THE PUBLIC HEALTH

St. John must have a medical health officer.

In clear, strong, convincing terms Dr. J. P. McInerney, M. P. P., sets forth the evidence to support this assertion.

It is found in his address delivered to-day before the Teachers' Institute, and reported in full in this issue of the Times. Citizens, and parents especially, should read this address with thoughtful attention.

Dr. McInerney speaks as a practicing physician, who knows of the ravages of tuberculosis, diphtheria, and other diseases, and is familiar with the conditions he describes, in relation to sewerage and general sanitation. His words are a challenge to the citizens to bestir themselves, and effect a complete change in conditions in several important directions.

The importance of medical inspection in the schools is made so clear to the mind that there can be no reasonable argument against such a course. Dr. McInerney's intimation that some of the school buildings are not in the best sanitary condition should appeal to the board of school trustees. This strikes at the very basis of public health. He also makes it plain that lack of proper medical inspection is in a large degree responsible for the spread of tuberculosis, diphtheria, scarlet fever and other diseases; while proper inspection would also do much to save children from the results of defective sight and hearing.

Surely there is grave reason for protest against a condition which permits hundreds of residences in this city to be without proper sewerage. The experience of Montreal, to which Dr. McInerney calls attention, should lead the health authorities of St. John to abolish the pestilence breeding typhoid cases. He declared that outbreaks of typhoid are due chiefly to local filth. This raises the tenement house question, which is to be discussed at the annual meeting of the Associated Charities one week from tonight.

The Times has already referred to this subject, and it may be hoped that definite results will follow the present agitation for reform. The health of the whole community is endangered. Disease breaks out in an unhealthy tenement, is carried to the schools, and spread through the city. Proper medical inspection and a rigid enforcement of sanitary laws and health regulations would prevent such outbreaks or at least prevent the spread of the disease.

The statistics dealing with deaths due to tuberculosis are appalling. One hundred deaths a year in St. John, and five hundred in the city and province, represents for the province a mere economic loss of half a million dollars due to this disease; to say nothing of the resultant suffering and sorrow. It is very gratifying to learn that a site for a provincial sanitarium has practically been agreed upon, and that the campaign of education is being carried on; but there is great need of local action in St. John, and medical inspection by a competent officer whose requirements are well set forth by Dr. McInerney, would be a very effective beginning.

Dr. McInerney also directs attention to the importance of physical culture, to build up bodies strong to resist disease and fit to be the tenement of an alert and well stored mind. He has made a notable contribution to an important discussion, and his address, while very properly delivered in presence of the teachers of the schools, who can do so much for the good of the children, should appeal with infinitely greater force to the parents. The Medical Society as a body stands for a public health officer, and for an active campaign against tuberculosis. It stands also for healthier tenements. The question has been brought squarely to the attention of the citizens by many agencies laboring for social and civic betterment, and not to take action would be a criminal neglect of a plain duty.

THE HADDOCK THEORY

One recognises the hand of a former New Brunswick journalist in the following article from the Victoria Colonist, which the Times reprints without prejudice and with all due deference to local authorities on the subject of philology:—

"A telegram announces unusually high tides in the Petitcodiac River in New Brunswick. Modern usage is to pronounce this name as though it were written Petycoadyack, with an accent on each of the y's. There are yet some people, and there used to be a good many more, who say 'Petycoajack,' and the chances are that they are right. If you talk with a Maritime Province Frenchman, who has not been educated in school, he will speak 'Codyeh,' when he means what most of us call Acadia, and educated Frenchmen write Acadie. But Frenchmen, as well as Englishmen speak of Passamaquoddy Bay. Now there is an old Indian word which sounds something like Quodjiah—you never can tell just how to spell an Indian name, and if you have any doubt on this point try to spell the Tsampan word which is written Katen—and it means haddock, a fish very common in the Bay of Fundy. It seems probable that the of the uneducated Frenchman, the 'coajck' of the old-fashioned Englishman, and the 'quoddy' which they both use, all come from the same original 'Quodjiah,' and that Acadia, the name which Longfellow made world-wide, is only a pretty way of expressing the fact that the lands around the Bay of Fundy encompassed the home of the haddock."

On the subject of trade with the West Indies, the Toronto News says: "The British members of the Royal Commission on trade relations between Canada and the British West Indies have sailed for home after doing good work in this country. Though a free trader, the chairman, Lord Balfour of Burleigh, fully admits that there is no alternative for Canada but to protect its own markets and resources. Holding, as he does, this opinion, and having taken counsel from Canadians at different centres, there is every reason to believe that he appreciates the importance of encouraging and increasing interchange of commodities between these islands and the Dominion. Possible means to that end may include mutual concessions as regards customs duties, improvement in steamship connections, and closer attention of exporters to the special requirement of the market sought. Lord Balfour and his colleagues showed a grasp of the large issues at stake, and important results may be expected to flow from their visit. They leave behind them in Canada many new made friends."

At a time when public feeling is much aroused over the budget discussion in England, and there is much talk about the possible dissolution of parliament, there is to be a by-election in the London suburb of Bermondsey, and the result is awaited with intense interest by all parties. There are three candidates—Hughes, Liberal; Humphreys, Tariff Reformer; and Salter, Labor Socialist. In 1909 Bermondsey went Conservative by a majority of 300, but in 1906 the Liberals swept the field with a majority of 1750. The by-election is expected to take place next week, and the result may have an important bearing upon the question of dissolving parliament.

MORNING LOCALS

The trustees of the Waterloo street United Baptist church have invited Rev. F. W. Wentworth to the pastorate of the church in place of Rev. Gideon Swim, resigned.

Work of removing the salmon from the Little River hatchery was commenced on Tuesday. About 1,200 fish will be removed.

In St. Stephen's church last night Rev. Dr. Carmichael of Saskatchewan delivered an interesting address on missions before the Women's Foreign Mission Society.

The members of German street Baptist church have accepted the resignation of Rev. W. W. McMaster and it will take effect on November 15, after which date he is to receive four months' salary. He has not yet announced where he will go.

Dr. Thomas Walker delivered an able lecture on "Tuberculosis" last night before the Graduate Nurses' Association in the Private Hospital, Pitt street. It is probable that the harbor bridge proposition will again be put before the provincial premier in the near future by several friends of the provincial government. West side people feel very strongly in favor of the bridge. The city is advertising for tenders for the stable supplies for the fire, water and sewerage departments. Companion Court Hetherington, I. O. F., held their monthly meeting last night and also a social in which a fine programme was carried out. Mrs. Henry Hashey, of Camden street, yesterday received word of the death of her sister, Mrs. Joachim Pulien, in Campbellton. Her mother, Mrs. Melanson, is ill with the same disease, typhoid. Major J. G. Gordon, proprietor of the Gordon Nail Works, is said to be preparing to remove to Coldbrook, where he has purchased a site from the Hazelburns. Mr. and Mrs. James Spaine, of Milford, will have the sympathy of their friends in the death of their two-months-old son, William J. Spaine.

INDIAN SUMMER

The trees are leafless, and the grass is dead. The birds are scarce. The flowers sleep. (Except a ground rose), the low skies weep. At dawn, because the Summer's fled. And yet within the gardens (gold and red) The brave chrysanthemum their vigils keep. In color of the Summer, light winds heap The fallen leaves, the sun from overhead. With warmth and cheer sends down his golden light. Through the bare trees, or at the casement gleams. Through rosy twilight draws the quiet night. A lone bird-note falls, and the stream of traffic ceases, and in the softened light. And of Summer lingers still and dreams. —Annie Kate Barnes, in the Outlook.

WRONGLY DIAGNOSED.

The nerves of the victim in the chair were working. "Excuse me, sir," said the alleged tonsorial artist, "but you'd better keep still. Are you not with that razor," gasped the nervous victim.

WE ALL SEE THIS.

Thomas: "Did you go to the theatre last night?" Grunter: "I did." "What did you see?" "A bow of chiffon, some tortoiseshell combs, a couple of black plumes, a velvet knit and a stuffed bird about the size of a peewee."

A REASON FOR IT.

"I must confess," growled the dissatisfied tourist, "that I can't see why so many people want to come here. No scenery, no amusements, no good things to eat—absolutely no attractions!" "Ah, signor," said the innkeeper, "they come because we 'ave ze gr-ran' label to stick on ze luggage."

MORNING NEWS OVER THE WIRES

Benj. F. Barnes, of Washington, D. C., formerly of Yarmouth, N. S., died suddenly in Washington yesterday. He was postmaster of Washington.

In New York yesterday in the case of the U. S. Government vs. Musica Bros., cheese importers, George Berge, a witness, told that while he was employed as weigher for the customs he made hundreds of dollars by estimating the number of pounds of cheese imported as less than should be, and for this he was paid by cheese importers.

Bedford, the self-confessed slayer of Ethel Kinrade, was identified in London as John Corry. A brother-in-law says the prisoner spent four years in Canada.

Rev. J. G. Shearer, of Toronto, was one of the speakers at the National Purity Congress in Burlington, Iowa, yesterday. He declared that the Protestant churches had given the Catholic church and the Salvation Army a monopoly of rescue work.

Senator Patrick H. McCarren is on the mend in New York, and hopes are entertained for his recovery.

Dewitt E. Rogers, a political candidate for a seat in New Jersey, and his wife, were found dead in a house in Newark last night, suffocated by gas.

The Ottawa Golf Club house was destroyed by fire last night. The loss is estimated at $35,000.

Near North Bay last night a switch which had been interfered with, caused a slight accident on the C. P. R. and derailed the Soo east bound express, but no one was injured.

The American government is again getting after smugglers on the border between Maine and New Brunswick. Three men were held yesterday at Augusta on a charge of smuggling liquor into the states from New Brunswick.

There were 835 forest fires in Canada last year, and by them 56,200,000 feet of timber was damaged or destroyed.

D. LORNE MCGIBBON LA ROSE PRESIDENT

Word was received from New York last night by J. M. Robinson & Sons, bankers of this city, to the effect that at a special meeting of the LaRose Mining Company held yesterday afternoon, material changes in the personnel of the directorate took place. D. Lorne McGibbon was elected president, George Washington Stephens, Shirley Ogilvie, Victor E. Mitchell and Alexander Pringle, all of Montreal, directors, in place of John McMartin, Dumont, Henry Timmers and Frank Holmes, who resigned. The latter are Americans.

It is understood that the Montreal men have been acquiring a large proportion of LaRose stock. Mr. McGibbon is head of the Canadian Rubber Company, and Major Stephens of the Montreal Harbor Commission.

MRS. FROHMAN'S SUIT FOR DIVORCE BEGUN

Reno, Nev., Oct. 21.—Mrs. Daniel Frohman, more familiarly known by her stage name of Margaret Illington, has filed suit for divorce in the district court of this city, alleging that her husband has for the last two years failed to contribute to her support.

The complaint contains only the bare statement that the plaintiff has resided in Reno for more than six months prior to filing the action, and that there are no children and no community property. No alimony is asked. Mrs. Frohman's attorneys said today that the case would be devoid of startling features, so far as their client was concerned.

Some time ago Mrs. Frohman said that she was tired of the stage and wished to lead a domestic life. She was married to Mr. Frohman in New York on Nov. 22, 1903.

FORTY MILES IN LESS THAN SEVEN HOURS

Toronto, Oct. 21.—(Special)—George Begley, Irish Canadian, finished first in the Hamilton to Toronto race yesterday. He arrived at City Hall at 4.05. His time, six hours and forty-five minutes, is twenty-five minutes better than T. J. McLaughlin's. The distance is about forty miles.

WEDDINGS

Foley-Macdonald.

The cathedral was the scene of a pretty wedding on Thursday last when Rev. A. W. Meahan united in marriage Miss Katie E. Macdonald and Louis R. Foley, both of this city. The bride looked charming in a costume of brown silk. She wore a white hat, and carried a white prayer-book. Her bridesmaid was Miss Alice Whelan, of Westley, R. I., niece of the groom, who wore pale blue silk with hat of the same color. Her bouquet was of white roses. Harry McManus, of the C. P. R. staff, supported the groom. After the ceremony, the wedding party drove to the home of the bride's mother, where a supper was served. Mr. and Mrs. Foley will reside in Brindley street. The groom's present to the bride was a diamond brooch, and to the bridesmaid he gave a set ring and the groomsmen a stick pin. Many handsome presents were received.
