DYNAMITERS' CASES.

WILL FRANCE UP GIVE P. J. TYNAN?

Bell Arrives in London and is Arraigned.

PARIS, Sept. 17.

In response to enquiries at the Prefecture of Police in regard to the rumor that Alexander Sullivan, of Chicago, an Irish leader, had been arrested here, a representative of the United Associated Press was informed there was no truth in the report, and that Mr. Sullivan's arrest had not even been meditated by the French authorities.

The French press systematically ridicule the whole story of the existence of a dynamite conspiracy, which they declare is an English political trick intended to interfere with the proposed visit to France of the Czar.

Le Soir announces that two friends of P. J. Tynan, the Irish "Invincible" in custody at Boulogne, have arrived at that place, having gone there at the request of the prisoner's mother. They endeavored to secure permission to communicate with the prisoner in the absence of the sub-prefect, but were unable to do so. It is stated no one will be allowed to see Tynan or communicate with him without having first secured the consent of the government.

It is learned upon creditable authority that the French cabinet gives so little credence to the English police officials' story of the dynamite conspiracy that it will probably refuse to grant the request for Tynan's extradition.

LONDON, Sept. 17.

Edward Bell, or "Ivory," the alleged dynamiter who was arrested in Glasgow last Saturday, arrived in London at 8.10 o'clock this morning, having been brought here in obedience to a requisition from the Scotland Yard authorities. Upon his arrival at the station he was put into a carriage and driven at once to the Bow street police court. There were very few persons about the station when the dynamiter arrived. The prisoner was not handcuffed. He maintained his sullen demeanor, scarcely making reply to anything that was said to him by the officers. Upon reaching the Bow street police court the prisoner was at once arraigned before the sitting magistrate, Mr. James Vaughan. The entry upon the "charge sheet" of the police court in his case was "Edward Bell, alias Edward J. Ivory, an American citizen of 211 Lexington avenue, New York, accused of unlawfully and maliciously conspiring with others to cause an explosion within the United Kingdom to endanger and injure property, also of counselling and abetting the commission of crime." The court room was crowded with newspaper reporters, and many artists who were present for purpose of making sketches of the prisoner crowded around the dock. Magistrate Vaughan asked the prisoner his real name, and the latter replied, "Edward J. Ivory." Detective Flood then took the witness stand and testified that a number of documents and £160 in money had been found in the possession of the prisoner when he was arrested. The prisoner was remanded for a week.

A despatch from Brussels says the chemicals seized in the house in Antwerp from which the occupants fled a day or two previous to the arrest in Rotterdam of two alleged dynamiters with whom they are believed to be identical were sufficient to make half a ton of dynamite.

BOSTON, Sept. 17.

The correspondent of the Globe in London sends the following to his paper: "I am informed by an intelligent English journalist who has been studying the news at first hand among the detectives that Tynan had no plot at all, but that he and his accomplices were sent over by the physical force party in New York to do something in repayment for the money it is collecting. After the men reached Europe they took a house in the suburbs of Antwerp and manufactured bombs, but without any definite idea what they were to do with them. The plot was to be matured after other men had been employed. Finding themselves shadowed from the instant they left New York Tynan became afraid and exposed the whole business to the English police. After Tynan had decided to 'peach' he took to drinking heavily, and boasted at various times that he was going to blow up the Czar and the Queen or Marlborough House, just as the humor seized him. I send this because of the standing of my informant, also because it tallies with everything that has been made public and goes a great way towards clearing up the confusion of the telegraphic reports from all over Europe."

ST. ANDREWS MAN DROWNED,

Canoe Upset and He Could Not Swim.

[SPECIAL TO GLOBE.]

ST. ANDREWS, Sept. 17.

Word has just reached town of the drowning last night of Michael McMonagle, a foundryman of St. Andrews. With two Indians he left St. Andrews in a canoe last night, intending to cross to the Maine shore. Near Frost Ledges, above Pleasant Point, the canoe upset. The Indians swam ashore, but McMonagle could not swim and was drowned. The body has not yet been recovered. McMonagle was an enterprising young man, about 35 years of age and unmarried. His mother and sister live here.

The Indians who were with McMonagle say that the accident was due to McMonagle endeavoring to rescue one of the Indians named Wallace Nicholas. The latter was paddling in the stern when his paddle broke and he tumbled over. McMonagle grasped him by the shirt and tried to pull him in. The canoe upset as a result. John Stevenson dove twice for McMonagle and brought him to the surface each time. When he went under the third time the Indian could not find him. The Indians were rescued by a boat from the shore.

A MISSIONARY'S DEATH.

NEW YORK, Sept. 17.

John C. Logie, a missionary of the United Presbyterian church, died at Bwemba, Congo Free State, on July 15. Three years ago Mr. Logie entered the mission field. His principal work was among the Balol people in the vast forested region south of the northern bend of the Congo. In some of his missionary tours of the southern tributaries of the Congo he went where no white man had ever been seen before. He finally fell a victim to the climate, being the seventh out of twenty-five missionaries in that field to die within the past year.

STARTLING EVIDENCE

GIVEN TO-DAY IN THE NEWCASTLE P. O. CASE.

Smith's Testimony Against the Ex-Postmaster.

[SPECIAL TO GLOBE.]

NEWCASTLE, Sept. 17.

The investigation into the charges preferred against Mr. Fish, late postmaster, was continued at the court house to-day at eleven o'clock. Meddie P. Smith, late assistant in the post office, was the first witness called. His evidence corroborated the evidence already submitted in this case by other witnesses. He told of Fish being short in his accounts and to make up the deficiency opened a letter belonging to P. Hennessy, and further, that in order to make up the amount taken out of the Hennessy letter the postmaster opened a letter belonging to Will Fish, containing $34. The evidence of this witness is the most startling given. Smith sits in the witness box and gives his evidence as though he were reading from a book. The attendance at the court house is large.

Warren C. Winslow appears for the Justice Department; A. A. Davidson, M. P. P., for Fish; R. B. Bennett for Smith, and Samuel Thompson as advisor of the Justice, Mr. John Nevin, before whom the case is being tried.

WILL BE DISMISSED.

FRENCH TRANSLATORS WILL LOSE THEIR PLACES.

Conservative Tactics in North Grey Exposed.

[SPECIAL TO GLOBE.]

OTTAWA, Sept. 17.

The debates committee resumed this morning, when Mr. Ellis presented an amended report for presentation to the House recommending the dismissal of Bouchard, Vanasse and McLeod, three of the four French translators who interfered in elections, the name of the fourth, Lucien Lesalle, being omitted.

Mr. Lariviere moved in amendment that they should report that the charges had not been sustained in regard to any impartial discharge of their duties during the session, the charges being of a political character.

The motion of Mr. Ellis carried on division, and the House will, by adopting the report, dismiss these three men because they threw mud at the Liberals when they thought themselves safely entrenched behind tory power.

Just before the meeting of the debates committee this morning Mr. Choquette, chairman, drew a copy of L'Electeur from his pocket and, pointing to a reprint of a circular issued to the electors of North Grey, told Mr. Taylor that it was a shame for him to sign such a document, which called on the electors to unite in stemming the aggressions of Rome, and devote their full energies to defeating Mr. Paterson.

Mr. Taylor denied having signed the circular which contained his name and those of the following members of Parliament: Wallace, McLean, Sproule, Tyrwhitt and McNeill.

Mr. Choquette then said that Mr. Taylor should publicly repudiate the circular, but the chief Conservative whip replied that he would do nothing of the kind.

The matter will be brought up in the House.

THE ARMENIAN QUESTION.

Turks Can't Understand English Sympathy —Sir Charles Dilke's Views.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 17.

Turkish official circles have issued a statement in which they say they cannot understand either the blind rage of the English press against the Turkish government or the sympathy expressed for Armenian anarchists, whose plans are merely a repetition of the bomb throwing of Irish Fenians and their menacing of English buildings for the purpose of compelling the British government to come to terms. Armenian revolutionists, the statement declares, have formed an infamous coalition with the Nihilists, Anarchists and all demolishers of society.

The St. James Gazette publishes a special despatch from Washington in which it is asserted that President Cleveland is determined that the United States cruiser Bancroft, now on her way to Turkish waters, shall enter the Bosphorus. The government at Washington, the despatch says, is fully informed of the plans of Lord Salisbury, and if the ships of the British fleet force the Straits of Dardanelles, the American warships will follow and preserve order without engaging the Turkish forts. Several of the leading provincial papers, including the Leeds Mercury (Liberal), and the Yorkshire Post (Conservative) concur in the view that the joint action of the British and American warships at Constantinople would be a magnificent and effective co-operation.

LONDON, Sept. 17.

It is announced that the Prince of Wales will pay a visit to Lord Rosebery at the ex-premier's seat, remaining there until the arrival of the Czar, whom he will join at Leith. It is understood that during the visit of His Royal Highness Lord Rosebery will endeavor to induce the Prince to urge the Czar to adopt an anti-Sultan policy.

Sir Charles Dilke has written a long, reasoning letter in which he says if Great Britain shall go to war she will also plunge India, Canada and Austrialia into war, possibly without their consent. Sir Charles adds: "A forcible passage of the Dardanelles might lead to general war, for which we are wholly unprepared and in which our very existence as a power would be at stake." In conclusion Sir Charles says: "Our virtual protectorate over Egypt has destroyed in the minds of the powers our credit for clean hands in relation to the Ottoman Empire."

TO ENCOURAGE CANADIAN WRITERS.

[SPECIAL TO GLOBE.]

OTTAWA, Sept. 17.

The Joint Library Committee met this morning, Speaker Edgar in the chair.

A resolution, proposed by Senator Power and seconded by Mr. Davin, that a sum be placed in the estimates for the purpose of encouraging by purchase such works of Canadian writers as might be deemed worthy of such recognition, was carried unanimously.

A SUGGESTION.—The exhibition will open next week and the city will be full of strangers. Before they come the streets should get a thoroughly good cleaning. Some work should also be done on the squares. There are bushels of dead leaves on King Square.

SERIOUS ACCIDENT.—An accident that will probably have a fatal termination occurred at noon to-day, at Sears' pond, at the foot of Acadia street. A child not quite two years of age, a son of David Higgins, of Acadia st., was playing about the fence on the street overlooking the pond, when he fell through an opening in the fence to the logs below. The fall was all of twenty feet, and he struck on his head. He was picked up tenderly and carried across the street to his father's house, and physicians were sent for. It was at first thought he was dead, but the doctors when they arrived found the child was still breathing. He was insensible from concussion of the brain, and blood flowed from his mouth and nose. Dr. Broderick and Dr. William A. Christie did all they could to restore consciousness, but without avail. At two o'clock the child was still alive, but was not expected to recover.
