HAZEN ON HAZEN

There was an illuminating discussion in the legislature yesterday on the subject of charges and insinuations, in which Premier Hazen, without intending it, read himself and the other enemies of Hon. Dr. Pugsley a very severe lesson.

Mr. Currie of Restigouche had severely criticised the course of Sheriff Stewart of that county, in relation to politics. He charged that the sheriff, a twice defeated Hazen candidate for the legislature, had since his appointment as sheriff interfered in politics, and carried partisanship into the discharge of hs duties as a crown officer. He charged that the sheriff had considerable control of the patronage of the county, and pointed out that he should either resign his office or cease to meddle in politics.

The position taken by Mr. Currie is unassailable. Mr. Hazen became very angry, but admitted that he had received from Sheriff Stewart recommendations for appointments to office, and had considered them. This admission was all the evidence the people need to convince them that there is a partisan sheriff in Restigouche, a state of affairs that cannot for one moment be defended. Once a man accepts so important an office as that of sheriff his political activities should cease. Mr. Hazen, however, rushed to the defence of Sheriff Stewart, and not only lavished praise upon him but upon his nephew, Mr. W. A. Mott, whose political activities in Restigouche are well known. The proper course for the premier to have pursued when he received political recommendtions from a sheriff would have been to ask for the sheriff's resignation.

But what does Mr. Hazen do? This man who has been reading false affidavits and defending the insinuations of a partisan commission, levelled at the minister of public works, rises in his place in the house and loudly demands direct charges against the sheriff of Restigouche. We quote from the official report:—

"Hon. Mr. Hazen said he thought it was only necessary to call the attention of the house to the fact that while the honorable gentleman had dealt in vague rumors and slanders, he had not made a single charge that could be investigated. If the honorable gentleman or any other member of the house or any responsible citizen in the province would make a charge against Sheriff Stewart, he as attorney-general would see that it was fully investigated and acted upon, but the government did not propose to investigate every rumor and malicious report that might be in circulation. He thought the honorable member had gone a long way out of his way to try and injure Sheriff Stewart, a gentleman of the very highest integrity and standing in the community. .. ..It would be time enough to give expression to such insinuation and suspicion as the house had heard this afternoon when something definite was reported against Mr. Stewart."

The Standard this morning did not get out its black type to emphasise this portion of Mr. Hazen's speech. The Standard, Mr. Hazen, Mr. Crocket, Dr. Daniel and others have been levelling rumors, malicious reports and insinuations against the minister of public works, and have not dared to make a direct charge. In the case of Sheriff Stewart, Mr. Hazen admits enough to prove the sheriff an offensive partisan, but he takes no action. The people of the province will not fail to see the point.

THE SALARY GRAB

The stand taken by the provincial opposition relative to the increase of salaries of members of the government is approved by the people of the province. Mr. Hazen and his colleagues have violated another pledge. They railed against the cost of executive government when other men drew the salaries. Now they increase the salaries of two members. Mr. Burchill, whom they have hailed as a supporter, flatly told them yesterday that he would not endorse the salary grab.

Mr. Hazen, as usual, could not let the discussion pass without a fling at Hon. Dr. Pugsley, but Mr. Robinson promptly showed by reference to the report of the auditor general that Mr. Hazen himself has been doing extremely well in the matter of receipts from the public treasury. Apart from his salary as attorney general he got almost $3,000 in seven months. This is certainly a good beginning for an advocate of economy and reduced expenses. Mr. Currie pointed out that in Nova Scotia three executive heads are able to do much more than it takes seven to do in New Brunswick. The whole discussion was most damaging to the reputation of a government which permits no former pledge to stand in its way.

CLEAN UP THE TOWN

The following extracts from an article in the Victoria Colonist are aplicable to St. John:—

"In Detroit, Michigan, they have 'a cleaning up day' at least once a year. All the schools are closed and there is a general sallying forth of citizens, old and young, with rakes, shovels, brooms and such like weapons. We do not know that we should advocate setting apart a day for cleaning things up in this town, but it would be a mighty good thing for Victoria if we could all catch the Detroit spirit in this respect. The city needs cleaning up very much indeed. The worst offenders are the municipal authorities themselves. There is little use in calling upon private citizens to clean up their premises if the city authorities will not set the example. Municipal rubbish is as bad as any other rubbish. People will visit Victoria by tens of thousands this summer. How may we ask the municipal authorities if they have taken even the preliminary steps towards seeing that the city is made look presentable, and if so what those steps are? We are not now thinking of laying street pavements or anything half as formidable, but only of the proper cleaning of the streets. If the authorities would set an example in this respect private individuals would follow it."

In St. John the civic authorities, the board of health and the citizens should unite to have a general cleaning up of the city before the spring season has passed. So much depends upon the cleanliness of the city, not only in relation to the public health, but the impression made upon the minds of visitors that a special effort should be made to get rid of filth and rubbish, and make the spring of 1909 unique in the history of the community. The fact that many people go to the suburbs for the summer does not relieve them from responsibility, nor do they escape from the effects of unhealthy conditions. Let a general effort be made to clean up the town.

The legislature will have a knotty problem to solve when it takes up the question of restricting automobile traffic. It is stated that there are now 150 registered autos in the province, with the number steadily increasing, and many touring machines come into the province in summer. While on the one hand there is no desire to interfere with the reasonable use of these machines, it is on the other hand true that too many owners of autos are indifferent to the damage done to others as a result of reckless speeding along the highways. Doubtless restrictions will be imposed, but it should be done with due regard to the requirements of modern traffic and the rights of those who prefer the auto to the ordinary carriage.

◈ ◈ ◈ ◈

Referring to the affair of the sheriff of Restigouche, the Standard remarks that the Blair government made the appointment of sheriffs annual and that "they who take the sword are liable to perish by the sword." The political morality of a comment of this sort is quite consistent with the general doings of the Hazen government, and will not be lost upon an observant public.

◈ ◈ ◈ ◈

The amended highway act will not be relished by the people. The government money is to be spent, not for the benefit of the roads, but for political purposes. The government boss in each district will indicate where and how the money can be spent to do the most good to the party, and the government will pay the bill. This is a fine specimen of statesmanship.

◈ ◈ ◈ ◈

The Standard seeks to justify the salary grab by an attack on the old government. On its merits the grab cannot be justified—hence the attack. But the people do not forget the Hazen pledges of former years.

◈ ◈ ◈ ◈

The coarse vulgarity of some of the Toronto News cartoons, which the local affidavit organ reproduces from day to day is exciting much unfavorable comment. But the organ also sometimes prints portraits of Dr. Daniel and Mr. Crocket.

NORDICA LOSES LAW SUIT

Cambridge Mass., April 21—Madame Lilian Nordica and other relatives of Mrs. Vannie F. Allen, of Malden, who were not mentioned in the latter's will were defeated in the Middlesex probate court today in their effort to break the will but Judge McIntyre, who admitted the instrument to probate announced that an appeal could be taken to the supreme court and a jury trial obtained on the question of undue influence. Madame Nordica did not appear as a witness today.

WHERE IS FAIRYLAND?

Tell me where is Fairy Land,
Which the little ones behold?
Does it touch the silver strand,
Just beyond the sunset's gold?
Is it where we catch the gleam,
Of the flashing rays of light,
Bordering the By-low Stream,
Just removed from mortal sight?

Is it where the Lanes of Rest
Lead to blossomed meadows fair,
Every tiny, white-robed guest
Journeying from here to there?
Is it where the twilight skies
Fling their purple settings gay,
Where the flowered valley lies
Just beyond the Gates of Day?

Is it down a shing road
Decked by poppy fields of gold,
Where the fairy legions rode,
In the stories you were told?
Is it by some star-decked height
Where the soft winds sweetly sing
And the roses, red and white,
Weave their wondrous coloring?

Does it lead you on and on,
Over grassy hill and dale,
Far beyond the mists of dawn,
Down a bloom-embroidered trail?
Does it lure you on once more,
Where the rippies lap and lave
On a pebbly, shelving shore,
Where the spicy breezes wave?

Fairy Land — it lies afar,
Over hill and mount, forsooth,
Where the little people are
Romping in their days of youth.
Only these may there receive
Welcome by the mystic band—
In the vale of Make-Believe
Yonder lieth Fairy Land.

TOO KIND.

Dodgework Dingly—"Ah, dis cruel world! I ast de lady in de house ter give me some thin' ter keep sould and body togedder——"

Slothful Slideasy—"An' wot she do, pard?"

Dodgework Dingly—"She handed me a safety pin."

ADVICE.

"Fohgive yoh enemies," said Uncle Eben, "but don' let yoh forgiveness go so far as to tempt you to git sociable an' trade hosses."—Washington Star.

DOOM OF THE EAR.

The new Paquin gowns leave no room for improvement or anything else.

Recent authorities on dress give it as their opinion that the ears will have to go. It is beginning to interfere with the movements of the Nazimova collar, which is steadily rising in the world. Several dressmakers have already recommended its painless removal. When it comes to a case of the ear versus the collar, why hesitate?—Brooklyn Life.

FORCE OF HABIT.

A certain western congressman's boundless affability and habitual absentmindedness have occasionally led him into absurd mistakes. One day during his last campaign, as he stepped from the train at the station of his home town after a month of stumping and "glad handing," his little daughter rushed up to him and kissed him. The congressman beamed upon her with a proud and tender parental eye.

"Well, well," he exclaimed, "if it isn't my little Bessie!" Then he added mechanically, "And how is your dear old father?"—Bohemian Magazine.

LIKE FATHER, LIKE SON.

It was one of the Smiths' little weaknesses to appear in a better position than was really the case. One day he took his eldest son for a walk, and permitted him to play with some other boys while he read the paper. "What are you talking about to those boys?"

"Oh," replied the boy, "I was telling them that you were our footman. I did it to keep up appearances, you know."—Pittsburg Bulletin.

THOSE HAPPY DAYS.

A Gloucestershire lady was reading the Old Testament to an aged woman who lived at the home for old people, and chanced upon the passage concerning Solomon's household.

"Had Solomon really 700 wives?" inquired the old lady, after reflection.

"Oh, yes, Mary! It is so stated in the Bible."

"Lor' mum!" was the comment. "What privileges them early Christians had!"

WHY, OF COURSE.

The editor of an agricultural paper was grumbling about a puzzling question he had received from a city man who had recently removed to the country. The enquiry was this: "Will you kindly tell me how long cows should be milked?"

The office boy, passing near, heard his superior repeating the question aloud.

"'Scuse me' boss," he said, "but why don't yer tell him jes' de same as short cows?"—Judge's Library.

THE POSSIBILITIES.

A lady fell into a river. A boy on the bank dived in and succeeded in rescuing her. The lady's husband was effusive in his thanks, and presented the boy with—a dollar! The bystanders showed their astonishment at his niggardliness.

"Oh, dont' blame the gentleman," said the boy, "Maybe, if I hadn't saved her, he'd have made it a five-spot!"—Harper's Weekly.

PROVINCIAL NEWS

New Brunswick

Mrs. Sharkey, mother-in-law of His Hon. Judge Carleton, was stricken with paralysis at an early hour on Monday morning, at Woodstock. As Mrs. Sharkey is over 80 years of age her recovery can hardly be looked for.

A number of the friends of Miss Eva Newcombe, Woodstock, met at her residence on Saturday evening last and presented her with a very handsome ring. Miss Newcombe, with her mother and sister, Miss Margaret Newcombe, left for St. John, Wednesday morning, where in future they will reside.

Owing to an affection of the throat, Rev. W. C. Goucher, the pastor of the Union street Baptist church, St. Stephen, has been unable to conduct services regularly for some weeks. On Monday evening he left for the famous health resort at Clifton Springs, New York, to remain for several weeks, the entire cost of his sojourn there being generously provided by Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert W. Ganong.

The St. Stephen Courier says:—"Rumors are again current of prospective changes among some federal office holders in St. Stephen, the assertion being made that Collector Graham, Customs Officer Hyslip and S. J. Topping, caretaker of the government building, are to be retired, to be succeeded by Melvin McCormick as collector, Wm. Porter, Jr., as customs officer, and Daniel McDonald as janitor.

S. J. Goodliffe is working on his new concrete block plant at Sussex. Buildings are being erected in which the blocks will be made. Gravel and sand from the river banks will be used for making the blocks. Cement blocks are very much used in other parts of Canada for building purposes but they are something new hereabouts. Mr. Goodliffe ordered his machinery some time ago and expects to do considerable business. He will make the blocks for D. A. Vail's new building.

Mrs. W. J. Sullivan and family reached Sackville from St. John a few days ago to join Mr. Sullivan, the town marshal.

A special meeting of the Board of Regents of Mount Allison was held in Sackville on Tuesday for the purpose of considering the proposal to commence the enlargement of the ladies' college this summer. A number of the members were present though several were unable to be in attendance. The question of enlargement was considered at some length but no decision was reached. The action taken was the appointment of a committee to examine further the plans of the proposed new wing and to discuss the matter of building this summer with the executive committee of the board so that a report can be made to the board at its regular meeting early in June.

While busy about his barn at Sackville on Wednesday morning, George Lee, Fawcett avenue, injured himself severely by cutting one of his wrists with a large knife which he had been using. Two doctors attended him after the accident, the administration of an anaesthetic being necessary before the injury could be dressed.

Nova Scotia

A petition with the names of seventy-two ratepayers of Aylesford has been forwarded to Hon. Dr. Borden, asking for an extension of the morning and evening mail service between Kentville and Halifax west to Middleton.

A dastardly attempt was made to wreck the pay train from Dominion No. 12, Cape Breton, about six o'clock Friday evening, near the Red Bridge. During the day the section hands had been at work near the Red Bridge. The hand car which the men use was left alongside the track for the night, as the men would not require it. Some persons replaced the car on the track, with the evident intention of causing a collision. There is a deep cutting at the spot where the car was put upon the track, making it almost impossible for the engineer to see the obstruction until he was almost upon it. The engine was running at a good rate of speed, but the car was noticed in time to prevent any serious accident. The matter will be investigated.

Already a large number of entries have been received by Manager Wilson Langille from those desirous of entering in the twenty mile Marathon race which takes place in Strathcona rink, North Sydney, on Saturday evening, May 29.

At North Sydney Sunday morning about 7 o'clock Engineer Andrew Cann, of the tug Zaidie, discovered the body of David McPherson floating in an upright position in the waters of Dominion wharf dock. The deceased had been seen by several people late Saturday night, but how the accident which caused his death happened, will likely remain a mystery.

At the conclusion of the service in the St. Louis Roman Catholic church at Annapolis Royal Rev. Father Thomas Grace made the announcement that he had that day presented the parish the sum of $1,500 to be used as a commencement for a building fund for a new church. The amount was the principal and interest of $1,000 that was presented to him on his departure from the parish seventeen years ago.

Mr. Cameron, counsel for Dr. A. S. Kendall, will make application on behalf of his client for an appeal to the full bench at Halifax from the decision of the jury in his case against the Sydney Post Publishing Co., in which he claimed $25,000 damages. The appeal is against the finding of the jury as being perverse; against evidence, and against the weight of evidence; also on the ground that there was no evidence to support the finding of the jury.

Charles M. McLean, Baddeck, C. B., is engaged in the construction of a new flying machine of his own design. It is somewhat after the Bell models, but has an additional feature in the shape of a parachute attachment which is expected to make descent and landing easy and safe. Mr. McLean, who is a blacksmtih, and long known of an inventive turn, had been working on the construction of the Bell machines and had noticed the defect which he now proposes to remedy. The difficulty of making a safe landing made the experiments rather risky, and if the new model obviates this difficulty a further advance will have been made in the solution of the aerial problem. It is expected that the new machine will be ready this summer.

The closing exercises of the Pine Hill Presbyterian College, Wednesday evening, in St. Matthew's church, Halifax, were attended by a large congregation. After opening exercises Dr. John McMillan, secretary of the college board, gave a statement of the work done during the past session. Thirty-five students were in attendance, of whom twelve graduated. Thirty bursaries, amounting to $1,000, were contributed by various congregations for aiding students. The college building had been repaired at a cost of $8,000.

St. Paul's church presented a brilliant appearance at one o'clock today, it having been decorated for a military wedding, in which the participants were Lieutenant Ernest Stillman Hill, Royal Canadian Engineers, and Miss Irene Kathleen Moore, daughter of William Moore, broker, of Kingston, Ontario. The groom belongs to St. Stephen, N. B., but at present resides in Halifax.

While playing with her brother two years her senior, Kathleen, the four year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Lovell, corner of Stanley and Ingraham streets, North Sydney, met with a peculiar and painful accident at her home last week that came nearly terminating fatally. The little one secured a brass stair rod, the end of which she placed in her mouth, and while running in the hallway of her parents' home the rod penetrated her pallet. Medical aid was at once summoned and after considerable difficulty blood poisoning was prevented and the little sufferer is now doing nicely.

P. E. Island

Horse breeding in P. E. Island is certainly a paying investment. Last week at Charlottetown P. C. Brown sold at the Revere stables fifteen head of "ordinary" horses and one Clydesdale stallion. The price netted was something over $4,000. Another sale took place at the Heartz farm, a few miles from Charlottetown, and 16 horses realized $3,461. At an auction sale at the Miller farm, ten farm horses brought $1,961. Would that our Cape Breton farmers would take a leaf out of the book of their P. E. Island brethren and breed nothing but good horses. It pays in the end, as witness the above.

JORDAN HAD TIRED OF WIFE SO HE SLEW HER

Cambridge, Mass., April 22—That a desire for another woman was the motive and that the defense will be that of insanity, was brought out in the trial today of Chester S. Jordan for the murder of his wife, Honora. One of the policemen to whom he is said to have confessed, stated that Jordan said that he wanted to get away in order to meet a woman. A little later one of the attorneys for the accused man asked the officer if Jordan appeared normal while making the alleged statements regarding the death of his wife and the dismemberment of her body. Exhibits, mostly of clothing, cut and slashed and said to have been worn by the murdered woman, were held up before the jury, yet Jordan seemed either so little affected by the display or horrified over the spectacle that he closed his eyes, and at one time apparently went to sleep. The government followed the testimony of the police officers and that of the police stenographer who took down the alleged confession, with a number of witnesses who placed Jordan at his home on the night the murder is said to have taken place and who said that previous to her disappearance, Mrs. Jordan had declared her intention of going to Europe. After placing before the jury the confession, the government showed a disposition to rush matters, and a short trial is anticipated.

A very pleasant entertainment consisting of a concert and sale of home-made candy was held last evening in the Exmouth street church under the auspices of the ladies of the Star Mission Circle. The proceeds were for the benefit of the circle. Among those who took part in the concert were: E. E. Thomas, Miss Smith, Miss Hazelwood, Miss Compton, Miss McIntyre, Medley Beaman, Miss Baskin, Miss Minnie Myles and Miss Lou Verinder. The Exmouth street church male quartette also sang a number of selections.
