POETRY.

THE STRANGER'S GRAVE.

Far, far from the scenes of his boyhood and home,
The stranger was buried unwept, and alone;
No friend was there near to soothe his last breath,
No pitying eye was there dimmed at his death.

No tablet was raised to point out the spot
Where the lone stranger slept, unhonoured—forgot;
No friend there came to weep at his bier,
But a nightingale sung a sweet requiem near.

He went down to death; and they buried him there—
None wept that he went—none uttered a prayer;
But the owl kept her vigils from the oaken tree by,
And the night wind, passing, breathed forth a sigh.

I thought of the home of his childhood and youth,
Of the mother's farewell, as he left the old roof;
The stalwart sire's blessing, the brother's "good bye,"
As the stranger went forth, 'mid strangers to die.

I wept for the maiden who plighted her love,
And the vows only witnessed by angels above;
For the trembling adieu, 'neath the trysting tree there, [choir.
As they parted, for aye, 'till they join in Heaven's

I paused, as I passed, and gazed on the mound,
And thought of the world that was bustling around;
I longed for the grave—a like humble sod,
Unsung but by Nature—unrecked but by God.

VARIETY.

INCREASE OF REVENUE BY REDUCING TAXES.—Sir Robert Peel, in his speech to the electors of Tamworth last July, stated that since the year 1841, taxes had been repealed to the amount of eight millions pounds sterling and that notwithstanding this, the revenue of 1846, not counting the new tax on income, was larger by a million of pounds than that of 1841. This is a most astonishing statement, and yet we are compelled to believe it. The Government of Great Britain have gone on from year to year reducing taxes, and on a vast number of articles abolishing them altogether; yet all the while the revenue has been growing upon their hands. But the income revenue is a small matter compared with the increased comfort and prosperity of the people. Strange that any statesman, after this, should hesitate to adopt this liberal system. Strange that England has been able not only to endure and survive her centuries of bad government, but to grow rich in spite of it.

THE MISSION OF MECHANICS' INSTITUTIONS.—When we look on a mechanics' institution, however humble, we ought to see something more than the mere obvious consequences of such institutions. Properly conducted, they will gradually but surely illuminate with the rays of knowledge, the dreary waste of man around us; and, being extended everywhere, will be like so many beacons, each with its little circle of light and intelligence around it, and daily widening until the delighted imagination leaps at last to the time when the whole of our own country at least will be flooded with the abundance of knowledge and happiness, which the timely wisdom of men, aided by the Great Being, who may, without disrespect, be said to smile with pleasure on such efforts, shall have effected. The thought of the happiness which the diffusion of knowledge is fitted to produce, and the dangers which it will hold so powerfully back from us, is one of the most interesting and sublime ideas whichthe heart of man can entertain, and in our eyes gives a portion of its own dignity to the most small and apparently insignificant mechanics' institute, as being closely connected with the great work of improving the condition of so many millions of our countrymen. Therefore let no vile slander from the withered lips of faction dare to pollute their most holy and virtuous path. Let not bloated bigotry stretch forth its weak but malignant hand to shadow their brightness. Let no disputes or jealousies of their own members bring unmerited disgrace on their righteous and useful cause; and, finally, let no pains be spared to bring within their pale those who are groping in ignorance without. In the work of making mechanics' institutes useful, no exertion is too great; and to it may be applied truly that remark which a noble lord once rather misapplied in the house of peers, at the French revolution:—that we ought to carry on war in the same spirit as we are taught to worship our Creator—that is with all our hearts, and with all our souls, and with all our might, and with all our strength." Truly in such a spirit ought we to war against ignorance.—Leigh Monthly Magazine.

REMEDY FOR BURNS.—Scalds and burns are easily cured, simply by dissolving a piece of alum of the size of a common walnut in a half a pint of warm water and saturating therewith a linen cloth which should be applied to the part injured until relief is obtained.

LOVE.—Tupper, in his new work republished in this country, furnishes the following, among other beautiful passages: 'Love is the weapon which Omnipotence reserved to conquer rebel man, when all the rest had failed. Reason he parries; fear he answers blow to blow; future interest he meets with present pleasure; but love, that sun, against whose melting beams winter cannot stand, that soft subduing slumber, which wrestles down the giant, there is not one human being in a million, whose clay heart is hardened against love.

St. John, 31st July, 1847.

ADAMS HOUSE,

No. 371, Washington Street,

BOSTON.

THE undersigned respectfully ask the attention of the British Travelling Public, to the above new and splendid Hotel.

The ADAMS HOUSE was erected during the past season to supply an obvious demand for increased and superior accommodations in this City. It is located on Washington Street, within five minutes' walk of the great Southern and Western Railroad Depots, and the business sections of the City. It is adjacent to the Park, and the Cupola commands a beautiful view of the Harbour and the adjoining Towns.

The House has been constructed after the most approved plans, with all the modern inventions that minister to the comfort and convenience of the Traveller, and the Constructor's long experience in Hotels has enabled him to introduce many improvements, which are, as yet, peculiar to this Establishment. It is built of Quincy Granite, and contains One Hundred and Fifty Rooms, conveniently arranged in suits and single apartments, well ventilated and supplied with an abundance of pure soft water.

The Furniture was made to order from the best patterns, with special regard as well to comfort and convenience, as luxury and splendour.

Our Table will be supplied with all the luxuries of the season, and we pledge ourselves that the first rarities of the season shall be found upon it.

We have devoted unusual attention to the selection of servants, and our guests may rely upon prompt and polite attendance.

Travellers from the British Provinces, and Passengers by Steamer, will find this House peculiarly adapted to their wants.

☞ Porters will be in readiness, on the arrival of the St. John Steamers, to take charge of Baggage, and provide Carriages for our guests.

The Proprietors trust by strict attention to the wants of guests to merit a share of patronage, assuring all who may favour them with a visit that nothing shall be wanting on their part, to render the ADAMS HOUSE second to none in the Union.

RYE FOR SALE.

[illegible] to be delivered in Quantities to suit purchasers, on application to Hanford & Sweet, Water-street, or in the City or at the MISPECK JOB HOUSE, JAMES ROBERTSON,

June 19. Nelson-street.

By Her MAJESTY'S Royal LETTERS PATENT.

DELL'S

Hydro-Pneumatic Apparatus,

TO ANSWER EVERY PURPOSE OF

Heating & Warming,

Manufactured of various sizes and constructions, as Hot Water Stoves, Carriage Warmers, Bed Warmers, Spare Bed Airers, &c. &c.

A GREATER COMFORT, or a more decided luxury can scarcely be conceived, than results from the use of these Bed Warmers. Unlike all other attempts to heat beds by hot water, which confine the heat to the feet only, and warm the bed very inefficiently, however applied, in consequence of their warming merely the clothes, the feet, or whatever immediately touches their surface, DELL'S PATENT BED WARMERS depend for their decided advantage over all other plans ever before introduced, on the fact that they warm the air as well as the clothes, a difference so decided and remarkable, that invalids and others have invariably expressed their astonishment to find themselves in a complete warm air bath from the feet to the very shoulders the temperature appearing to remain undiminished, and the water still found warm enough in the morning to serve for washing, which, to travellers and early risers, is another advantage in favour of this apparatus, and will render their use indispensable in Club Houses, Hotels, Boarding Houses, &c. Professional gentlemen, and all persons of sedentary habits, will find this apparatus exceedingly desirable; placed in their apartment it acts like the hot water stove, (heretofore noticed) keeping up in small rooms an agreeable and healthy warmth, as no vapour, smell, or other annoyance can possibly be experienced by using this contrivance for producing an agreeable summer heat.

Persons returned from hot climates, experiencing all the evils of cold, will find the equable temperature afforded by this invention particularly grateful; and all aged or other persons who are martyrs to cold, will find their application so simple and effectual, that they may place one or more on a couch, or in any easy chair, and thus receive the full benefit of the genial warmth communicated. And in cases of severe cold, one of these Bed Warmers, covered with a flannel, and applied to the soles of the feet for two or three successive nights, will be found to give infallible relief. It is a well known fact, that numerous persons who have purchased have never since passed a single cold night without one in bed.

One great advantage of these Bed Warmers is, they are so light and portable that they can, without the slightest inconvenience, be carried by persons travelling, who have only to order the boiling hot water to be put in, and the apparatus placed in the bed previous to their going thereto, to ensure a warm, and, that greatest of desiderata—a dry bed.

The invention is already extensively patronised by the Medical Profession, and is being introduced into Hospitals and other public Institutions for the use of invalids.

In all cold climates abroad, in the Colonies, and in the East Indies, where Cholera, Ague, and like complaints prevail, these Bed Warmers will be found indispensable, and indeed must come into very general use in every quarter of the world.

☞ RECEIVED per ship Lesmahagow, from London,—One case of the above, assorted sizes—For Sale by GEORGE BEATTIE.

MERCHANT'S EXCHANGE.

BOSTON.

THE Subscriber begs leave to inform the gentlemen of St. John, who are in the habit of visiting BOSTON, and who have heretofore patronized this Establishment—that he has re-opened it, after fitting it up, and improving it and putting it in most excellent order. Those gentlemen who may think proper to patronize the Establishment, will find every thing conducted equal to the best regulated Hotels in Boston, or New York. In proof of this he merely asks a trial.

Perhaps it would be as well to state, for the benefit of strangers, that the Merchant's Exchange is situate in the very centre of business. The Post Office is in the same building—and it is surrounded by all the Banks and Insurance Offices. The situation, indeed, is the most convenient, to the man of business, of any other in Boston.

In conclusion, the Subscriber expresses his earnest hope, that his friends in St. John, will give him a call whenever they visit Boston.
