MASONRY.

How sacred is the mystic craft
That e'en in foreign lands,
With ties of true fraternal love,
Can join opposing hands!

The blood-red arm of ruthless war,
As struck by spell divine,
Falls nerveless as a child's before
The Mason's secret sign.

He finds 'mid foreign crowds a friend,
A home 'neath every sky,
His countless brethren ne'er disdain
Their kindred, nor deny.

For that vast family are taught
To form one mystic band,
And bear the unbroken chain of love
To earth's remotest land.

No narrow bounds of creed or clime,
Of language or of hue,
Contract the Mason's sympathies,
When suffering brethren sue.

To all alike, in weal or woe,
A brother's smile is shown,
Whose hearts the same great father love,
The same great master own.

Who breathe to one great architect,
The same submissive prayer;
Who live within the compasses,
And act upon the square.

VARIETY.

From the New-York Albion, October 24.

The approaching famine in Ireland still appears in all its appalling aspects, but the Government is unwearied in making preparations to avert the impending calamity. Immense sums of money are collecting in the different districts, to be employed agreeably to the Act of Parliament, passed at the close of the late Session. The following list is given of the sums "presented" in various baronies; that is, granted by the local authorities, to be expended in employing the people:—

At the various presentment sessions, money has been voted without stint—nearly £200 000 has been presented at the first six sessions in the county of Cork. In Clare, the total presentments exceed £300,000. At one baronnial sessions in the county of Donegal £40,000 was presented without a question; and at Castlebar as much as £80,000 has been voted for local works. A sum of £80,000 has been presented for the barony of Murrisk in Mayo. Trughenackny has agreed to an assessment of £65.000; Clanmorris, £25,974; and Iraghticonnor, £20 491. At Cahirciveen, the magistrates of the district are stated to have increased the amount previously granted to £20.000.

Mr. O'Connell was still at Derrynane writing letters, as usual, to Mr. Ray. A report prevails that the Lord Lieutenant, the Earl of Besborough, as well as the Secretary, Mr. Labouchere, had tendered their resignations in consequence of Lord John Russell declining to assemble parliament to repair the defects of the Labour Act, and to take further measures for the relief of the country. The report is contradicted in some quarters, but the London Spectator seems to insist that it rests on some valid foundation—at all events that there is a screw loose somewhere between the Premier and his, so far, popular viceroy. The rent, notwithstanding all the misery of the people, continues to come in at the rate of £100 a week; but it is now said that this money will be applied to the purchase of food for starving multitudes. We shall be glad, indeed, to hear that any portion of this disgusting levy is at last applied to a useful purpose.

The mills in the Royal William Victualling Yard, at Plymouth, are immediately to commence grinding, night and day, Indian corn, for the supply of the distressed Irish. It is expected they will perform about 80 qrs., or about 38,403 lbs. of meal per day.

It is rumoured that the Parliament will meet for the despatch of business on the 4th of November the day to which it now stands prorogued.

IMPORTS OF AMERICAN FLOUR AND INDIAN CORN.—There were imported into Liverpool this year from America, 377,659 barrels of flour, and from Canada, 246 276, in all 1,123,935 barrels.—The increase of Indian Corn is remarkable. In 1845, the import was 37 000 quarters—in 1846, 192,000 quarters. The stock at present in Liverpool, is 340 000 barrels of flour, free and in bond and about 200 000 quarters of wheat, free and in bond. The other grain may be estimated at 100,000 quarters. Thus we see what a trade the corn trade in Liverpool is likely to be.

Mr. Wyatt's Colossal Statue of the Duke of Wellington being completed, has been removed to its destined position, and placed on the triumphal arch, the whole process of removal was conducted with great pomp and ceremony, some account of which we have given. A fund has existed for sometime past among the artists, and a part of the subscribers, in relation to this stupendous work, and hence Punch and some other journals are filled with ridicule concerning the whole affair; but, notwithstanding all this, the monument is truly one of national greatness, and will perpetuate the remembrance of the brightest epoch in England's military fame.

A great degree of scarcity prevails in France, and much grain has been bought up in England for shipment to the French side of the channel.—Bread in Paris, sells at the rate of nine pence sterling the quartern loaf, about four pounds and a half,) which is dearer than in Dublin. Riots have in consequence taken place in the French Capital. Large quantities of wheat, however, were coming in from the Black Sea.

The whale fishing at Davis' Straits has not been successful this season. It is stated, that so much ice was never before seen as at this present fishing. The floes of ice were exceedingly large and heavy.

At a recent meeting in Liverpool, Dr. Daly, Bishop of Cashel, stated that nine out of the twelve prelates, and 1700 out of the 2000 of the clergy of Ireland, had entered their protests against the national scheme of education.

Sir Thos. Cochrane, the Naval Commander in the Indian Seas, has paid a visit to the Sultan of Borneo, and given a wholesome chastisement to some of his piratical subjects. The Sultan, it seems, has grown jealous of Mr. Brooke who is settled at, and is Rajah of Sarawak. His Highness the Sultan dreads the impending civilization of Mr. Brooke, and consequent abolition of piracy, and has therefore done Mr. Brooke the favour of murdering all his friends among the natives. We trust, however, that the lesson just taught this monster by the expedition, will bring him to a proper sense of repentance.

Adrianople was ravaged by fire in the night o the 24th. The conflagration broke out in the populous quarter of the Israelites, and lasted twelve hours, reducing to ashes about six hundred houses, a considerable number of shops, thirty taverns, several mills, and five synagogues.

THE LOSS OF THE GREAT BRITAIN.—The excuse given by Capt. Hoskens for running the steamer Great Britain ashore, appears to be a very lame one. Depending upon one chart in navigating a difficult and dangerous passage in a dark night, and running at a rate exceeding eleven miles an hour, is, to say the least, a very hazardous experiment, and one that no able and watchful seaman would be likely to attempt under ordinary circumstances. Captain Hoskens is said to be a skilful navigator, and an experienced seaman, and, doubtless, he has had ample opportunities of acquiring a thorough knowledge of his profession, but we are certain he does not "sleep with one eye open," as every sailor should, who has such immense responsibility attached to his individual capability and exertions. The chart-maker certainly deserves severe censure, but we think Captain Hoskens alone to blame for the loss of the Great Britain. Had he reduced the speed of the steamer from eleven to four miles an hour, when he was in doubt of his position, the noise of the breakers might have been heard, and the accident perhaps, avoided, or at least, this noble vessel would not have been propelled so deep into the sand—and therefore, her total loss prevented, for she could be got off with comparative ease.—Philadelphia Ledger.

THE LATE GALE.—This fearful tempest which has swept with such fatal fury across the Atlantic, tends to elucidate and confirm Colonel Reid's theory of storms. It visited Point Petra, West Indies, on the 8th September, in the shape of a hurricane: its effects were felt at Barbadoes on the 12th—at Cape Hatteras on the 13th—at Newfoundland on the 19th—and farther Eastward on the 22d.—In its career, according to the various accounts received, it must have blown from opposite points of the compass at the same moment.

Agreeably to the theory alluded to, these storms are rotary, commencing in tropical latitudes—the circle at first being small, but gradually enlarging as they move onward in an easterly direction. Ships in the centre of the tempestuous circumference are generally becalmed, while those on every side, though only a few miles distant, are feeling the full force of the storm, and perhaps from different or opposite points of the compass. In their progress easterly, as these tempests expand in circumference, they generally decrease in violence.

This theory has been founded upon facts, gathered from log-books and other maritime records, to which Colonel Reid has had access. The pathway of several storms have been distinctly traced across the Atlantic; and testimony confirmatory of this theory is every year accumulating. Similar tempests have also been tracked across the Indian Ocean.

The only practical utility which this theory exhibits is this—it enables the mariner, who is acquainted with the facts upon which it is based, to form a tolerably accurate idea of his own position relative to an approaching storm, and endeavour as much as possible to steer on such a course as will avoid its severity. The barometer and sympiesometer are nautical instruments that indicate the state of the atmosphere, and give timely admonition of an impending gale.—Yarmouth Herald.

WASHINGTON, October 21.—The original plan of operations in Mexico, has been lately modified. The plan first adopted would have divided and weakened our forces. That plan was probably agreed upon at a time when it was supposed that the Mexicans would make no show of opposition to the invasion. It has since been urged upon the Executive to concentrate all the forces upon one object, and it is asserted to-day that these necessary changes have been made in the original plan.

It now appears that General Wool is to join General Taylor at Saltillo, moving by way of Cohahuila, and leaving a garrison there; and that General Kearney is to march to the same spot by way of Chihuahua—a fearfully long march.

General Patterson, with a large force, is to be transported to Tampico, and means of transportation have already been prepared. His force will, if found necessary, be ordered to unite with Taylor's at San Luis Potosi; and if not, may be employed in a contemplated attack on Vera Cruz.

If this is the plan, it is a sensible one; and it will prevent the danger, but too apparent, of the utter sacrifice of Taylor's command. After allowing for all the troops left at Tampico, Saltillo, Monterey, Chihuahua, Santa Fe, &c. General Taylor will thus be enabled to meet Santa Anna at San Luis, with a force of 17 000 men.

It may be doubted whether General Kearney's column will join that of General Taylor, as General Wool will not go to Chihuahua, as at first designed. General Kearney will probably take that place, garrison it, and with his remaining force march to California.

THE CONTEMPLATED ATTACK UPON TAMPICO—Washington, October 23d—A contract has been made by the Government with Captain Taylor to take the Princeton, the Mississippi, and other vessels over the bar at Tampico. Captain Taylor is to use for this purpose, marine camels made of India rubber. The depth of water on the bar averages ten feet.

Tampico appears to be strongly defended by nature, and it is probable that of late, as reported, some effectual means of defence have been taken by the Mexicans. Thus the expedition of Captain Perry may not be entirely destitute of interest. He may have an opportunity to increase the glory of his name, and the navy, so long inactive, may reap some laurels as well as the army.

THE ATTACK ON VERA CRUZ.—We have copied a paragraph stating that Lieutenant Berryman had stated an attack was to be made at once on Vera Cruz. The Union suggests that the Lieutenant was "misunderstood in the conversation alluded to;" but it does not contradict the report of the intended attack; nor will it "undertake to develope the plan of the campaign." These, it oracularly tells us, "develope themselves;" which we interpret to mean that the attack on Vera Cruz is determined upon. The orders which are known to have been issued for getting several vessels ready for sea, look like such a thing.—[Balt. Patriot.

FROM SANTA FE.—The Pittsburg American has a letter from Santa Fe dated September 12, enclosing another proclamation by Gen. Kearney, summoning the citizens of New Mexico to hold an election the 25th of October, to elect a Delegate to the Congress of the United States, and members of a Territorial Legislature, the latter to assemble at Santa Fe on the second Monday of December next. The Senate to consist of thirteen, and the House of thirty-two members. Two candidates for Delegate to Congress are announced, Don Manuel Linosa, Secretary of the Territory, and Mr. Magoffin, a merchant of Santa Fe, connected with the House of P. Harmony & Nephews, of New-York. It was supposed two or three other candidates would take the field.

The proclamation calls on the Alcaldes and all other magistrates to superintend the polls and count the ballots, make returns and preserve order, and commands all officers, soldiers, and followers of the army, to abstain from all interference in said elections, "and to be vigilant in securing the peaceable and undisturbed enjoyment of the good citizens of the Territory in the exercise of their in valuable privileges authorised by this proclamation."

STEAMER BURNT.—The U. S. government steamer Gen. Taylor took fire at Pensacola on the night of the 10th instant, and burnt to the water's edge; supposed to have been set on fire by design. Loss about $15,000, and no insurance. The government seems to have bad luck with its steamers.
