POETRY.

A THOUGHT.

And what is life? 'Tis but a midnight dream—
A flittering sunbeam's transient ray,
Which, when most beautiful and most desired
By man, smiles at his wish and fades away.

Men's lives, like waves in quick succession rise,
And heave and roll, and burst upon the shore:
Youth follows childhood—manhood follows youth—
Old age succeeds—then death, and all is o'er.

Or like the sound of some far distant bell,
Peal follows peal, and chime succeeds to chime;
Death follows life—and thus revolving moves
The long interminable chain of Time.

THE BARON.

A Baron intreated a woodland maid
From her peaceful glen to stray,
To revel in glittering garb arrayed
And dwell in his castle gay;
But she frowned on her suitor, tho' poor was she,
While a tear-drop dimmed her eye,
As she thought of her lover afar at sea,
And mournfully made reply—
'For a tainted name, in a courtly dome,
Oh! never will I resign
The quiet that hallows my native home,
Where flow'rets fondly twine.'

The Noble implor'd, but the Maid, unmov'd,
To her plighted vow was true;
And he left her to smile on the youth she lov'd,
The pride of a dauntless crew.
'Go, tempter, away to the town,' she cried,
'Nor my rural peace invade.
'Tis better to be a bold seaman's bride,
And dwell in a woodland glade,
Than for gold and gems in a courtly dome,
And a love noblest as thine,
To barter the joys of my native home
Where flow'rets fondly twine.'

RECOLLECTIONS OF NOVA-SCOTIA.

CONVERSATION AT THE RIVER PHILIP.

It was late before we arrived at Pugnose's inn—the evening was cool, and a fire was cheering and comfortable. Mr. Slick declined any share in the bottle of wine, he said he was dyspeptic; and a glass or two soon convinced me, that it was likely to produce in me something worse than dyspepsy. It was speedily removed, and we drew up to the fire. Taking a small penknife from his pocket, he began to whittle a thin piece of dry wood, which lay on the hearth, and after musing some time, said, "I guess you've never been in the States." I replied that I had not, but that before I returned to England, I proposed visiting that country. "There," said he, "you'll see the great Daniel Webster—he's a great man, I tell you; King William, number 4, I guess, would be no match for him as an orator—he'd talk him out of sight in half an hour. If he was in your House of Commons, I guess he'd make some of your great folks look pretty streaked—he's a true patriot and statesman, the first in our country, and a most particular eute Lawyer. There was a Quaker chap too cute for him once tho'. This quaker, a pretty knowing old shaver, had a cause down at Rhode Island; so he went to Daniel to hire him to go down to plead his case for him, so says he, lawyer Webster, what's your fee? Why, says Daniel, let me see, I have to go down south to Washington to plead the great insurance case of the Hartford Company—and I've got to be at Cincinnati to attend the Convention, and I don't see how I can go to Rhode Island without great loss and great fatigue; it would cost you may be more than you'd be willing to give. Well, the quaker looked pretty white about the gills, I tell you, when he heard this, for he could'nt do without him no how, and he did'nt like this preliminary talk at all—at last he made bold to ask him the worst of it, what he would take; why, says Daniel, I always liked the quakers, they are a quiet peaceable people, who never go to law if they can help it, and it would be better for our great country if there were more such people in it. I'll go for you as low as I can afford, say 1000 dollars. The quaker well nigh fainted when he heard this, but he was pretty deep too; so says he, lawyer that's a great deal of money, but I have more cases there, if I give you the 1000 dollars will you plead the other cases I shall have to give you? Yes, says Daniel, I will to the best of my humble abilities; so down they went to Rhode Island, and Daniel tried the case and carried it for the Quaker. Well, the Quaker he goes round to all the folks that had suits in court, and says he, what will you give me if I get the great Daniel to plead for you? it cost me 1000 dollars for a fee, but now he and I are pretty thick, and as he is on the spot I'd get him to plead cheap for you—so he got three hundred dollars from one, and two from another and so on, until he got eleven hundred dollars, just one hundred dollars more than he gave. Daniel was in a great rage when he heard this; what, says he, did you think I would agree to your letting me out like a horse to hire? Friend Daniel, says the quaker, didst thou not undertake to plead all such cases as I should have to give thee? if thou wilt not stand to thy agreement, neither will I stand to mine.—Daniel laughed out ready to split his sides at this; well, says he, I guess I might as well stand still for you to put the bridle on me this time, for you have fairly pinned me up in a corner of the fence any how—so he went good humouredly to work and pleaded them all."

"This lazy fellow, Pugnose, continued the clock-maker, that keeps this inn, is going to sell off and go to the States: he says he has to work too hard here, that the markets are dull, and the winter too long, and he guesses he can live easier there;—I guess he'll find his mistake afore he has been there long. Why our country aint to be compared to this, on no account whatever—our country never made us to be the great nation we are, but we made the country. How on earth could we, if we were all like old Pugnose, as lazy as ugly, make that cold thin soil of New England produce what it does? why, sir, the land between Boston and Salem would starve a flock of geese, and yet look at Salem, it has more cash than would buy Nova Scotia from the King. We rise early, live frugally, and work late; what we make we take care of. To all this we add enterprise and intelligence—a feller who finds work too hard here had better not go to the States. I met an Irishman, one Pat Lannigan, last week, who had just returned from the States; why, says I, Pat, what on earth brought you back? Bad luck to them, said Pat, if I warnt properly bit. What do you get a day in Nova Scotia? says Judge Beler to me. Four shillings, your lordship, says I. There are no lords here, says he—we are all free; well, says he, I'll give you as much in one day as you can earn there in two; I'll give you eight shillings. Long life to your Lordship, said I. So next day to it I went with a party of men a digging a piece of canal, and if it wasn't a hot day my name is not Pat Lannigan. Presently I looked up, and straightened my back; says I to a comrade of mine, Mick, says I, I'm very dry; with that, says the overseer, we don't allow gentlemen to talk at their work in this country. Faith I soon found out for my two days' pay in one, I had to do two days's work in one, and pay two week's board in one, and at the end of the month I found myself no better off in pocket than in Nova Scotia; while the devil a bone in my body that did'nt ache with pain; and as for my nose, it took to bleeding, and bled day and night entirely.—Upon my soul, Mr. Slick, said he, the poor labourer does not last long in your country; with new rum, hard labour, and hot weather, you'll see the graves of the Irish each side of the canals, for all the world like two rows of potatoes in a field that have forgot to come up. It is a land, sir," continued the clock-maker, "of hard work. We have two kinds of slaves, the niggers and the white slaves. All European labourers who come out to us, do our hard bodily work, while we direct it to a profitable end; neither rich nor poor, high nor low, with us, eat the bread of idleness. Our whole capital is in active operation, and our whole population is in active employment. An idle fellow, like Pugnose, who runs away to us, is clapt into harness before he knows where he is, and is made to work; like a horse that refuses to draw, he is put into the Team-boat; he finds others before him, and others behind him, he must either draw or be dragged to death.

The Axe.—The power of the American axe, (says Latrobe in his book on the U. States,) and the skill with which it is wielded, may well excite the admiration of an European. The weapon itself is no more to be compared with the vile chopper commonly seen in the hands of one of our woodmen, than a gimblet can be compared to a centre-bit. It is formed upon a different principle—the handle is set far forward, and it acts upon the tree, more from the wedge-like form, its own weight, and the skilful swing which gives it impetus, than from any great exertion of strength on the part of the woodman. In fact, sleight more than strength is employed in its use. The rapidity with which the huge trees of the forest fall before a single pair of well-swung axes, is really marvellous; and the axe may rank with maize and steam as one of the three things which have conquered the Western World.

Two Old Cocks.—Lord Stowell, the father of the House of Peers, completed his 91st year, on Thursday, the 29th ult.—his brother, the Earl of Eldon, travelled a long journey to dine with him, he being himself 86. What a vista to look back upon has been the life of each of these sons of a Newcastle coal-shed-keeper! Each tutor of his college at Oxford—each the first lawyer in the world in his respective walk—each, by merit, and long service, a Peer of the realm—and each living under William IV. to meet and talk together of what they saw and did under George the Second; 'Blessings on their frosty prows' say we.—Atlas.

Man-worship.—A gentleman attached to the Navy, says a letter from Washington, who was in the gallery of the Senate, kept his seat during prayers to the Lord of the Universe, on the morning the Special Message was received, and immediately after, when a Message from the President was announced rose immediately, remarking, "I think it right that every man should rise at the receipt of a Message from Andrew Jackson!"

An aged Bride.—A woman recently died in Italy, aged 142 years. She had had 8 husbands, the last of whom survived her. The widower is in his 62d year. He married her when he was 20, and the blooming bride had just completed her century. It is said that he looked more to her fortune, and to the probability of her decease, than to her personal charms. She punished his mercenary spirit by living for 40 years afterwards.

A cold Concern.—Married in Cumberland, Md. Mr. Jacob Ise-nheart, to Miss Elizabeth Winter.

When some one was lamenting Foote's unlucky fate in being kicked in Dublin, Johnson said he was glad of it. "He is rising in the world," said he; "when he was in England no one thought it worth while to kick him.

FOR

Beautifying the Skin and Complexion.

ROWLAND'S KALYDOR, as a preparation for the Skin is in preference to all others, selected by the Ladies as an indispensable toilet requisite, sustainer of a fine complexion, and conservator of female beauty in all climates, and during all stages, in the progression of life from youth to age.

Rowland's Kalydor is an highly estimated and great favourite with female Rank, honoured with the august patronage of the Royal Family of Great Britain; Her Majesty the Queen of the French; the Prince and Princess Esterhazy; and the most distinguished Nobility, &c. and is zealously recommended by the most eminent of the Faculty.

The ingredients of Rowland's solely genuine Kalydor are extracted from the most beautiful exotics, and are of the mildest nature—warranted perfectly innocent—yet powerfully efficacious, as a thorough cleanser of the skin; it eradicates freckles, pimples, spots, redness, and all cutaneous eruptions, from whatever cause originating; and transforms into radiant brilliancy the most sallow complexion.

The Kalydor gradually produces a soft and clear skin, smooth as velvet, actually realizing a delicate white neck, hand, and arm; and giving a healthy and juvenile bloom to the complexion.

To mothers nursing their offspring it proves a healing balm in cases of inflammation and soreness of the breast, and is warranted perfectly innoxious to the most delicate lady or infant, to whom it affords soothing relief.

Gentlemen, after shaving, will find it allay the irritating and smarting pain, and render the skin peculiarly smooth and pleasant after travelling.

Rowland's Odonto,

Or PEARL DENTIFRICE.

The high and important character this Powder has obtained for a considerable time from some of the most eminent of the Faculty, also from Distinguished Personages, has induced Messrs. Rowland to recommend it to the notice of the nobility, gentry, and public, as the mildest, yet most salutary and efficacious Dentifrice ever emanated from scientific research either in past or present times.

This justly celebrated Dentifrice is a combination of oriental herbal medicament, forming an efficient vegetable white Powder, anti-scorbutic, and of potent efficacy, though mild in operation, as a thorough exterminator of existing diseases which the Teeth and Gums are liable, rendering the former perfectly sound, arraying in pure whiteness and fixing firmly in their sockets,—producing a beautiful set of pearly Teeth, and endowing the breath with fragrancy at once delightful and salubrious.—The efficacious virtues of which it is composed constitute it the best Dentifrice ever offered to public notice.

ROWLAND'S ALSANA EXTRACT,

For immediately relieving the most violent Tooth-Ache, Gum Boils, Swelled Face, &c.; it is also an excellent Stomachic in cases of flatulency, spasmodic affections, &c. and gives instantaneous relief.

ROWLAND'S CERELÆUM,

FOR THE HEAD-ACHE,

An infallible, instantaneous and permanent reliever of the most inveterate Vertigo, by external application.

ROWLAND'S

MACASSAR OIL.

THE ORIGINAL,

Composed of Vegetable Ingredients (appertaining to the Island which name it bears,)—has always been much admired; and with rank, fashion, and discernment, supersedes all preparations of professed similar import.

This Oil is pre-eminently successful in nourishing, strengthening, and preserving the hair in all climates and seasons; accelerates its growth, sustains it in maturity, and continues its possession of vigour, silky softness, and luxuriant redundancy, to the latest period of human life.

More surprisingly are the re-productive faculties of this Oil illustrated in cases of Baldness, from whatsoever cause arising (proved by testimonials received from all parts of the Globe,)—this regenerative fluid clings to the latent stem, and elicits, unerringly, the active progression of vitality; so that, in many instances, where other have failed, Rowland's Macassar Oil has superseded the ornaments of art, re-instating in full plenitude of beauties, the permanent graces and utilities of nature; finally, its protective vigilance excludes, as well transformation, as decay; for the Hair by its use, becomes invulnerable to change, and will retain in its original purity and glossy hue through all stages of life.

Subduing all relaxing tendencies, it firmly keeps the hair in curl and other decorative formation during many hours, unimpaired by damp weather, crowded assemblies, the dance, or even equestrian exercise. In fact it is the friend of both sexes—for while it facilitates the progress of female beauty, it enhances, by producing Whiskers, Mustachios, &c. the graces of manhood.

Thoroughly eradicating all obstruction to which the heads of children are particularly liable, this celebrated Oil generates with infancy ample growth of beautiful hair, and will sustain it in perfection through all stages of existence.

If any thing more be required as an indubitable proof of the value and celebrity of this oil, it is the fact, that no production in the world has so many spurious and base imitations, which a set of unprincipled venders foist on the public (under the lure of cheapness,) to the great injury of those who are deceived by the cheat.

To prevent imposition, particular attention on purchasing is respectfully solicited, as the proprietors cannot be responsible for the serious injury resulting from the use of base imitations, of injurious quality, now offered to the public as Rowland's.

The above article is sold, by the Proprietors, A. Rowland & Son, 20, Hatton Garden; and by their appointment by Mr. W. Livingstone, Apothecary's Hall, Saint John, (New-Brunswick), who has just received a supply.

HEALTH SECURED BY MORISON'S

Vegetable Universal Medicines.

Prepared at the British College of Health, New Road, King's Cross, London; and sold by WILLIAM ANDERSON, Sole General Agent for New Brunswick, Nova Scotia, and Newfoundland, in boxes at 1s 6d, 4s, 6s 9d, and 16s; Powders, at 2s per box, at his store in Water street, St. John, N. B.: and in Nova Scotia, in boxes at 1s 8d, 4s 4d, 7s, and 17s.—Powders 2s.

THREE years having elapsed since the introduction of these Medicines into this country, during which time they have proved that they are the most valuable remedy ever introduced to the public, and from the daily proofs of their efficacy in the removal of all diseases incident to the human frame, WILLIAM ANDERSON, Sole General Agent, is again induced to introduce them to the notice of the public as a sure means of securing Health and removing all diseases, whether of long standing or of recent date. Such an assertion would appear inconsistent, if the Hygeist, Mr. Morison, did not consider that all diseases originate from one cause, viz.:—the impurity of the blood; and if you remove the cause, the effect must cease.—This important object is to be attained only from the use of these invaluable Medicines, which, being composed entirely of vegetable matter, will be found the mildest, or by increasing the dose, the most efficacious Medicines ever discovered. It is to be hoped that the time is not far distant when the use of these Medicines will supersede the noxious drugs and compositions so often prescribed, to the detriment of Health, such as Opium, Prussic Acid, Mercury, Antimony, Corrosive Sublimate, and even Arsenic, Fox Glove, Hemlock, Colchicum, and numerous others, all of which tend to the detriment of Health, and cause painful and incurable disorders.

As W. A. has in several instances detected a spurious composition sold under the name of Morison's Medicine, he begs as a caution to the Public to inform them that none are genuine but what have the Government Stamp affixed, with Morison's Universal Medicines printed on each: he also cautions them from buying from pedlars and others, as none such are allowed to sell them. They can only be obtained genuine, at his Store in Water street, Saint John, or of the following agents duly appointed by him:—
