in the city. Major Enver Bey, one of the young Turk leaders, has sent a company of infantry to guard each legation. From the houses near Yildiz Kiosk, the bodies of those who met death during the encounter near Tash Kishla barracks, are plainly visible.

The streets near the firing line were quickly cleared, and the non combatants were ordered to remain indoors to prevent casualties and the possibility of mob violence, thus leaving the streets for exclusive movement of the troops. The public has been warned away from the neighborhood of Yildiz Kiosk, and the lines are impenetrable.

General Schefket, commanding the constitutional army began to occupy Constantinople at dawn. Word came from the city at midnight saying that the long expected entry had been made, but people nevertheless went to bed skeptical, only to be awakened in the Pera quarter by the sound of artillery and the ragged crash of rifles in the direction of Yildiz Kiosk. A battalion of the Sultan's household guards occupied Tasch Kiachla barracks, about 800 strong, and were resisting the advance of the investing army. Expecting an attack they were deployed outside the barracks when an officer from Gen. Schafket demanded that they surrender, but they refused. Within a minute after the representatives from the constitutionalists returned the firing began. The investing forces brought into action one battery of field guns and one battery of machine guns. This was judged from the sound of firing early in the morning.

Constantinople, April 24—Complete tranquility was restored in Constantinople by noon, when the last recaltrants surrendered and the firing ceased. Several of the isolated guard houses defended themselves bravely against the Salonikis. The fights in the centre of the city resulted in considerable loss of life. The Taxim guard house resisted for three hours under a heavy Hotchkiss fire. The occupants, numbering fifty men and officers, finally surrendered.

Berlin, April 24 — The Constantinople correspondent of the Lokal Anzeiger, telegraphs that a number of Europeans were wounded in the fighting. It was reported that the correspondent of the London Times was killed at the Taxim barracks' where the Sultan's troops put up a strong resistance. This statement cannot be verified and it was said later that the man killed was an American sightseer. The dragoman of the Austrian embassy was wounded and it is reported that the secretary attached to the English embassy was killed. The correspondent says, also, that the Yildiz garrison has surrendered to the Saloniki army.

Only a small part of the constitutional troops were engaged in the attack on the barracks as Pera is still strongly occupied with companies of infantry stationed in nearly every street and detailed to guard every embassy. The American embassy is thus protected while the Young Turks are protcting all hotels and banks in the Pera quarter where Americans and Europeans are gathered in security.

From the head of the Grande Rue De Pera, the main street, one was able to get a partial view of the operations. The brilliant sunlight now and then flashed on the field showing a landscape of gun rims or a succession of sparkles as a machine gun slowly fired away at segments of the thin line of infantry which could be seen with the aid of a glass. On the Tasch Kischla barracks the Sultan's men were returning the fire steadily. Presently the loyal troops occupied the military school nearby and fired on the advance while a considerable reinforcement from the Yildiz barracks joined the troops at Tasch Kischla where the Saloniki chausseurs accused of betraying the constitutional cause were defending themselves. The fire was concentrated on the barracks of the chausseurs and they were defending themselves. They put up a splendid fight and many of them were killed. By half past ten in the morning the Tasch Kischla barracks were half destroyed by shell fire whereupon the fire generally slackened. Yildiz Kiosk also had been subjected to a shell fire.

Shefkat Pasha issued orders to shoot down any soldiers of the Constantinople garrison having arms whether using them or not. He declared also that unarmed soldiers would be treated as non-combatants. During the encounter a rain of bullets fell among some persons observing the great panorama in the Grande Rue De Pera, wounding four men all of them natives. With this warning of danger the correspondents and others withdrew.

It appears that the Constitutionalists did not intentionally shell the Yildiz Kiosk. The objective of their fire was the barracks outside the palace enclosure and some of their shells occasionally fell within the Yildiz walls. The troops within the city brought comparatively few guns into action. They dropped some shells in Scutari on the other side of the Bosphorus and caused considerable disorder among the investing forces. Five sheils fell within fifteen minutes near the head of the Grande Rue De Pera causing consternation. A few minutes later fifty soldiers came running into the Grande Rne from a side alley and debouched in the rear of the attackers. They were fired on sharply and several were wounded before they were able to explain that they were deserters from the other side. The Grande Rue was massed with people and when it was learned that the fifty men had deserted there was tremendous outburst of cheers and hand-clapping. The windows of the houses not occupied by Mohammedans were crowded with women who waved handkerchiefs, a small Turkish flag and silken scarfs. The commandants shortly after this incident cleared all the streets in this vicinity.

In spite of the surrender of the Yildiz garrison where the white flag has been hoisted another detachment of the Sultan's body guard quartered in the Top-hanch barracks continued a stubborn resistance for some time longer. They barricaded themselves in a mosque but finally were overpowered.

The grounds of the Belgian legations were occupied by a detachment of the local garrison, who took up a position here to oppose the advance of the Constitutionalists. In the subsequent skirmish the legation was riddled with bullets. None of the inmates, however, were hurt. The Constitutionalists finally cleared the ground.

As soon as it was definitely known that the fighting was at an end the streets of the city became thronged with people eager to get the latest news.

Pickets from the corps under the command of Niazi Bey, the hero of the revolt at Resna last July entered Pera at half past ten and were cheered loudly by the population.

Police patrols at 11 o'clock were visiting the shops assuring the occupants that they had nothing to fear and inviting them to open.

Admiral Chester expressed the opinion that Schefket Pasha had handled his forces in an admirable manner.

As soon as the resistance at the Matchka and the Tasch Kischla barracks had been overcome the attacking forces occupied the heights surrounding the Yildiz Kiosk.

London, April 24—Special despatches from Constantinople this morning describing the encounter with the advancing constitutional army and with the troops of the Constantinople garrison say that both sides used artillery and machine guns and that the combatants gradually swarmed into the town, fighting in the streets. The loyalists sought shelter in the French hospital, after having been pursued by the Constitutionalists, whose superior discipline was effective. Two onlookers were killed during the struggle, one of whom is believed to be a British subject. The fight raged almost in the heart of the European quarter.

Frederick Moore, correspondent of the New York Sun, was seriously wounded, according to special despatches received here this morning. Mr. Moore was taking snapshots of the fighting soldiers, who evidently mistaking his camera for a weapon, fired upon him.

Mr. Moore, who comes from New Orleans, was shot in the neck. How serious his injury may be is not yet known. His wife, who is an English woman, is here with him.

London, April 23—A despatch to the Times from Constantinople reports great unrest among the Albanians. It is rumored that they have risen at Avlona, a seaport in the Adriatic, with a population of 6,000, and have made prisoners of the officers of the garrison and several of the members of the Committee of Union and Progress. These they are now holding as hostages for Ismail Kemal Bey and Mufid Bey.

Washington, D. C., April 23—Realizing the impotency of the Turkish and Persian governments, adequately to safeguard American lives and property in the present disturbed conditions in those countries, the state department has intimated that it will welcome any assistance in this direction from the governments of Great Britain and Russia. Diplomatic representations having this object in view have already been made to the foreign offices at London and St. Petersburg, whose ships and soldiers are at or near the scene of the massacres and ready for active operations. At the same time efforts are being made to learn whether the European powers on whom rests responsibility for the application of reforms undertaken by Turkey in the provinces inhabited by Armenians, according to the Berlin treaty of 1878, have taken steps to check the horrors now being perpetrated against those people. Inquiries have also been directed to London with a view to learning whether the warships despatched by the British government to the vicinity of the trouble in Asia Minor will afford adequate protection to all foreigners and intimating that the United States hopes that everything feasible will be done to safeguard human life. Russia has been told that the United States will have to rely on her for the humanitarian work of saving our citizens in Persia if their lives are in jeopardy.

WANTED CHEAP POWER

Manager of Motion Picture Theatre Arrested on Warrant Sworn Out By Street Railway Official

H. M. Hopper of the St. John Railway Company and F. R. Taylor visited the police court shortly after ten o'clock and the former swore out information against C. H. Kerr, manager of the Ouimetoscope motion picture theatre, styled the Bijou, on Union street near the corner of Charlotte street. The charge specified is tapping the wires of the Street Railway Company and thereby obtaining the power that lights two arc lights on the street entrance of the theatre, a string of incandescent lights at the entrance an dother lights inside.

At noon Kerr was arrested by Deputy Chief Jenkins and lodged in the Central police station. He will probably be given a hearing in the police court this afternoon and admitted to bail. It is said that this is his second offence of this kind as he was warned on a previous occasion when it was ascertained by an employe of the company that he was using the power of the concern to light the picture house without paying for the power. Yesterday an employe again found a wire directed current from a wire on a pole to the building and the action was taken which may devolve into a charge of theft of electricity.

Charles Kerr was brought into court this afternoon and remanded to jail.

John Sullivan was ejected from the Union Cigar Store, Union street, this afternoon, and taken to the police station, where a charge of drunkenness was entered against him.

P. E. I. NEWS

Charlottetown, P. E. I., April 24th—(Special)—Capt. Alexander McLeod, commander of the D. G. S. Constance, was drowned yesterday at Sorel. He was a native of Orwell, P.E.I., and formerly first officer of the D. G. S. Princess, was aged 50, and leaves a wife and six children.

It is understood that an arrangement has been made by which all the other election petitions against the local M. P. P. S. will not be pressed with the exception of the case of Michael Delaney against Hon. Joseph Read, in fourth district of Prince. In this case the petitioner claims the seat, and if the trial proceeds, it will practically mean a case against Hon. Joseph Read, and also one against Mr. Delaney, as under the petition in that case, Hon. Mr. Read can get into a recriminatory case against Mr. Delany and charge him and his agents with corrupt practice. As the matter will stand, it vertually amounts to one case against a liberal, and one case against a conservative. Thirteen petitions had been filed, six against conservatives.

NEWS FROM FREDERICTON

Hawthorne, who has been notified of his dismissal as jailer, will be appointed chief, and that Anthony Chapman, an ex-policeman, will take the place of George Foss. Chief Winter is to be appointed deputy sheriff and jailer.

The Royal Gazette next week will contain a list of sheriff's appointed for the ensuing year. It is said there will be changes in at least three counties, including York and Westmorland.

PENITENTIARY OR WESTFIELD

Fred Bonnell Says He Would Rather do two Years in Dorchester Than Remain in the Country

To Judge Ritchie, this morning, Fred Bonnell expressed his willingness to spend two years in Dorchester penitentiary rather than accompany his aged mother to Westfield, and promise to never return to St. John. Bonnell has been in jail on remand for over three months, accused of intimidating school girls at west end, and pending the action of the department of justice, he has been detained.

This morning his honor was the recipient of a communication from the minister of justice, in which it was stipulated that providing he would liberate Bonnell on suspended fine, the department would not demand that Bonnell be returned to Dorchester to complete the term of two years imposed on him by Judge Wedderburn, in the Kings county court, some years ago, for non-support and ill-treating his wife and small children, and after serving some months was paroled. The minister waived the right to act because of the man's mother, and if her reports are derogatory, measures will be effected to return him to the penitentiary. His honor, in speaking, to Bonnell, observed that the department's leniency was unprecedented, and but for the intercession of Mrs. Bonnell, her son would not have the opportunity to escape imprisonment.

As his honor outlined the provisions attached to his liberation, Bonnell did not become enthused over the prospect of breathing pure air once more, and when the magistrate dwelt on the necessity of his absenting himself from the city, Bonnell rebelled and said he was entitled to the privileges of a Canadian citizen and he did not propose to remain away from St. John.

"I think the best thing to do, judge, is to send me to Dorchester. I can take two years and will have to stay away then, as I'll be barred in, and another thing is that my mother will never report me with my consent," he added, and he declined to enter a discussion with his mother or promise to remain away. He was advised to be a comfort and aid to her and obey her, and was warned that he would be arrested on sight here under his honor's warrant.

A fine of $8 or two months was not collected and he departed from court with his mother, ostensibly to board a steamer for Westfield.

Carl Hanrickson, a 65-year-old German, who was arrested for intoxication, was fined $4 or ten days, and Hugh Galloway, a 75-year-old native was extended his freedom for the same offence.

Stewart Chalmers and Walter Waters were also remanded for inebriation in west end. The case of William Daley for alleged trespassing in the I. C. R. depot, was postponed.

Rev. Dr. Gould, missionary to Palestine will address a men's mass meeting in Stone church on Sunday afternoon; May 2 at 4 o'clock. Dr. Gould will speak on the Laymen's Missionary Movement and being a medical missionary has had excellent opportunities to see the plight of the subjects of Mohammedan rule. He is familiar with the questions foremost in the Turkish empire and other eastern nations and his address will be on actual facts as gathered in the lands of which he speaks.

On Wednesday afternoon a programme was held on the prominade deck for the first and second class passengers. Foot races, potato races, jumps, etc., were held and the events were quite successful.

In the evening the regular concert was held in the first class saloon.

The steamer had 49 first, 213 second and 798 third class passengers, most of whom landed at Halifax. Among the saloon passengers were Mrs. Herbert Brookfield, Miss Brookfield, Miss Phyllis Brookfield, Captain H. C. Lockyer, R. N., wife and son, Major A. J. Ogilvie and wife, Robert F. Page and others of Halifax, R. M. Beckett of Dobell and Beckett, Quebec, John Craven of North Sydney, R. Carney Clark of Newcastle, N. B., and others from the maritime provinces.

MONCTON NEWS

Another Moncton Church to Instal a Large Organ

Moncton, N. B., April 24—(Special)—There will be another new large organ in Moncton. Last evening at a meeting of the trustees of the Central Methodist church it was decided to have one installed which will cost over $5,000. It will be the largest in the city, and the firm of Cassavant Bros., St. Hyacinthe, will install it. It is intended to utilize the present front, but the organ will be new.

On May 24th there will be held on the Moncton Rifle Range a shoot, open to anyone in the city. The Rifle Association will take part as well as the 19th Field Battery. The object is to select teams for the league.

There was found in the woods near Meadow Brook, some days ago, a bag of clothing, including a suit of men's clothes, some underwear and an overcoat. There were also several letters in the bag, one dated November 5th, from a Mrs. Jackson, to Mr. J. H. O'Brien. The affair is a mystery and steps are being taken to investigate.

John Kirkpatrick

John Kirkpatrick, of Hoyt Station, died at his home last night after a lingering illness. Mr. Kirkpatrick was 71 years of age, and unmarried. He was a farmer, and highly respected by all who knew him. The funeral will take place at Hoyt Station on Monday morning.

In scrubbing the kitchen use hot water and a little kerosene. The secret of a nice, clean floor lies in changing the water often.

THE TIMES NEW REPORTER

NEWS OF THE HUNT.

When the mayor's clerk read in the morning paper that lions were prowling around the tent of Theodore Roosevelt on the African hunting grounds he lost all interest in tax exemption, and even interrupted the city engineer when the latter began the narration of the latest humorous story about the civic elections. It is an open secret that the mayor's clerk wanted to join Roosevelt on this hunting expedition, and that he has invited the ex-president to join him in a bear hunt at St. Martins next fall. Mr. W. E. Skillen is now taking snapshots of the bears for a special article in the New Brunswick Magazine, to which the mayor's clerk will contribute a reminiscence of bear hunting in 1820.
