ST. JOHN, N. B., SEPT. 30, 1896.

A CHANGE NEEDED.

From statements made by Mr. Laurier in the House of Commons a few days ago it is assumed that a complete change will be made in the immigration policy of the government. That a change is required will hardly be denied. Under the Conservative administration of the last eighteen years the progress of the country has been retarded instead of advanced. Through the continued mismanagement of the Northwest the country has failed to fill up as rapidly as it should have done. The predictions regarding that country have not been fulfilled. Both Sir John Macdonald and Sir Charles Tupper were responsible fifteen years ago for the statement that the sales of the Dominion lands in the Northwest world, in a few years, recoup Canada for her capital expenditure on the C. P. R. This has not come to pass. Nor was Sir Leonard Tilley more accurate in 1882 in his prediction that in 1890 the national debt could not exceed $200,000,000; that it would be reduced by the sinking fund to $175,000,000, and would in all probability be reduced by the sale of Northwest lands to $100,000,000! In 1896 the lands are unsold, the country is without population and the national debt has increased to over $300,000,000. The responsibility for this condition of things rests on the Conservative party, which by an unwise fiscal policy and bad management of the Northwest lands has impeded the settlement of the country. Mr. Laurier has a splendid opportunity to inaugurate a vigorous policy in this regard.

THAT CONTRACT.

There is nothing of great importance that is new in the fast Atlantic steamship correspondence submitted to Parliament except evidence of the determination of Sir Charles Tupper, after he had been defeated at the polls, to give the contract to the Allans. It appears four tenders were submitted—two from a London house, one by Mr. Huddart and one by the Allans. The three first mentioned were not within the terms and conditions specified in the advertisement. The Allans' tender was within these terms and conditions, but there were certain limitations, to which the government was willing to accede. As the Imperial government was to give a large subsidy, it was necessary to obtain its concurrence to the granting of the contract, and Canada's High Commissioner was instructed to obtain the support of Mr. Chamberlain, Colonial Secretary. Even up to within a few days of the resignation of the ministry Sir Charles Tupper was pressing for Mr. Chamberlain's consent to sign the contract, but the Colonial Secretary declined to be used in that way and finally wired the Governor General as follows: "No decision will be given by me in regard to the tenders until Her Majesty's government have received copies of all tenders and all communications made to your government in regard to them and until also full information is forthcoming as to the proposed modification of the tenders of Messrs. Allan, which may possibly make a fresh call for tenders necessary in justice to other tenderers. I have informed the High Commissioner to the above effect." This ended the correspondence with the home government. The contract was not signed, and, fortunately for the country, the whole matter passed into the hands of the new ministry.

FAIR PLAY FOR LIBERALS.

In January last when Mr. Foster et al combined against the Hon. Mackenzie Bowell, causing that esteemed politician to speak openly of his colleagues as a "nest of traitors," there was likelihood for a time that the internal dissensions of the cabinet would result in the party being turned out of office. The terror which this possibility awakened in their minds did not prevent the administration from attending to the important business of looking after their friends. Appointments were made hurriedly, the salaries of relatives and close friends of cabinet ministers were increased, mail contracts were extended for years, and in other ways the interests of the Conservative party were helped. In New Brunswick some mail contracts that used to be given year by year (to the same persons generally, without asking for tenders) were extended to a period of five years. Grateful contractors were, of course, among the fiercest partisans in the general election, and used all their influence in favor of the government candidates. The government organ this morning says certain mail contractors have been notified that their contracts will be closed at the end of the current term. There is surely nothing remarkable in that fact. It would be strange indeed if the present state of affairs should be continued. In no department of the public service have members of the Liberal party all over Canada been worse treated than in the Post Office department, and it is time—especially in regard to mail contracts—that some measure of justice should be done.

The presence of a Patron candidate in the field in the fourth district of Prince county, P. E. I., enabled the Conservatives to elect a member of the Local Legislature in the place of the deceased Liberal member, Mr. Alex. Laird. The candidate originally nominated by the Liberals declined to run, and the substitute put up was defeated. The Conservative received 322 votes, the Liberal 258 votes, and the Patron 159 votes. Mr. Wm. Campbell was the successful candidate.

The announcement that Spain has failed to float her $200,000,000 loan in London will be good news to the rebels in Cuba. The failure is another proof of the decadence of the once great European and American power.

The Italian consular agent at Cincinnati performed the most peculiar marriage ceremony on record. The groom was a well-to-do resident of the Ohio city and his bride lived in Italy. The contracting parties were thousands of miles apart when the wedding was performed, the marriage being by proxy. The consul filled in a blank certificate, which he forwarded to the authorities in Italy, who, in the presence of the parish priest, exhibited it before the bride, who affixed her signature, accepting it as her action. The marriage was perfectly binding.

The interesting announcement is made that the Irish Gardeners' Association is preparing to celebrate the tercentenary of the Irish potato in October with special festivities at Sir Walter Raleigh's house in Youghal, Ire. Sir Walter cultivated the first potatoes grown in Ireland on his estates about Youghal, having brought them from America.

DULL DAY IN HOUSE

EXCEPT THAT MR. FOSTER TUMBLED TWICE.

Estimates Going Through—Cattle Shipments.

[SPECIAL TO GLOBE.]

OTTAWA, Sept. 30.

Yesterday was rather a dull day in the House, nearly all the time being spent in committee of supply.

On the orders of the day Sir Henry Joly corrected the statement he made in supply that the 97 inland revenue officers appointed by Mr. Mackenzie were all dismissed. He had discovered that 67 new officers were appointed and of these 7 belonged to the old staff.

Discussion arose upon an item in committee of supply to give $2,000 salary for an additional county judge in Manitoba, in the course of which Mr. Foster declared there were too many judges in Canada.

Mr. Davies expressed astonishment that Mr. Foster should for eighteen years have gone on increasing the number of judges, and the moment he got into opposition call for a reduction.

The item passed.

Discussion arose on an item of $1,450 to pay arrears of subscriptions to newspapers. Mr. Foster said he had formerly refused to pay it and opposed it. Mr. Tarte, in view of the attitude of Mr. Foster, immediately proposed to drop the item. As a majority of the creditors are publishers of Conservative journals the opposition took fright lest they should not get their money, and the item was carried.

Mr. Foster fell into another hole the next minute on an item of $5,000 for the Three Rivers Exhibition, to which he objected.

Mr. Tarte told him it was for work done under an order-in-council passed by Mr. Foster himself. Mr. Foster denied it, and Mr. Tarte had the item stand. Later on he produced the order-in-council, dated July 6th last, two days before Mr. Foster left office, authorizing the expenditure. Mr. Foster now admitted the order-in-council, which he had evidently forgotten, and the item passed.

The item of $12,000 for cattle quarantine drew from Mr. Fisher, the Minister of Agriculture, an explanation of the arrangement with the United States authorities for the shipment of Canadian cattle from Portland and Boston for European ports. He said that there was no provision for the shipment of American cattle from the port of St. John, N. B. The American authorities, however, allowed Canadian cattle to be shipped from Portland in transit for Europe. Arrangements had also been made by the United States authorities with the C. P. R. to allow Canadian cattle to be shipped from Boston upon certain inspection regulations, but as the C. P. R. had not provided the necessary cattle yards at Richford the arrangement had been suspended until the yards should be provided, and this the C. P. R. was doing as fast as possible.

Mr. Wood (Hamilton) remarked that a prominent shipper had written to him that he was shipping cattle by way of Boston for 27 shillings and 6 pence, as compared with 47 shillings from Montreal. The item passed.

The House adjourned at one o'clock this morning.

NEW PUBLICATIONS.

The Review of Reviews for October continues its admirable record of the Presidential campaign. The movements of the "sound money" Democrats, culminating in the Indianapolis convention, receives thorough consideration. Other articles dealing with the present campaign are: "The Three Strategic Chiefs of the Presidential Campaign," and a sketch of Senator Jones of Arkansas, the hope of the "Popocrats." The frontispiece is a portrait of Sir Joseph Lister, the eminent British surgeon, and other interesting pictures are of Mr. Gladstone and Li Hung Chang in Hawarden Castle. In view of the approaching sesquicentennial anniversary of Princeton University, a very interesting and well illustrated article on "Princeton After One Hundred and Fifty Years" is given. The editor in his "Progress of the World" discusses the bearing of the early state elections on the result in November, and comments on current events in foreign lands, devoting much space to the Eastern question, the death of Prince Lobanoff, and the Turkish massacres. The issue is very interesting. Published at 13 Astor place, New York.

Three articles relating to the Boston Parks system have already appeared in the New England Magazine, and the issue for October contains another devoted exclusively to Charles River basin. The article is written by William Howes Downes, the well-known art critic, and shows what a factor in Boston life and landscape that river can be made if the plans of the men upon the park commission are carried out. It is illustrated by views of the river and also by many views showing the architectural effects which have been attained in Hamburg, London, Paris and Geneva. The article should prove a stimulus to the citizens of St. John to the furtherance of their park scheme. Other articles of interest are "The Building of Minot's Ledge Lighthouse," "Fifty Years of the American Missionary Association" and "The Public School Library and Museum." Norwich, Conn., is the city taken up for treatment this month in the magazine's valuable series of articles upon historic New England cities. Published by Warren F. Kellogg, 5 Park Square, Boston, Mass.

TURKS AND ARMENIANS PUNISHED.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 30.

The government tribunal to-day sentenced to fifteen years' imprisonment each a number of Mussulmans who were convicted of taking part in the recent riots. These are the first rioters who have been tried and found guilty since the late massacres. The tribunal also passed sentence of death upon all of the Armenians who are known or suspected of having taken part in the seizure of the Ottoman Bank. In this list is included an Armenian who was surrendered by the Belgian legation, with which he had taken refuge, upon condition that he would be released after he had been examined by the tribunal. The Belgian minister has sent a peremptory note to the Porte demanding the man's liberation.

MAKING IT PLAIN.

[From the Detroit Free Press.]

The young woman from Boston was at the table in a railroad restaurant in the far West, and when she essayed to cut the steak with which she had been served, she discovered that what she needed was a higher education in athletics. After four or five ineffectual attempts to dissect it she called to the waiter:

"Cahn't you," she asked, "give me a bit of steak which is characterized by less tenacity of tissue?"

The waiter staggered, and a cowboy across the table looked up.

"I didn't quite ketch, mum," said the waiter, bending forward, with his hand to his ear.

"I said," and there was a shade of annoyance in her tone, "that I desired a portion of steak in which the coherence of the molecules was not so apparent."

"Oh," stammered the waiter, and he stood fixed with his mouth open in amazement.

The young woman became embarrassed.

"Here," snorted the gallant cowboy coming to the rescue, with a sounding whack on the table, "git a move on you; what the lady wants is a piece of meat that ain't so tough she can't stick her purty tooth into it; see?" and the young woman actually smiled as the waiter hurried away.

The defaulting county treasurer of Troy, who has gotten rid of $300,000 of the county's money, says he hasn't been so happy for a long time as he has been since his crime was found out. BUSINESS MEN CONFER.

ANNUAL MEETING OF MARITIME BOARD OF TRADE.

Discussion on Cold Storage—Little Enthusiasm Manifested.

The Maritime Board of Trade met in annual session in the St. John Board of Trade rooms Tuesday evening. Halifax, Truro, Charlottetown, Amherst, Kentville, St. Martins, St. Andrews, Woodstock, St. John and Fredericton were represented.

Secretary Cornwall's report showed there were 14 boards in affiliation with a membership of 750. The receipts, all membership fees, were $78 and the expenses $46.78, leaving a balance of $31.22.

Mayor Robertson, the president, in his address, welcomed the delegates to the city. He briefly sketched the history of the Maritime Board, and then spoke of the subjects discussed at the first meeting last year. Looking to the future the president suggested that the time was ripe for the Maritime Provinces to go into iron shipbuilding. He advocated technical instruction in the public schools, the conservation of timber lands, the development of the pulp industry, the formation of a Dominion Board of Trade. In closing he referred to the efforts being made to extend Canada's trade to China, Japan, the West Indies, Australia, and other parts of the world, and said we were engaged in the work of nation building and had every possible freedom to march forward in the progress and development of all those things which make a nation great, happy and prosperous.

The Mayor was warmly congratulated on his address and it was on motion referred to Messrs. W. S. Fisher, P. Blake and G. A. Hall to frame a reply.

A message of greeting and an invitation for next year was read from the North Sydney board.

Some time was spent discussing by-laws and then the following officers were elected: G. J. Troop, Halifax, president; W. M. Jarvis, St. John, vice-president for New Brunswick; P. Blake, Charlottetown, vice-president for P. E. Island; C. M. Creed, Halifax, secretary-treasurer.

A vote of thanks was tendered the retiring secretary-treasurer, Mr. Ira Cornwall, and the more practical recognition of the work of Mr. Cornwall was referred to Messrs. Robertson, Jarvis, and Muir, of Truro. Adjourned.

At this morning's session, after routine business, the subject of cold storage, the importance of which had been referred to in a letter from Mr. Geo. E. Boak, of Halifax, came up for discussion.

The chairman called for a full discussion. Mr. Morrow, of Halifax, said none of the Halifax delegates wanted to introduce it in the absence of Mr. Boak, who was greatly interested in the matter. Messrs. W. F. Hatheway and John Sealy said they could give no information on the subject.

Mr. W. A. Black, M. P. P., said that the Nova Scotia government had dealt with the question and had recognized the advantages of cold storage. The introduction of cold storage on a steamer meant a great increase in the cost of freight, and the question was whether or not the agricultural products would be sufficient to pay this freight. It was thought that cold storage was needed when apples, cheese or butter were being shipped to England, but he hardly thought it necessary. His advice was to go slow. Regarding the West Indies, it was different. The climate was much warmer, and there might be a greater opening. He did not want to throw any cold water on the project, but his advice was to consider the matter cautiously.

Mr. S. Schofield enquired what lines of business required cold storage. He did not know except from a steamer point of view, and that was a secondary consideration. If the system was inaugurated on land the steamers would soon fall in line. He thought that cold storage would be a benefit to apple shippers.

Mr. M. F. Eagar was in favor of cold storage, and said it had many advantages, one of the greatest being the chance it gave to keep goods at an even temperature. It could not cost so very much on a steamer, as they had power to spare, and should have room for cold storage facilities.

Mr. E. G. Vroom said the system introduced by Mr. Ganong at Grand Manan was a benefit. It enabled them to keep large catches of herring, which in former years had to be wasted.

Mr. Hazard, of Charlottetown, felt that cold storage facilities were needed in the Island for cheese, eggs and butter.

Mr. John Sealy said he felt that cold storage was really needed for cheese and eggs and butter, but thought for fruits and fish it was hardly a success. Fruit spoiled very quickly after being in cold storage, and haddies that had been stored could not be sold in competition with fresh goods.

Dr. Muir, of Truro, said he had listened to the discussion, which had disappointed him. He had heard the subject ably discussed at Halifax and he had thought that a brief would have been prepared, but the Halifax board had evidently not done anything to help the matter along. He moved that, in view of the importance of the subject, further discussion be deferred until next year.

The motion was seconded by Mr. G. S. Campbell, of Halifax.

The chairman said he hoped that they would not forget the matter.

Mr. A. I. Teed thought it was a bad plan to defer the matter for another year, as different persons were contemplating the erecting of cold storage warehouses. He believed that there should be cold storage facilities all over the country; they should be under government management, and the people should only be charged enough to cover the cost. He did not believe in subsidizing private concerns and allow them to make dividends out of it. He moved that the matter be referred to a committee consisting of one member of each board, and that it be arranged for further discussion on Thursday. After some further debate the motion was put and Mr. Teed's amendment was carried. The committee chosen was: Dr. Muir, A. I. Teed, John Sealy, W. A. Black, N. Hazard, Mr. DeWolfe, of Kentville, Mr. Jones, of Woodstock, W. H. Moran, of Amherst, and Dr. Parker, of St. Andrews. Adjourned.

The insurance on the property aggregates $131,450, divided as follows:

A MISSING MAN.—Police authorities throughout the country have received letters from B. J. Eldridge, Superintendent of the Boston Police, stating that information is wanted of Edward D. Blackwell, Treasurer of the Consolidated Electric Co., of Montpelier, Vt., who is missing since the evening of Sept. 9th, 1896. He is 44 years of age, 5 feet 8½ inches tall, about 150 lbs. weight; has a long face, prominent cheek bones and sharp features, inclined to be pale; very erect and somewhat thin and spare, brown hair, moustache and chin whiskers. When last seen wore clothes of a fine grey mixture, coat a sack, and a light weight overcoat of darker shade than the suit, gold spectacles and a soft brown hat of Alpine pattern, square seal ring on left hand and green seal cuff buttons.

MYSTERIOUS AFFAIR.

HOW WAS JOHN STACKHOUSE, OF BLOOMFIELD, HURT?

Apparently the Victim of Assault—Consequences May be Fatal.

John Stackhouse, of Bloomfield, is lying badly wounded in a semi-conscious condition in the house of his brother Judson at 80 City Road. He was taken there about 4 o'clock this morning by Engineer Irvine and John Galbraith, of the I. C. R.

How Stackhouse was injured they don't know, and it is possible some rather skilful detective work will be necessary to find out. The wounds Mr. Stackhouse is suffering from are of a pretty serious nature. Just how serious is not yet known, but it may be they will prove fatal.

The story so far as known is a very simple one. Mr. Stackhouse, who is a farmer at Bloomfield, came to the city on Tuesday and in company with his brother took in the exhibition. He walked home with his brother after the show and sat talking in the house for a short time. The family coaxed him to remain all night, but he had left his team at the Bloomfield depot, promising to return for them at night. He left the house a few minutes before 11 to go along Pond street to the station, promising his brother to return if he missed the train. His brother waited about half an hour and then went to bed. About 4 o'clock he was awakened by a ring at the door and on going down found Messrs. Irvine and Galbraith with his brother. The latter was then hardly conscious. His clothes were covered with iron rust and blood. There were two deep cuts on the left side of his face and a bruised mark over his left eye, which was very black. The men said he staggered into the Round House about 4 o'clock and asked if he could lie down, declaring he was very tired. They questioned him, but were unable to get any information until finally he said his brother resided at 80 City Road. They at once started out to find the place and discovered that Mr. Stackhouse lived there.

The injured man was taken up stairs, put on a sofa and then Dr. Emery was called.

A GLOBE reporter visited the house shortly before noon and saw the injured man. He is a fine strapping fellow about 33 years of age, nearly six feet high and weighing fully 180 pounds. He was lying on a sofa apparently unconscious. The bruise on his forehead and his blackened eye could be seen, but the other injuries were bandaged. Dr. Emery was present and at the reporter's request asked the man what happend to him after he left the house. After being questioned several times he mumbled "I don't know." This was about all any of his questioners had been able to get out of him.

The injury on the forehead was inspected. It was rough, and looked as if it had been made by a board or some other rough, flat surface, though it might have occurred from a fall. The other injuries to the face were deep cuts, and had apparently been made by a knife or dagger. Both were downward cuts, deep and narrow. That on the temple went very deep, and it is feared may have caused a hemorrhage about the brain. The cut on the left jaw splintered the jaw bone.

The clothes were next examined. The coat was saturated with blood and there was a streak of iron rust near the shoulder and breast. The cuffs were covered with blood and on one the buttonhole was torn and the bone stud snapped off, an indication of a struggle.

How the man received his injuries is not known, but the supposition is he was attacked by roughs while hurrying along Pond street. He is too big a man for one person alone to have tackled, and the injuries suggest that two at least handled him, one stabbing and the other hitting. The family think that the roughs, supposing they had killed him, laid him across the railroad track in such a position that a train would cut off his head. The lust is the evidence of this theory. If it is correct, the man came to before any train passed along, and getting up wandered to the Round House.

Mr. Stackhouse is a strictly temperate man, and was absolutely sober when he left his brother's. Dr. Emery said there were no evidence that he had been drinking. He only had a few minutes in which to catch the train and he knew the way perfectly.

Why Mr. Stackhouse was attacked is not known. There were no indications of a robbery. It may be that whoever committed the deed was too much frightened to go further. Another mystery is how he ever got near the Round House, which is in an entirely different direction than he would take for the station.

It may turn out that the case is one entirely of accident. Everything looks otherwise, and it is difficult to see how the cuts could have been made. They are small, sharp and deep, and have every appearance of knife cuts. Some think the man tried to catch the train just outside the station and fell, receiving the injuries.

The police have been notified and are working on the case.

AT THE EXHIBITION.

Citizens' Day at the Exhibition was badly hampered by the disagreeable weather, and many of the special features of the day were greatly affected by it. An attempt was made about 10.30 o'clock to parade the prize animals. The exhibitors brought their stock out, but as the rain commenced falling heavily some of them drove their stock back to their quarters. This caused a rupture between an exhibitor and one of the directors, and for a time sharp words were used. The director, who is also a competitor, remonstrated with one of the exhibitors for taking his horses from the grounds, and was met with the reply that he (the director) would not bring his own horses out in the wet.

The 62nd Fusiliers' Band were present during the afternoon and rendered a choice programme from the band stand.

This evening the Carleton Cornet band will be in attendance, and, if the weather permits, a fine display of fireworks will be given. The other attractions are in full blast.

BLOCKADES of Mill street are frequent because the gates are down while engines are crossing the streets. Much needless delay is caused by keeping the gates down while shunting work is going on. The gates should be raised the moment an engine crosses the street, even if they have to be closed a minute later to allow it to return. Teams and pedestrians should not be stopped the whole time an engine goes to the switch and back again.

AT THE OPERA HOUSE.—The Sawtelle company, now playing at the Opera House, is a strong one and is drawing large audiences. At each performance Tuesday the house was filled and everyone was pleased with the acting. This evening the "Little Trooper" will be put on. The Imperial Orchestra is a strong feature and all should hear it.

COMMISSIONER EVA BOOTH, the present head of the Salvation Army in Canada, will visit St. John next month. She will address meetings in the Institute on Oct. 20, 21 and 22. The meetings will be participated in by 150 staff and field officers.
