NEW DICTIONARY

Of the English Language.

THE Subscriber is Agent for a New Dictionary of the English Language, by Charles Richardson.—This Dictionary is composed upon the plan that Johnson proposed to compile his by—but which plan he did not act upon. Johnson's plan is presumed by the author of the present Dictionary to be the right one, and he has attempted to carry it into effect. The prospectus is too long for an advertisement, and further remarks would be out of place.

The Work is published monthly, in parts, price 50 cents, and will be complete in 30 parts. The sixth number is now out. Specimens may be seen at the Store of the Subscriber, in Eastport.

Subscriptions respectfully solicited.
