POETRY.

OCEAN'S WEALTH.

BY THE REV. J. H. CLINCH.

On the sandy floor of Ocean
And its beds of ancient stone;
Which neither sound nor motion,
Since creation's hour, have known;
What heaps of countless treasure,
And what hosts of bodies sleep—
What gifts to fame or pleasure,
Lie a thousand fathoms deep!

There, side by side, for ages,
Lie Mammon and his slaves;—
Lo! they keep the golden wages
Which they toiled for—in the waves!
There, on one quiet pillow,
The bones of foemen rest,
Who sent, above the billow,
Death to each other's breast.

There gems and jewels gleaming
In heaps of priceless height,
E'en in the darkness, seeming
To flash with innate light;
Yet she who rests beside them,
The youthful and the fair,
Seeks not to twine and braid them
Within her streaming hair.

More rich thy caves, time-hallowed,
Than the land, old Ocean wide;
More life thy depths have swallowed
Than breathes above the tide;
And in thy dark depressions
Death more enjoys his store,
Than those, 'mid earth's possessions,
Who have, and yet are poor.

THE SEASONS.

(Written for a late Agricultural celebration at Salem, Massachusetts.)

By Thee, oh God, the opening Spring,
Upholds its promise, year by year,
Till woods with notes of gladness ring,
And fields in notes of joy appear.

And sun and rain renew the ground,
While fertile mead and flowery lea,
By Summer's boundless prospects crown'd,
With countless voices speak of thee.

But most, when Autumn's golden hour
Rewards the tiller's patient toil,
The glowing year, that felt thy power,
With grateful homage owns thy smile.

So by thy hand, forever blest,
The fruitful year with joy is crown'd,
'Till out of Winter's frozen breast,
Perpetual hymns of praise resound.

And well the children of thy care
May join the thankful song to raise,
With honours to thy courts repair,
And seek thy love and sound thy praise.

VARIETY.

AGGRESSIVE PROGRESS OF RUSSIA.—Within a period of 64 years, the total acquisitions of Russia equalled her whole European empire before that time. The acquisitions from Sweden equalled the now kingdom of Sweden; from Poland, a territory equal to the Austrian empire; from European Turkey, a country equal to Prussia, exclusively of the Rhenish provinces; from Asiatic Turkey, a territory equal to the German small states, Rhenish Prusssia, Holland and Belgium; from Persia, an extent of country equal to England; and from Tartary, a country equal to European Turkey, Greece, Italy, and the whole of Spain. The Russian frontier has been advanced by these acquisitions about 700 miles towards Berlin, Dresden, Munich, Vienna, and Paris; 530 miles to Constantinople, 630 miles to Stockholm, and about 1000 miles to Teheran. The estimated population of Russia in 1689, at the accession of Peter I. was 15,000,000; at the accession of Catherine II in 1762, it was 25,000,000; and at her death in 1796, it was 36,000,000; whilst at the death of Alexander, in 1825, it was 58,000,000.

BURSTING OF STOVES.—The Philadelphia Gazette relates an instance of a stove bursting from covering up the fire. It was a large common stove in the laboratory of a chemist, and had been partly filled with wet or damp anthracite coal placed on ignited coal, and the whole covered with ashes. In an hour or two afterwards a tremendous explosion occurred, and on entering the laboratory the stove was found blown into pieces, and the pipe split assunder to the ceiling. The phenomenon is attributed to the accumulation of gas in the stove before the fire burst into flames, and when the flame touched it the explosion followed. The case is mentioned as a warning to housekeepers.

AN UNEXPECTED PROPOSAL.—A young lady came over from a great distance, 'to be cured,' and when asked the nature of her complaint, she replied, "As to that matter, I believe there is not a single complaint under the sun which I have not." Here was a fine catalogue of disorders! I asked her if she was married or single? "Single," was the answer. I then told her that so many complaints as she seemed to have could only be cured by a husband! At which observation she was exceedingly exasperated, but her anger terminated in a proposal to marry me. I never was more surprised in my life and looked quite stupid.—Hardy's Travels in Mexico.

THINGS LOST FOREVER.—Lost wealth may be restored by industry—the wreck of health regained by temperance—forgotten knowledge restored by study—alienated friendship smoothed into forgetfulness—even forfeited reputation won back by penitence and virtue. But who ever again looked upon his vanquished honour—recalled his slighted years, and stamped them with wisdom—or effaced from heaven's record the fearful blot of wasted life?—Mrs. Sigourney.

QUARRELS.—One of the most easy, the most common, most perfectly foolish things in the world is to quarrel, no matter with whom, man, woman or child; or upon what pretence, provocation, or occasion whatsoever. There is no kind of necessity in it, no manner of use in it, and no species or degree of benefit to be gained by it; and yet, strange as the fact may be, theologians quarrel, and politicians, lawyers, doctors, and princes quarrel, the Church quarrels, and the State quarrels; nations and tribes, and corporations, men, women and children, dogs and cats, birds and beasts, quarrel about all manner of things and on all manner of occasions. If there is anything in the world that will make a man feel bad, except pinching his fingers in the crack of the door, it is unquestionably a quarrel.—No man ever fails to think less of himself after than he did before one; it degrades him in his own eyes and in the eyes of others; and, what is worse, blunts his sensibility to disgrace on the one hand, and increases the power of irritability on the other. The truth is, the more quietly and peaceably we all get on, the better; the better for ourselves, the better for our neighbours. In nine cases out of ten, the wisest course is, if a man cheats you, to quit dealing with him; if he is abusive, quit his company; if he slanders you, take care to live so that nobody will believe him. No matter who he is or how he misuses you, the wisest way is generally to let him alone; for there is nothing better than this cool, calm, quiet way of dealing with the wrongs we meet with.

ORPHANS.—There are few situations more solitary, more painful, more moving, than that of an orphan. I remember a schoolfellow who had many friends who were kind to him and fond of him; but he said to me one day, in speaking of his holiday sports, "I, you know, have no father nor mother." And there was a look of thoughtful melancholy in his face, and a tone of desolation in his voice, which struck me strangely, even young as I then was.

"Speculators," said Napoleon, "trace their schemes on paper; fools read and believe them.—All are babbling about general happiness, and presently the people have not bread to eat; then comes a revolution. Such is usually the fruit of all their fine theories."

WAGER.—Some time ago a heavy wager was laid, that a person standing on London bridge would not be able to sell ten sovereigns at one penny each, within an hour, to respectable passers-by. The experiment was tried, and failed on the part of the seller, who disposed of only one sovereign; the people who passed evidently imagining that the so called real sovereign was nothing more than a piece of worthless brass. A recent wager of a more curious kind has been made, as follows:—A gentleman wagered with another one hundred pounds, that he would stand on London bridge and sell two hundred boxes of 'Holloway's Ointment,' and "External Disease Pill," while the other sold twenty real sovereigns at a half-penny each. Both the ointment and the pill are so celebrated, that they were purchased within a very short time—but not a single sovereign was sold!!

TALKATIVENESS.—It is a common remark, that those men talk most who think least, just as frogs cease their croaking when a person brings a light to the water side.

FAULTLESSNESS.—It is well that there is no one without a fault, for he would not have a friend in the world; he would seem to belong to a different species.—Hazlitt.

DRESS.—The most graceful principle of dress is neatness—the most vulgar is preciseness.

ANCIENT ALMANACK.—From an almanack and memorandum-book, published in London in 1680, we extract the "notes of physic," as they appear for some of the months—which, if not in every case useful, will at least be amusing:

January.—In this month let not blood, nor use physic, unless necessity constrain thee, beware of taking cold, for rheumes and flegm do much increase this month. It's hurtful to fast long; to drink white wine fasting is good. Use meats that are moderately hot, the best physick is warm diet, warm cloaths, and a merry honest wife.

February.—If necessity urge, you may let blood, but be sparing in physic, and be sure when a warm day comes to prevent taking cold through carelessness, for the warm air this month is not lasting, but often deceives us to our prejudice. In this month slimy fish, milk, and the like that do oppilate and stop the liver and the veins, and thicken the blood, are to be eschewed as enemies to health.

March.—Now advise with the honest and able astrological physician; it is good to purge and let blood, for in this month the humours and blood increase, and gross feeding breedeth gross blood and humours; therefore use means of good digestion, and such as afford good juice and nutriment to the body; forbear all things salt; purge the blood by potions, by blood-letting; sweet drinks and meats are commendable. Be sure to eat in the morning before you drink.

April.—The use of physic becomes now seasonable, as also purging and blood-letting. It is good to abstain from wine, for many diseases will be taken thereby, to the ruin of many. This month the pores of the skin are open, and apt to receive physic, therefore this is the best time to remove and prevent causes of sickness, or for speedy remedy in extremities. Pray to God for a blessing.

May.—Now every garden and hedge afford thee food and physic. Rise early, walk the fields by running streams, the north and west sides. Sage and sweet butter an excellent breakfast. Scurvy grass ale, and wormwood beer are wholesome drinks. Green whey excellent against cholor.—Eat and drink by times in the morning. Abstain from meats that are hot in nature and salt in quality.

September.—Now, as the year declines, provide your winter garments; hang them on loosely, to prevent that you might after repent of. Good for physic and phlebotomy.

October.—The garments you last month hung on your backs in jest, now button them close in good earnest. Clothe you now for prevention, for the cold comes insensibly, and fogs sometimes begets a whole winter's cold. Consult with your tailors as well as physicians.

November.—The best physic this month is good exercise, warmth, and wholesome meat and drink; but if any distemper afflict the body, finish your physic this month, and so rest till March, unless necessity urge. Use good meat and wholesome drinks to nourish the blood. Be sure to go dry of your feet, for if not, (unless it be those always used to it,) be certain to be troubled with rheums, and cold, and other inconveniences attending.

December.—The best physic is as before—a merry honest heart, and the exercise of charity among thy poor honest neighbours. The next year I will commend those that keep good houses this year.

If thou be poor, and cans't not feast at all,
Thank God for such as thee to feasting call.

Oh! thou that fillest Heaven and Earth with thy presence, we adore thee as the awful being whose gloreis are in every part of the creation.

NEW-BRUNSWICK MANUAL
AND
Merchants' Companion.

A BOOK bearing the above title, will be put to Press so soon as a sufficient number of subscribers is obtained to warrant the expense of the undertaking, compiled by P. STUBS, Esquire, Barrister at Law and Notary Public. It will contain,

1st—Forms in criminal proceedings used by Justices of the Peace, with reference to the Laws in each case.

2d—Forms of application for grants of Crown Lands and for Timber Licenses, with practical directions for proceeding in each instance, together with the regulations made at different times by the Lieutenant Governor and Council, relating to these matters. In this division of the work much useful information will be inserted for the benefit of Emigrants.

3d—Forms of warrantee and quit-claim Deeds and Mortgages of Lands, Bills of Sale and Mortgages of Ships and other Personal Property, Powers of Attorney, Money and Arbitration Bonds, Bonds for Deeds of Land, Leases, Wills, Sheriffs' Deeds, &c &c. with a summary of the Law, as applicable to the construction of each.

4th—Necessary Forms and directions for transacting business at the Custom-House and Treasury, Consular Certificates, &c.

5th—Copy of the Charter of the City of Saint John, with abstracts of the different Acts of Assembly, altering or amending the same, with a brief sketch of the early history of the City.

6th—Forms and practical directions for proceeding under the Absconding Debtor Acts.

7th—Several brief Forms of Building, Lumber, and other Personal Contracts, which are in almost daily use by the Merchant, Mechanic, Lumberman, &c.

Subscription Lists will be forwarded to different parts of the Province, and left at the Book Stores of this City, at an early period—price per copy, bound in cloth, 10s. As great pains will be taken to render the work not only accurate, but very generally useful, and as in the present advanced state of the Province, it is much required;—suggestions, therefore, respecting the compilation are invited, and they will merit respectful attention if made to the author at an early period, at his office, No. 2, Bragg's Building, King-street.

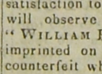
BUFFALO OIL FOR THE HAIR.



GENUINE BUFFALO OIL is fast taking the place of all other articles to promote the growth, soften and beautify the Hair; its use gives it a softness that no other article does, and causes it to curl beautifully—by free use it will darken and give the hair a satin gloss; it is highly perfumed and gives perfect satisfaction to all that have given it a trial. You will observe the signature of the proprietor, "WILLIAM BROWN," also "BUFFALO OIL," imprinted on the Bottle. In consequence of a counterfeit which has recently appeared and is now for sale, he has been persuaded to obtain a new label engraved on copper, for which he has secured a copy right, entered according to an Act of Congress in 1839, in the Clerk's Office of the District Court of Massachusetts. Any infringement will be dealt with according to Law.
