THOUGHTS DURING SICKNESS.

BY MRS. HEMANS.

I.

INTELLECTUAL POWERS.

O Thought ! O Memory ! germs for ever heaping
High in the illumined chambers of the mind;
And thou, divine Imagination ! keeping
Tho lamp's lone star mid shadowy hosts enshrined;
How, in one moment, rent and disentwined
At fever's fiery touch apart they fall,
Your glorious combinations ! broken all,
As the sand-pillars by the desert's wind
Scattered to whirling dust ! O soon uncrown'd !
Well may your parting swift, your strange return,
Subdue the soul to lowliness profound,
Guiding its chastened visions to discern
How by meek faith Heaven's portals must be passed
Ere it can hold your gifts unalienably fast.

II.

SICKNESS LIKE NIGHT.

Thou art like Night, O Sickness ! deeply stilling
Within thy heart the world's disturbing sound,
And the dim quiet of my chamber filling [ed.
With low, sweet voices, by life's tumult drown-
Thou art like awful night !—thou gatherest round
The things that are unseen,—though close they lie,—
And with a truth clear, startling and profound,
Giv'st their dread presence to our mortal eye.
Thou art like starry, spiritual Night !
High and immortal thoughts attend thy way,
And revelations which the common light
Brings not, though wakening with its rosy ray
All outward life.—Be welcome, then, thy rod,
Before whose touch my soul unfolds itself to God!

COMMUNICATION.

MR. EDITOR,—

I had the pleasure of reading in the St. John Courier, of the 6th inst. a very eloquent and correct report of the proceedings had at two Public Meetings held in this place a short time since, with a number of very pertinent, or I might more properly say, impertinent remarks therein. The author of this precious document commences thus, "Do not suppose, Mr. Editor, that St. Andrews "is sinking quite as fast as some of the mischief "makers in our community would lead you to "suppose; 'all is not gold that glitters.'" This certainly is a very pretty as well as a very appropriate commencement of the subject, and has such an intimate connection with it throughout, that a person of any penetration, without proceeding further, would at once discover the author's intention: such a person would at once ejaculate, 'Oh, he's going to give us a report of the proceedings, had at Mr. Brennan's Rooms, and at the Court House a few days ago, and perhaps make a few observations respecting them;' but it would puzzle a person of dull comprehension to make out any connection whatever between the first sentence of the report and the subsequent parts of it; he would be undecided whether the expression "All is not gold that glitters," was intended to apply to the meeting held at Brennan's Rooms, or to the one afterwards held at the Court House, or whether, in fact, it could apply to either; and he probably would be unable to conceive how these meetings could have the effect of leading the Editor of the Courier, or any other person, to suppose that St. Andrews was "sinking." I, for one, Mr. Editor, have not sufficient capacity to understand the glittering sentence. The writer of this elegant report then proceeds to communicate the important intelligence, that a meeting, or, as he terms it, a "Party Meeting" was held at Mr. Brennan's Rooms on the 22d May last, and that the High Sheriff presided, and that several resolutions were made and seconded by such and such persons; all this must be highly gratifying, no doubt, to the Editor of the St. John Courier, and the readers generally of that paper; but what appears to strike the reporter with the greatest amazement is, that Mr. Whitlock should propose, and Mr. Andrews second, a resolution, to the effect, that the unlimited voting by proxy for Directors of the Charlotte County Bank, was inexpedient, &c. &c.; and he very logically draws the conclusion, that they must be young men of a very meddling disposition, to have moved and seconded any resolution of the kind, inasmuch as they were not Stockholders of the Bank, and therefore not interested in its affairs.—I wish, Mr. Editor, that this person, who signs himself No Party Man, had for his own sake assumed a signature less at variance with his conduct; I know well who he is, and would request him to answer this plain question,—Whether he did not secretly procure from some of the Stockholders of this Bank residing in Saint John, and in this County, powers of attorney to vote for them ? If yes, did he not vote contrary to what he knew to be the opinion and intention of the parties granting those powers of attorney; and did he not take all that trouble from a mean and paltry spirit of party, and an unmanly feeling of resentment against Mr. Rait, for the purpose of preventing his election as a Director ? This question, Mr. Editor, is a very plain one, but I feel confident it will not be answered, for it can only be truly answered in the affirmative. And if that be the case, I would ask who it was that most evinced a meddling disposition—the writer of that precious piece of nonsense—the man of no party, who is not, as he confesses himself, a stockholder of the Charlotte County Bank, and therefore not interested in its affairs—or the two young men, Mr. Whitlock and Mr. Andrews ? I leave this question to be determined by the readers of the Courier. The man of no party then proceeds to state that he never had much to do with the Bank —(this, no doubt, is true, and may be easily accounted for)—but still he hears a little of what is going on there, and, if he is correctly informed, Mr. Rait does not deserve all the praise so profusely lavished upon him by his friends at this meeting, &c. &c.

Now, Mr. Editor, it may not be unknown to you, that an oath is imposed on, and taken by every person elected a Director of the Charlotte County Bank, to the effect that he will not disclose any of its proceedings; and I marvel which of the Directors it is who acts so improperly as to give No Party Man the little information he says he receives as to what is going on in the Bank. This should be inquired into by the Directors themselves, and the guilty person discovered.

In addition to this, No Party Man will observe, if he looks over the Standard of the 21st ult. a letter addressed to Mr. Rait, and signed by the President and Directors of the Charlotte County Bank, expressing their hearty acknowledgments, for the most attentive and highly efficient services, which the Board had invariably received from him as a Director;—this was the opinion of the Directors, and a resolution somewhat to the same effect was made and passed at the meeting alluded to, as the opinion of his friends generally. These facts certainly do not corroborate the information No Party Man received as to Mr. Rait not deserving the compliments thus paid him.

The manner in which No Party Man winds up his report of the first meeting is both absurd and amusing. It is thus—"But with this ridiculous "party meeting I have nothing to do, as Mr. "Rait's friend have an undoubted right to say "what they please of him." I perfectly agree with him in this; for it certainly was none of his business, and perhaps it would have been as well for him not to have intermeddled in this matter, particularly as he is not a party man, nor a man of a meddling disposition. The remaining portion of this Report, Mr. Editor, is in substance this, (and I shall be very short, so as to bring this letter to a speedy conclusion,) that a requisition was handed to the Sheriff, requesting him to call a public meeting, and No Party Man thinks he has cause for complaint, because the propriety of the thing was discussed and agreed on at the party meeting so called, and because there were only thirteen persons who signed the requisition, a number of whom he admits to be respectable, (though, as to that, there is not one of the whole number but is quite as respectable as himself;) and because, lastly, No Party Man was not considered of sufficient importance to be consulted. He complains also that the requisition was not handed to a single magistrate, and that only fifty persons were present at the meeting, and that all of those fifty did not vote, and, as far as I can understand him, he tried to shew there could not be a county meeting unless a majority o the inhabitants of the county were present; and as a majority would amount to more than 6000, so many were not present, ergo there was no county meeting, ergo it was a second party meeting. Mr. Editor, are not these conclusions infallible. Believe me to be,

Mr. Editor, Your's truly,

St. Andrews, 8th June, 1835. VINDEX.

COLONIAL.

(From the N. Y. Albion, June 6th.)

By the John W. Carter from Jamaica, we received Kingston papers to the 15th ult. The Governor-General, the Marquis of Sligo, had proceeded on board H. M. S. Forte with some troops to the Caymanas, to set at unconditional liberty the slaves at that place. It appears that the slaves at the Caymanas had not been duly registered previously to 1st of August last, and consequently their owners could not avail themselves of the advantages of the apprenticeship system; but it is admitted on the other hand that the omission was not altogether chargeable on their owners, because the Registration Act had never been made to extend to these Islands. The owners, therefore, suffer from the errors and omissions of an Act of Parliament. However, the inhabitants were busily engaged in framing petitions to the King and Parliament, praying for relief, which the governor has promised to back with the strongest recommendations. In fact his Excellency's Proclamation averred, that the Commissioners of the Compensation Fund in awarding the compensation, would include the slaves of Grand Caymanas with those of Jamaica. The ultimate result will no doubt be satisfactory to the present sufferers.

The Island is as much disturbed as ever with conflicting opinions as to the working of the apprenticeship system, and the contradictory accounts which we daily see on this subject, arise from its having become a party question—one party affirming that the plan succeeds admirably, while the other, which is by far the more numerous, entertain the most opposite sentiments. The Kingston Chronicle of the 7th May says, when speaking of the slaves,

"From happy and industrious labourers they are now advancing into lazy, turbulent, and profligate knaves—averse to work, but willing to plunder, and considering the whole duty of man to consist in dressing themselves up to go to chapel—cheating their masters to fill the begging box, and howling psalms to rebel tunes and puritanic melodies."

This perhaps is a little overcharged, but we by no means say it is without foundation. In this state of things it is not always easy to arrive at the exact truth, but occasionally whole districts and bodies of people speak out at once, and carry conviction with them. Something of this kind lately occurred at Trelawney, where it appears a Public meeting of Proprietors, Planters, and others, was convened on the 4th of May last, and the following Resolutions were passed. The Hon. Wm. Miller, Custos, was in the Chair.

Resolved, That nine months' experience of the apprenticeship system having verified the worst anticipations of all practical men of its unprofitable working, this meeting can no longer shut their eyes to the alternative that the cultivation of the Island must shortly be abandoned. That, the whole work now got from the apprentices, even with the liberal hire paid for their own time is confined to the manufacturing the crop to the total neglect of the cane and grass fields. That the usual field of plant has not been established, nor have the ratoon canes been duly attended to. That the falling off in the next year's crop must necessarily be serious, and, the evil increasing annually, the natural consequence must be the gradual throwing up of the sugar plantations, notwithstanding assertions to the contrary on the part of inexperienced persons who flatter themselves with false hopes.

Resolved, That in the opinion of this meeting the only chance of preserving the Island from destruction is offered by the settlement of White families in the interior, where the climate is so temperate that Europeans could perform all the labour required in cultivating provisions, coffee, ginger, and the minor products ; the males would, in due time, form a valuable body of police ; they might occasionally be employed on sugar estates and other plantations, and afford a valuable example of industry to the apprentices and would pre-occupy those lands which, if left waste, would be resorted to by all the idle and dissolute of the negroes, when the period of absolute freedom arrives.

The third resolution states, that the Island is too much impoverished to bear the cost of emigration, and prays that His Excellency the Governor be addressed, imploring him to lay the case before the King, soliciting the aid of the mother country in this great emergency.

Now we say, when documents like these stare us in the face, we are compelled to withhold our credulity, when the glowing pictures of negro industry and the bright visions of fortune and prosperity are placed before us by adverse parties. Mr. Miller and Mr. Scott, who were among the leading individuals at the Trelawney meeting, are practical agriculturists, with an experience in the island of upwards of thirty years.

We believe that the most judicious system of emigration would be most salutory to the many parts of the West Indies, more especially Jamaica ; but its success depends upon the mode in which the expedient is carried into effect. Certainly some of the efforts already made have not been wisely planned, but the system should not be condemned because it has been mismanaged. If emigration be conducted by importing, promiscuously, persons of unsettled habits and indifferent characters, and these are thrown upon the West India shores, without provision or protection, and left to follow their own vicious course, it will prove a curse to the Colony ; but if quiet, orderly, and respectable families, consisting of farmers, be introduced, and put upon good estates, and follow the British system of husbandry, as has been practised at St. Kitts, then will the experiment succeed, and prove a lasting blessing.

It is in contemplation to fit out by subscription an expedition to explore the unknown parts of Southern and Central Africa, extending between Lattakoo and the Mountains of the Moon, including some of the confluences, if not actual source and course of the Congo or Zaire. Several noblemen and gentlemen have patronised the undertaking.

Curious Anecdote.—Some time after the execution of the priests, there was much drunkenness prevailed among the troops, and, as they had very little money, it could not be accounted for, until a grenadier of the 8th was brought to a court martial. On his sentence being read, Sir F. Stoven said he would forgive him, if he told the cause of the drunkenness, when the following laughable story came out:—He had purchased a quantity of rope, of the size used at the executions, and sold it for a quarter-dollar an inch to the deluded natives, as relics of the ropes which hung their priests !—Colonel Cadell's Services of the 28th Regiment.
