The contractors, Clark & Adams, object to the provisions making them responsible for damage sustained by riparian owners.

The rooms that are urgently needed and yet unfinished in the new Seamen's Institute are the reading, writing, recreation, bath, store, engineers and officers rooms, dormitory and office. The city market presented a rather bare appearance this morning, few farmers having come to town with their produce. The clerk of the market said this morning that he attributed this to the fact that they were probably putting in the seeds for the season's crops. He thought also that there was rather a scarcity of vegetables among the farmers and that unless this year's crop grew quickly, high prices would soon prevail on vegetables of nearly every sort.

A TIP FOR THE POLICE

"The Old Stone Jug" is out of business. On Sunday night Sergeant Sullivan and Officers Barrett and Mitchell visited this resort on Brunswick street and secured evidence that they considered justified them in taking out a warrant for the inmates, who were all Italians, on the charge of conducting a disorderly house, but when they went to serve the warrants they found that the inmates had moved in the pouring rain some hours before, and had taken a train for St. John—Halifax Chronicle.

AT CITY HALL

Special Meeting of City Council Called for Friday Afternoon.

A special meeting of the common council has been called for Friday afternoon to take up the report of the board of works regarding the Marsh Bridge aboideau, and to deal with the complications that have arisen in connection with the lease to the Francis Kerr Co.

If the contractors for the work on the aboideau refuse to abide by the contract new tenders will have to be called for, or it may be that the council will modify the objectionable sections which make the contractors liable for damage to riparian owners.

It will also be for the council to decide whether the city shall stand back of the Kerr Company in the litigation—that is being commenced by representatives of the Seely estate.

Tomorrow afternoon the bills on by-laws committees will meet to consider some proposed changes in the by-law relating to junk licenses.

FINED FOR SELLING CIGARETTES TO BOYS

Mrs. A. Akroyd Fined for This Offence in Police Court Today—Other Cases Disposed of

The first penalty for the sale of cigarettes to minors in St. John since the recently enacted Dominion law went into force was imposed in the police court this morning when Mrs. A. Akroyd, with a store at 18 Gilbert's Lane, was fined $10. A fourteen year old boy, who is employed in a Haymarket Square apothecary, stated that he purchased a package of Gloria Cigarettes for five cents on Monday from Mrs. Akroyd. He was reprimanded for indulging in the pernicious practice very seldom. The woman was fined $10 and paid it. She pleaded guilty to the sale and vouchsafed that she placed a ban on sales to boys, but could not explain why she disposed of the package to the boy in question.

The days of Jacob Lupee as a truthful purveyor of news to the police have ceased, for by his apparent fabrication yesterday he has won membership in the Ananias Club. He assured the police of sales on Tuesday that Minnie Naim, the negro woman who was arrested in court yesterday for conducting a disorderly house, had thought that Misspee was more conducive to her safety, and acted accordingly. However, fate was unkind to the woman, for as she was plodding home on a narrow street, below Sheriff street, shortly prior to midnight, she met her nemesis in the person of Patrolman Marshall, and as she was in that bibulous state that ensues after a spirited tete-a-tete with John Barleycorn, she was piloted to the south end lock-up. She was fined $8 or two months for drunkenness, and Patrolman Marshall was sworn with regard to the disorderly house allegation. He stated that Officer Totten and he heard the uproar in Naim's apartments, situated near the Carmarthen street gate of the Exhibition grounds on Saturday night. Inside were the woman, Thomas Conboy, a white man, Jacob Lupee, a negro, and Emma Lester, a white woman, who was subsequently taken into custody on the street for intoxication. Marshall alleged that the turmoil was protracted, but eventually subsided. All were intoxicated, and the Naim woman threatened to injure one of her companions with an axe, but neither Totten or he could obtain entrance. On Sunday night, shortly after 8 o'clock, there was a repetition of the disturbance and on this occasion he entered and perceived Lupee, Conboy and the Naim woman. The trio were shouting and profane and all were intoxicated. According to the neighbors there had been a continual quarrel from morning until night on Sunday. A huge bottle of liquor reposed on a table.

"That man lies," interposed the woman, "the truth of the matter is this, Conboy came to my house for a glass of water, nuthin' stronger, an' Jake said to him—" At this point her harangue was nipped in the bud and adjournment was made for further testimony.

Alexander Morris, a Nova Scotian, bound for Pennsylvania, who over-estimated his pugilistic prowess in the depot last night, pleaded guilty to resisting L. C. R. Officer Smith and also to intoxication and profanity. He was fined $10 or two months resistance and $8 or twenty days for the other offences, and contributed the $24 to the treasury.

John Quinn, aged 71, wore an extra heavy overcoat. He admitted that he was inebriated, but contended that the supply was meagre. When Patrolman Henry arrested him on Marsh Bridge last night, he was walking to Musquash. In view of the hour and of the location of Musquash on the Manawagonish road, he was locked up. He was so indignant when admonished for being a drunkard, that he was fined $8 or two months in jail. Quinn is one of the summer guests at the Hotel de Barn, a hobo rendezvous on the Marsh Road, where the city's characters nestle in the hay each night during warm weather.

Robert King, whose brother was fined for celebration on Saturday, was fined $4 or ten days.

F. G. Spencer, who was reported for breaking the surface of Charlotte street without a permit said he requested the permission of the street railway to install an electric sign in front of his motion picture theatre, on a company pole, but as this would interfere with a regulation of the company the secretary-treasurer removed the pole and Mr. Spencer obtained the consent of Director Wisely to place another pole on the street. He was informed that it was hardly probable that the authority to grant such a permit was vested in the director, as the chief of police is the proper person to secure such from. Friday morning was appointed for a resumption of the hearing.

PARKS GOT AWAY, BUT THE OTHER DID NOT

Over three weeks ago William Parks, a Boston cattle rustler who was serving a term for stealing shoes and a watch from two fellow rustlers on a steamship in port loading for England, escaped from the jail squad while breaking stones on Rockland Road. Another man, who attempted to escape while on guard purchased Parks, was re-captured on Paradise Row, and has since that time awaited examination before Magistrate Ritchie. The man will be charged with escaping, although he did not actually do so and the hearing will probably commence this afternoon. It is the custom of the jail authorities to detain in jail all escaped prisoners in cells without detaining them to work with the squad. The man in question was serving two months.

W. G. McIntyre, of the firm of Wm. E. McIntyre, Ltd., returned to the city yesterday from a three weeks' trip to the North Shore.
