...e holiday sights and amusements for young ...s, have in our time greatly improved. Our public exhibitions are worth a century of the shows of old; that is, if rational delight be superior to boisterous mirth and "misrule."

The church bells right merrily ring in Christmas, as heretofore. At length the morning breaks, and those "windpipes of hospitality," countless chimneys, smoke with the preparatory cheer; the pudding (upon which the grave Johnson meditated profoundly) requires long boiling, and the fires must be lighted early. The church bells proclaim the hour of service, though not until the distribution of gifts has taken place at the church; where may be seen the minister of our holy religion dispensing gifts and goods placed at his disposal, recorded in letters of gold upon the church walls; or from a fund raised for the season, and headed by his own benevolence; such being old Fuller's third hospitality—"for the poor; this is charity." How many thousands of pounds are thus annually distributed through the length and breadth of the land, at each returning Christmas, it were vain to attempt to tell; and long may the amount thus baffle calculation.

Abroad there is a healthy stir; faces are brighter than usual, and those of the very poor beam with gladness; the church, too, is dight with festivity; "the psalms, and hymns, and spiritual songs," tell of the day; the sermon discourses of its duties and its pleasures; the blessing succeeds, then the Holy Communion; and all depart to carry the precepts, the good seed, to homes and bosoms. Sunday evening last, about five o'clock, as ...iam Hassard, Esquire, a landed proprietor, and county Treasurer of Fermanagh, was on his way on an outside car, from Enniskillen to Garden-hill, he was fired at from the plantation adjoining his own avenue. The shot took effect on his leg and thigh, lacerating the entire limb most dreadfully. The fatal instrument used is conjectured to have been a blunderbuss, as the contents were unusually large, consisting of shot, old nails, and stones. Mr. Hassard died of his wounds on Sunday morning. Two men are in custody on suspicion. The deceased was an excellent landlord, and was much beloved by his tenants and neighbours. On these data the Dublin Freeman assumes that the peasantry were not the assassins, and surmises that this and similar deeds have been committed by spies, informers, and other ruffians, who wish to make profit out of a coercion bill!

The O'Connell Monument.—Collections in aid of this fund were made at all the Catholic churches and chapels in Dublin on Sunday last.—They amounted to £1290. It has been suggested that the most appropriate monument to the Liberator will be the establishment of an Irish National University in Dublin. Another proposition is the purchase of an estate, to be entailed on Mr. D. O'Connell, M.P. the youngest and favourite son of the deceased.

Abatement of the Railway Mania.—The period of the year having come round when it is required that notices should be given of all applications to Parliament for new railway bills, &c. it will be remarked, by the insignificant announcements in our columns this week, that the ruinous mania has received an effectual check. Not one new railway scheme is to be applied for, whilst last year the Mercury contained 50 Parliamentary notices from railway companies, and six of other projects; in 1845, we published 76 Parliamentary notices of new railway undertakings, and eight of other projects.—Leeds Mercury.

It is not true that Constable has given £10,000 for Dr. Chalmers' manuscripts. He divides the profits of the publication with the family.

We are sorry to see the name of James Sheridan Knowles, the dramatic author, in the list of Scottish bankrupts.

Dr. Musgrave, the new Archbishop of York, and Dr. Hampden, the new Bishop of Hereford, are both Liberals in politics, and friends of university reform.

Whale Fishery.—The Mary, Capt. Dring, the last of our whale ships, arrived on Saturday from Davis' Straits. She has been most unfortunate, having come home clean.—Aberdeen Journal.

The loss of life among the Catholic priests, during the last six or eight months, from fever, contracted in the discharge of their spiritual duties, has been fearfully great. No fewer than twenty, besides a bishop, the Right Rev. Dr. Riddle, have fallen victims to fever alone, all or most of them in the prime of life, and distinguished for their exemplary zeal and charity. Ten have died at Liverpool, five at Leeds, and on Wednesday last Bolton added one to the number, in the person of the Rev. L. Toole, formerly of Weld Bank, near Chorley.—Preston Chronicle.

The Cholera.—The Asiatic cholera, which made its appearance a few days ago in some of the Paris hospitals, does not appear to create much alarm among medical people. A writer in the Union Medicale, after a minute examination of all the cases of real or suspected Asiatic cholera which have hitherto been signalized in Paris, says: 'The result is that without refusing to admit that the case of cholera observed at the Cochin Hospital, and probably some other cases which have been observed, are really cases of Asiatic cholera, we must not be too much afraid of an epidemic invasion, such as the rapid march of the cholera towards our country would inspire. We do not admit that the epidemic influence is in Paris. The facts of which we have just spoken do not announce its arrival, and do not belong to a new epidemic.'

Report of Cholera existing at Falmouth.—A letter to Lloyd's, from their agent, contradicts the report that a case of cholera had exhibited itself at Falmouth on board of a vessel from the Black Sea, ...e following terms:—"We beg most unequivocally to contradict the statement, and to assert not only that nothing of the kind has occurred, but that no epidemic whatever prevails in this locality, notwithstanding the large influx of strangers by recent arrivals. No vessel has been subjected to quarantine through sickness, and only a few have been placed under a temporary restraint from their not being provided with clean bills of health."—The Mayor of Falmouth has also officially contradicted the report as false and wicked, and without the shadow of foundation.

At a meeting of the Glasgow Town Council on Friday last, Mr. Playfair called attention to the approach of the cholera to this country, and gave notice that, at next meeting, he would move for the appointment of a board of health.

Lemberg, Nov. 3.—The cholera is advancing by rapid strides, and is within twenty-four miles of the Gallician frontier. Numbers are carried off daily at Kirzemieniec, Podolski, and Radziwillaf, about thirty-two miles from Lemberg.

It is stated in a letter from St. Petersburgh of the 30th ult., that the cholera had almost died away at Moscow, but that it had spread beyond that city in the direction of St. Petersburgh. A few cases had occurred at Waldai, and at Novogorod, a town which is only forty leagues from the capital. It was rumoured that three individuals, one of whom was a Dutch sailor, had been attacked at St. Petersburgh, but this was not generally believed. The number of persons hitherto attacked with cholera in Russia is said to be 100,000, of whom only from 20,000 to 22,000 have died.

SEAFARING MEN will find it much to their advantage by calling at the above Store, as the Proprietor keeps constantly on hand a large supply of SAILORS' CLOTHING, made up in a substantial manner—and as every article is marked in plain figures he runs no hazard in paying two prices for an article, which is too frequently the case in this City.

BOSTON.

THE Subscriber begs leave to inform the gentlemen of St. John, who are in the habit of visiting BOSTON, and who have heretofore patronized this Establishment, that he has re-opened it, after fitting it up, and improving it and putting it in most excellent order.
