ST. JOHN, N. B., AUG. 26 1896.

ELECTIONS TO-MORROW

Elections will take place in the united counties of Queens and Sunbury, New Brunswick, and in the riding of North Grey, to-morrow. In both constituencies there is what is familiarly called a straight run. In both the government candidates are ministers, and, therefore, not only is the interest much greater than if the ministerial seats were not involved, but the results will be more important. Should the two ministers be elected by reasonably good majorities in each place, it will show that there is a strong disposition on the part of the people to accept the result of the verdict pronounced on 23rd June last. Mr. Paterson, the Controller of Customs, is a new man in the constituency of North Grey. Defeated in the general election in his own constituency of Brant, which he represented so long and so ably, he took advantage of the opening caused by the death of the member-elect for that constituency to secure a seat. He has against him the disadvantages of previous defeat by his own people, of knowing very little personally of the voters whose suffrages he seeks, and of being vigorously opposed by a number of active and able Conservative speakers of the Province of Ontario. He has, on the other hand, the advantages which result from the moral influence of the national victory in June last; he has the advantage of the ministerial position, always a taking thing with the public, and particularly so at this moment, when a new ministry is beginning a new career, and he has the advantage, too, arising from hope of better administration of public affairs, which is now very general throughout Canada. While a close contest is conceded it is the general hope and belief of the Liberals that Mr. Paterson will be elected. It is important, of course, that he should have a good majority, but it is not absolutely necessary. Mr. Paterson's defeat—should that happen—will be considerable of a blow to the administration, inasmuch as the government is not now too strong in Ontario, and the special canvasses which are being made, should they succeed in North Grey, might prove available elsewhere as constituencies open. It is not necessary, however, to anticipate that Mr. Paterson will be defeated, even though to all appearances the fight is close.

In Sunbury and Queens it seems that the election of Mr. Blair, the Minister of Railways, is a certain thing. Mr. King proved himself to be a comparatively weak candidate in the general conflict and yet he had over one hundred and eighty majority. Mr. Blair is a strong candidate, with a splendid office for campaign work, personally popular in Queens, and it may be a fair inference that with the added strength which his position gives him and which he derives from the fact that the Liberal party is in and that it will be in for some time and that many persons will not care to antagonize it, his election may be assured with a majority three times as great as that of Mr. King. The canvass against him has been carried on not only with vigor, but with much bitterness, and personal opposition appears to have asserted itself with unnecessary violence. The effect of these two elections upon both parties in the House will be felt during the session. Should the wholly improbable end be the election of two Conservatives, the Conservatives in Parliament will be aggressive and defiant and vigorously hostile to the administration. Their defeat, on the other hand, will compel them to await change in the popular sentiment, and actual cause by the proceedings of the government for popular disapprobation. But Liberal victories will strengthen the Liberals for the great work which it has been called upon to perform in the interests of Canada.

INTERNATIONAL ARBITRATION.

At Saratoga, on Thursday last, Lord Russell, of Killowen, Lord Chief Justice of England, delivered a magnificent address before the American Bar Association. Five thousand eager listeners, men and women, gathered from all parts of the continent, listened to His Lordship's eloquent words; and in this company were included some of the most eminent men and women in the republic. His Lordship had been invited by the American Bar Association to deliver the annual address; and he fittingly chose as his theme international arbitration. Reports which have been given to the public of his address show that it was a clear, eloquent and precise statement of what is desirable in regard to peace among men, and what is possible at the present time. The address was repeatedly applauded as the speaker proceeded, and at its close "the audience cheered for several minutes," while the American Bar Association by formal resolution declared its concurrence with the principles enunciated in His Lordship's address, and recommended to its Committee on International Law to "recommend such further action as shall be deemed proper to advance the great cause of international arbitration." In his examination of his subject Lord Russell showed that the sentiment for peace and in favor of arbitration as the alternative for war is growing apace; that the sentiment has told on the direct action of nations, and has shaped their policy. Even at the present time, over a large area, international differences may honorably, practically and usefully be dealt with by peaceful arbitrament. Since 1815 there have been sixty instances of effectual arbitrament by honorable means. To thirty-two of these the United States have been a party and Great Britain to twenty. Then again arbitration clauses have been introduced into many treaties, while among several nations there has been agreement to 'refer all questions in difference without exception to arbitration." The facts which the learned speaker produced while, as he said, they were full of hope for the future, did not justify the belief "that the waters of international strife have permanently subsided." Unbridled ambition, thirst for trade dominion, pride of power, still hold their sway, though with lessened force and to some degree under the restraint of the healthier opinion of the world. And u[illegible]er than this, Lord Russell held that there might be greater calamities than war—such as the dishonor of a nation, the triumph of an unrighteous cause, the perpetuation of hopeless and debasing tyranny. This led the orator up to two conclusions—the first that arbitration will not cover the whole field of international controversy; the second that unless and until the great powers of the world, in league, bind themselves to coerce a recalcitrant member of the family of nations we have still to face the more than possible disregard by powerful nations of the obligations of good faith and justice. Nevertheless there are difficulties to be overcome and they can be overcome. Force is not the only power that rules the world. "Must we then say," asked Lord Russell, "that the sphere of arbitration is a contracted one?" and he answered:

By no means. The sanctions which restrain the wrongdoer—the breaker of public faith—the disturber of the peace of the world, are not weak, and, year by year, they wax stronger. They are the dread of war and the reprobation of mankind. Public opinion is a force which makes itself felt in every corner and cranny of the world and is most powerful in the communities most civilized. In the public press and in the telegraph it possesses agents by which its power is concentrated and speedily brought to bear where there is any public wrong to be exposed and reprobated. It, year by year, gathers strength, as general enlightenment extends its empire, and a higher moral altitude is attained by mankind. It has no ships of war upon the seas or armies in the field and yet great potentates tremble before it and humbly bow to its rule.

Again trade and travel are great pacificators. The more nations know of one another the more trade relations are established between them, the more goodwill and mutual interest grow up, and these are powerful agents working for peace.

But although I have indicated certain classes of questions on which sovereign powers may be unwilling to arbitrate, I am glad to think that these are not the questions which most commonly lead to war. It is hardly too much to say that arbitration may fitly be applied in the case of by far the largest number of questions which lead to international differences. Broadly stated, wherever the right in dispute will be determined by the ascertainment of the true facts of the case; where, the facts being ascertained, the right depends on the application of the proper principles of international law to the given facts, and where the dispute is one which may properly be adopted on a give and take principle, with due provision for equitable compensation, as in cases of delimitation of territory and the like—in such cases the matter is one which ought to be arbitrated.

For the present, he argued, a permanent tribunal of arbitration is not ripe for practical discussion, and against such a tribunal, with members permanently appointed, he argued that

So long as war remains the sole court wherein to try international quarrels, the risks of failure are so tremendous, and the mere rumor of war so paralyzes commercial and industrial life that pretensions wholly unfounded will rarely be advanced by any nation, and the strenuous efforts of statesmen, whether immediately concerned or not, will be directed to prevent war. But, if there be a standing Court of Nations, to which any power may resort, with little cost and no risk, the temptation may be strong to put forth pretentious and unfounded claims, in support of which there may readily be found in most countries (can we except even Great Britain and the United States?) busybody jingoes only too ready to air their spurious and inflammatory patriotism.

But he admitted that there is no class of questions in which mediation may not, time and occasion being wisely chosen, be usefully employed, even in delicate questions affecting national honor and sentiment, and he concluded:—

In dealing with the subject of arbitration I have thought it right to sound a note of caution, but it would, indeed, be a reproach to our nineteen centuries of Christian civilization if there were now no better method for settling international differences than the cruel debasing methods of war. May we not hope that the people of these States and the people of the motherland—kindred peoples—may, in this matter, set an example of lasting influence to the world? They are blood relations. They are indeed separate and independent peoples, but neither regards the other as a foreign nation."

A CURIOUS CASE.

If the published statements regarding the protest entered against the return of Mr. J. B. Mills, M. P. for Annapolis, are true there is a remarkable state of affairs in tory circles. Mr. Hector McLean entered the protest against Mr. Mills, but in consideration, it is said, of the Conservatives agreeing not to oppose Attorney General Longley's return to the local house, the petitioner agreed to go no further with the case. On the last day for taking action, however, Mr. McLean's lawyer at Halifax received a telegram signed Hector McLean, directing him to serve the petition on Mr. Mills. This was accordingly done. There were charges at once of breach of faith on the part of the Liberals, but enquiry showed that they were not to blame. The telegram received by Mr. McLean's lawyer was a forgery, and it is alleged is in the handwriting of a prominent officer of the Conservative Association! There is also an intimation that other Conservatives are connected with the movement to make trouble for Mr. Mills.

A NEW YORK ROBBERY.

New York, Aug. 24.

Geo. Herdling, the son of the proprietor of the United States hotel at Fulton and Pearl streets this city, was held up and robbed Sunday evening in a "Raines law" hotel on Chatham Square. Young Herdling lives in Monkton, Vt., and has been staying with friends in this city. Sunday evening on his way up town he stopped at the Chatham Square place, where he ate a sandwich and drank a glass of beer. Then he went into the hallway on the second floor. Three men followed him and knocked him down. One held him, while the others stole all his money, gold watch and chain and diamond shirt stud. They took off his coat and vest, dragged him down stairs and kicked him into the street. Herdling had been unable to call for help because one of his assailants had kept a tight grip on his throat. He went to the police station and told his story. Detectives were put on the case and they arrested two of the thieves. The third man escaped with all the stolen property. The two prisoners are John Kennedy and James Hart.

Games are to be played at Detroit, Chatham, London and Hamilton, with two in Toronto—one against the Toronto club, and the final game of the tour on Saturday next against the Rosedale club of that city. A return visit will be made by a strong team of Canadian players early in September.

To Woodstock To-Morrow.—The excursion to Woodstock by the City Cornet Band will take place to-morrow morning. Military Notes.—It has been determined not to proceed with the erection of permanent structures for stables, etc., at Sussex for military purposes the present season, as probably they could not be finished, and, perhaps, the matter of expense is a consideration. The tenders have all been sent to Ottawa, and in the meantime temporary structures will be put up for this year's use.

Instructions have been given to issue halters for the use of the horses at the camp.

Horticultural Exhibition.—Saint Andrew's Rink was opened this morning and preparations for the Horticultural flower exhibit which opens to-morrow commenced. Many of the local florists will show exhibits and were getting their flowers in readiness for the display. The list of entries is large and the exhibition will exceed those of previous years. A very pretty border of cedar trees has been put around the sides of the rink and flags are hung picturesquely from the ceiling and posts. To-morrow morning the associate directors will meet and continue the work of arranging the flowers, beautifying the rink and preparing the refreshment tables. The band of the 62nd Fusiliers will provide music the first night.

The Rev. E. Savage will hold his picnic at Sussex on Labor Day, Sept. 7.

The train from Hampton to Quaco tomorrow (Tuesday) will connect with the Sussex express, leaving St. John at 16 35, instead of the accommodation train, on account of Father Collerette's picnic at Upham. On Tuesday morning the picnic train for Upham will connect with the express leaving St. John at 7 o'clock.

The picnic to be held on the grounds of the Church of the Assumption, Carleton, has been postponed from Tuesday to Wednesday, because of the change in the City Cornet Band's programme.

Contract Awarded. — The Safety board held a meeting at noon to-day and opened tenders for painting the Exhibition building. The tenderers all made two offers. The first to do the work furnishing all materials and the second to furnish labor and staging, the city providing the paint. The tenders were as follows:

	Whole work.	Labor and staging.
B. T. Logan	$882	$570
James Boyd	872	570
John Johnston	695	410
Reed & Richardson	592	443
W. Mitchell	550	250

An offer was received from F. A. Young to furnish two coats of Williams's mixed paint for the Exhibition building for $150. It was decided to recommend the Council to accept Mr. Young's offer for the paint and Mr. Mitchell's tender to do the work for $250 Adjourned.

With the Methodists.—Rev. Thomas Marshall presided at the Methodist ministers' meeting in Centenary school room this morning. The reports from all the churches on Sunday were very favorable. A motion was passed expressing the sympathy of the clergymen with the Rev. H. Daniel in his recent severe illness, and their gratification to know that he is recovering and hope that he will soon be with them to take his accustomed place. Several visiting ministers addressed the meeting. Rev. Mr. Ball gave a brief account of the work of the British African Methodist church. Rev. Mr. Clemens, of the Erie conference, spoke of the Methodist Episcopal church in the oil regions of Pennsylvania. He has for several Sundays assisted the clergymen in their work in this city. Rev G. M. Young, of Hampton, and Rev. Mr. Fulton, of Kingston, were also present and spoke briefly. Rev. Mr. Ball, who is one of the jubilee singers, favored the meeting with a song, which was greatly appreciated.

St. Paul's Dedication Services.—The continuation of the dedication services of St. Paul's church, on Sunday, attracted large congregations to all of the services. At the morning service Ven. Archdeacon Brigstocke preached. In the evening the rector, Rev. A. G. H. Dicker, preached the dedicatory sermon. In the course of his remarks the rector spoke of the stores laid up by David by which Solomon was enabled to build the temple, and pointed out how often we were benefitted by the inheritance left us by others. A previous generation had left to them a beautiful church in which, day by day, they met for prayer and praise; where many of them had been placed in the Saviour's arms at baptism; where many had received holy influences through the laying on of hands; where many had been joined together in matrimony, and where many had read, with eyes blinded with tears, "The Lord gave and the Lord taketh away: Blessed be the name of the Lord." The church was full of sacred associations and they must not let their gratitude die away with the echo of the festal hymns, but remain active and continue to labor, and, like David did for Solomon, lay up treasures for those to come.

The music in the evening was a special feature. Stainer's Magnificat and Nunc Dimittis were sung, and the anthem was "God is a Spirit," sung by a double quartette.

The Garden Party at Hampton last Tuesday in connection with the Methodist church netted $125.

Sch. C. U. Chandler arrived to-day with wreckage from the steamer Hesper, ashore at Amber Ledge, off Pine Island, Lockeport.

Base Ball.—The Starlights and Alerts play on the Shamrock grounds Tuesday, Aug. 25. They have met before this season in an eleven inning game, and the game to-morrow should prove interesting.

Lewis Morrison and his company arrived from Halifax this afternoon. They play "Faust" this evening and at the matinee to-morrow, and to-morrow evening will end their engagement here with a presentation of Morrison's new play, "The Indian."

Jubilee Singers at St. Philip's Church.—The attendance of the jubilee singers at St. Philip's A. M. E. church on Sunday evening attracted a very large crowd. The singing was exceptionally fine, as the choir was very much strenghtened by the visiting singers. Rev. Mr. Bell, a member of the company, preached a very forcible and earnest sermon.

Fell into the Hold.—Michael Hayes, laborer, of Union Alley, while attending to the sling on board the S. S. Langham, this morning overreached himself, missed the chain and fell into the lower after hold. He fell quite a distance. When picked up by his fellow workmen, it was thought he was seriously injured. He was taken ashore to Bennett's store, at Reed's Point, and Dr. Daniel was summoned, and made an examination. No bones were broken, however. Hayes was removed to the Public Hospital in the ambulance. He is bruised around the shoulders, but otherwise he is not seriously injured. He will be around again in a few days.

HARBOR IMPROVEMENTS.

More Discussion by the Aldermen, but Little Work Done.

A meeting of the harbor improvements committee of the City Council was held this morning at the City building to consider matters in connection with the West side improvements. Mayor Robertson, in opening the meeting, explained that the dredge Freeport had been engaged and was to leave Lubec to-day. He said tenders for the dredging had been received from F. W. Holt, G. S. Mayes and the Morris & Cummings Company, New York, but Mr. Ridgway, engineer of the latter company, had asked until this afternoon to receive a telegram from his employers. Therefore, the advisory committee was unable to make a recommendation and would not disclose the tenders.

Mayor Robertson stated that the question of an engineer had still to be settled. The C. P. R. had recommended a Mr. Randolph Bruce, but he was only willing to come on a salary of $150 per month, as well as board and expenses He (he Mayor) had therefore advised the C. P. R to wait until the committee decided the question. The Mayor explained that a local engineer, Mr. W. E. Earle, had asked for employment and had said he would take the position at $125 per month.

Director Smith spoke strongly in favor of Mr. Earle. Messrs. Waring, Ruel, Millidge and Daniel all advocated employ ing the engineer recommended by the C. P. R., Mr. Ruel moving that the C. P. R be given power to engage an engineer for $200 per month free of all expenses, giving the preference to a local man if a suitable one could be secured.

Ald. Christie strongly advocated the employment of a local engineer if he was as competent as the man recommended by the C. P. R. The city had as great, if not a greater, interest in the work than the C. P. R., and he did not believe the C. P. R. was any more competent to select an engineer than the city. Too much outside work was to be engaged, and he believed in giving the work to a local man.

Alds. Hamm and Smith spoke strongly in favor of the employment of Mr. Earle, and said it was a mistake to hire outside help.

Ald. Robinson suggested that the name of Mr. Earle be recommended to the C. P. R., and that they be asked if they could not appoint him, for he believed him fully competent to carry on the work.

Ald. McGoldrick did not believe the C. P. R. was anxious to appoint an engineer, but was doing so to help the city. He knew Mr. Earle well, and believed him as fully competent to carry out the plans as any man in Canada.

Ald. Robinson moved that the matter of employing an engineer be left to the advisory committee with power to act.

Ald. Stackhouse seconded the motion and strongly urged the appointment of Mr. Earle.

Alds. Christie and Wilson declared the C. P. R. did not assume any responsibility and they deprecated putting the city under their control.

Ald. Waring said Mr. Earle should have got the C. P. R. to recommend him instead of coming to the city for employment.

Ald. Ruel said a competent man should be engaged rather than a local man. He was not competent to nominate an engineer nor was the Council, but the C. P. R. was, and he believed they should leave the matter to the C. P. R., to whom Mr. Earle could submit his testimonials and secure the appointment if they were satisfied with him.

On the vote being taken the amendment was carried. The advisory committee will therefore deal with the matter.

DAY BEFORE THE BATTLE.

The Campaign in Sunbury and Queens

The Sunbury and Queens county campaign will be closed to-night and to-morrow the electors will have their say. Every indication points to the election of Hon. A. G. Blair with a substantial majority, perhaps as high as seven hundred. The campaign has been a short but sharp one, and the country has been flooded with able speakers of both parties. Most of these have now gone home, but some still remain. The ex finance minister and H. A. Powell, M. P., who were conducting the Conservative campaign, gave up the fight and went off to Ottawa. Mr. Logan, M.P., who was speaking for the Liberals, has also gone to Ottawa. The Liberal meetings throughout the counties have been largely attended and most enthusiastic. One of the finest meetings ever held in Sunbury was that of Saturday night at Oromocto addressed by Col Domville, M. P., and E. H. Allen and W. Wilson. The hall was packed and many were unable to gain admission. A band was present and there was a torch-light procession and a most enthusiastic reception of the speakers. The meetings to-night that close the campaign are: McDonald's Point, Messrs. Emmerson and White; Northfield, Messrs. McDonald and King; Blissville, Hon. A. G. Blair; Jerusalem, D. C. Fraser, M P.; New Canaan, Messrs. Hawke and Robinson, of Moncton.
