DISSOLUTION OF PARTNERSHIP.
I wish to let my friends and customers see, What destruction has happened to Sir William's office. At the burning of Dock-street, I am sorry to say, From my good natured partner I had to run away. A warrior he was, and he never would know From powder and balls he never would know. When the flames they were raging I did say, Sir William all persons involved, a clergyman he was and a Scotchman no bray, He died in the fire my fortune was good. His courage was bold—his honor was good—He fell by the fire and was burned up like wood; It is for his remains I am searching in vain, So faithful a partner I'll never meet again; It is five years and better since we went in Co. The Blue Noses and Yankies to us were no foes, A figure head he was—and that you may see—He was put up at Auction, and I apply to you.
